Historical Background of The Tenth Ward

By JOAN LYNN SCHILD

School Days of Another Age

The perfect appointments of our modern public school—kindergartens, playrooms, gymnasiums and swimming pools; nurses to look after the physical needs of the children; motion picture apparatus, radios and free bus transportation to and from school in some instances—all these conveniences and luxuries, enjoyed by the children of to-day, present an interesting contrast to the hardships endured by those pioneer boys and girls who trudged forth in all sorts of weather to the little red school house of poetic fame, where stern masters ruled with a rod of iron and the "three R's" made up the whole curriculum.

One of the earliest public schools in the vicinity of the Tenth Ward was Number 6, located at Frank and Smith streets. Miss Anna Brown, a former resident of Frank street, who attended, first as a pupil and later became a teacher in the same school, gives us the following description of the building:

PUMP IN CELLAR

"The upper floor consisted of one large room in the center with a recitation room at each end and adjoining each smaller room was a wardrobe and next to those were the entrances. The stairs were winding ones. In the west wardrobe was a large box for coal and wood and the rope by which the bell was rung, hung over the box.

The central portion of the lower floor was divided and adjoined each smaller room. In the older portion pupils desiring a drink were obliged to go down cellar to a pump which supplied good cold water. Later when the additions were built a well was dug in the school yard, halfway between the entrances. I entered the school as a teacher in '70 and remained until my health compelled my retirement."

About this same period, there was a school at the corner of Lyell, Smith and State street, known as Miles Institute, named for the founder, Mr. Miles, who later had another school at the corner of Plymouth avenue and Troup street, where Plymouth church now stands.

Did Not Spare Rod

The Reverend Augustus H. Strong in his reminiscences of Rochester tells of his attendance at this school, and gives a very vivid if not a flattering account of Miles and his eccentric manners.

"Mr. Miles, a typical Milesian, reigned supreme. He was a stout Irishman, with long black hair,

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Bush of Maryland street left Friday on a ten day motor trip. They expect to visit Hampden Roads and Newport News and then return by way of Washington, D. C. and Gettysburgh.

High-hatters Dancing

Every Friday Evening

One reads at intervals these days regarding the vociferous hog-calling on the western plains, declared to be an art of no mean consequences. One member of the Kansas City Blues, Rochester's opponent in the Little World Series, is said to be particularly adept at the raucous sport or perhaps one should say "business."

Probably less often does one hear of the ancient and honorable custom of calling the "Paul Jones," unless one is fortunate enough to "pick up" a barn dance on the "air." Hence it created quite a splash last Friday evening when the High-hatters introduced at their first dance of the season, George Rogers, Dewey avenue I. G. A. grocer, as their guest "caller."

Whether or not George gained his powerful bass huckstering in the days when the most resonant tone sold the most vegetables, the historians will have to discover, but at any rate he produced a sensation that even a hog-caller would be proud to emulate. The "Paul Jones" was one of the features on the evening's dancing program which was attended by a sizeable crowd. The Lake Theatre Ballroom in which the dances are being held proved to be amply spacious and reflecting lights of various colors added to the general enjoyment of the evening. The use of the Lake Theatre parking space in the rear of the theater has been thrown open for parking, so that there is no difficulty in parking. It is announced that the dances will be continued each Friday evening with a different orchestra each time.

GRACE CHURCH HOST TO ANNUAL GENESSEE CONFERENCE THIS WEEK

Sessions of the Genesee Annual Conference which are being held this week at Grace M. E. Church on Driving Park avenue are the center of interest for pastors and laymen of this district, who have gathered together for a general discussion of church affairs. Prominent leaders of the church, under the general superintendence of Bishop William H. Anderson, LL. D., of the Boston area, are conducting daily conferences on various subjects.

Three daily sessions are being held, one in the morning at 8:30, another at 3:30 in the afternoon, and the third in the evening at 7:30. Luncheon is being served in the church each day by the Ladies' Aid Society.

Bishop to Speak

One of the features of the program for today will be the Laymen's Banquet, which will be held at the church tonight at six o'clock. Bishop Anderson and various district superintendents will deliver short talks. The Laymen's Conference opens today at four o'clock at the Maplewood Y. M. C. A. where it will hold its meetings today and tomorrow.

Anniversary celebrations of the Women's Home Mission Society and the Board of Foreign Missions will be held Saturday, the former at two o'clock and the latter at 7:45 P. M. At the anniversary meeting of the Mission Board, Rev. Ralph Diffendorfer, D. D., executive secretary of the board will deliver the principal address.

Mrs. Harper Sibley will speak on "Personal Glimpses of the Jerusalem Conference" at the annual reception and banquet for minister's wives on Saturday.

Bishop Anderson will deliver the Conference Sermon Sunday morning at the 10:30 service and will also preside at the ordination service in the afternoon at three o'clock. The United City Epworth Leagues will hold a devotional service at 6:15 P. M. with Rev. Jessie P. Bogue of Buffalo, N. Y., as speaker.

Final sessions of the conference will be held Monday. At this session various reports will be made and appointments announced before final adjournment.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hoopert of Flower City park spent last week visiting friends in Picton, Canada. Mrs. Hoopert's mother, Mrs. T. L. Norton, accompanied them.

A baby boy was born to Dr. and Mrs. C. P. Danahy of Dewey avenue Friday at St. Mary's Hospital.

Mrs. P. J. Rogers, president of the Parent-Teachers' Association of No. 41 School, accompanied by Mrs. Harry Evans of Winchester street, motored to Troy where they will attend the P. T. A. convention this week. They are expected home this week-end.

Rogers I. G. A. Adopts

Cash and Carry Plan

Announcement of a change in policy to the cash and carry system is made this week by George Rogers, Dewey avenue I. G. A. grocer. The new system will be effective November 1.

In an announcement to his customers Mr. Rogers emphasizes that the system is in accordance with the desires of the National I. G. A. executives. It is being adopted to enable his store to bring prices to the lowest possible point and to take advantage of the cash and carry movement which apparently is gaining greater favor in the eyes of the nation's housewives.

With the Rogers' store now on the cash and carry plan, all Dewey avenue I. G. A. stores are on the same basis. H. F. Doell and Frank Garin are the others who have adopted the plan.

Husbands Away, Wives

Have Theatre Party

Matthew G. Marx, James McKay, Martin Gardner, Bertram Riddell, James McKay and Lloyd McCraw and son, all of Magee avenue, and William Carroll of Electric avenue, spent the week-end at Mr. McCraw's lodge at Old Forge, Adirondack Mountains.

During their absence their wives and daughters had a theater party.

Mrs. M. J. Marx and daughter, Lucille; Mrs. M. Gardner and daughter, Ethel; Mrs. B. Riddell and daughter, Jane; Mrs. J. McKay and daughters, Elizabeth and Alberta; Mrs. L. McGraw, all of Magee avenue; Mrs. Wm. Carroll of Electric avenue, and Miss Una Sherman of Parma street went to the Eastman Theater Saturday evening. Afterward they had dinner at Roseland.

In explanation let me say here and now that the writer lays no claim to fame as an expert upon the inexhaustible subject of antiques. Nor will there be in these columns any elaborate treatises about Steigel glass, Hitchcock chairs or Queen Anne mirrors.

Rather is it the desire to serve you—in small doses—with entertaining bits of information concerning the customs and manners of by-gone days—kitchens and kettles; haircloth sofas and corner cupboards; bonnets and bustles; bottles and books; attic treasurers and—whatnot!

Many of you may find among your possessions charming antique treasures which you can tell us about. Put away in boxes and drawers there are countless souvenirs of forgotten days, which call up the past and it does us no harm to pause in our crowded lives and think of more leisurely years, when, what now seem to us quaint customs and industries, were everyday affairs. A picture of this serene past may be brought before us by a contribution from you. Send it to Joanne and let us all enjoy your cherished heirlooms.

In an old trunk, one Rochesterian recently uncovered a handsome tablecloth of hand woven linen, in the center of which was cleverly patterned a portrait of George Washington. This historic design has brought to our attention the interesting fact that many of the linens of the olden times were woven with special designs, just as it was the custom to embellish bottles, glass and silver with some emblem that expressed the high tide of feeling of the day. In connection with this subject, the following poem, which caught my eye in an old book the other day is of interest:

"Once tablecloths and politics
The manufacturers chose to mix.
Then party motto and design
Were woven into linen fine.
In warp and woof there live again
Insignia of the old campaign,
When banners bore these emblems queer,
A hut of logs and keg of beer.
Such fabric, connoisseurs invest
With real historic interest.
Depicted on a cloth's four corners
Barrels and beehives share the honors.
The streets and parks of Washington
In Tyler's day, the sides adorn,
While in the damask center field
A screaming eagle grabs a shield,
Declaring, spite of feud and fuss
UNUM shall stand, E. PLURIBUS.

The reference to the 'keg of beer' is amusing as of course the emblem is the well-known 'eider barrel' of the Harrison campaign of 1840.

DEMOCRATS TO HEAR STANTON OCTOBER 17

The Women's Democratic Club of the Tenth Ward, held the first meeting of the season, Thursday evening, October 3, at the headquarters, 296 Driving Park avenue, with about thirty members present. After a short business session, the usual card party was held. Bridge, five hundred and pedro were played with a prize for each table.

Mrs. Joan Schild, president of the club, announced that the Women's Club would join with the Men's Club in a meeting and rally to be held at the headquarters, Thursday evening, October 17. Charles Stanton, Democratic candidate for city councilman, who has been endorsed also by the City Manager League, has been invited to make the principal address. Other candidates who will speak are Harold Burke, nominee for the Assembly in the fourth Assembly district and Frank Powers, candidate for supervisor. The meeting will be open to the public.

"On With The Show" At Riviera Sunday

Stage settings said to equal anything done by the girl-glorifying Ziegfeld, furnish the background for the dramatic action of the story, "On With the Show," Warner Bros. first 100% natural color, talking, singing, dancing Vitaphone picture—coming to the Riviera Theatre Sunday for a run of four days.

The palace scene which forms the third act of this musical extravaganza is declared by experts to be as fine as anything ever presented on the stage. The dances and ensembles, directed by Larry Ceballos, are especially colorful and carry out the enchanting spirit of the piece.

Betty Compson, playing the role of the dream queen, wears a gorgeous head dress which she insists weighs more than twenty-five pounds.

