The Country Doctor.

In his big fur coat and with mittens big as hams,
With his string of bells a-jingling, through the country-side he slams.
There are lots of calls to make, and he's always on the tear,
A-looming in his cutter like an amiable bear.

And it's hi-i-i, there!
Johnny don't ye care,
Though 'tis aching something awful and is most too much to bear.
Just-be-gay!
As soon as it is day,
The pain will go a-dyin' for the doctor's on the way.

There are real, true saints; there are angels
all around,
But there isn't one that's welcomer than he is, I'll be bound.
When he bustles in the bedroom and he dumps his boff'ler coat,
And sticks a glass thermometer a-down the suff'rin' throat.

And it's chirrk, cheer up!
Mother, bring a cup!
You're going to like this bully when you take a little sup.
There—there—why,
There's a twinkle in your eye!
You'll be out again to-morrow, bub, gid-dap, gid-dap, good-by!

—Holman F. Day, "Pine Tree Ballads."

Warm summer sun,
Shine kindly here;
Warm summer wind,
Blow softly here;
Green sod above,
Lie light, lie light;
Good night, dear heart,
Good night, good night.

A Prayer for Strength

Lord, give me strength. My loved one now
Walks through a vale with darkened skies.
There is a pallor on his brow,
A farawayness in his eyes,
That fill my heart with such a fear!—
Lord, give me strength to hold him here.

Oh, give me strength of heart and hand
To draw him from this dark abyss,
From that unknown, mysterious land
That lies between Thy land and this.
I watch his fluttering strength decline;
O Lord, I ask Thee, give him mine.

O Lord, we do not know Thy will,
Nor understand Thy purpose, Lord,
But if I cannot keep him still,
Oh, then another strength afford—
Yes, if I cannot hold him so,
Give he the strength to let him go.

PHILIP GARBUTT

Philip Garbutt, former state assemblyman and for ten years supervisor of the town of Wheatland, died yesterday morning at his home in Garbutt, named after his father. Feb 18 MONROE 1927
JOHN Z. GARBUTT
DESCENDED FROM COUNTY PIONEER

Prosperous Farmer Left
Wide Circle of Friends to Mourn Loss

Scottsville, Feb. 23.—(Special)—More than passing mention seems required with regard to the sudden removal from this life of one of the most prominent citizens of Wheatland, John Z. Garbutt, who was killed by the caving in of frozen ensilage Tuesday, February 15. Mr. Garbutt was alone, working in the silo at his home near Garbutt, when the accident occurred, and was dead when found by his son.

Mr. Garbutt was a member of a pioneer family of Monroe county. He was born on his father's farm on the North road, Wheatland, August 9, 1870, a son of the late Robert R. and Eliza Jane (Cox) Garbutt and a great-grandson of the founder of Garbutt. John Z. Garbutt had been a highly successful farmer in Wheatland and was greatly interested in agricultural affairs. He had long been a member and was past master of Genesee Grange of Scottsville. He was also interested in politics, having been identified with the Republican party since early manhood. He was a faithful member and a vestryman of Grace Episcopal church of Scottsville.

Always a kind husband and father and a warm-hearted friend, he will be greatly missed not only by a sorrowing family, but by a large circle of acquaintances.

Mr. Garbutt was married May 3, 1893, to Miss Eleanor Moon, of Scottsville. Besides his wife, he leaves three daughters, Elizabeth D., wife of Captain Kenneth S. Whitemore, of Newark, Del.; Margaret M., wife of Judson B. Glen; and Eleanor R., wife of Donald W. Gilbert, both of Rochester; a son Philip J. Garbutt; a brother, Roy C. Garbutt, of Caledonia; an aged uncle, Philip Garbutt, and six grandchildren.

Funeral services, largely attended were held from the home last Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock, Rev. Francis C. Woodard, of Grace Episcopal church officiating. Bearers, who were lifelong friends of Mr. Garbutt, were, William R. Weeks, William W. Wells, S. King Brown, Walter S. Cox, Edson Malloch and Wallace E. Vokes, all Wheatland farmers and fellow grange members. Burial was in the family lot in Garbutt cemetery.

Mrs. Dow Pays Tribute to Memory of Mrs. Warner

To the Editor.

Sir: It was with extreme sadness that I noted the passing of Mrs. J. B. Y. Warner, my associate and friend for many years.

She was a charter member of the Woman's Educational and Industrial Union, becoming a director in 1894, serving till 1924 as treasurer, for several years as vice-president, and frequently chairman of committees, especially along the social lines.

A great pleasure and privilege was mine to sit at the Round Table of the Union in those days of perhaps its greatest activities. Her poise, unflinching good nature, quiet sense of humor, perfect courtesy and friendly spirit made her a delightful co-worker.

As the years went by her activities lessened, but her interest never failed. Even as director emeritus she seldom failed a meeting of the Board to which she gave thirty years of beautiful service.

It was a pregnant time in her life, for during it, her children grew to maturity and to marriages. Grandchildren came to her. Great changes marked her environment and death made heavy inroads on her inner circle, but her courageous helpfulness never faltered. 'T were small wonder, however, that towards the end she asked release from active duties, which in the competent hands of her eldest daughter are still going on. She needs no finer eulogium than the useful lives the children of her home are living.

It was hard, indeed, to find a finer embodiment of the social graces which add to the perfection of life than typified Mrs. Warner. Her perfect breeding, the delight of her spoken word, her charming personality, her cultivated mind, her social experience in the highest northern and southern circles, her fine character, made her an ideal type of an American gentlewoman. An aristocrat to her finger tips, yet her sympathies were broad, because her heart was kind.

Bravely she met the vicissitudes of her life, quietly she met its trials; come weal or woe, she never lost the sustaining power of her perfect breeding, the grace of a nature rarely attuned to the deeper realities of life.

One recalls Horatio's "I saw your father once; he was a goodly king," and Hamlet's magnificent rejoinder, "He was a man." So in kindred words of the same high import and fine old-time meaning, Mrs. Warner was a lady.

"A lady, sir, is—as much as one should say—a lady."

His Epitaph

Someday some stranger's eye shall trace
My name upon my resting place,
If any care to lift a stone
Above the little bed I own,
And, having read, will go his way,
With neither good nor bad to say.

But, if no monument shall rise
To greet the gaze of idle eyes,
I need not fear I sleep forgot
If level be that little plot,
Nor hope to sleep unnoted when
I shall be judged by other men.

