BASKETBALL SOUVENIR

SEASON 1911 - 1912

PUBLISHED BY
THE STUDENTS

INTRODUCTION

IN publishing this souvenir it has been the aim of the committee to issue a booklet that would not only be of interest to every student in the school, but one that would be attractive and durable as well, one that would be a suitable memento for the basketball team of 1911-12; and one to which in after years the pupil may turn and recall memories of the team that so ably upheld the honor of East High School.

The committee has done its best. How successful it has been remains for the school to decide.

ALBERT D. PERRY, June, 1912

HOWARD W. MINCHIN, June, 1913

HYMAN KOLKO, January, 1913 - - - Assistant

THE committee, as well as the whole school, feels that this publication would be incomplete without expressing thanks to one who has taken a great interest in high school interests in general and the 1911-12 Basketball Team in particular. In Donald T. Fraser of the Democrat and Chronicle the school has found a man who is ever ready to interest himself in all that tends to increase the honor and prestige of the school. His friends on the committee and in the school appreciate his work and feel their indebtedness to him in helping make this publication a success.

In Mr. Wilcox the East High athletic teams have found a firm friend and ardent supporter, and the committee has taken this opportunity to express the thanks of the school.

ALMA MATER

Sweet be thy memory,
High School of ours;
Fair be thy destiny,
Fadeless thy flowers;
Hearts that have loved thee
Have won in life's fight,
Names that we honor
Thy standard holds bright.

Our Alma Mater dear,
To thee we sing;
May all thy future years
New honors bring;
May friends thy banners raise,
Thy foes grow less;
All love and praise
To our old E. H. S.

EAST HIGH BASKETBALL TEAM

EAST HIGH'S SEASON, 1911-1912

By DONALD T. FRASER

DONALD T. FRASER
Of the Democrat and Chronicle

East High School's pride in the team that represents it on the court this winter is justified, not so much by figures as by the fact that a combination able to hold its own with fives that other institutions have produced from seasoned material, has been formed around a one-man nucleus. The record of the team falls short of the achievements of quintettes of recent years in points scored and number of games won, but a repetition of such successes as of 1910-11, involving sixteen consecutive victories, was not to be expected. Development stands out above every other feature of the season's work.

Individual proficiency is an asset in every sport; one must be capable if he is to attract the notice of the person in whose hands lies the power of choice and rejection. Basketball, however, is no exception to the rule that stars must not shine alone. The record of the Purple and White is evidence that in developing speed, ability to take advantage of an opponent's weaknesses, well-timed passing and the many other factors that make for success on the court, the players have not lost sight of the fact that when there is to be "shining," five must shine.

Teal Cox, ante-season coach, faced a more difficult proposition than others to whom the duty of whipping a squad into a fighting unit has been assigned. Davis Doron may be said to have been the only candidate of experience, since the knowledge of the game possessed by most of the others was confined to class contests and included none of the finer points of basketball. Youth and lack of weight were other handicaps presented by the fall squad of 1911.

Pessimism might have been excused in Coach Cox, Physical Director James H. Fowle and Captain Doron themselves early in the season. That the handicaps were overcome is a compliment to those in authority, but not one in which they will take the satisfaction to be derived from knowledge that they have made great things possible for 1912-13. It is doubtful if another high school has so bright an outlook.

The weakness of the East High School basketball team of 1911-12 has been its inability to accustom itself to surroundings away from home. Its defeats, however, at home and abroad, have been by small margins. Lafayette High School, twice conqueror, will use the trailing of the Purple and White in its claim to interscholastic championship honors. It's a privilege that Rochester may extend ungrudgingly to Buffalo, for how often have conditions been reversed?

The strength of the team has not been shown to better advantage than in the Syracuse Freshman game, won by East High by a score of 24 to 21. The tide has gone one way and another. Several blots mark the record sheet; in fact the quintette isn't even a newspaper champion, but its members have given the best that is in them to a clean amateur sport and their record is one that may give to others some of the satisfaction that is felt by the students of East High School.

FRED REMINGTON
Manager

Manager Remington, although small in stature, has conducted the affairs of the basketball team in a manner becoming a much larger person. He arranged an excellent schedule and will no doubt have a considerable sum to turn into the school treasury. "Freddy" has indeed been a very busy man during the past season and will deserve any honor accorded him.