Particular attention has been given throughout the entire filming of "On With the Show," to color effects. All costumes were especially designed for this picture, as stock costumes even for minor characters, would have been suitable were the picture being filmed in black and white, could not pass muster because color film is used. Extreme care was used throughout in harmonizing the colors. A new color process is being used, which photographs shades in their exact values.

Sally O'Neil, Arthur Lake, William Bakewell, Joe E. Brown, Louise Fazenda, the Fairbanks Twins, Sam Hardy, Lee Moran, Harry Gribbon and many other notables are in the cast. "On With the Show" is based on a story by Humphrey Pearson. It was adapted by Robert Lord. Words and music are by Harry Akst and Grant Clarke, dance and stage presentations by Larry Ceballos, Alan Crossland directed.

knotted muscles, who thought the rod the best instrument of instruction. Wockford Squeers, in Nicholas Nickleby, was his prototype. He was the best teacher of geography that I ever knew. But he was a savage brute. He terrorized his scholars. He made life intolerable to those whom he did not like. He would fling a ruler across the room at the head of a boy he caught whispering or napping. When a boy ran away, he would paint the word "runaway" on his forehead, streak his face with stripes of many colors, set him on a barrel with coat turned inside out, and lead the other boys in an Indian powwow dance around him. For some trifling offense, he seized a boy by the heels and let him, head down, in a pail of water, or sprinkled him from an elevation, while the boy lay face upright on the floor. These barbarities were unknown to the parents for Mr. Miles threatened to kill the boy that told. I learned a great deal about map drawing from Mr. Miles, but I am happy to say that he ended his days in a western State's prison when serving sentence for bigamy. Only recently a worthy citizen of Rochester, whom he compelled to do such a bolus of assafetida in the presence of the whole school has passed away. I have wondered what happened when he met Mr. Miles on the other side of Jordan."

From this description of his character and his manners, no doubt both wives testified against him in his trial for bigamy.

Hold Spelling Bee

It is pleasing to note that not all of the early teachers were like Mr. Miles for we have evidence of many who were much beloved by the scholars. One female teacher in the Brown Square school had an admirable way of subduing subordinate pupils with music.

In 1816 a spelling match occurred on a Saturday afternoon in a schoolhouse which had early been established at the corner of Platt and Mill streets. The teacher was Dr. Hammond, and the school was joined by the Frankfort School which was taught by Moses King. The scholars chose sides, standing as the spelling proceeded but whoever spelled a word incorrectly had to take a seat. Two boys, brothers, were the last to remain standing and kept the floor until dark when to the younger was awarded the prize.

Light's Golden Jubilee

The Golden Jubilee of Light. What is it all about? All the festivities you have read about lately in this connection have been planned to do homage to Thomas A. Edison.

Not often are we permitted to honor so great a personage, while he is still with us; he lives, yet he is immortal. This is the year of the Golden Jubilee of Light. October 21st will be the fiftieth birthday of the incandescent lamp. It is an occasion to challenge a busy world to pause and reverently express its heartfelt thanks to Mr. Edison for all the constructive things he has accomplished during the past half century to make life brighter and happier for all of us.

With the electric lamp, Edison also gave us the nucleus of the miraculous net work of power bearing wires that now cover the land, like a blanket which insulates us against unnecessary toil, hardship, inconvenience and worry. His basic patents have been the foundation upon which has been built the structure of our domestic, industrial and national progress and prosperity. In store, home and factory the electrical equipment and devices which he invented do thousands of tasks. The miracle of electricity, which he learned to control and set at work comes through unseen paths to our homes and places of business. It lights our streets, runs our trolleys, elevators and machinery and makes life safer and more enjoyable for us and is a great factor in our financial success.

In the fields of amusement and culture, electricity has become a Godsend to us—the pleasure of the radio is but one of the thousands of ways in which Mr. Edison has brightened our lives.

Rochester has set aside the week of Oct. 15th to 21st, inclusive to honor Edison's great genius. The outstanding feature of the celebration will be the permanent illumination with changing colored lights of Cobbs Hill Reservoir fountain. In doing this, Rochester is taking advantage of a very fortunate situation, in having such natural fountain. St. Louis is spending $75,000 to create one that will not be comparable. Erie, a city half the size of Rochester, is building one at a cost of $21,000. Rochester's fountain, when completed, will be visible for a considerable distance and will be an object of beauty and pride for a large territory.

Business and commercial houses are being asked to light their establishments, both as to exterior and special window displays. Citizens, too, are being urged to illuminate their homes, especially to keep their porch lights burning from 6:30 to 10:30 during the week.

The schools of the city have planned a series of oral presentations in the classes from the seventh grade up—featuring the life of Edison and his inventions and their various benefits to mankind.

The telephone, wireless telegraphy, motion pictures, dictaphone, radios, phonograph, the dynamos for distribution of light, power and heat, and the multiplex telegraph—all these and many more either were developed by Mr. Edison or made practical by the application of his inventions and discoveries.

We all enjoy the labor saving devices that Edison's foresight and hard work has given us; let us do our part by pressing the button and lighting our home, during the week of the celebration.—Contributed.

The schools of the city have planned a series of oral presentations in the classes from the seventh grade up—featuring the life of Edison and his inventions and their various benefits to mankind.

The telephone, wireless telegraphy, motion pictures, dictaphone, radios, phonograph, the dynamos for distribution of light, power and heat, and the multiplex telegraph—all these and many more either were developed by Mr. Edison or made practical by the application of his inventions and discoveries.

We all enjoy the labor saving devices that Edison's foresight and hard work has given us; let us do our part by pressing the button and lighting our home, during the week of the celebration.—Contributed.

PROTEST AGAINST HIGH WATER BILL AT MASS MEETING

Protesting against water bills claimed to be excessive, a number of Tenth Warders, called together by the Lower Tenth Ward Improvement Association, met Tuesday evening at No. 41 School. W. C. Schulz presided assisted by John Baybutt, secretary and Ellsworth R. Hall, treasurer.

The Lower Tenth Ward is served by the Lake Ontario Water Company and Alexander Russel, vice-president of the company was present to hear the protests and to explain why some bills were higher than others. Residents present claimed that their bills for three months amounted to eight dollars, or two dollars more than a full year's supply for the average householder using Hemlock water. Mr. Russel promised that he would personally investigate a number of complaints which were turned over to him and apologized for the alleged lack of courtesy shown some of the people at the water company's office.

Councilman Nelson A. Milne, who was present, asserted that he had taken up the matter of purchasing the water company or making a satisfactory arrangement on the part of the City government with City Manager Stephen B. Story early in the year and that he had been assured that the matter would be investigated.

A petition was prepared asking for immediate action by the City Manager. The petition was signed by all those present.

TRANSFER DR. DAVIES TO BUFFALO CHURCH

Transfer of Dr. Sylvanus S. Davies, from Grace M. E. Church on Driving Park avenue to a pastorate in Buffalo was announced at the final sessions of the Genesee Conference. Dr. Davies' place will be taken by Rev. Samuel J. Clarkson, formerly pastor of Monroe Avenue M. E. Church.

The popular pastor of the local church leaves after a period of nine years service in which he has contributed in a large measure to both his church and the city. He was one of the pioneers of the north-west section of Religious Education Week Day Bible Schools, an idea that has spread to all sections of Rochester. During his pastorate the church has made large forward strides in religious education, the recently completed Sunday School building being due considerably to his energetic foresight.

Dr. Davies enters into a broader field at Buffalo, taking over the pastorate of the First Methodist Church there. He leaves with the best wishes of his parishioners as well as those of his many Tenth Ward friends.

MAPLEWOOD Y. M. C. A. DOINGS

Factors necessary for the leadership of boys' groups will be discussed at a meeting tonight of the leadership group of young men. Glen E. Jackson, associate general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. and E. E. Gardner, Boys' Executive of the Maplewood Branch will be in charge.

The organization meeting of the physical education department will be held tomorrow evening. Albert Quinn is chairman.

A hallowe'en social is being arranged for next Thursday, October 31, for all boy members and their friends in the form of a masquerade. Two prizes will be awarded for costumes of the following nature: foreign, modern, original, unique and humorous. It is expected that there will be 150 or 200 present in the gymnasium where the social will be held. Refreshments and motion pictures are also on the program.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Lanier of Brooklyn street who have been ill for the past few weeks are recovering satisfactorily.

Clarence Bleyler of Dewey avenue left last week for Philadelphia where he expects to be for six weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Montague of Augustine street have been on a 10 days trip. They were expected back yesterday.

Mayor Joseph C. Wilson

Politics as in the past continue to be of no interest to us editorially as politics. But it does seem that it is wholly proper under this policy to dwell on the alleged non-political aspect of our present city elections and to speak of the activities of one of the prominent men connected therewith.

Registration figures have demonstrated that despite the hectic contest being staged for the councilmanic offices the public is far from being "worked up." And perhaps this is true to a large extent because of the spirit manifested by Mayor Joseph C. Wilson.

Mayor Wilson has been nominated on both tickets and his name is being freely used in publicity by both sides, which it has been clearly shown are as opposite as plus and minus. The Mayor is conceded re-election without uttering a word and with no statement to guide his followers as to which of the two opposing policies he will fight for. As the saying goes he appears to be "on the fence."

The culmination of the political fight this year will have a great deal to do with the future course of Rochester's development. Mayor Wilson was once a potent factor in our civic government and he undoubtedly has contributed considerably to its growth. But now, he has come to the point where he must needs side-step all important issues—and it will be noted from a survey of the councilmanic minutes that such has been the case—and his service to Rochester is rapidly becoming negligible. If re-elected he must continue to serve two factions or he must declare himself for one side or the other, depending of course upon the outcome of the elections.

He continues at the head of the Nineteenth Ward, ostensibly a staunch Republican organization man. Yet on the other hand he is declared to be one of those five who will "save the charter." Obviously there is a falsity somewhere and gathering inferences as one might, it appears that the Mayor is "straddling the fence." He furthermore has added more fuel to the fire by his recent statement, absolutely squelching the independent candidacy of a young man in his ward for the office of supervisor. His statement was autocratic and domineering and was certainly not in the spirit of the present age. Fortunately the young man has the courage to fight back.

As we see it, neither side is playing the game in the interest of the people whom they represent when they continue this horse-play. Either side would be justified in withdrawing their support from Mayor Wilson and it would most certainly attain greater favor in the eyes of the voter who really does some thinking for himself.

