JONATHAN CHILD.

THE FIRST MAYOR OF ROCHESTER.

JONATHAN CHILD, the first mayor of Rochester, was born in 1785, in Lynn, N. H., on the border of the Connecticut River, upon the foothills of the White Mountains. He was of pure New England parentage and of Puritan lineage. His ancestors turned their backs upon English intolerance in 1630, landed in Roxbury, Mass., and settled at Woodstock, in the northeastern corner of Connecticut. Colonel Jonathan Child, his grandfather, and eight sons, Green Mountain Boys, enlisted as patriot soldiers in the Revolutionary War and took part in the battles of Lexington, Bunker Hill, in Pennsylvania and at Lake Champlain. The grandson, Jonathan Child, the subject of this sketch, served his country during the war of 1812, with a commission of Major, and was present at the battle of Fort Erie. Mr. Child, on leaving his New England home, went to Utica and taught school, and thence moving to West Bloomfield, Ontario county, engaged in mercantile business. He was elected a member of assembly twice from Ontario county, in 1816 and 1817. He removed from Bloomfield to Charlotte, at the mouth of the Genesee River, when he engaged in shipping merchandise to Montreal. When Rochester was founded he removed his business here and made it his residence through life. He built the first locks on the Erie Canal, at Lockport, and when the canal was opened, engaged in the forwarding business, at Rochester, in the well-remembered old Pilot Line, which, in its day, was of great repute. When Rochester obtained its charter as a city he became the mayor. Subsequently he filled the position of supervisor in the county. His life was one of activity, enterprise and productive industry, and he contributed much to the growth and prosperity of this city. His labor and influence were given to all useful and moral objects, and he died, known and respected by all men, October 27, 1860, at the good old age of seventy-five years, and was buried at Mt. Hope Cemetery.

An Invitation.

We have actually been too busy to make an exhibit this year at the fair, and in a limited space we couldn't give you, anyway, an idea of the large line of

we have in stock, and which we want you to see. Come right in and look around for yourself. The price of every piece of furniture is marked in plain figures, and you won't need a clerk to attend you unless you want to buy, and they are always within calling distance.

Truly yours,

Stallknight & Schminke.

GEN. BENJ. HARRISON.

Gen. Benj. Harrison was born at North Bend, O., on August 20, 1883, and is a grandson of Wm. H. Harrison, the ninth President of the United States, and John Scott
 Harrison, the homestead being situated a few miles below Cincinnati. He attended the district school until 15 years of age, when he entered the Miami University, at Oxford, O. He made rapid progress and graduated at the age of 18. He studied law, and was admitted to the bar before he was 21 years of age. In 1860 he was elected Supreme Court reporter. He served during the Civil War, and was re-elected reporter in 1864, serving until 1868. In 1880 his party elected him to the Senate, where he served six years. His senatorial term expired March 4, 1887.

LEVI P. MORTON.

Vice-President of the United States.

Levi P. Morton has won fame and fortune in the true American way. Beginning as a humble merchant in a small New England town, he became one of the great merchants in the City of New York. Generous and patriotic, he has given freely of his time and energy to the cause of his country. Thoroughly devoted to the principles of the Republican party, he has been one of its wisest counsellors and ablest representatives. He served with the highest credit in the 46th congress, and upon the election of President Garfield was chosen to represent our government as Minister to France. In this responsible position Mr. Morton not only served his government faithfully, but was of infinite service to Americans traveling or residing in France.

◀ A SHORT SUGGESTION TO GENTLEMEN. ▶

What is the use of paying twenty-five per cent. more for your clothing than you need to? I guarantee to furnish you a fit that is perfect, the choicest material, and made substantially by men tailors. For style and cut, nothing better is to be found, go where you may. My quarters are not on the ground floor; neither are they expensively fitted up. All the same I will suit you as well as though my cutting table were mahogany, and my shears solid silver, and save you money. Call and see me.

FIRST BUILDING IN ROCHESTER.

The history of the site now occupied by the center and western portions of Powers Block is really the history of that part of Rochester lying west of the Genesee River, and extends nearly to the foundation of the village itself. For although the city dates back to the erection of a saw-mill on the east side of the river, in 1808, there was no recognized community of settlers for three or four years later. The lot which forms the subject of this brief notice, and which was (so far as is known) the first ever purchased on the west side, was bought from Col. Nathaniel Rochester, by Henry Skinner, and was in the possession of the latter when he contracted with Hamlet Serantom to build him a log house on the present corner. The building was commenced early in 1812, and in May of that year Mr. Serantom completed the structure by roofing it with slabs brought from the saw-mill above mentioned, which were floated across at the rapids, as the bridge was not then completed. On the fourth of July, 1812, the house was first occupied, and the celebration of the nation's birthday consisted in great part of bonfires built in front of the log hut, a fac-simile of which is given above.

In 1818 Azel Ensworth bought the lot and erected a large wooden house on the corner, moving back the old log hut and using it as a stable for the hotel—the Ensworth house—which stood in its former place. Mr. Ensworth was the landlord of his own tavern, and a few years later he added to it an attic, which was the first room in Rochester used as a public hall. It was brought into service as a concert room, ball room, lecture room and theater; in 1824 the first concert ever heard in this city was given by Phillip Phillips—who had from a common sailor become the leading vocalist of the country—and among those who figured in the private theatricals there performed about that time was Daniel D. Barnard and Alpheus Bingham, who afterwards became so prominent in State politics.

Expenses to the Fair

Can be saved on purchases at Carroll, Hutchings, Southard & Co.'s great dry goods and notions palace, white front, East Main Street.

This house has had phenomenal success in making and holding friends, by reason of the wide range of goods sold and the small profits exacted. Buyers are constantly in the markets and everything in dry goods, notions, etc., is marked at the lowest notch.

Take a look in the four great stores in one and see if there is not something you want. It costs nothing to look, and you are not importuned to buy.
