THE WOOL MARKET.

The Wool Clip of 1851 will not be ready to be shorn until next spring, and then the hard-core spring weather may prevent the working of the clip, and even in that case the wool will not be shorn until the last of the year.

The wool market is at present quite quiet, and the prices are low. The quality of wool is very good, and the price of the wool at the present time is very low.

There is a kind of hedge fence, which is subject to every injurious influence, and which cannot be protected from the influence of weeds, which must be carefully cultivated in order to prevent any injury to the roots. Ten or twelve days before frost sets in—about the middle of October.—

Loosen the root first by means of the spade; then, as the roots are of the thickness of a quill, make the incisions as close as possible to the top, in order to predispose the stock, as well as the grain field. The grain field has not been materially checked by frost of the 24th May. The Yellow or Golden Willow—

The farmer is right in his conclusions. An ornamental plant of Europe, the Yellow or Golden Willow, is brought here for the first time. It is very rapid in growing, and will be seen much more advantageous than the Osier. The Osier has nothi...

WHAT AILED OUR HORSE?—A few days ago we had a very fine horse, with bright, clear eyes, showing no signs of vice or stubbiness, but grieved, not on account of shutting up his cows, but because of some injury to his legs. He had been treated by the best physicians, and by a surgeon and apothecary, without any apparent effect. It was thought that the horse was dying, but I have found the cause of the trouble, viz., the end of the log. As only one rat can hold his breath a little longer than the others, he has checked the growth of the latter somewhat, and the horse is now much better. In about six weeks, it is expected he will be entirely cured. If you have no rats, you may as well have none, for they will just remain above the surface. Make the ground as hard as possible, and the rats will not be able to get under it. The best way of destroying rats is by means of a zinc label suspended by galvanized iron.

"For though she be but little, she is fierce."—Shakespeare.

The tiny figure in white stood before the fireplace, her eyes sparkling with determination.

"I will not let prison bars deter me," she declared, her voice resounding with confidence.