The only independent candidate, Glenn W. Simpson, because he has no organization or running mates to whom he owes allegiance, is a candidate in the true sense of the charter. Many organization voters as well as many City Manager League workers have determined to vote for him in preference to the "neutral" Mayor and even though Mr. Simpson might pledge no support, we would be assured of a man in the Council who would vote and state his mind on the important topics of the day, if he were elected.

New Dress Shop Opens On Dewey This Week

The Gloria Smart Shoppe was added this week to the business section of the Tenth Ward, locating at 1687 Dewey avenue, near Lewiston. This is the third store to be opened by the proprietor, Julius Waisner.

The new store carries a full line of coats, dresses and millinery, said to be reasonably priced. Special prices are offered this week on Friday and Saturday.

OLGA HAHN BEAUTY SHOP MOVES TO NEW LOCATION

Removal of her beauty shop to larger quarters in the Riviera Theater building is announced in this issue of the Courier. The old beauty shop has been located in the rear of the De Sando Barber Shop on Lake avenue, for the past four years. Miss Hahn will be in her new quarters next Thursday, November 31.

DEMOCRATS HEAR CANDIDATES SPEAK

Tenth Ward Democrats heard the Democratic candidates at a joint meeting of the Men's and Women's Clubs of the Ward, on Thursday evening, October 17, at the headquarters, 296 Driving Park avenue. Edgar Truesdale, chairman of the county committee, presided and introduced the speaker of the evening, Charles Stanton, Democrat, who has been endorsed by the City Manager League, for councilman.

Mr. Stanton sketched the history of the present city charter and made an urgent plea for support of the city manager candidates. He said that these candidates were the friends of the original charter and were best fitted to serve the interests of the people.

The candidate for Assembly in the Fourth Assembly district, Harold Burke, made an address of particular interest to women. He explained the decedents estate law which was recently passed by the legislature and signed by Governor Roosevelt, and which was designated by the Governor as "a new charter of women's rights." This bill was opposed by the Republican legislators, he stated.

Others who spoke briefly were Mrs. Meta Fay, president of Monroe County Women's Club, Thomas Moran, executive committeeman of the ward and Edward L. Fay.

BUSINESS MEN TO BOWL TUES. NIGHT ON CHURCH ALLEYS

Dewey avenue business men will officially open their bowling season Tuesday evening of next week, in a match on the bowling alleys of the Church of All-Saints on Chestnut Hill drive, off St. Paul boulevard. The church hall is located at stop 91-2 on the trolley, west of St. Paul boulevard.

Roy Rathke, generalissimo extraordinary, is again in charge of arrangements, assisted by President Earl Baynes, John Schmanke, Robert V. Hall, Mack Lundgard and others. They are busily recruiting the old veterans and the raw material as well and ask all who intend to help set new records to get in touch with committee members by Saturday, in order that arrangements may be completed.

A match between two extremes of the avenue is contemplated and there has been some talk of a league with teams from Lyell avenue also entered. This will be discussed Tuesday evening.

WIN SAFETY AWARDS

The Chamber of Commerce awarded Safety Pins last Thursday afternoon, to Carmella Puttan of Locust street, and Donald Foley of Rainier street. These pins were awarded for safety work at Tacoma street playground.

TALKING PICTURES MAKE BOW AT LIBERTY THEATRE NOVEMBER 2

Engineers will be busily engaged for the next few days at the Liberty Theatre, testing out the sound equipment which they are installing for the showing of talking pictures. Drapes must be hung and adjusted as experiment shows necessary, padded rugs must be laid, and a general study of the acoustic possibilities of the theater made.

A Western Electric installation, equipped to show both Vitaphone and Movietone productions, has been purchased by the Schine interests for their Driving Park avenue house and the engineer in charge describes it as the best and latest product of his company. The Liberty, he says, is ideally constructed for the talkies, and the unusually large operator's room is one of the largest he has seen.

A specially treated, larger screen will allow the passage of sound from the four large horns back stage to the audience. Equalizers are said to eliminate all scratching and record noises. Two machines are being installed as in silent movies to make possible instantaneous pick-ups at the end of each reel. Another operator is required in the booth for the handling of the records.

Sol Shafer, manager of the Liberty Theatre, announces that Edward C. May will be continued as feature organist and that a number of innovations are being planned. Mr. May will introduce what is said to be the only talking and singing organ in the country. The regular afternoon broadcast over WHEC will be continued as in the past, with a special broadcast of the Theater program on Saturday afternoons.

As the first public offering Mr. Shafer has secured the 100 percent talkie, "Dangerous Curves," featuring Clara Bow. This will be shown Saturday, Sunday and Monday, November 2, 3 and 4. A talkie and sound picture "Drag" with Richard Barthelmess, follows on the next three days. Friday and Saturday, November 8 and 9, Corinne Griffith is featured in "Her Private Life" and the following Sunday and Monday humorous Colleen Moore takes the stage with her "Wild Irish Eyes."

SOUND RADIATION

The Piccadilly
$175.00 less Tubes

Both sound and light waves obey the same physical laws. Unlike the ordinary radio sets, the new Colonial does not focus a beam of sound at you like the rays from a spot lamp. By playing out of the rear and bottom of the cabinet, the sound waves are diffused and distributed uniformly over the entire room. It accomplishes for sound distribution what indirect lighting accomplishes for illumination... an uncanny result of widening tone area to proportions which approximate those at the broadcasting studio.

Instead of compressing the sound radiations of a large symphony orchestra into the confines of an ordinary loud speaker, Dr. Cutting's invention re-creates those radiations in their original dimensions.

The advantages of this new method of sound radiation are equally important when using your phonograph in connection with the radio set for the reproduction of phonograph music.

TRUST FUND TO TAKE CARE OF BURIAL GROUND

By JOAN LYNN SCHILD

"And must this body die
This mortal frame decay?
And must these active limbs of mine
Lie mouldering in the clay?"

This quaint inscription appears on a tombstone in the historic Friend's Cemetery, on Quaker Meeting House Road, a short distance from the main highway to Canandaigua.

Shaded by a border of Chestnut trees, with level graves and well-kept lawns, this tiny burying-ground is the final resting place of those who were the early settlers of this community.

In 1828 Martin Davis, Daniel Russell, Isaac Ewer, Nathaniel Russell, George West, John Allen and James Whipple, with their wives, held a meeting in a log house on the farm of H. T. Lord.

For two years they met here until with the coming of more Friends from other parts of the country, chiefly Pennsylvania, their quarters became too cramped and in 1832 a new house of worship was built.

The ground for the meeting-house and adjoining cemetery was given by James Whipple, one of the organizers of the meeting and he was the second member of the Society to be buried there, the first being Dinah Wood.

Endowment Fund

This little cemetery will never be overrun with grass and weeds, thanks to Jonathan Noxon who died recently in Honeoye. With his gift of $3,000 and a few other donations an endowment fund was created and placed on deposit in a city trust company.

The plain frame building was not much larger than the log cabin where they first held their meetings. The men sat on one side of the room, their heads covered, and the women sat on the other, while they worshipped in silence, there being no regularly settled preacher. Usually there was one among them who, being moved by a more devout spirit or having less timidity than the rest, arose and offered prayer. He was called the speaker, Joseph Albertson was the first to hold this position.

Marriage in the Society of Friends was very simple. There were no gorgeous costumes, no floral displays. The two people concerned, having announced their intention to marry, stood up in meeting before the assembled congregation and took their vows to each other. Should a Quaker wish to marry one who was not of the same faith, it was cause for sorrow

City Manager League To Show Movies, Nov. 2

A meeting of the Non-Partisan City Manager League of the Tenth Ward, open to the public, will be held Saturday evening, November 2 in the club rooms located in the Liberty Theatre building on Driving Park avenue. Motion pictures illustrating the work of the public works department will be shown as a feature of the program.

The league has interested itself in securing floodlights for No. 7 School playground. Football teams practice on the athletic field and early darkness makes it impossible to play without the aid of automobile headlights.

among the other members of the society and was almost a period of mourning by the parents.

First to Be Married

The first parties who were married in this meeting house belonging to the society, were Isaac G. Ewer, one of the founders, and Lydia Ann Powell, who undoubtedly was the same Lydia Ann whose name appears on one of the old tombstones in the cemetery.

There was another Quaker settlement at Henrietta and the first preparatory meetings were held there, but soon after the completion of the new meeting house in Mendon, a preparatory meeting was appointed here. The early meetings were held alternately at Rochester, Wheatland and Henrietta.

The first meetings of the Society of Friends in this section was held in the village of Rochester in 1821, in a meeting house erected on the north side of Fitzhugh Street near Allen, about opposite where the Brick Church now stands. It cost $350 and in 1822 was used also as a school.

IN the last issue of the Courier, we asked for contributions to this column but to date our mail has not been a burden to the mailman. Are there no attics in the Tenth Ward? Let us hear about your treasures; relics of a by-gone day; old quilts, shawls, fiddle back chairs, china, glass or what have you?

EARLY in my career as an "antiquer" I saw the tiniest silver pitcher in a shop window on Connecticut avenue in Washington. It was only three inches high and in the style of Paul Revere, which brings me to wonder how many of you know that that famous rider had another occupation besides riding horses, and ringing door bells; he was an early, if not the earliest of our colonial silversmiths and his pieces are renowned for their perfect workmanship and fine lines. Needless to say I was consumed with a desire to own that pitcher and already picturing it on my tea table, the envy of my friends. I boldly walked into the shop and told the obsequious shop-keeper that I would take it. He seemed a bit taken back and after much hesitation and no little embarrassment suggested that perhaps "Madam would wish to give her check," and I in a rather haughty manner indicated that I carried cash for such small purchases and opened my purse. Imagine my surprise when he said the little pitcher was no less than $400. As soon as I could recover, in much confusion and minus the pitcher, I left with the firm conviction that all shop-keepers are naves.

SUCH is not always the case, however, and many beautiful things are to be had at a moderate and reasonable cost.

GLASS bottles with patriotic devices were commonly made in early days in America. They have a sort of greenish cast and are attractive with their oval shapes and smooth, lipless necks, attractive and highly interesting as well. Washington, Zachary Taylor, favorite frigates such as these can still be found, blown in the bottles from the moulds and are so thoroughly American in make and character as to be well worth while. Those were the days when everything, furniture, china, silver and glass was decorated with some emblem that expressed the high tide of political feeling then agitating the United States. Apparently when anything or anybody stirred the people they rushed off and blew bottles, not a bad way to let off political steam at that!