For man lives on, when he departs,
Not in cold stones but in warm hearts,
Not in the words in granite saved
But in the words himself engraved
Upon the memories of those
That now he meets and now he knows.

A monument is much too small
To ever quite record them all,
But nothing, whether good or ill,
Too small or great for record still
Upon the tablets of the mind,
The epitaph he leaves behind.

RAFFERTY—William Rafferty died Wednesday morning, Aug. 13, 1930, at his home, 68 Main Street, Scottsville, N. Y. He is survived by one niece, Miss Katherine Rafferty, and one nephew, William J. Rafferty.

Funeral Saturday morning at 8:30 o'clock from the home and at 9 o'clock Standard Time at St. Mary's Church, Scottsville, N. Y. Interment in the family lot in St. Mary's Cemetery, Scottsville.

WILLIAM RAFFERTY, PROMINENT CITIZEN, DIES

The death of William Rafferty, one of Scottsville's life-long and most prominent residents, occurred at his home in Main street, this village, early Wednesday morning, August 13, 1930 aged 87 years.

He was born in Scottsville, November 23, 1842, elder son of the late Patrick and Catherine (Barnes) Rafferty well known among the early settlers of this village.

Mr. Rafferty received his early education in Scottsville schools, later attending Genesee Wesleyan Seminary at Lima and the Christian Brotherhood School of Rochester. He also was graduated from a Rochester business college.

For many years he and his brother Thomas, who died October 12, 1912, were engaged in the wagon and carriage manufacturing business, an establishment in the main street of Scottsville with which the family had been identified for two generations.

For several years Mr. Rafferty occupied himself with his farming interests, later retiring from all participation in business, though ever retaining a keen and active interest in all that pertained to the welfare of his community.

He was identified with St. Mary's Church from its inception, recalling distinctly the spirit and work of those early Catholics who made it a possibility.

For many years, some time back, he was associated with Judge Selden S. Brown and the late Dr. William J. Howe as a member of the Board of Education of the Scottsville Union School. He was also an original stockholder of the Windom Hall Association and had been a long time member of the Scottsville Literary Society.

A subscriber of this paper from its first issue, Mr. Rafferty has always been a reader of its columns, never losing his interest until a few weeks before his death. A man of quick intellect, of sterling character, ever displaying in his business dealings the greatest integrity, he has given in his long life an example which few can emulate, and, in his death, Scottsville loses one of its most prominent pioneer type of citizens.

The general expression of his acquaintances is that no better citizen knew him but to love him, none named ever lived in Scottsville for

"None knew him but to love him, none named him but to praise."

Mr. Rafferty never married. He leaves his sister-in-law, Mrs. Ann Cassidy Rafferty, widow of the late Thomas Rafferty; a niece, Miss Katherine Rafferty; a grandniece, Frances Rafferty; a grandnephew, William Thomas Rafferty, all of Scottsville, and several cousins.

Funeral services were held Saturday morning from the home at 8:30 o'clock and at St. Mary's Church at 9:00 o'clock, where Solemn High Mass was celebrated by the rector, Rev. P. J. McArdle, with Rev. Andrew B. Meehan, D.D., deacon, and Rev. Michael Hynes, sub-deacon, both of St. Bernard's Seminary, Rochester, assisting.

The bearers were Walter Farrell of West Henrietta, William E. Kelly of Rochester and Edward Farrell, Eugene T. Swain, William T. and John H. Keyes of Scottsville.

Interment was made in the family lot in Holy Angels Cemetery, Scottsville, the service being read by Dr. Meehan.

CAMPBELL—Entered into his rest at his home at Mumford Wednesday morning, May 7, 1930, Alexander P. Campbell. He is survived by his wife, M. Augusta Campbell; a son, John A., and a daughter, Margaret L. Campbell; also by two brothers, James P. of Caledonia, and Dr. Duncan Campbell of Woodbury, N. J.; four sisters, Elizabeth, Christabel, Eva J. of Caledonia, and Mrs. Hugh Campbell of Livonia, and by six nephews and two nieces.

Funeral services from the late home Friday, May 9, at 2:30, and from the Mumford United Presbyterian Church at 3 o'clock. Interment in Mumford rural cemetery.

Entered into rest at his home in Mumford, Wednesday, May 7th, 1930, Alexander P. Campbell. Mr. Campbell suffered a stroke of paralysis on Saturday, from which he never regained consciousness. The passing of Alex Campbell brings deep sorrow to his family, as well as to this community where he was born, grew up and lived for years, also to Mumford, where his home has been for several years past.

He was next to the youngest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Peter P. Campbell and one of a family of sixteen children. Like all the members of his family he was interested in anything pertaining to the betterment of the community and church life. Fifty-four years ago he became a member of the First Presbyterian Church of this village, transferring his membership to the U. P. Church of Mumford when he went there to live; in both these churches holding offices and being deeply interested in their welfare.

He is survived by his wife, who was Miss M. Augusta Hannah, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John W. Hannah of Caledonia; one son, John, and one daughter, Margaret, all of Mumford, the latter a teacher in the Scottsville High School; two brothers, James P. of Caledonia; Dr. Duncan Campbell of Woodbury, N. J.; four sisters, Misses Elizabeth, Christabel and Evaline J. Campbell of Caledonia, and Mrs. Hugh Campbell of Livonia.

During the past year and a half death has several times visited the Campbell family, removing the Rev. John P. Campbell, D. D.; Mrs. James Annin and James Annin. Communities can ill afford to lose people of this type.

BURNS—Entered into rest at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Theodore Krenzer, Scottsville, N. Y., on Friday, Dec. 5, 1930, Katharine McDonald Burns, widow of Felix Burns. She is survived by four sons, Martin, Joseph and Frank of Scottsville and James of New York City; four daughters, Mrs. Thomas Kelley of Rochester, Mrs. Theodore Krenzer of Scottsville and Katharine C. and Mary A. Burns of New York City; one sister, Mary McDonald of San Francisco, Calif.; eighteen grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Katharine McDonald Burns, widow of Felix Burns of Chili, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Theodore Krenzer, in Quaker Road, one mile south of Scottsville, Friday, December 5, 1930, aged 85 years.

Academy of Medicine in Testimonial of Regard and Appreciation

The funeral of Dr. William H. S. Cadmus, Rochester physician, who died Wednesday, aged 47, will be conducted tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the home of his mother, Mrs. William H. Cadmus, of 473 Lake View Park, followed by burial in Mount Hope Cemetery.

