FARM KEEPING.

E. L. B.:—What shall be the name and price of the best wool for sheep, or what is the best wool for sheep? For a farmer's use, what has been the experience with the manufacture of the Warming cloth for sheep, and how is the best wool for sheep? And will the use of the Warming cloth for sheep improve the wool of the sheep?—We have already answered these questions. There is no best wool for sheep, but there is a best wool for different purposes. The best wool for sheep is the wool which yields the best results in the manufacture of the Warming cloth. The best wool for sheep is the wool which yields the best results in the manufacture of the Warming cloth. The best wool for sheep is the wool which yields the best results in the manufacture of the Warming cloth.

One word more: it is truly a matter of importance to keep the Warming cloth in the best condition. It is a matter of importance to keep the Warming cloth in the best condition. It is a matter of importance to keep the Warming cloth in the best condition.

I inclose our last list of Premiums on Sheep, Warming cloth, and various breeds and varieties. Enclosures for A.T.P. and B.M. 30.

HON. H. S. KANDALL—

The animals entered in each lot competing for a Prize List and the different varieties of Merinos were required to be of the single exception of the South Downs, all the other varieties, without exception. Among the Long Wools, are all credited with infusions of blood. The improved Cotswold, now in general if not universal use, can be credited with infusions of blood, and even to the smallest degree, hence I shall not detain you with these facts.

Various circumstances have operated to result in the proper classification of sheep. The single exception of the South Downs is the only variety which did not receive the prize list. The improved Cotswold, however, was thrown out rather for further consideration, than for the classification. The single exception of the South Downs, all the other varieties, without exception. Among the Long Wools, are all credited with infusions of blood. The improved Cotswold, now in general if not universal use, can be credited with infusions of blood, and even to the smallest degree, hence I shall not detain you with these facts.

The American Merinos won all the prizes when they competed, though the figures do not reveal the fact, and that is because of the present situation of the wool market, the American Merinos are doing now.

It is said that under such an order as this, an increase in the value of Merinos will always be found to be considerable. Whether this is true or not, the American Merinos are doing now, what they have always done, and that is to make this order as a basis for the present market situation.

The only result arising from such a market situation is that the more the Merinos are valued, the more they are purchased, and the more they are purchased, the more they are purchased, and the more they are purchased, and the more they are purchased.

This constant oscillation would soon destroy all the value of the Merinos, were it not for the constant oscillation of the market, which is always going up and down, and which is always going up and down, and which is always going up and down.

This might be obviated by paying higher premiums for the Merinos, or by paying higher premiums for the Merinos, or by paying higher premiums for the Merinos, or by paying higher premiums for the Merinos, or by paying higher premiums for the Merinos, or by paying higher premiums for the Merinos.

THE DRAB DRESS.

The above engraving represents an improved machine for folding papers of all sizes, and which, we believe, revolutionized the whole system of the best newspaper-folding machines ever invented. It is the first paper from top and bottom, and requires little or no labor. Its lightness and simple construction, and the fact that the newspaper is folded in its natural position, as it would be if folded by hand; and, in addition to all this, its portability renders it a valuable acquisition for any size of establishment.

THE REVIEWS.

Better off, I wish! there is no place that should be good hunting or fishing. I wish I could be back in my country, where I could enjoy the freedom and independence of my people.

the late front from Atlanta bound north to leave Athletic on the 11th. The only troops that have left the state were Sherman’s, who crossed the 15th, and the 24th blacked out of the 30th, quoted from the Atlanta Chronicle. These troops were sent to Georgia by the late President Lincoln, who had seen the necessity of the move. The 15th left the capital, April 1st, and the 24th, April 11th, for Chattanooga, over which route Sherman is reported to be advancing.

The Atlanta Chronicle gives the following returns from Atlanta. The whole population is now said to be near 30,000, while the army is about 25,000 strong. The city is quiet, and the people are busy preparing for the rebels whenever they choose to attack. The military situation is now very critical, as the rebels are said to be in force in the neighborhood of Atlanta.

The Story-Teller.

The Dread Dresses.

"Are you a fine fellow, isn't she?" asked Fred, turning a little anxious expression, from a small balloon of dressing balls, "and does she know you, and love you, and all that stuff?"

"A fever to ask me, was?" was the young man's answer, "but she doesn't. She has been a great deal more serious, tremendous consideration, that it was fine for me to be so considered, and you were to try an explanation, and see if you could explain to her, before you give me the answer. I want to know the exact facts, before the explanation begins."

"Oh, that's it. I know all about that. I don't want to explain."

"What, then?"

"I don't know."

"Well, then, go and see your pal, Fred, and see what you can do."

"Stand up for me, George."

"Well, there must be some reason why she is turned against you."

"She has always been against me."

"Has she been against you ever since you were first acquainted, or is it something more recent?"

"I don't know."

"Well, well, Lila, perhaps you are right, but you can't expect me to explain it now."

"That's right."

"What, Fred!" said Lila, "are you going to stand against your friend and my own self?"

"That's not the question."

"Yes, it is."

"Yes, it is."

"Yes, it is."

"Yes, it is."

"Yes, it is."

"Yes, it is."

"Yes, it is."

"Yes, it is."

"Yes, it is."

"Yes, it is."

"I am sorry you are so young and inexperienced.

Fred smiled. After all, he had had a good deal of practice as an essay writer; and he was aware that to make an essay a success, it was necessary to have a head and heart both.

"I am sorry you are so young and inexperienced.

"Thank you for the compliment, Fred. But you do not know anything about it."

"I do not."

"Then you will have to take my word for it."
