The Flower Gardens.

In our last we described the flower gardens. Some have been planted in the form of a circular border. The effect is very pleasing, and from the number of the plants there are always flowers in bloom. The borders that have been described do not differ much in size, but the effect is the same. The borders are generally composed of flowering plants, and the effect is very pleasing. The dearest Home is many a Parents' Home;
But, in the heart of life's long years—
There's no sweet Scene more delightful to me
Than with my own dear children's eyes.

And to their happy, laugh-ting laughter,
And to the bright beams of their joy-ful faces,
Oh, what a joy to be a Mother's heart,
And to know that I am loved and valued.

WOMEN'S RURAL NEW-YORKER.

There is a great increase in the demand for women's clothing in the country, and the time is ripe for the establishment of a woman's dressmaking and tailoring business. The Rural New Yorker offers the following inducements to those who are interested in this line of work:

1. A complete stock of patterns and materials, including the latest fashions.

2. A trial order of $50 worth of goods, free of charge, to any person who will agree to make and sell 100 dresses in the course of 6 months. The dresses must be of good quality and well made. The cost of materials will be returned, and a profit of 50% will be guaranteed.

3. A written guarantee of satisfaction, and a contract will be signed by the manufacturer, binding him to take back any dresses that do not sell at a profit of 50%.

4. A list of customers who are eager to buy dresses made by women.

5. A weekly circular with patterns and designs for new fashions.

6. A special rate for advertising in the Rural New Yorker.

Any women who are interested in this line of work, and who are willing to work diligently and honestly, are invited to take advantage of these inducements. The Rural New Yorker is ready to give all necessary information and assistance to those who are interested in this business.

MORALITY.

Let no one in whose bosom their exists a spark of love for the American flag, and who desires to aid in the support of the Government, be deterred from coming forward and becoming a citizen. The Country Agents are the best friends of the people, and the best means of obtaining information and support. They are always ready to assist in any way that they can.

Miss LUCINDA was not satisfied with her own powers of expression. She had been invited to read her story at the Literary Club, and she felt that she must make the best use of her opportunity. She had composed her story with great care, and she felt that it was a masterpiece. She had spent many hours over it, and she felt that it was a work of art.

But when she came to read it, she found that she could not express her ideas as she had intended. She felt that she had not done justice to her story, and she was disappointed. She felt that she had failed, and she was ashamed.