Born in Auburn, Oct. 21, 1884, the son of William and Bell Shank Cadmus. Dr. Cadmus was graduated from Cayuga Union School in 1899, being valedictorian of his class, and in 1902 from Syracuse High School. After a year he entered Syracuse University, where he followed a combination academic and medical course. In 1907 he was graduated with the Bachelor of Philosophy degree from the Arts College, and in 1910 from the Medical College, with the degree Doctor of Medicine.

An internship in the Rochester General Hospital followed a period of special work in obstetrics in New York City.

Took Special Studies

Dr. Cadmus began his practise in Rochester Nov. 1, 1911, being engaged in general practise until 1925, when he returned to New York for several months of study.

Returning to Rochester, he specialized in obstetrics and gynecology, in which he was recognized as a high authority, in both operative and consultant work. He was chief of the obstetrical division of Highland Hospital and a consultant at the Rochester General Hospital.

"His grasp of conditions, his ability to overcome obstacles, his clear comprehension of any plan of work and his adaptability to make use of any opportunity to accomplish the work made him an invaluable official. His close attention to business, never sparing himself, had much to do with his early death. As evidence of the esteem in which he was held were the many letters and telegrams from people throughout the state expressing genuine sorrow at his death.

ALWAYS READY TO RELIEVE DISTRESS

Death of Dr. Menzie a Loss to Caledonia.

A PHYSICIAN OF NOTE

Death Follows Stroke of Paralysis.
Had Been Married Three Times.
Especially Successful in Surgical
Work — His Advice Often Asked

Caledonia, April 21.—Last night in his home in North street, this village, occurred the death of Dr. Robert J. Menzie, for many years a practicing physician in this village. About a year ago Dr. Menzie suffered a stroke of paralysis which confined him to his home and made him partially helpless. About a week ago he began to fail rapidly and it was apparent that the end was near.

DR. ROBERT J. MENZIE, of Caledonia.

Robert J. Menzie was born in Riga, Monroe county, May 21, 1833, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Menzie, being among the early Scotch settlers of this section of the state. His early years were spent on a farm in Riga. In 1856 he was married to Anna McPherson, of Le Roy, who died in 1863, leaving one son, Robert A. Menzie, now a resident of this village.

After the death of his wife, he determined to take up the study of medicine, and accordingly entered the University of Buffalo, from which he was graduated in the spring of 1866. In the fall of that year he came to Caledonia and opened an office in West Main street. During his vacations from college he was in the office of Dr. Townsend, of Bergen, one of the celebrated old time physicians and received there quite an experience in medicine and surgery.

His career in this town and the surrounding county was an eminently successful one and for the long years he was allowed to follow his profession he was attended with a large degree of success. In surgery which he loved with all the intensity of his strong nature, he was especially successful and proficient often being called to the most difficult cases by the prominent surgeons of Western New York. As a family physician, he was ideal, and won the love and esteem of a large clientage, serving many families through several generations. No weather was too inclement for Dr. Menzie to respond to the distress, and many times he even incurred personal danger in attending to the needs of his patients.

In 1867 he married Catharine Cameron, a member of a prominent family in this village. She died in 1907. January 22, 1912, he married Miss Frances Fletcher, also of this village, besides whom he leaves a son, Robert A. Menzie, three grandchildren, Robert J. Menzie, Katharine and Robert Don Menzie, children of the late Alexander E. Menzie, all of Caledonia; two sisters, Mrs. McKenzie and Mrs. Thomas McPherson, of Bergen. His funeral will be held from the home Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. James L. Jewell officiating. Interment will be in the Mumford Rural cemetery.

BYAM.—In this city, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. W. Eugene Powell, No. 251 Arnett boulevard, Sunday evening, August 20, 1916, Lucius W. Byam, M. D., aged 72 years, 8 months, 20 days. He leaves two daughters, Mrs. Almira G. Richards, of Toronto, Ont. and Mrs. Lucia J. Powell, of this city; one brother, D. M. Byam, of Elyria, O.; one sister, Mrs. Jennie Wilson, of Litchfield, O. —Prayer at the late home Wednesday afternoon, August 23d, at 1 o'clock. Funeral at U. P. Church, Mumford, N. Y., at 2:30 o'clock. Burial in the Mumford Rural cemetery.

He leaves two daughters, Mrs. Almira G. Richards, of Toronto, Ont., and Mrs. Lucia J. Powell, of Rochester; three grandsons, Carl and Kenneth Richards, and Lucius Powell; a brother, D. M. Byam, of Elyria, O., and a sister, Mrs. Jennie Wilson, of Litchfield, O. Prayer will be made at the late home Wednesday at 1 o'clock and the funeral will be held from the U. P. Church, Mumford, N. DR. LUCIUS W. BYAM.

Physician Who Died in Rochester
Had Practiced in Mumford.

Mumford, Aug. 21.—Dr. Lucius W. Byam, a physician and surgeon in the village of Mumford and vicinity for nearly forty years, died in the home of his daughter, Mrs. Lucia J. Powell, No. 251 Arnett boulevard, Rochester, on Sunday afternoon. Dr. Byam had not been in the best of health for several years but was around among his friends until two weeks previous to his death.

He was born in Warsaw January 1, 1844, and was left an orphan at 9 years of age. His early life was spent in teaching the schools in various neighborhoods around Moscow, Fowlerville and Wyoming. To obtain the means to secure a medical education at Buffalo University, from which institution he graduated in 1870, he "shot" oil wells, going from place to place in the oil regions of Ohio and Pennsylvania with the nitroglycerin. It was while in this work that he met Miss Augusta J. Brady, of Tidouette, Pa. to whom he was married in 1873, and who died about five years ago.

After he obtained his medical diploma, he practiced his profession in Wyoming, Genesee and Dansville, this state, at that time becoming a member of the Livingston County Medical Society, in which he always retained his membership. He came to Mumford in 1876, living in the house back of what was then Alex. F. McPherson's drug store, later moving to the "Smith house," now occupied by Simeon McDonald, then purchasing the house "under the hill," where he lived for over ten years, then going "up on the hill" to the "Harvey house," where he and his family lived for about twenty years, dispensing hospitality to the friends whom they made and ministering to the needs of the many for miles around.

Dr. Byam was always interested in movements for the betterment of the community and served several terms as trustee of the village school. For over thirty years he was Secretary of the Mumford Rural Cemetery Association, resigning that office on his removal from town, three years ago this month. His fellow members then honored him with the presidency, from which he resigned last June, feeling that one nearer could do better service.

