My dear Mrs Coonly

I heard from Mrs Greenleaf that you are coming to Mrs Gannetts this week - My sister & I want to put in our claim for a visit - from you and your newly chosen one - while you are in the city-- I shall go to see you as soon as I know of your arrival - for I do want to see you once more - and learn to adjust myself to your added name & added friendship- I remember my dear friend Antoinette Brown - when I met her after her marriage to Samuel Blackwell-- said to me "Susan while I love you just as well as I did before, I feel the need of you far less," This I presume is ever true with old friendships- But come and let us see - we are philosopers enough to accept whatever comes so fix the time - and spend at least a day with us - I want you to sit in judgement on the few chapters of my life that Mrs Harper has made the frist writing of -- So with love to your dear mother & each & all of your precious girls & boys - I am as ever

Lovingly yours

Susan B. Anthony