AT a local book shop there is a collection of these old bottles. A pair of pinch bottles, in a lovely wood brown shade, just the thing for some bayberry candles; a log

Neighborhood Buying

Probably now, more prominently than ever, we have before us this question of confidence in our local—call them neighborhood if you like—merchants and it seems a logical time to inquire into the facts of the matter. There are a number of reasons, and convincing reasons too, which we owe it to ourselves to consider.

It seems that we are in the midst of one of those periods of business transition wherein "change" is the watchword of the times. One of the transitions in Rochester has been the gradual drift of business away from the center of the city. Perhaps we are looking ahead a little further than others when we say that this decentralization has every appearance of growing in scope as we move into a new business cycle; and also when we say that for a period of years, neighborhood business will be in the ascendency—that is it will move out of the small-town classification into a position more nearly equal to its downtown big brother if not in size, at least in importance.

Merchandise is the Same

And why should not neighborhood business men claim more of the sun of popular favor for themselves? Modern merchandising makes it possible for them to offer identically the same products as the large store; true they cannot present them in the more lavish surroundings because they have not the backing of large capital, but what matters if the merchandise is the same? Are we buying goods or do we spend our money for luxurious back-grounds in which to fool our better senses as to the actual value of that which we purchase?

It is fair to take the radio as an example from which to illustrate; it is a most modern instrument and its volume of sales, according to available information, is the third highest of any product on the market today. Because we may be led to buy a "Smith" radio downtown is it any better radio than the "Smith" which we can purchase from our neighborhood radio man with the same guarantee and undoubtedly with better servicing assured? If it is because we fear that the local man will not be fair in his dealings with us, we are far from the truth. He is more inclined to do the right thing by us than one who in most instances is a stranger to us; for the neighborhood man has a personal interest in each sale, and each friend made for himself means a fair-sized addition to his comparatively small volume; whereas downtown, we are just small "fry" and generally speaking there is comparatively little of that personal contact which makes shopping more of a pleasure than an ordeal.

Let us go to the meat business. Outside of price attractions, what have downtown markets to offer that our local meat men are unable to cope with? We have a number of meat markets that buy as many or nearly as many dollars worth as any others. In addition there are numerous merchants who buy smaller quantities, but with a lower overhead it is only natural that the margin of profit does not have to be as large. So right here we can lay the ghost of "lower prices!" If you are not convinced consult the various advertisements in this issue. And surely our merchants patronize as highly rated a group of wholesalers as the downtown men—as a matter of fact, as cited above in radio, it is mostly the same, and perhaps better merchandise.

We have spoken of two instances and we could go on—perhaps we shall in later editions—but for the present a little reasoning on the part of local buyers will draw out similar analogies in other lines of business.

And the more we think of it, the more we become convinced that neighborhood folks are on the right path in aiding this decentralization of business by buying near home. There is considerable logic in saving ourselves time and energy—undoubtedly money too, in "neighborhood buying."

HUGE SPORTS CENTER AT DEWEY
AND LEWISTON READY DECEMBER 1

Undoubtedly the largest structure of its kind in this section of the country, is the huge sports and office building which is being erected at the corner of Lewiston and Dewey avenues. The building which covers a lot 243 feet deep and 100 feet wide is being constructed and financed by Christopher J. Frazzetta, Tenth Ward contractor, whose home is at 235 Rand street. It is expected to be ready for formal opening on December 1.

The plans call for 28 bowling alleys, seven offices, eight stores, a large billiard room, lounging rooms and auditorium in the basement. There will be four private bowling halls on the ground floor, two consisting of four alleys and the others of two alleys each. Sixteen Brunswick alleys side by side with no partitions between them will occupy the rear of the second floor.

Four of the stores will face on Lewiston avenue and four will be built into the arcade which leads to the bowling alleys. The offices which are located on the second floor will face on Lewiston avenue. According to a statement by Mr. Frazzetta, several of the offices and stores are leased for occupancy on December 1.

Excavations were started on the site August 1 and the work has been hurried along to make possible the early opening. The walls have been completed and when the roofing has been laid on the giant steel girders that form the ceiling of the bowling alleys the building will be completely enclosed. Work on the interior is now underway.

Mr. Frazzetta will have offices in the building and expects to handle the entire management. Negotiations are being made at present with a prominent local man to act as director of the bowling alleys.

Paging The City Manager

The condition of affairs at the corner of Driving Park and Dewey avenues is such as to call for a vigorous protest from both neighboring residents and motorists who must crowd through as expeditiously and as safely as possible. We ask for an investigation by City Manager Story, if he continues to have the interests of Rochester as well as of his own home section at heart.

Councilman Nelson A. Milne promised early in the summer that the corner would be widened. The matter has been side-tracked, hemmed and hawed over, and now it becomes apparent that no widening was ever contemplated.

A fire alarm box, after three weeks of work by public works, and telegraph employees, has been set up in the center of the piece of land which it was necessary to cut off to provide a wider corner. Surely they do not intend to dig up this expensive piece of work again when the widening takes place. No, it is apparent that with all the political activity required in a non-political election, they have forgotten about Dewey and Driving Park avenues.

Soon the trackless trolleys will be crossing Dewey avenue at this point, for the ordinance has been issued granting the railway company permission. At present without the trackless trolleys, it is remarkable that to date the numerous accidents have not resulted in a death. Of course the long delays which congested traffic involves are taken as a matter of course by everyone. Councilman Milne lives within a stone's throw of the corner and both City Manager Stephen B. Story and Commissioner of Public Safety George J. Nier pass it at least twice daily to go to their homes further down in the Tenth Ward. Surely they all are acquainted with the situation.

And while on the subject of this corner, it is an opportune time to remind City Manager Story of his promise to the business men of that section of new street lights on Dewey avenue, south of Driving Park avenue. More than a year ago, he made his promise—we have the letter at hand—saying that the street lights would be included in the budget this year. A written inquiry from this newspaper some time ago was not accorded the courtesy of a reply.

Will you give us action Mr. Story or will you continue to ignore our pleas?

BARTHELMESS, BOW BANCROFT COME TO LIBERTY IN TALKIES

A carelessly laid hairpin causes more divorces than infidelity. This thesis is treated intimately in "Drag," the new Richard Barthelmess starring vehicle, produced by First National Vitaphone coming to the Liberty Theatre tomorrow (Friday) and Saturday.

Before marriage the bride made herself attractive, and exhibited only her charming side. After marriage she became careless in her person and her home. She developed irritability and a lack of sympathy with her husband's ambitions. Slowly, but certainly, little drops of carelessness corroded the foundation of love, and disaster followed.

Lila Lee and Alice Day are the leading ladies. Important parts are enacted by Tom Dugan, Margaret Fielding, Lucien Littlefield, Katherine Ward and others.

Poor PUNCHINELLO with an "It" punch comes Sunday and Monday in "Dangerous Curves," the latest Clara Bow-Paramount release.

Miss Bow changes character in this one. She graduates from the dizzy, chuckleheaded flapper class to work for her master's degree in tragi-comedy. How she does it in "Dangerous Curves" is "nobody's business." For the record, however, let it be said that she injects as much vigor, enthusiasm and charm in the portrayal of a short-skirted and spangled bare-back rider as she formerly did as a scatter-brained, adolescent pep and strut girl.

In "Dangerous Curves" Miss Bow is in love with Richard Arlen, a tight-rope performer. She decides to learn tight-rope walking herself (between performances as a bare-back artist), so that she can get a place on the circus program near to her beloved. She finally learns the wire-balancing art, but finds that Arlen spurns her for Kay Francis, female menace in the piece. In spite of his repeated irresponsiveness, Clara continues to demonstrate her love for Arlen and finally manages, by a desperate move, to save him from disgrace, bringing him to a realization of love for her.

Sights and sounds of the largest Negro city in the world, New York's Harlem, are brought to the talking screen in "Thunderbolt," George Bancroft's all-talking picture which will feature the Liberty program Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week. Josef von Sternberg, who directed Bancroft in "Underworld," made "Thunderbolt," a story of a hard-fighting man who lives outside the law in the hidden places of the Negro district.

"In securing Negro types," said Director von Sternberg, "we were fortunate that Los Angeles has a miniature Harlem of its own in its Central Avenue district. A thorough

QUEEN ANNE STYLE FURNITURE FEATURE JAMESTOWN MARKET

The outstanding features of the present furniture market at Jamestown, N. Y. are the Queen Anne suites shown by almost every manufacturer, according to William Flanigan, of the Flanigan Furniture Co. Mr. Flanigan has just returned from Jamestown, where he purchased a number of the new designs.

"The modern treatment of this old design is very effective," he says. "The grace of lines of course could not be improved upon, but the butt walnut and mahogany veneer now used are more beautiful than ever. Another feature is the number of upholstered suites being shown in tapestries; but of course the mohairs and velours still predominate. However the number of tapestries is surprising.

"Generally the prices on all merchandise shown at this market are much lower than usual, even the gift furniture market such as desks, odd chairs, occasional chairs, end tables, mahogany racks, smokers and book ends will be sold this year at a lower cost. And there will be a greater variety of designs shown, mostly in walnuts and mahoganies, the vivid colors not being so plentiful this year."

Mrs. Guyette Opens Ada Beauty Salon

Mrs. Ada Guyett, formerly of McCurdy's, has opened the Ada Beauty Salon at 1477 Lake avenue with De Sande's Barber Shop. Mrs. Guyett uses the Harper method, offering all lines of beauty culture. There is a private entrance to her shop, from Ridgeway avenue.

Howard Hutchison, of Clay avenue and Miss Dorothy Copeland of Lake View Park, spent a few days in Buffalo as the guests of Miss Copeland's aunt.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Miller of Watertown, N. Y., are the guests for a few days of Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Loidell of Augustine street.

Dr. and Mrs. L. B. Jameson of Richfield, Conn. were the guests of Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Guldin of Dewey avenue last week.

search gave us scores of Negroes who have really lived in Harlem. Harlem, which extends from 125th to 140th streets, New York, brings heart-beats of southern plantations to metropolitan civilization. Sensation-seeking Broadwayites make these cafes possible, coming to dance shoulder-to-shoulder with habitues of this black metropolis to the beat of staccato jazz."

