One oc. P.M. Sunday –

Just back from church – splendid singing – I enjoyed it very much – We are to go to a 4 oc. service, where we shall hear more singing, and speaking by Miss Emily Howland, Hattie May Mills and Susan B. – We have had a continuous rain since yesterday P.M. – and we feel somewhat relieved that we are out of the path of the Mississippi, which they are continually fighting to keep it from overflowing the levees & flooding the city – We had splendid meetings all through the convention – Everything is lovely there, if only we will “down the nigger” – many of whom are evidently equal to or even superior to the whites –

Truly -- M.S. Anthony

Gone to church – and Sunday School -- & lessons at home – the rain is pouring – the school grounds are about a mile from Tuskegee city – or village – right in front of this house is the new Carnegie Library – a splendid finish [?] building –

We shall leave this place tomorrow morning -- & go to Atlanta & stop there overnight – then go to Washington & stop there overnight – so that it will be Wednesday or Thursday night before we get home – I wish you were here to see & hear all -- it is most interesting – I wish I could have one of these splendid colored women for a house-keeper at No. 17 Madison St.!! -- Sincerely yours,

Susan B. Anthony
