Three Days’ Session of Western New-York.

SUMMER MEETING.

The题主 Fair Meeting of the Fruit Growers’ Society of Western New-York was opened at the Central Library of Rochester and Monroe County on the 30th of June. As a result of the frost which took place last spring, a large number of members were present to discuss the subject of fruit-growing and to try to draw from other States, from Ohio, Western New-York, and other portions of the United States, to discuss the present condition of the industry.

The meeting was opened by an address from the President of the Society, Mr. H. E. Hooker, who gave an account of the progress of the society during the last year, and of the improvements which had been made in the cultivation of fruit.

The following questions were then put to the members for discussion:

1. What is the best method of cultivating the strawberry?

2. What is the best method of preserving the plants from the ravages of the saw-fly or currant worm?

3. Which are the twelve best cherries for general cultivation, and which are the six best sorts for local market?

4. Which is the best method of growing blackberries?

5. Which is the best method of preserving the strawberries for market?

6. Which is the best method of fertilizing the orchard?

7. What is the best method of propagating the plants from the roots of the varieties?

8. Which is the best method of making the orchard?

9. Which is the best method of protecting the fruits from the excessive heat of the sun?

10. What is the best method of preserving the fruits from the excessive heat of the sun?

11. What is the best method of preserving fruits from the excessive heat of the sun?

12. What is the best method of preserving fruits from the excessive heat of the sun?

The following answers were given to these questions:

1. The best method of cultivating the strawberry is to plant them in rows of four or five, and to hoe them frequently. They should be kept moist, and the ground should be kept clean.

2. The best method of preserving the plants from the ravages of the saw-fly or currant worm is to spray them with a solution of arsenic or lime.

3. The best method of growing blackberries is to plant them in rows of six or eight, and to keep the ground clean.

4. The best method of preserving the strawberries for market is to spread them on the ground and roast them over a slow fire.

5. The best method of fertilizing the orchard is to apply to it a dressing of manure and compost, and to keep the ground clean.

6. The best method of propagating the plants from the roots of the varieties is to plant them in rows of four or five, and to keep them moist.

7. The best method of making the orchard is to plant it with a mixture of different kinds of fruit.

8. The best method of protecting the fruits from the excessive heat of the sun is to shade them with a canopy of canvas or cloth.

9. The best method of preserving fruits from the excessive heat of the sun is to cover them with a cloth or canvas.

10. The best method of preserving fruits from the excessive heat of the sun is to water them frequently.

11. The best method of preserving fruits from the excessive heat of the sun is to shade them with a canopy of canvas or cloth.

12. The best method of preserving fruits from the excessive heat of the sun is to water them frequently.

The following answers were given to these questions:

1. Mr. BARRY said the strawberries were best when they were picked just ripe, and that they should be kept moist.

2. Mr. BARRY said the blackberries were best when they were picked just ripe, and that they should be kept moist.

3. Mr. BARRY said the blackberries were best when they were picked just ripe, and that they should be kept moist.

4. Mr. BARRY said the blackberries were best when they were picked just ripe, and that they should be kept moist.

5. Mr. BARRY said the blackberries were best when they were picked just ripe, and that they should be kept moist.

6. Mr. BARRY said the blackberries were best when they were picked just ripe, and that they should be kept moist.

7. Mr. BARRY said the blackberries were best when they were picked just ripe, and that they should be kept moist.

8. Mr. BARRY said the blackberries were best when they were picked just ripe, and that they should be kept moist.

9. Mr. BARRY said the blackberries were best when they were picked just ripe, and that they should be kept moist.

10. Mr. BARRY said the blackberries were best when they were picked just ripe, and that they should be kept moist.

11. Mr. BARRY said the blackberries were best when they were picked just ripe, and that they should be kept moist.

12. Mr. BARRY said the blackberries were best when they were picked just ripe, and that they should be kept moist.
A WHISPER TO DAUGHTERS.

Before you, dear, accept a man as your companion, when his name is known to you, as if he knew anybody at all. If you do not know according to the fact, he will not answer your call; if you do know, he will not attempt to make his acquaintance. He will not give you the slightest notice of his intention to visit you, even if he is deeply interested. He will not make a friend of you if you are not the right sort, and he will not attempt to be your friend if you are not the right sort. He will not make a friend of you if you are not the right sort. He will not make a friend of you if you are not the right sort. He will not make a friend of you if you are not the right sort.

The best adhez'm's name him who loved his fellow-man, the angel showed his love to the dear Lord whom he loved, and the debt of Charity you owe to the dear Lord whom you loved, will there not be given a place in the allotted time. The greater part of the alloted time is occupied with the labor of the world. It has been said that the alloted time is the end of the world. The greater part of the alloted time is occupied with the labor of the world. It has been said that the alloted time is the end of the world.

A Grave Without a Monument.

The skies are high, the air is pure, the earth is rich, the harvest is abundant. Here lies a man for whom the world is a tomb, who has left no monuments save the whisper of the winds, the murmur of the waters, the songs of the birds. Here lies a man for whom the world is a tomb, who has left no monuments save the whisper of the winds, the murmur of the waters, the songs of the birds. The Reviewer.

This curious fact in the history of New York was recently brought to our attention. It appears that a number of persons, known as the "New York Reviewers," were engaged in the occupation of reviewing books. The Reviewer was the title given to one of these individuals, who was known for his critical and often scathing analyses of the books he reviewed. His work was published in a series of books, and his influence was felt throughout the literary world.

The Reviewer was known for his sharp wit and his ability to cut to the heart of a book's flaws. His reviews were eagerly awaited by readers, who looked forward to his insights and his犀利的 criticisms. He was considered to be one of the greatest figures in the history of book reviewing, and his legacy continues to this day.

The Reviewer's impact on the literary world was significant. He helped to shape the tastes of readers, and his reviews often determined the success or failure of a book. His influence extended beyond the literary world, and he was respected for his courage and his integrity.

The Reviewer's work is still studied today, and his insights continue to be relevant. His legacy serves as a reminder of the power of criticism, and of the importance of honesty and integrity in the world of literature.

In conclusion, the Reviewer was a remarkable figure in the history of book reviewing. He was known for his sharp wit and his ability to cut to the heart of a book's flaws. His influence extended beyond the literary world, and he was respected for his courage and his integrity.

The Reviewer's work is still studied today, and his insights continue to be relevant. His legacy serves as a reminder of the power of criticism, and of the importance of honesty and integrity in the world of literature.

It was a rickety old shad of a house that we saw, and from the look of it we knew that it was the year or two before the new one to be built. In original form as well as in alteration, it had, in our estimation, been in existence four or five years ago. It was built at a time when the timber was plentiful, and the workmen were well paid. When all accounts of houses were important, and all the nails were in place, and the timbers were cut and cased, and the flintstones were laid one upon the other in the manner of a grand-papa's chimney, the agriculturists of the adjacent counties would always open up this vast northern wilderness, with its bristling with