During the existence of the Fortnightly Club in Caledonia Dr. Byam was a valued member. He was a member of the Knights of the Maccabees.

RETIRED SEA OFFICER DIES AT AGE OF 83

Rear Admiral Hanford, of Scottsville, Served 40
Years in Navy

7-8-1928
HELPED BLOCKADE SOUTH

Settled in 1903 on Farm
Near City; Possessed
Large Library

Rear Admiral Franklin Hanford, who in 1903 retired from the United States Navy with a distinguished record of nearly forty years of service, Wednesday night died at his home in Scottsville, aged 83 years. He had devoted the latter years of his life to the management of the farm on which he lived and to various cultural pursuits, the most conspicuous of which was the collection of rare books.

Admiral Hanford was born in Chili, on November 8, 1844, the son of William Haynes and Abbey Pixley Hanford. His grandfather had moved into Western New York from the country around Rome, and first touched the Genesee at the point in the lower river known as Hanford's Landing. Earlier members of the family had come from England in the Seventeenth Century, settling for a time in Norwalk, Conn.

Heart Attack Fatal

REAR-ADMIRAL
FRANKLIN HANFORD

Enters Annapolis in 1862

Educated in the Union School in Scottsville and the Rochester High School, Rear Admiral Hanford left the last named institution to accept an appointment to the United States Naval Academy in the fall of 1862.

Admiral Hanford remained in the academy for two weeks, when he was informed by the superintendent that he would have to resign, as he was over the age allowed for admission. The circular of application that had been sent to him at the time of his appointment stipulated that the age limit was 18, young Hanford's age. A new regulation had reduced the age limit to 17, but the circular stating this had never been received at the Hanford home.

Congressman Alfred Ely, who had sponsored his appointment, took young Hanford to the White House, where the case was presented to President Lincoln, who acted in the young man's favor. The memory of that meeting with the great war president was always cherished by Admiral Hanford.

Saw Service in Civil War

In the summers of 1863 and 1864 the class of which Admiral Hanford was a member was inducted into Civil war service, as a tour of instruction, and he saw some blockade duty. He was graduated from the Naval Academy in 1866, and from that time until his retirement he was constantly pursuing the duties of his service in all parts of the globe.

His first assignment was on the U. S. S. Saco. He joined the Kearsarge in 1868, and was promoted to the rank of ensign while he was aboard this ship. In 1871 he was transferred to the European station on the flagship Wabash.

He was promoted master and later lieutenant, and after three years of service in the European station, Lieutenant Hanford was successively on torpedo duty at Newport, R. I., on the receiving ship Vermont and on the U. S. S. Tennessee and Ashuelot in the Asiatic station. After his return from the East, he was three years on ordnance duty in the New York Navy Yard. His next assignment was on the Pensacola, as navigator, in which he circumnavigated the globe.

Last Served in Philippines

He was promoted to the rank of captain in 1891, and from that time to the day of his retirement, his duty was divided between land and sea. He was senior aid to the commandant of the New York Navy Yard between 1892 and 1895, commander of the U. S. S. Alert on the Pacific station, light house inspector on the Great Lakes, and he closed his naval career as commandant of the U. S. Naval Station at Cavite, Philippine Islands, from 1900 to 1902. He retired with the rank of rear admiral.

Possessed always with the sailor's hope of an ultimate return to a quiet and comfortable life on shore, Admiral Hanford acquired a farm in Scottsville a few years before his retirement from the navy. In Scottsville he married, on November 6, 1878, Sara A. Crosby, and two children were born of this union.

With his retirement in 1903, Admiral Hanford settled in his delightful Scottsville home, and gave himself to the pursuit of farming.

Collector of Rare Books

He loved books with the passion of a real scholar, and the collection that he had begun, when a young man stationed in the Brooklyn navy yards, grew with the years until it attained the magnitude of 8,000 volumes. He was particularly interested in Americana, and his imprints of Rochester life are highly valued by collectors. He collected during the years that he lived in Scottsville many first editions, beginning this pursuit long before such collections had become the vogue.

Admiral Hanford leaves two children, Miss Ruth Crosby Hanford, of Scottsville, and Dr. John Munn Hanford, of New York city; a brother, Charles Lewis Hanford, of Indianapolis; and four sisters, Mrs. William O. Curtiss, of Olean; Miss Fannie and Miss Nannie Hanford, of Scottsville, and Mrs. Hugh M. Smith, of Washington, D. C., and four grandchildren.

Admiral Hanford was an honorary member of the University Club of this city; an honorary member of the Rochester Historical Society, and a member of the Lewis H. Morgan Chapter of the Archaeological Society.

Rear-Admiral Hanford

A long life of honor and usefulness ended with the passing of Rear-Admiral Franklin Hanford at his home in Scottsville. His family was among the earliest to come to what is now our county and gave the name to Hanford's Landing on the lower Genesee. Born in Chili township, appointed to Annapolis from this Congressional district, and coming back here after distinguished services in wars and many waters, to pass his closing years in peace, he was thus a notable product of our county which always regarded him with esteem and pride.

Since his retirement, cultural interests, the oversight of his pleasant farm and his books, of which he had a choice collection, have engaged his thought; and he has been an honorary member of learned societies in our city—historical, archaeological, and others. Forty years of service throughout the globe and twenty years of quietude in which to ripen his collections fulfilled a life as ideally, perhaps, as he could have wished, or as any of us, however favored, can expect.

Curtiss of Corning, N. Y., and Mrs. Hugh M. Smith of Washington, D. C.; one brother, Charles Lewis Hanford of Indianapolis, Ind.; seven nieces and nephews and seven grandnieces and grandnephews.

'Distinct Loss to State,' Governor Smith Says of Dr. Howard's Death

Albany, Aug. 24.—(Special)—Governor Smith to-day sent the following message to the president of the Board of Managers of the Rochester State Hospital.

"It is with great regret that to-day I learned of the death of Dr. E. H. Howard, who for so many years was medical superintendent at the Rochester State Hospital. Because of the great service which Dr. Howard rendered to the State of New York I cannot but feel that in his death the state has suffered a distinct loss.

Governor"

DR. EUGENE H. HOWARD

DR. HOWARD HEAD OF STATE HOSPITAL, DIES

Pneumonia Following Auto
Crash Fatal to Widely Known Physician

PIONEER IN FIELD

Began Out-Patient System
Notably Successful; Had Worked with U. of R.