A Traffic Menace

As the smoke of battle clears away, it is our fond hope that the city administration will turn its attention immediately to one of the outstanding problems of the Tenth Ward, and actually relieve some of the terrific pressure of traffic at the corner of Driving Park and Dewey avenues. It is the job of Councilman Nelson A. Milne, who is our district representative, as well as that of City Manager Stephen B. Story to help iron out a problem that is growing in scope every day.

Whether or not any recognition has been accorded in the City Plan which is about to be unfolded we are uninformed. It seems quite evident, however, that the corner has been totally disregarded. The installation of a fire alarm box in the center of the plot of land between the curb and sidewalk on the northwest corner of Dewey avenue, a plot which is absolutely necessary for widening of the alley-like corner, is good evidence of the intent of our city engineers and officials. If by some chance, a widening is planned for sometime in the future—then it is just a costly mistake—for the installation of a fire alarm box requires considerable work, and consequently expense.

It is unquestionably certain that this corner, a relic of ancient city planning, should have been widened and prepared for the expansion of modern business years ago when property was to be had for one-third of the present price. Had the two ends of Dewey, which meet at Driving Park been properly connected and not left to wander like the cow-paths of the famous Hub, Dewey avenue would be able to handle a great deal more of the city's traffic with much less inconvenience.

But now we must face the situation as it exists. Trackless trolleys, buses and trolley cars competing with motorists to get by the treacherous corner as safely as possible constitute a traffic problem not to be overlooked. The cost of improvement is not so tremendous that it will drain the city coffers and the need is woefully apparent.

We make no appeal on a political basis. This is a genuine public problem and the sooner it is recognized as such, the better it will be for the city which this year has been awarded the banner for being the Safest City in the country.

It is notable that the pleas of Dewey avenue business men have been heeded in the matter of street lights. The wooden poles between Lexington and Driving Park avenues within the past ten days have been replaced by modern iron poles which will introduce modern lighting for the first time to this section of the street. This is an encouraging sign, inasmuch as it may mean that the city administration is finally cognizant of the Dewey and Driving Park section.

HOME MISSION DAY AT DEWEY CHURCH

Sunday is Home-Mission Day in the Reformed Church in the United States. The recipient of this year's missionary offering is the Dewey Avenue Mission, Dewey avenue at Flower City park.

On this day, with others in the denomination helping it raise money for its new auditorium, the Mission itself will not be idle. Two goals have been set for the special missionary service to be held at eleven o'clock Sunday—a three hundred attendance and a thousand-dollar offering.

The pastor, Rev. J. Stanley Richards, will occupy the pulpit and will take as his theme—"The Divine Commission." The Mission's Junior Choir and Girls Chorus will render selections.

Mrs. Wilbur W. O'Brien, of Clay avenue returned to town last week from Hollywood, California, where she had been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Denie, who formerly lived in Rochester.

Republican Women Entertain Workers

Ladies of the Tenth Ward Republican Club served an elaborate lunch to the workers of the ward on election night.

Mrs. Richard Saunders was chairman of the arrangements, assisted by the following ladies: Mrs. David Atwater, Mrs. Charles Bostwick, Mrs. Nelson Milne, Mrs. Robert Clifford, Mrs. Hazel Faher, Mrs. Gertrude Dorshell, Mrs. Jennie Stell, Mrs. Louis Ibrig, Mrs. Mabel Ramsey, Mrs. Susan Gray, Mrs. James Gray, Mrs. Grace O. Smith, Mrs. Grace L. Emmerick, Mrs. Jos. Culhane, Mrs. William Zimmer and Mrs. Rose Meyerhoff.

A business meeting has been called for tonight at the club headquarters on Driving Park avenue for the election of officers for the coming year.

James W. Gray, newly elected School Commissioner, and Mrs. Gray are now occupying a home on Maplewood avenue.

Miss Claire of Claire's Dress Shop will return Friday from a buying trip in New York City.

"THE TRESPASSER", "HOLLYWOOD REVIEW" RIVIERA FEATURES

Gloria Swanson's voice, object of greater anticipation among motion picture fans than any other voice in filmdom, is heard for the first time in "The Trespasser," her latest United Artists picture.

Miss Swanson both sings and talks in this new opus.

Her spoken lines are the more effective because "The Trespasser" is a play of modern life constructed to meet the requirements of the new screen medium, rather than a story designed for a silent picture, into which dialogue has been injected.

Her singing likewise is expected to be more highly appreciated, because the two songs she offers interpret the mood of the story and sustain its tempo, instead of disrupting its trend of thought.

In addition to serving as the medium of her vocal debut, "The Trespasser" presents Miss Swanson once again as a woman of fashion, with a wardrobe of gowns, wraps and negligees which are ultra modern in every detail.

"The Trespasser," which will be the attraction at the Riviera theatre beginning Sunday for 4 days, is a drama of the moment. Its setting is Chicago; its environment the "smart set." And through its intimate study of a girl who becomes a trespasser in this restricted social sphere and in the lives of its people, the story delves into vital affairs of life.

Miss Swanson, in her portrayal of "Marion Donnell," is supported by established players of both stage and screen. The leading man is Robert Ames, who has been extremely popular on Broadway. He portrays "Jack Merrick" whose romance with "Marion Donnell" indelibly stamps her as "The Trespasser."

Purnell Pratt who has appeared on the talking screen in "Alibi," plays "Hector Ferguson," wealthy corporation lawyer and the "other man" in Marion Donnell's involved scheme of things. Henry B. Walthall, one of the screen's earliest figures, has a strong character role.

Wally Albright, three and a half years old, who appears as "Marion Donnell's" son, is regarded as one of the most promising of all the child actors in dialogue pictures. Blanche Friderici, who appeared so successfully with Miss Swanson in "Sadie Thompson" again plays in her support. And other assisting players are William Holden, Kay Hammond, M. J. Forbes, and Marcella Corday. "The Trespasser" has been filmed and presented with a modernistic touch in keeping with its modern theme and modern dress. At previews, it has been hailed as a distinct stride forward along the path to the ultimate in sound picture production.

were designed and produced by the wardrobe department of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios in less than a month for "The Hollywood Revue" by a force of 150 seamstresses.

The task of outfitting the principals and chorists of this huge musical and talking extravaganza at the Riviera Thursday, Friday, Saturday, of this week, was assigned to the wardrobe department following the success of "The Broadway Melody," another Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer hit. The revue incidentally has the largest cast of stars ever assembled for a motion picture and a larger ensemble than a Zeigfeld "Follies."

LEARY DYE HOUSE ON PLATT STREET

A quaint old picture found in the advertising sections of Rochester directories of the '50's, shows the building of the Leary Dye House as it was in the days preceding the Civil War, with the drying rack on the roof.

Evidently Rochester did not use so much soft coal in those days and the roof of the building was felt to be an ideal place to dry the articles submitted to the firm for cleansing and dyeing. The dye house was established by Francis Peacock on State street in 1822, when Rochester was but a baby village, and was removed to Platt street in 1828. Daniel Leary entered the employ of Mr. Peacock as an apprentice in 1837 and in 1842 on Mr. Peacock's death, purchased the business which has been conducted by members of his family on the same site up to the present day.

In 1849 the original building was destroyed by fire and was rebuilt on a larger scale, and in later years additions were made many times. In the old advertisements of the dye house it is stated that the firm makes a specialty of cleansing crepe and plaid shawls and that "goods are dyed black every Tuesday, Thursday and Friday."

J. Moss of Dewey avenue, has been confined to his home for the past few weeks.

H. A. JOHNSTON NEW PRESIDENT OF LAKE AVENUE ASSOCIATION

Herbert A. Johnston, Tenth Ward baker, was elected to the presidency of the Lake and Ridge Business Men's Association at a meeting held Monday night at the Lake Avenue branch of the Lincoln-Alliance Bank. Mr. Johnston succeeds Charles P. Coster who has presided during the first year of the association.

Other officers named at the meeting were Harvey Johnson, vice-president; Dr. Charles Oster, secretary; and C. E. Marsh, treasurer. Fred Doell is retiring vice-president and Gerald C. Kenny is past secretary. A bowling party for the business men was announced for next Monday night to be held at the Turn Verein. It is planned to pick a ten-man team at this time to challenge the Dewey avenue business men.

After a discussion it was also decided that the same plan of Christmas decoration will be used for the coming holidays as was used a year ago. Officers of the association will be formally installed at a banquet to be held in January. Future meetings of the organization will be held at the bank, which has been placed at the disposal of the business men by Mr. Marsh.

CHAS. BANTEL TAKES HONORS IN BOWLING

Charlie Bantel upset all the dope at the last bowling party of the Dewey Avenue Business Men's Association, rolling a total of 620 for three games and scoring a high game of 230. A team captained by George Bauman, however, copped team honors, winning all three games, one from each of the other quintets.

The next match of the season will take place on Tuesday, December 3, at the Church of All Saints alleys.

Playing Santa Claus

The first touch of snow this week quite forcibly brings to mind that now is the time to do several things, all of which involve expenditure of funds. One of the principal things, despite the vagaries of the stock market, will be the annual search for Christmas gifts. The early shoppers have been looking around for several weeks and gradually their number is being enlarged. Soon everybody will join the search. Street cars will be crowded to capacity and downtown crowds will as ever serve to tire our housewives. And if they drive to the center of the city, there will be the ever-present parking problem. The question is what to do about it.

Now we believe that we have a solution for the problem, which will conserve the energy of our shoppers and bring them up to Christmas without that "glad-it's-over-with" feeling. It is nothing new, yet it is something upon which we seldom pause to meditate. We are thinking of our community merchants who this year more than ever before are endeavoring to cater to every desire of their patrons. Why would it not be a happy thought to do some looking nearer home before venturing into the shopping crowds downtown?

Neighborhood buying is going to come into its own some day when the public discovers that after all it is merchandise which they are buying. They finally will be awakened to a better sense of values and then when they visit their neighborhood business men they will realize, after all the clouds have been blown away, that there is some economy to neighborhood shopping. Quite naturally it is not yet possible for us to supply all our needs from our local stores; but some day in the future with the co-operation of Tenth Ward buyers, every commodity will be available at our doors. The business men need only a little of our confidence, and they merit it too—to go on and expand, yet continuing to give us real personal service.

