Dear Anna E. ^{Damn} ~~Damn~~

Here is a letter for you - everything goes on smoothly - Margaret thinks you don't care to have her write - but no matter - Aunt Mary told her she must write and put in with her - so may be she will - the amt keeps about the same - so I think all will keep well but Miss Howley - she is at the Hospital - I don't call on her - because she has gone there to be waited on mainly - and get rested - Well I have spent these cool mornings in the attic - got all the pictures of people put in their respective States - and tied in an envelope - and am putting things into my order - so that I can send for what I want - & tell you where everything is - - I have never known for the whole time they have been in the garrett -- I wish you would write all the love part together - so that Mr. Mason could show your letters to us - I want to see your impressions of everything and you can't afford the time to write them over & over so do say all the sweet things on a separate piece of paper - and leave your goings & comings all by themselves - then tell Mr. Mason - they are to be seen and read by all of us - Mrs. Cash is very anxious hear everything - so I read such parts as may be - she said "Had I dreamed you would part with Anna I would a had her", but, said I, I should not have let her go to you nor for any one just to help them work - She went to Mrs. Harper - because she could while working for her - have time to go and see the wonderful City - and get broader ideas of things". Well she has written for a room at the Adirondacks - and is going if she can have a place - I haven't seen either of your sisters for a week - nor Miss Heath - either - Good bye --

Have you seen Floradora - yet - Have Maggie & Cornelia called yet - - I shall provoked at them if they don't call - Suppose you go & call on them - you could go a Sunday P. M. - affectionaly