Dr. Eugene H. Howard, noted psychopathist, aged 70 years, who for forty-two years had been superintendent of the Rochester State Hospital, died at his home early yesterday of pneumonia contracted as the result of an automobile accident at University avenue and Windsor street last Friday, in which three of his ribs were fractured. He was driving alone.

Dr. Howard, who was the oldest active physician in Rochester, and the oldest graduate of the University of Buffalo in practice, appeared to be recovering from the effects of the accident when pneumonia developed, and despite his advanced age he made a brave fight for life before he succumbed. He was the oldest superintendent of a state hospital, both in point of service and years.

less, yet suffering from mental disorders, were cared for in their homes by their families and friends, under the personal supervision of the medical staff of the State Hospital. Much of the routine was worked out by Howard, in conjunction with Dr. J. van de Mark, senior medical officer, who on July 1st resigned to become inspector for the State Hygiene department.

Under Dr. Howard's plan hundreds of thousands of dollars was saved the state in building costs and in administration and maintenance charges. The patients were cared for by families and received the same medical attention which they would have had in the hospital. The system worked to great advantage, and many cures were made. As a consequence of the establishment of the out-patient department in Rochester, similar departments were established in the score of state hospitals in the state, and the savings mounted to thousands of dollars. This was looked on as one of the outstanding achievements in his long psychopathological career of Howard.

FORMER NEGRO SLAVE EXPIRES IN 107TH YEAR

Mrs. Harriet Thompson Spent
Third of Life as Slave on Virginia Plantation

Mrs. Harriet Thompson, who spent a third of a long life in Negro slavery in Virginia, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George Mines, of No. 13 Alvin place, on Saturday evening. Although her exact age is unknown, Mrs. Thompson and her relatives believed she was at least 106 years old. Up to the time of her death she is said to have been active and to have delighted in talking over recollections of her interesting life with descendants to whom the events she related are nothing more than far distant history.

Mrs. Thompson was born near Culpeper, Virginia, a slave on a large plantation. There she remained until freedom came through the Civil War. Her twelve brothers and sisters were slaves on the same plantation. Their master was kind and Mrs. Thompson in recent years is said never to have tired in singing his praises. She recalled no severe floggings on his plantation, and her own family had few hardships, although other families suffered one of the most bitter features of the slave system, separation of loved ones by sale. Of her brothers and sisters who were also slaves, two are still alive, a sister, Mrs. Charles Wallace, of Virginia, and a brother, Bruce Pery, who a few years ago moved to Rochester. Both are said to be about 90 years old.

Mrs. Thompson married Benjamin Franklin Thompson, a fellow slave, when both were very young. After the Civil War, they moved north and settled in Scottsville, where they made their home for more than a half century. For many years they were members of the Presbyterian Church in Scottsville. About eleven years ago Mrs. Thompson moved to Rochester, making the fourth generation of the family living here.

Mrs. Thompson leaves one daughter, Mrs. George Mines; one son, Benjamin Thompson; eight grandchildren and six great grandchildren of Rochester, and a large number of other relatives in Scottsville and Le Roy.

When the meeting house was abandoned, he transferred his religious interests to the "First Presbyterian Society in the Town of Wheatland," now since 1922, the "Union Presbyterian Church of Scottsville," becoming a member October 4, 1878. Throughout his long life Mr. Estes was a devoted member of the Presbyterian churches in Scottsville, Batavia and Bergen, serving as a ruling elder for over forty years in these three churches.

Of a gentle, loving disposition, Mr. Estes was a friend to all, never sparing himself when he could minister to anyone in sickness or distress; kind and helpful as a neighbor, loyal and true as a friend, loving as a husband and father.

On October 25, 1906, he was married to Miss Hattie E. Hahn of Scottsville, who for nearly 25 years has shared his joys and sorrows and tenderly ministered to him during the many weeks of his last illness.

Besides his wife, he leaves to mourn his loss two sons, Louis Estes of Scottsville and Raymond T. Estes of Batavia; three daughters, Mrs. LeRoy Morgan Slocum Jr. of Scottsville, Mrs. Clara B. E. Carpenter of Rochester, Mrs. Stanley Brew of Bergen, and sixteen grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at his late home in Chili, Saturday afternoon, April 4th, at 2 o'clock. Rev. Russell B. Henry, pastor of the Scottsville Presbyterian church, conducted a simple and very impressive service. Burial was made in Oatka Cemetery, Scottsville.

The bearers were LeRoy M. Slocum, Jr., G. Clifford and Ernest F. of Scottsville, Stanley Brew of Bergen, George Stevens of LeRoy and Donald Stevens of Stone Church.

FALGOUTSE—John Falgoutse, died

80 Years Old and 48 Years Wedded, Physician 50 Years

Ex-Mayor of Geneseo Celebrates Double Anniversary

Geneseo, March 19—Dr. Walter E. Lauderdale, president of the Livingston County Health Service and former mayor of Geneseo, was 80 years old today. It was also the 48th anniversary of his wedding.

Dr. Lauderdale has been practicing medicine in this county for more than 50 years and is one of the well known physicians in this section of the State. His period of service in his profession matches that of his father, who was one of the pioneer medical men of this county whose practise covered a span of half a century.

Dr. Lauderdale was born in Geneseo, and except for the period spent in Columbia University while studying medicine, and his post-graduate practise in city hospitals, he has always resided here. He is today as active as ever, both in his practise and in his membership in medical organizations.

In a community which is predominantly Republican, Dr. Lauderdale has been continuously a Democrat in politics and has been his party's candidate for various local offices. He was elected both trustee and president of the village for several terms. He is a member of the Board of Trustees of the Geneseo Normal School, of the Central Presbyterian Church, and is a director of the Genesee Valley National Bank.

He has been especially active in public health work and has been the head of the anti-tuberculosis organization of the county since its organization several years ago. During the past few years has been a member of the Board of Directors of the county laboratory and a leader in the movement to establish a Summer camp for under-privileged children.

DR. W. E. LAUDERDALE

On March 19, 1884, he was married to Miss Eliza J. Youngs. They have two children, Walter E. Lauderdale of Geneva and Helen Lauderdale of Geneva.

SEVENTY YEARS YOUNG

Twenty years ago or thereabout men of more than forty years were disquieted by the statement of Dr. William Osler that at forty years a man begins to fail and that he ought to be chloroformed at sixty.

When he made this assertion, which was doubtless a chance remark and widely misinterpreted, Dr. Osler was on his way to be made Regius professor of medicine at Oxford University. He has recently died at seventy, having been made Sir William Osler by his grateful government.