Before you make that trip downtown for gift suggestions why not see your neighboring business men. He will have many, perhaps all the things you need. And furthermore a few years hence you will have service such as you never believed possible, at home, in your own community.

MRS. STELL NAMED CHAIRMAN BY LOCAL REPUBLICAN WOMEN

The Tenth Ward Women's Republican club elected the following officers at their last business meeting: Mrs. Jennie Stell, chairman; Mrs. Carrie Jinks, first vice-chairman; Mrs. Gertrude Dorsshell, second vice-chairman; Mrs. Grace O. Smith, correspondent secretary; Mrs. Elizabeth Wishart, financial secretary; and Mrs. Lena Cook, treasurer.

The officers met at the home of Mrs. Stell on Flower City park, Thursday of last week to make plans for the coming year. It was decided upon to hold the open house on Wednesdays, during the winter months and to have an educational and social program alternately at the monthly business meetings.

A business meeting will be held Thursday Dec. 5, at the club rooms, 333 Driving Park avenue, at 8 P. M. with card playing at the close of the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hudson of Windham road entertained a number of their friends at bridge Saturday evening. The color scheme of decorations was pink and white. Prizes won by Mrs. Harold Hudson, Mrs. Frank Wadman, Richard Baybutt and Fred Gardner.

EMPIRE RADIO SERVICE ANNOUNCES CONTEST; TO GIVE AWAY RADIO SET

In search of a slogan that will properly classify its policy, Empire Radio Sales announces a contest, open to the public, continuing from today until December 14. As the first prize, a Fada console model radio, fully equipped and selling for $189.50, is to be given away. Eleven other prizes ranging in value from five dollars to $25 dollars credit on new radios are also to be awarded.

Alfred J. Taylor, owner of Empire Radio Sales, which is located at 341 Lyell avenue, in announcing the slogan contest, emphasized the fact that the slogan must truly represent the policy which his store has laid out for itself.

"The slogan must be short," he says, "consisting of not more than six short words. It must be original, for we are running this contest in the interest of obtaining a modern slogan for a modern store; hence the slogan must be worded differently than others to which we are accustomed today. It is our desire to bring out in the slogan that we handle only the highest quality merchandise offered in the field of radio and that our service policy is second to none."

One stipulation of the contest is that all entrants must register personally at the store before sending in a slogan. The purpose of this visit to the store is to give the contestants first hand information to be included in a short letter of not more than fifty words stating why it is believed that the slogan would be suitable. This letter must be sent in with the slogan suggestion, no more than one of which may be submitted by each contestant.

The Fada radio which is the first prize is an eight-tube set, walnut console, 1929-30 model, screen grid, all-electric. The credits will be allowed on any set purchased and consist of the following: one of $25; two of $15; three of $10; and five of $5.

Rules of Empire Radio Sales Slogan Contest

- 1—Contest closes Saturday evening, December 14, at 9 o'clock.
- 2—All contestants must register personally at the store at 341 Lyell avenue BEFORE sending in slogan.
- 3—Contestants may enter only one slogan each.
- 4—Slogan must be accompanied by letter stating why contestant believes it is suitable.
- 5—Write on one side of paper only and print name and address.
- 6—Contest open to everyone except employees of Empire Radio Sales, and their families.

The First Thanksgiving

By Joan Lynn Schild

When Rochesterians meet on Thanksgiving Day for the annual services, they will take part in the sixty-fifth annual Thanksgiving celebration. However the first national proclamation was issued in 1789, and local observances had been held in many places before that time.

On November 9, 1620, a small sailing vessel, the Mayflower, dropped anchor off Cape Cod. For five weeks the people on board waited in their cramped quarters while scouting parties explored the country and selected a spot to settle. They landed at Plymouth Rock on December 21, 1620, built rude shelters and erected makeshift fortifications against the Indians. The Winter was so severe that before Spring arrived, 51 of the 101 who landed, died. The end of the Summer, though, found them surrounded by 26 cleared acres of land, living along a street bordered by seven houses, and with sufficient provisions for the Winter stored away. Then Governor Bradford issued an order for a day of Thanksgiving.

That first Thanksgiving season,—for it lasted for three days—came with a bounty of food and recreation after a Summer of labor, broken only by rest on the sacred day of worship. Four huntsmen secured in one day enough wild game to last for a week. Ninety Indians led by their chief, Massasoit, came as guests and remained the three days. Religious ceremonies started each day, but sports, military exhibitions, hunting parties, and general merriment filled the remaining hours of each day.

Between the first Plymouth celebration and the first national one proclaimed by President Washington in 1789, the observance of a Thanksgiving Day became general throughout the eastern colonies. Notwithstanding the widespread celebration of the feast day after Washington's establishment of a national festival, in the years between 1789 and 1864, observances were variable both in time of month and day. Each colony, even each city, would observe the day on the date suggested for national use, or not, as it desired. The first officially established observance in New York State took place in 1817. After 1850, the day was celebrated generally among the southern and western states as well as the originating eastern ones.

Interesting Contrast

The Thanksgiving Day services in Rochester this year will provide an interesting contrast with some of the earliest ones in Rochester of which records can be found, such as those made by Edwin Serantom in his diaries, now preserved in the city historian's office. After services at the various churches, many families will go to prominent hotels and restaurants for their holiday dinner, and after that will attend a football game or a theater matinee.

On November 24, 1859, the earliest date mentioned by Mr. Serantom, a comparatively small group of members of the Brick, Plymouth, and Central churches, met in the Plymouth Church for a religious service. The sermon on that occasion seems to have been the outstanding if not the only feature, no singing or other part of the service being mentioned.

The services in 1862 and 1863, the only ones recorded as having taken place in those years, were seemingly rather unnotable, but that of the year 1864 brought a vigorous comment from Mr. Serantom. In that year, Dr. Anderson, of the Baptist College, preached. His sermon dealt with the war and the recent election, dealt with them in exceedingly plain terms. Mr. Serantom, with great glee, commented that "if there were any Copperhead there, he surely was looking about him for a hole to put his head in" soon after Dr. Anderson began to speak.

In those days, besides talks which carried vital and even bitter interest, possibly arousing intense local emotion, the Thanksgiving Day observances differed from those of today in the way the rest of the day was celebrated. Large family gatherings at home, when all the family, down to the last son and daughter came together, perhaps from opposite sides of the city, were almost the unexcepted rule. After dinners whose origins were far more intimately known than those of the meals consumed today, the entire family, instead of going to a game or theater program, would mingle in chat and games until twilight brought the time to return and finish the remains of the noon feast.

Mrs. John Wilson of Culver road and Mrs. Edward Cater of Electric avenue will represent their Home Bureau at a card party held at the Chamber of Commerce today.

"BROADWAY" AND
"COCOANUTS" AT
RIVIERA THEATRE

Broadway has moved West. Broadway in all its fascination and gaiety, in all its abandon and lavishness, has been moved to Hollywood. The street that is paved with tinsel and trodden by jeweled heels, the multi-hued lights that chase each other in a million fantastic patterns against a skyscape of toy balloons, the kaleidoscope of champagne bubbles in a paper party hat, has been reproduced for the screen.

At Universal City, on the biggest stage ever constructed, there was built for "Broadway," the Carl Laemmle, Jr., all-talking super-production coming Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, November 24-25-26-27, to the Riviera Theatre, a set fully worthy of the multitude of "butter-and-egg" men who scatter their largesse down the Milky Way. The super-superlative of this set is the Paradise Night Club, a true example of cubistic art and also an eye-opener even to those Hollywood extravaganziasts who immerse themselves o' mornings in platinum bath-tubs.

Here, then, is Broadway. For Broadway could not be built but with an extravagant hand—Broadway, the Rue de la Cabaret.

But not all is iridescent froth even on Broadway. Beneath the floating bubbles is the vortex that makes them rise, and in "Broadway," the stage success which ran in New York for 90 consecutive weeks, this vortex alone provides the entire action of the play. And the Paradise Night Club was spoken of only, not seen at all, for the one back-stage scene was the single setting of the stage production.

The Marx Brothers, long known as the world's four funniest men, have carried their inimitable fun-making art to the screen. In their first moving picture, the all-talking production of the popular stage musical comedy, "The Cocoanuts," they carry their great personalities into film immortality.

The Marx Brothers register perfectly on both camera and microphone. They fit like veterans into this new medium and they make of "The Cocoanuts," which will show at the Riviera Theatre, today, tomorrow and Saturday, a laugh show from start to finish.

Groucho, the talkative member of the Marx quartette, introduces an interminable line of funny chatter that keeps the picture bubbling with laughter. Harpo, with his dumb show and his constantly changing pantomime, is always surprising and Chico pulls some of the funniest stuff in the whole film. His "Viaduct? Why a duck?" passage is particularly convulsing. Zeppo, who always plays straight, is not only the successful foil for his mad brothers but he steps out once or twice for jesting of his own.

Around The Ward

It begins to look as though we'll eat turkey in some quantity next Thursday, judging by the quotations which our meat market men are giving us. With a plentiful supply, the turkey-raisers are competing for the business and prices accordingly move downward.

The new bridge at Ridge road will bring with it at least one other improvement, upon its completion some two years or more hence. We are told that a new library building is contemplated for the Lake Avenue Branch. It will be located on the site of the present building, which is shown on the sketches of the new bridge approaches precisely in the center of the park which the three entrances to the bridge will cut off. However, no appropriation has been made as yet and it will probably be a matter of three or four years—or perhaps we should say a year or two after the Ridge road bridge is completed.

The corner of Driving Park and Dewey avenues continues to be an enigma to all of us. With no information forthcoming from either Councilman Nelson A. Milne or City Manager Stephen B. Story, it begins to look as though the plea for action has fallen on deaf ears. Perhaps there will arise a champion in the City Council.

Jim Garin, who is giving away a turkey this week, has an almost pure white cat which he acquired when he took over his store on Dewey avenue. One day recently Mr. Cat disappeared. A squad of youngsters was recruited in the neighborhood and it wasn't long before the missing feline was safely back in the store. But now Mr. Cat must stay within the store, for if he doesn't, one of the youngsters is sure to pick him up and hastily return him to Mr. Garin. As a matter of fact, according to Jim, his cat can't even take a walk without someone suspecting that he is lost.