CAPTAIN DAVIS DORON
Right Guard

"Dave" was the nucleus around which a five has been built which ranks with the best of them this season. He is a hard worker and a capable leader and a basketball player of exceptional ability. The visiting forwards have always found "Cap" a stumbling block owing to his ability to stick. In spite of the fact that he plays a guard, he generally finds time in every game to slip down the floor and register a few field baskets.

WALTER ATTRIDGE

Left Forward

"Walt" has alternated at center and forward in most of the games. His weight gives him a big advantage over his opponents and he has been a big factor in the team's passwork. He has a deadly aim and is generally sure of a basket when he gets within shooting distance of the ring.

WARREN GIBBS

Right Forward

"Gibbie" has done the bulk of the scoring this season. He is a hard man to cover as his opponents have found out and in some games he has tallied as many as nine field goals. He is also clever in dropping them in from the foul line, a large number of East High's victories having resulted from his ability in this respect.

Gibbs will be in school next year and should prove a nucleus for a strong team.

EZRA HALE
Left Guard

Ezra proved to be the find of the season. With practically no experience except that obtained in inter-class and study room games he has developed into a guard of first water. Although light he is very fast and covers his man in fine shape. The times he has been scored on are few and the fact that East High's opponents have been held to small scores in nearly every game may be attributed to Hale's ability.

GEORGE AYLESWORTH
Center

Although this is George's first year on the team, he has acquitted himself well. His height gives him the advantage and it is seldom that the opposing team gets the tip-off. He is also good on the long shots and is a dangerous man to be left uncovered.

CHARLES MAGGIO
Substitute Forward

It was not until the season was nearly over that Maggio broke into the first team's lineup. It was in the Mechanics game that he first showed the ability which landed him on the first squad. He is a brilliant passer and quick to get down the floor.

CLARENCE DE MAY
Substitute Guard

De May, like Maggio, did not break into the ranks of the first squad until near the close of the season. In the few games he was in he demonstrated his ability and will prove no doubt a strong addition to next year's five.

GARDNER "SHRIMP" PALMER

Every team, battleship and club, has a certain necessary personage—a mascot. The team seems uncomplete without one. As a biliken for the East High Basketball Team 1911-12, "Shrimp" has acquitted himself well. He has been "the main squeeze" at many of the games and is a favorite of the feminine sex.

THE TEAM AT NIAGARA FALLS
Ice Bridge in Background

WALTER SCHIEBEL
Cheer Leader

An important factor in stemming the tide of defeat and giving praise in time of victory in athletic contests is the spirit manifested by the spectators. In high school athletics, cheering is a very important factor. "Walt" Schiebel the cheer leader of the school was always on the scene of the battle in all high school games, and it was the encouraging yells from the "side lines" that kept the spirit of the team always in prime. "Walt" deserves credit for his ability in arousing the spirit of his schoolmates.

THE SECOND TEAM

THE SECOND TEAM

No first team can have a successful season without an efficient second squad. The East High Basketball Team was particularly fortunate in having an excellent five to play practice games with.

The East High Reserves of 1911-12 were the sturdiest group of players that a Purple and White team ever used to try their skill on. Every man on the Reserves played his hardest each afternoon in the contests with the first team. Each one was willing to stand the hard knocks and the banging of his more fortunate school mates in order to perfect the school team.

But the Reserves were also fortunate. They had a manager who looked after their best interests.

A fine schedule was arranged and for the first time, an East High second team received the full recognition of the value of its services.

Assistant Manager Ford deserves much praise for his work and the whole school in general should realize the importance of the East High Reserves in making this season such a success.

JAMES H. FOWLE

Physical Director

In James H. Fowle the school has a physical director of whom it can well be proud. "Doc" stands for everything clean in athletics. He is an enthusiast and was well fitted to take command of the school's athletics by his record in college. This year's basketball as well as all of the other East High teams, owe a great deal of their success to him. On the trips "Doc" is a jolly fellow, and it is because of his thoughtfulness that a few incidents of the journeys are portrayed in this souvenir.