Dr. Osler was a distinguished man at forty. He was a far more distinguished man at fifty. In fact, for thirty years after the time at which he declared a man's powers should be at their zenith he continued to become greater and more useful to mankind.

The interpretations of Dr. Osler's remarks did considerable mischief in their time. They brought discouragement to many men and probably actually put others on the down grade. But he did his best to refute them in his lifetime. He was still a great and useful man at seventy.

Emerson truly said, "We do not count a man's years until he has nothing else to count." Oliver Wendell Holmes, on the occasion of the seventieth birthday of Julia Ward Howe, said, "To be seventy years young is sometimes far more cheerful and hopeful than to be forty years old."

EMMA MILLER, SUFFRAGIST, DIES, AGED 86

Was Susan B. Anthony's
Close Friend; Had Traveled Much.

WAS CHURCH WORKER

Prominent in Scottsville
Presbyterian Activity

Until Near Death.
June 16-1926

Mrs. Emma Halbert Miller, for many years a well known woman suffragist and a close friend of Susan B. Anthony, died Wednesday evening at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William Carver, in Chili, aged 86 years.

Born in Perry, Wyoming county, January 28, 1840, the eldest daughter of the late Harrison and Harriet E. Tillotson Halbert, of Grand Ledge, Mich., Mrs. Miller attended the district schools of Pavilion, Gainesville Seminary and Ingham University at Le Roy. Later, when she was a young woman, the family moved to Pavilion, then to Le Roy and in 1859 to Grand Rapids, Mich. Here she became a member of St. Mark's Episcopal Church where she first took up the work that later brought her prominence. On January 16, 1862, she was married to Myron Miller, a prominent business man of Scottsville. Shortly after her marriage she came to Scottsville to live in the ancestral home, where she continued to reside for more than sixty years. Mr. Miller died in 1890.

At Scottsville Mrs. Miller became a member of the Presbyterian Church, of which she had always been an active worker and a liberal supporter. She was its oldest member. In 1897, in memory of her husband, she gave the church one of its first windows. Mr. Miller was for many years a ruling elder and treasurer of that church.

Later, when she became a staunch supporter of woman suffrage and was in close association with Susan B. Anthony, she attended national conventions in Washington, New Orleans, Los Angeles, and other cities. She was a member of the Chili Society and in 1908 was elected president of the Monroe County Political Equality Club. She also was a member of the Scottsville Literary Society, which she joined with her husband in 1872; a charter member of the Ganeodiya Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, of Caledonia, of which she was the oldest member.

In 1902, in company with her sister, Mrs. Miller toured the western states. In the summer of 1905, with her son, she made a four months' tour of Italy, Switzerland, Germany, Holland, Belgium, France, England and Ireland. Again, in the spring of 1907, with the Rev. Ray Allen party, she made a three months' tour of the Holy Land, Egypt and Greece. Two years later she visited Holland, Denmark, Norway, Sweden and Russia.

She had been very active up to a month ago, when, while on a visit to Rochester, she contracted a heavy cold which resulted in her death. Through her personality, she made a host of friends in this section of the state.

She leaves a son, Elbert H. T. Miller, editor of the Scottsville section of the Caledonia Advertiser-Era; her daughter, Mrs. Carver; two grandsons, Myron M. and Elbert H. Carver, of Rochester; two great-grandsons, Myron and Harlow J. Carver, also of this city, and four sisters, Mrs. Harriet E. White, of Grand Rapids, Mich.; Mrs. Marie H. Jones and Mrs. Alice E. Streeter, of St. Johns, Mich., and Mrs. William I. McMaster, of Security, Texas.

Funeral services will take place Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, standard time, at the home of her daughter, and at 2:30 o'clock at Scottsville Presbyterian Church. The services will be conducted by Rev. Wilbur A. Wagar, pastor of the church, and Rev. G. B. F. Hallock, assistant minister of Brick Presbyterian Church, Rochester. Interment will be made in Oatka cemetery, Scottsville.

MRS. ETTA MILLER, SCOTTVILLE, DIES

Descendant of Pioneers
Was 82 Years Old

Scottsville, March 9. — Mrs. Etta Fraser Miller, wife of Romanta Tillotson Miller, died suddenly at her home, "Fraser Farm," three miles south of Scottsville, early Saturday morning, March 5, aged 82 years. She had been in failing health for some time.

Etta Jeannette Fraser was born in Wheatland, March 25, 1845, only daughter of the late James and Henrietta (Smith) Fraser. She was a great-granddaughter of John Christie, one of the first Scotch settlers, who settled on the creek road in this town in 1796. Her grandfather, William Fraser, came from Inverness, Scotland, to this country in 1804, and both she and her father were born on the "Fraser Farm," where most of her life was lived.

At Scottsville, in the house now owned by R. L. Becker, she was married on April 23, 1866, to Mr. Miller. They lived in Scottsville until 1870, when they removed to the farm, where soon they would have celebrated the 61st anniversary of their marriage.

Few people perhaps know that it was due entirely to her thought of the young people that the Scottsville Free Library was established. It has steadily grown in usefulness under her fostering care. The education of the less privileged young people has always been close to her heart. The Etta Fraser Miller Loan Funds at Oberlin and Berea colleges and the University of Rochester, given in her honor, have afforded her keen satisfaction. Her charities were unassuming, but many, and her friends will feel her loss deeply.

Besides her husband, she leaves to mourn her loss three sons, Romanta T. Miller, Jr., president of "The American School," and Oliver C. Miller, of Chicago, and the Rev. Royal R. Miller, of Paris, France; four daughters, Laura Miller, of Lake City, Fla.; Sophia Miller, of Scottsville; E. Jeannette Miller, of Yonkers; Ruth T. Miller, of Jamaica, L. I., and three grandsons, of Chicago.

The first break in the family came two years ago, in the death of the second son, James Fraser Miller, of Valley Ranch, New Mexico.

Marlowe, Maxwell A. Estes, William R. Weeks, Walter S. Cox, Thomas S. Stokoe and William Carver. Interment was made in the family lot in Oatka cemetery, Scottsville.

BRIEF ILLNESS PROVES FATAL TO DR. CHAFFE

1931
Was County Bacteriologist
Twenty Years; Private
Funeral Tomorrow

Dr. Christopher F. Chaffe died yesterday morning at his home, 326 Park Avenue, after a brief illness. Private funeral services will be conducted tomorrow.