AL JOLSON AGAIN AT RIVIERA; "DR. FU MANCHU" SHOWING

Sound has more than doubled the effectiveness of mystery melodrama in pictures, according to Rowland V. Lee, veteran Paramount director, who has just completed the picturization of the all-talking thriller, "The Mysterious Dr. Fu Manchu," which will show at the Riviera Theatre, today, Friday and Saturday.

"The Mysterious Dr. Fu Manchu," the famous Sax Rohmer story, has been made to live on the screen through the sound medium. The atmosphere of mystery and dramatic realism that permeates the story are considerably heightened by the audibility of the accompanying sounds and dialog.

The picture opens with a battle scene in Peking, China, during the Boxer rebellion and the staccato crack of rifles, the distant rumble of cannon, the shouts and the screams add tremendously to the reality of this action. Then the story shifts to present-day London where the crafty Dr. Fu Manchu seeks his vengeance on the families of the officers who lead the Peking defence. Striking with an unseen hand, the oriental fanatic operates with a mystery that baffles even Scotland Yard.

Warner Oland, famous on the screen for his oriental roles, has the title role and the supporting cast includes Jean Arthur, Neil Hamilton, O. P. Heggie and William Austin.

Al Jolson, the world's greatest entertainer, comes to the Riviera Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, in Warner Bros. latest all-talking, all-singing picture, "Say It with Songs."

"Say It with Songs" is a personality-plus picture and packing

"FROZEN JUSTICE" COMES TO LIBERTY

Lenore Ulric, the celebrated Belasco star who makes her talkie debut in "Frozen Justice," which comes to the Liberty Theatre tomorrow (Friday) and Saturday, scores an emphatic hit. What makes her triumph even more significant is the complex character that she portrays, that of a half caste Alaskan belle, an unfaithful wife, an exotic, voluptuous beauty with a tempestuous fire-and-ice nature, a role which most actresses would find it difficult to portray but which, for the Belasco star, proves a very natural and easy one.

Directed by Allan Dwan, "Frozen Justice" is a skillfully contrived melodrama which has its most important action amid the roaring cafes and dance halls of the Yukon when the Gold Rush was in full swing and bizarre adventurers came to it from all corners of the globe. Dwan makes the most of his material; never let that be doubted.

As "Talu," "Little Star of the North," as she is dubbed by the cafe proprietor, Miss Ulric brings not only a wealth of dramatic talent to the screen but proves herself to possess a very charming singing voice.

personality into pictures is Al Jolson's particular gift. Call it fervor, magnetism, luck, wit—what you will—this strange ability to electrify everybody everywhere belongs to just one person—Jolson!

There is probably more of Jolson in "Say It with Songs" than in either of his other talkies. In some inexplicable way he dominates every one he touches while a picture is in process of production and the talking-camera and the taking-camera together catch all the brilliant high lights, and tender by-lights of his remarkable voice and presence.

Around The Ward

We have entered again those last few weeks before Christmas when every 24 hours lapped off means just so much less time in which to hurry around and get those numerous gifts we have listed for relatives and friends. Time is becoming increasingly valuable and as is always the case it seems to be fleeing faster than at any other time of the year. However, there is still ample time to get all the shopping done conveniently and with a minimum of effort if we will all take up the matter seriously right now.

One of the greatest helps at this season is the huge volume of advertising that is descending upon us. Suggestions by the hundreds are being passed out freely and we have only to make up our minds as to just about how much we can afford to spend. With so many suggestions from which to choose, the task does not seem half so difficult.

The Tenth Ward Courier has urged its advertisers to render their assistance and they have responded well as a survey of the Courier advertising columns will show. There are many gifts listed here that will help to fill out your lists. Furthermore these suggestions, which incidentally do not begin to do justice to the large and varied stock of the stores, are to be had at your nearby stores, conveniently located in your own neighborhood. Many Tenth Warders have satisfied themselves that there are few better "buys" and no better qualities than those offered in their own local stores. More of them will discover the truth of the matter when they take it upon themselves to make a few comparisons. Let's shop early and see our Tenth Ward business men first.

There seems to be fairly good reason for optimism and enthusiasm at the rapidly developing corner of Dewey and Lewiston avenues. The new sports arena and business arcade which is gradually taken form was one of the first signs of an awakened interest in this corner and now comes the announcement that Wegman's have purchased half of the property on the northeast corner and are negotiating for the other half to erect one of their combination stores there. If the city will only carry out its expressed intention of removing the old building at the southeast corner, there will be further cause for rejuvenation.

With snow and ice temporarily if not seasonally permanent upon our pavements it is a wise man who takes caution unto himself in driving his automobile. The Tenth Ward is especially dangerous because it is situated in the mountainous section of Rochester, which makes it exceedingly difficult to have one's car under control at crossings. The corner of Glenwood and Fulton avenues, due to a fairly steep grade and a naturally slippery pavement, has been the scene of many mishaps. If we persist in remembering these little things, we'll probably save ourselves a few dollars and perhaps personal injury or worse.

And incidentally the numerous hills make ideal sledding when coated with ice, but parents should repeat the old warning about this time of year to "keep off the streets." Miss Gertrude Hartnett, acting commissioner of parks, informs us that Maplewood avenue will be closed again in the past for sledding as soon as there is sufficient snow.

Bantel Again Leads Dewey Ave. Bowlers

Proving that his performance of three weeks ago was no flash in the pan, Charlie Bantel eased himself into first place in the bowling average of the Dewey Avenue Business Men's Association for the second successive time Tuesday night. He copped the honors by the scant margin of two pins over his near neighbor Roy Rathke who rolled 580 for three games.

High individual game for the evening was rolled by Earl Crocker whose six successive strikes enabled him to mark up 243 for one game. Earl Baynes had a game of 233 and Rathke managed to eke out one 225.

While no records were broken or even approached as a matter of fact, the business men thoroughly enjoyed themselves. The next match will be rolled against Lyell avenue early in January. Scores were as follows:

Baynes	163	233	157

Girl Scout Is Given Commendation Letter

Mary Elizabeth Sadden, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Harry Sadden of Dewey avenue, received her letter of commendation Tuesday evening at her scout troop meeting. Miss Sadden is a member of Troop 46 which meets at the John Marshall High School with Mrs. William H. Stell as captain, and is also a first class scout.

The letter of commendation is one of the highest scout honors, bestowed upon a scout for her interest, co-operation and progress shown in her scout work.

The guests of honor at the troop meeting were Mrs. Huntington, chairman of the Court of Awards, and Mrs. Alice O. Little, local commissioner of the Girl Scouts. Mrs. Huntington spoke on the letter of commendation and told what it should mean to a girl scout. Miss Little gave a short talk on the national convention at New Orleans which she attended in October.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lusk of Lewiston avenue, are spending a week in Newark.

FLUTIST TO PLAY AT CONCERT SUN.

Leonardo Delorenzo, noted flutist with the Rochester Philharmonic and Rochester Civic Orchestras, will be soloist at the third of the series of concerts to be given by the Civic Orchestra at Jefferson Junior High School Sunday afternoon. Judge Henry D. Shedd, who is chairman of the Northwest District committee, while expressing satisfaction with the size of the audience in the two previous concerts, urges still more to take advantage of the opportunity to hear the local musicians.

Included among the works which will make up the program Sunday are composition of Beethoven, Haydn, DeBussy, Mozart, Delibes, Wagner, Saint-Saens, Godard, Schubert and Tschaiakowsky.

Harrigan Adds Radio Service Man, A. Brooks

Since the radio has become almost a necessity in the home, the demand for genuine radio mechanics, capable of servicing sets in the same manner as garages take care of automobiles, has been on the increase. Realizing this growing demand, J. C. Harrigan, Ridgeway avenue radio dealer has procured the services of a man whom he feels confident is the type of agent that modern servicing demands.

Arlo Brooks of Argo park is the new service man at Harrigan's. For the past five years he has worked under Ross Wishart of Tacoma street, said to be one of the outstanding radio engineers in the city, and who was formerly engaged in research and design in the laboratories of Stromberg-Carlson Co. Mr. Harrigan announces in this issue that Mr. Brooks is now taking care of service.

Republican Women To Meet Today At Club

The regular monthly business meeting of the Tenth Ward Women's Republican Club will be held at the clubroom, 333 Driving Park avenue, today.

There will be card playing at the close of the meeting, with prizes for winners.

THETA PHI DELTA

Theta Phi Delta Fraternity, after achieving success in their first public dance of the season at the Sagamore, November 19, held an Invitation Dance at Davis' Barn, Friday, November 22. On the committee were Jack Kinsella, Henry Furlong and Paul Travers.

EMPIRE RADIO REVISES RULES OF SLOGAN CONTEST; CLOSING DEC. 14

Throwing open the competition for a slogan, Alfred J. Taylor announces that all Tenth Warders interested in submitting suggestions for the Empire Radio Sales' slogan, may send them in now regardless of whether or not they register at the store. Mr. Taylor makes this move to widen the field of entrants and to insure the best possible slogan for his store.

One of the requirements of the contest, first prize in which is a model 25 Fada Console model radio, was that each of the entrants must register at the store which is located at 341 Lyell avenue. In removing this requirement from the rules, Mr. Taylor now makes it possible for all readers of The Courier to mail in their suggestions if they like, gathering their material from the two policy advertisements in this publication, one of which appeared two weeks ago and the other in this issue.

The contest closes on the evening of Saturday December 14 at 9 o'clock, which gives contestants only about one week more in which to enter their suggestions. It is specified that the slogan must truly represent the policy of the store, that it must consist of no more than six words, and that it must be modern and unique. The winner of the radio and other prizes, which all together total $400 in value, will be announced in the next issue of this publication.

A Word on The MATTER OF PRICE in Radio

This is one of a series of advertisements. Read them.
You may find it profitable.

In the past few weeks, many manufacturers of Radio Sets have drastically reduced prices. No doubt they had their own reasons for so doing.

Quality merchandise, fairly priced in the beginning remains unchanged in both price and quality. We handle only such merchandise.

The manufacturers of the Radio Sets we handle assure us that their prices will not be reduced, and we are ready to back their statement.

Before you invest in a Radio Set, think this over.

The lowest first cost does not always mean the best bargain or the cheapest set to buy.

