Dear Anna E. Dann --

Well -- how did you get through the day yesterday -- no postal was in the mail this noon -- so we don't know yet whether Mrs. Harper met you --nor how you got on -- But we believe well -- Margaret said last night "It is so lonesome" -- "I'll bet Anna is lonesome tonight" -- we all spoke of you and this morning wondered what you were getting for breakfast -- & all -- whether you would go to church -- you must not forget the big Cathedral -- at 50th and Fifth Avenue -- on Margaret's account -- she will want to know all about it. -- I wonder if Mrs. Harper & Winnifred & Mr. Cooley are going up to the Park about now -- Mary & I have been out to Mt Hope -- and called at Mrs. Wolcotts -- and have just got back almost 6 o'clock -- and I will just [?]- to tell you we miss you -- the bedroom seems forlorn enough -- well take all the comfort you can -- while you are there—I can imagine how happy Mrs. Harper is to have you -- by the way I miss you --well -who do you think popped in when I went down -- why Nellie -- just as bright & fresh & Irish as need be -- she thought she would come & see the two old ladies -- for they would be lonesome -- with Anna gone -- she ate supper with us -- Aunt Mary told her to sit in Anna's place -- to make believe it is Anna I said -- & she responded yes as bright as could be -- she is going to Mrs. Minors tomorrow -- says Mrs. Cole wants her to stay -- but she will not -- but goes to her new place -- well -- she is downstairs talking to Aunt Mary -- Oh! She has on the lawn dress she says you made while we were gone -- and now she says she ironed it herself-- it looks very nice -- so I trust she will do splendidly at Mrs. Minors

Good By -- Give my love to the trio,
Susan B. Anthony