He was born in New Orleans, La., Nov. 23, 1881. After attending the University of Virginia for two years he entered the University of Louisiana, from which he was graduated. He was graduated in medicine from Tulane University, La.

Dr. Chaffe came to Rochester in 1907, the year of his marriage to Miss Mollie Baker of Gloversville. For twenty years he was Monroe County bacteriologist. He was a member of the Monroe County Medical Society and Sigma Alpha Epsilon, a medical college fraternity.

He leaves his wife, a daughter, Julie Chaffe, and a brother, Fred Chaffe.

MRS. JOHN W. GARBUTT.

Mrs. John W. Garbutt who recently died in Garbutt was connected by birth and marriage to the oldest pioneer families of Wheatland. She was a daughter of Oliver Perry Blackmer and Lydia Harmon Blackmer. The Blackmers were of good old Yankee stock, tracing their ancestry among other lines back to Peregrine White, the first child born to the Mayflower Pilgrims in America.

Joseph Blackmer, Esq., grandfather of Mrs. Garbutt, and the founder of the family in Monroe county was born in Kent, Connecticut. He migrated to New Marlboro, Berkshire County, Mass., thence to New York State, stopping for some few years in Westmoreland, Oneida County. He left Massachusetts in 1787—in 1808 he purchased a large tract of land in what is now Belcoda and on it he resided until his death forty years later. That was three years before Deacon Ransom Harmon, whose daughter married Mr. Blackmer's son, came to Wheatland, also from New Marlboro.

"Squire Blackmer," as he was always known, gave the land for the school house, for the Baptist church, and for the cemetery in Belcoda—the first grave to be dug in this sacred God's acre, was for his baby girl, Sarah Ann, who yielded up her short six weeks of life in July 1811; he was a man of probity, of sterling character, and public spirit, yet strange to say, even in that intensely religious age, and living almost under the eaves of the sanctuary, he never made a personal profession of religion till by reason of strength he was nearly eighty years of age. Many years ago, perhaps as early as 1847 there was a great religious awakening in Wheatland, though it was in the summer season, the busiest season in a rural community, largely attended rural meetings were held afternoon and evening for several weeks. One evening the old "Squire" was sitting down in front. At the close of the meeting he rose in request for prayers—then a moment of tense suspense, when one of the ministers, a young man, bearing a name later to be one of the most honored in the Baptist denomination stepped quickly down from the pulpit and falling on his knees at the old man's feet, he poured forth such a prayer as no one present had ever before listened to, it was so full of pathos, love, entreaty, and eloquence—it went home to the heart which for well nigh four score years had resisted all entreaty. No one present that memorable night ever forgot that scene and that wonderful prayer—it was the most dramatic incident ever associated with the historic old church, now alas, only a memory.

Mrs. Garbutt's mother was a daughter of Deacon Ransom Harmon, and a woman of rarely lovable character. Through all the vicissitudes of a life which held much of trial and sorrow, no one ever heard her utter a captious or unkind word, nor an unfriendly criticism. Her youngest son Elon joined his cousin, Judge Luke Blackmer, in Salisbury, North Carolina, where he became later an officer in the Confederate army. Mrs. Blackmer enjoyed the loving devotion of all her children, from none more than from Mrs. Garbutt.

Nearly all of Mrs. Garbutt's more than half a century of married life was passed in the fine old mansion erected many years ago by Phillip Garbutt, Esq., her husband's father, when he was in the heyday of a business career which marked him as one of the wealthiest and most progressive men in the Genesee Valley. She was a bright woman with a ready wit and keen sense of humor, a devoted wife and mother, she gave her life to her home, her family, with the most unselfish, and self sacrificing devotion. She never lost her interest and love for kindred and friend but she passed her days quietly in the home, giving most unstinted love and service to the inner circle, to the husband and children so dear to her heart. Her passing is an irreparable loss to those she held so dear, who looked to her for effective cheer, and all manner of kind, loving service which never failed them. There in the home was the alabaster box broken—the odor of the ointment filling the house. * *

Pioneer Scottsville Physician Disproves Popular Conception Of Country Medical Practise

Dr. William Howe Has Stayed in Spite of General Exodus of Small-Town Physicians to City—Says Reason Most of Them Leave Is Because They Do Not Want Hard Work.

A few days ago came word of a physician who was about to celebrate his 50th anniversary in the profession. The 50 years, moreover, had been spent in country practise. Visions of a story flitted through the reporter's head—the regulation, "human-interest" story, of "the country doctor," worn out by years of drudging toil, full of reminiscences of the old days, white-haired, bent, looking forward to remaining years of well-earned peace and ease. With "the story" thus partially evolved, the reporter essayed forth to find the "hero," Dr. William T. Howe of Scottsville. And finding him, sustained the shock of a lifetime. The "story" went, perforce, into the discard. For nothing less like the expected "old country doctor" could be imagined than Dr. Howe, erect, alert, not perceptibly grayed, and talking of the present and future, rather than of the past! The only facts left were that Dr. Howe does, tomorrow, observe his seventy-first birthday and his fiftieth anniversary as a physician.

Dr. Howe was graduated from the University of Buffalo Medical College on his twenty-first birthday. Before his graduation he was resident physician at the Buffalo Dispensary, and he retained that position after leaving school. But "brick walls were too much for him." He failed in health, and spent several months in idleness. In July he came to Scottsville, not caring much what he did, but certainly not intending to spend his life in that community. But he did stay, on and on, and there is abundant testimony that all Scottsville rejoices that the outcome was what it was. Probably few men have had so profound an influence upon a community.

When Dr. Howe came, Scottsville had three other physicians, and other communities had resident physicians. Now, Scottsville has only one other doctor, and most of the neighboring communities have none. Dr. Howe's daily routine involves trips of many miles throughout a wide territory. Many communities are several miles from a doctor, and there seems a real basis for the query often heard, "What should we do without him?"

The general exodus of country doctors began about 10 years ago, according to Dr. Howe, and "since that time young men will not go into the country."

"The reasons? Well, they don't want the hard work; they prefer to live in the city,—and they all want to be specialists. But, when it comes to that, the country doctor has to be a 'specialist in all specialties.'" He smiled. A few years ago, discussing a case with some city medical men, I was asked what help I had. The reply, of course, was, "None." For we were 10 miles out in the country and it was in the middle of the night. But it is that sort of thing that makes a self-possessed physician of the country doctor. He must meet all sorts of emergencies, and he has to depend upon himself. And most of the leading city practitioners were country physicians at one time."