CHRISTMAS CUSTOMS--WHEN, WHY AND HOW OF THEIR ORIGINATION

By Joan Lynn Schild

There is no land without its Christmas. The season is celebrated in every country and Christmas is cherished by the children of the world as the day of days. We are so accustomed to the Holiday season in its modern form that we scarcely stop to wonder when, why, and how the quaint and pleasing customs connected with it were originated.

Merry Christmas, Santa Claus, holly, mistletoe, gifts, Christmas trees, plum puddings, and all the things that mean Christmas to us have been handed down from the past ages. Pagan and Christian, customs so ancient and remote that they have lost their original significance, play a part in modern festivities. But the origins of the customs are no less interesting because they come from long ago.

"Cristes Maase"

The name "Christmas" meant originally "Cristes maase," a church festival of Christ. It is the English name for the season that commemorates the birth of Christ, but is known that a festival was celebrated at this time of year long before it became the symbol of the nativity. Among the pagan peoples it was customary to hold high carnivals at the time of the winter solstice. These festivals were celebrated with music and dancing, revels and fetes, that hardly would seem in keeping with the day as we know it. Yet, many of these customs have been incorporated into our own Christian celebrations—not the least popular of which is the mistletoe. A century ago, William Mone, in his "Every Day Book," wrote, "Girls, although they be ladies, are kissed under the mistletoe." This is an old Druidic custom which has survived many generations.

Among the ancient Druids, the mistletoe was regarded with the utmost veneration. They cut sacred mistletoe with a golden knife and hung it over the doors to propitiate the woodland spirits. According to myth, only happiness could enter under the mistletoe. Hence the tradition of the kiss.

At one time the customs and observances that we associate with Christmas had a very definite significance. To-day they survive as part of our social scheme.

American Christmas

In America we have made of Christmas a period of great social activity. The old customs of other lands, combined with tender memories of the first Christmases in this country, make of the holiday a rare interval of joy and cheer which find expression in a semi-social semi-religious celebration. Everybody wishes everybody else a merry Christmas, and even the echoes are glad!

The first Christmases in America were not the gay festivities to which we are accustomed. They were days like all the rest, devoted to work and prayer. Governor Bradford wrote, "Ye 25th day began to erect ye first house for comone use to receive them and their goods." A few years after this was written, the church of England established Christmas services in Boston.

Our Christmas celebrations carry threads from many lands. People coming here from France, England, Germany, Norway, Italy—all brought their customs with them. Our Christmas trees and Santa Claus are imported. Our carols and our stocking superstition came from across the ocean. Even our "Merry Christmas" belongs to England.

Yet our Christmas festivities are individual, American. They are like those of no one country, but, like a tapestry that has been patterned with many beautiful threads, our festivities reflect the customs, beliefs, and superstitions of many widely separated lands.

Santa is Dutch

Jolly old Santa Claus with his tinkling sleighbells and pack of toys is very closely associated with the American Christmas. Our children hang up their stockings in high glee, fully believing that Santa will come down the chimney and fill them with good things, until they are old enough to separate fact from fancy or some cruel person shatters the beautiful belief.

Santa came to America by way of Holland. The old Dutch settlers of New York brought with them all the joyous and hospitable observances of their fatherland. They introduced to their neighbors in the New World, St. Nicholas or San Nicolaas, patron saint of children. And San Nicolaas promptly grew a long white beard belted his jovial stoutness in a red coat and made his bow to America as Santa Claus!

That Christmas is a time of gaiety and feasting is traditional. This account, by some forgotten writer of long ago, brings to mind the Christmas of yesterday and how it was celebrated:

"Now capons and hens, besides turkeys, geese and ducks, with beef and mutton—must all die; for in twelve days a multitude of people will not be fed with little. Now plums and spice, sugar and honey, square it among pies and broth. Now or never must music be in tune, for the young must dance and sing to get them a heat, while the aged sit by the fire."

Many Superstitions

DEWEY AVENUE RESIDENT WINS EMPIRE RADIO SLOGAN CONTEST

A model 25 Fada radio will be delivered to the home of Llewellyn Mahar at 1976 Dewey avenue this week, as first prize in the radio slogan contest of Empire Radio Sales. The winning slogan, submitted by Mr. Mahar and adopted as the official sub-title of the radio store is "The Home of Radio Satisfaction." Mr. Mahar is an employee of Eastman Kodak Co.

The slogan was selected from a number which were picked out as worthy suggestions by Alfred J. Taylor, owner of Empire Radio Sales, and was finally chosen as the one most adequately expressing the principles of the store. One special prize consisting of a $25 credit at the store was awarded to Charles P. Bryan of 11 Fern street for his suggestion of an advertising scheme which Mr. Taylor intends to use in the future. The regular $25 credit, second prize, was awarded to another Tenth Warder, Mrs. Katherine O'Brien of 249 Lexington avenue.

Third and fourth prizes were won by the slogans of Fred R. Baker of 463 Lyell avenue and Margaret A. Kenny of 138 Maryland street; fifth, sixth and seventh by Leonard Bianchi, 44 Sykes street, Otto Jensen, 315 Merrill street, and Albert T. Mason, 135 Burrows street; eighth, ninth, and tenth by Mary Jane Barry, 108 Maryland street, James P. Kenny, 133 Maryland street and Fred Stifter, 37 Cameron street.

Following is the letter which Mr. Mahar sent accompanying and explaining his slogan:

"Were I a dealer in Radio and Radio Service, I would adopt as a slogan: "The Home of Radio Satisfaction."

The reason for this is that the success of any business depends solely upon "Satisfied Customers," for it is they in the small business, more than advertising, who pass their satisfaction to friend or neighbor, and thus create a demand for the products which you have for sale.

"The Home of Radio Satisfaction" inspires confidence in prospective purchasers, and their thought most naturally would be; that a firm who so advertises, must certainly have something more to offer than merely the sale of a Receiving Set.

They would interpret it as you would have it interpreted and that is Radio Satisfaction—

SENTIMENT UNANIMOUS FOR NEW BRIDGE; NOW UP TO COUNCILMEN

With sentiment definitely in favor of the speediest possible action on the ordinance for a new bridge at Lewiston avenue, it is now the task of the Council and City Administration to get together, decide final details and call for bids. At the hearing Monday night, although some discussions arose as to the materials to be used, it was evident that the desire of the people is to construct another crossing over the Genesee River at the earliest possible moment.

A plaster duplication of the bridge in miniature form, prepared under the direction of Frank P. McKibbin, engineer in charge, is now on display in the City Council chambers and at the hearing Monday night drew considerable praise. The bridge proper as proposed will rest on one huge span arched the entire width of the river. On either side there are to be two small arches which add to the architectural beauty of the proposed structure.

According to Mr. McKibbin the bridge will have a gradual downward slope from St. Paul street to Lake avenue, dropping at the rate of six inches in each 100 feet. The viaduct plan over St. Paul street has been abandoned and in its place a circular plaza with the bridge approach circling on either side has been substituted. There will be a viaduct over Park View, however.

William Erdle, whose home is on Maplewood boulevard suggested the construction of a landing, to make possible more boating facilities in the lower Genesee, a foot of the new bridge. Mr. Erdle, who is a yatching devotee, described the gorge at this point of the most beautiful in the country, and he was substantiated by McKibbin.

The finance committee and the committee and the council to the county the present year a close, however, final action will be taken after the next session.

Around The Ward

We have of late been noting the gradual development of a "community buying" consciousness in these columns and the points which we brought out were firm convictions of our own. Hence when the editorial which we print below appeared on December 4 in one of the evening dailies of Rochester, we took some measure of pride in perusing its contents; for it really is indicative of the fact that the trend toward the neighborhood store keeper is rapidly becoming recognized even in downtown circles. Here is the editorial, entitled "The Changing City":

"The automobile is slowly but steadily changing the make-up of our urban centers. Hardly a week goes by in any city of considerable size that is not marked by the removal of some thriving business from its long-time central location to a location that would have meant bankruptcy a decade ago. Today the move is economically sound and justified by conditions which have come to stay.

"The number of people who walk past a given merchant's door may or may not be a deciding factor in that merchant's success. But the number who can leave their automobiles parked near his store must assuredly be considered. A phenomenon of city life today is the 'uptown' department store, theater, specialty shop, or bank.

"A by-product of this latest transition is the rebirth of self-sustaining, self-contained neighborhoods. It will be most curious if the automobile, which has done so much to disintegrate the one-time neighborhood, should bring back the old consciousness in a new form."

William Comery will return Friday, from Cornell Preparatory School to spend the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Comery.

No. 7 School News

The concert given by the Little Symphony Orchestra of West High School was much enjoyed. The proceeds are to be used to buy instruments for the school orchestra. These instruments will be permanent equipment for the school.

Last Thursday the orchestra of No. Six School practiced with the orchestra of No. Seven at the latter school under the direction of Miss Lena Carroll.

Miss Howard's second grade are very busy this week. They are working on a Christmas play, "Mother Goose's Christmas." Every child in the grade has a part.

The members of both the Girls' Clubs are planning Christmas parties to be held next week. They are filling baskets to be given to needy families.

SCHIAVO ADDS MASTER CEMENT SHOE PROCESS

Michael Schiavo of the Quality Shoe Repair on Dewey avenue has recently added to his equipment a master shoe cement process for the repair of ladies shoes. The process, which is guaranteed, eliminates the use of nails and sewing and according to Mr. Schiavo is the nearest approach to perfection in shoe repair that has been evolved. Soles applied by the master cement process give the appearance of new shoes to comfortable old shoes, he says.

Mrs. Ralph B. Gray of Old Forge, N. Y., spent the week-end with relatives and friends here. Mr. Gray is now employed at the Old Forge Electric Corporation as office manager and with Mrs. Gray is now residing in Old Forge. They were formerly residents of Birr street.

A baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Glen Ingersoll of Ridgeway avenue on Monday of this week.

the year. To eat apples at midnight on Christmas Eve, is to enjoy great health during the year. If a loaf of bread is allowed to remain on the table after the Christmas Eve celebrations, there will be no lack of bread in the house for the next twelve months. According to the old tradition, "by all means you must have a plum pudding—a plum pudding grown rich and black and solid." Otherwise it seems you will lose a friend between this Christmas and next!

Adventures of Snooky

"I wouldn't be looking for Christmas presents I ain't supposed to know about. MASSES'S milk has got me pretty healthy and strong, but at that I ain't going to like the spanking I got coming."

Food authorities state that nothing can take the place of milk for the child, and a quart a day is none too much.