February 24, 1923

"Should you advise a young man to take up the practise of medicine?"

"I shouldn't advise a young person to take up anything. My only advice would be to find the thing that he or she wants to do, and then to do it, without regard to pay—the money will come if one's heart is in the work. But to a young physician, I'd advise a preliminary five years in general country practise. Then he could go into the city. That's what I should have done, I guess." He shrugged his shoulders. "Why? Well, it would have meant a fuller life, professionally. The country doctor misses the association with other physicians. No, it probably couldn't have been as full in human contacts."

A country doctor gets in close touch with the people. I've treated five generations of some families, and there is a very great satisfaction in that sort of thing."

There are the facts about the meagre equipment and lack of scientific knowledge of the early days. The whole university, for instance, boasted only two laboratories, and those were for the use of the staff. And, "there were no germs at that time." The germ theory was evolved five years after Dr. Howe began to practise, and it explained many things that he hadn't understood before. But the doctor prefers to talk about the latest equipment for, say, nose-and-throat work, or the use of psychology,— "which we have only just begun to get into." Many times, he declares, the illness is psychical, rather than physical, and must be treated accordingly.

There are also stories of the times when going to Rochester meant a drive of an hour and a half, or at best, a long drive to the nearest station. Now, however, he tells of an emergency drive, "making" the General Hospital in 14 minutes. His average time from Scottsville is 20 minutes, under the "auspices" of "Jack" Kahaher, his driver for 14 years, who has left him only for two years of whom he says, "he looks after me as if I were a baby." And Jack who has left him only for two years of the army, says, "He treats me like one of his own."

That, after all, is typical of the whole situation. Dr. Howe, all these years, has dealt with the community as if the individual members were "his own." And the community, in turn, exhibits toward him a sense of pride and possession that is as rare as it is beautiful.

Housing Plan Looks Futile To a Farmer

A Farmer Looks at Housing

Editor, Democrat and Chronicle:

Many interesting articles have appeared in your paper to the Editor, coming from small villages and towns, Sodus, Williamson, Webster, Rushville and Cold Water.

One is on government housing, another on education, automobiles, and welfare. The government housing plan to build houses to rent for $16 per month, it seems will be new houses to take the place of our old rebuilt houses having six and seven rooms, with from one half to an acre of land renting to people on welfare for $13 and $14 per month.

Many of us in these small villages rebuilt these houses expecting to have some income in our old age. What is the result? Higher taxes and very little income.

The same situation exists among the farmers who have toiled a lifetime to pay for their farm. Today they cannot work and must rent it for about enough to pay the taxes.

These conditions exist while the roads are full Sundays with new automobiles, nearly everyone on welfare has one and is burning up gas going elsewhere than to their work.

The truth of the matter is, us old-timers who have houses and farms to rent must be satisfied and not grumble it will do no good. The government is taking care of everyone who never saved to have a home and never will try, this seems to be the attitude of too many in this generation.

COUNTRY HOME OF M'PHERSON FAMILY SOLD

Blinkbonny, the country estate of the descendants of Finley McPherson who settled in the small hamlet of Beulah, Town of Wheatland, near Mumford, in the year 1809, was sold this week by E. J. Corp of the Lum Real Estate Company.

Historic interest and tradition center about the little frame church with its spire, and the red schoolhouse at Beulah, originally the hunting ground of the Mohawks and Senecas, where the first Scottish settlers in about 1800 bought farms and built their log cabins.

Blinkbonny, the home of John McPherson (son of Finley McPherson) who died in 1892, has been maintained as a Summer home by his heirs. It has been occupied by his two daughters, Mrs. N. W. Campbell of Chicago, who died last year, and Mrs. C. S. Holt, also of Chicago. There were three other heirs, Dr. Simon J. McPherson, a noted minister, who for years was identified with the Second Presbyterian Church of Chicago; Dr. Donald F. McPherson of Buffalo, and Mrs. Marian Harmon of Mumford.

The estate consists of 50 acres with a large Colonial house. The grounds are attractive, with large shade trees and sunken gardens. A branch of Oatka Creek runs through the property.

TRIBUTE TO THE MEMORY OF DR. WILLIAM J. HOWE

The village doctor! What nobler or more useful career could one desire? On call at all hours of the day and night, he is ready to go to the home of the needy with the same spirit of love and devotion as to the luxurious abode of the rich.

Is it an acute attack, which will yield only to the knife, the doctor becomes the surgeon and operates quickly and skillfully.

After a hard day's work, driving many miles in blinding snow and cold, he comes home to spend the evening in attending to office calls, retires late, only perhaps to be called up in the wee hours of the morning, facing a drive of several miles into the country. Does he hesitate?—No, dressing quickly, he goes out and harnesses his horse — this long before the days of automobiles and chauffeurs—and drives into the inky blackness of the night, guided only by the dim rays of a lantern and the instincts of his trusty horse. But what cheer and comfort does he not bring to the bedside of the sick one?

Has he a patient who is nervous and depressed? With no thought of time—the chief factor in the perfunctory visit of the modern physician, he sits and smokes, chatting with the patient, and with a fund of wit and humor, soon has him sparring back, forgetting all his troubles.

Is there a child expected in the home—with interest second only to that of the parents he is there to await its advent, inspiring courage and confidence.

Is the angel of death hovering over the household, and despite the skill of the doctor and the careful nursing the loved one is slipping away into the Great Beyond, what comfort in the personal sympathy of the friend, as well as physician, who with cheery smile and heartening voice helps to lighten the burden.

A mother is ill with appendicitis and there is grave danger of an operation. With untiring efforts he avoids it. The crisis is approaching—he makes an evening call and, leaving directions for the night, he goes home. With an anxiety equal almost to that of the family, he feels he must see that everything is all right before retiring, shortly after midnight, walks down the street, silently enters the sickroom to find the patient sleeping restfully, with lowered temperature and every indication of improvement. With a reassuring word to those watching by the bedside, he goes back to his own bed satisfied. But what a comfort was that midnight visit to the family praying for a life that hung in the balance.

Thus, day in and day out, with scarcely a break, and after fifty-three years in the service of his fellow man, yet withal finding time to take a keen interest, lend a helping hand and wise counsel, in the civic and social affairs of the community, he passes on loved and mourned by countless hundreds of people in all walks of life to whom he had ministered, many of whom are no longer in the home town but who recall with grateful hearts his many acts of kindness.

May his reward be exceedingly great!

Berckwirth.
