RURAL, LITERARY AND FAMILY NEWSPAPER.

[No text provided]

MOORE'S RURAL NEW-YORKER, AT PROGRESSIVE IMPROVEMENT.

[No text provided]

CHEESE MANUFACTURERS' CONVENTION.

[No text provided]
Horticultural.

TENANT ANNUAL MEETING

This society met at this place the morning of the 10th inst., in pursuance of the proceedings introducing and harmonizing the proceedings. From the amount of fruit expected for the coming season, the committee report a large display of apples; but we were dis- appointed in the expectations of pears, which we must be glad to find

Mr. M. H. L. H. of the committee, in introducing the meeting, was addressed between the committee and the chairman, which was accepted, and after some business transacted, recessed and reconvened at 1:30 o'clock, to proceed with business on the

The following gentlemen were appointed a Committee of Arrangement to propose to

President—STEPHEN H. AINSWORTH called

The Delaware.

Rev. Pliny F. Sanborne, of West Bloomfield,

Mr. H. B. Smith.

Of the Philadelphia Commerical Intelligencer.

THE DELAWARE.

FEB. 6.

RURAL NEW-YORKER.

The Beautiful, Rural, and New Yorker.

Rev. Pliny F. Sanborne, of West Bloomfield, N. Y., a fair acre of hop yard, one

Mississippi.—G. F. HOWELL.

The following were appointed a Committee of Arrangement to propose to

President—STEPHENV. AINSWORTH called

The Delaware.

Rev. Pliny F. Sanborne, of West Bloomfield,

Mr. H. B. Smith.

Of the Philadelphia Commerical Intelligencer.

THE DELAWARE.

FEB. 6.

RURAL NEW-YORKER.

The Beautiful, Rural, and New Yorker.

President—STEPHEN H. AINSWORTH called

The Delaware.

Rev. Pliny F. Sanborne, of West Bloomfield, N. Y., a fair acre of hop yard, one

Mississippi.—G. F. HOWELL.

The following were appointed a Committee of Arrangement to propose to

President—STEPHEN H. AINSWORTH called

The Delaware.

Rev. Pliny F. Sanborne, of West Bloomfield, N. Y., a fair acre of hop yard, one

Mississippi.—G. F. HOWELL.
To Mr. WASHINGTON.—One gallon soft soap, $2.00; for every barrel soft soap, $12.00, and ten or more put on tabular above.

To Mr. TRIBBLES.—One gallon wash oil, $1.25; hard soap, at half price.

To Mr. G.-Two quarts of soft soap, $1.00; carbonated water, $2.00; and ten or more put on tabular above.

To Mr. SRAVRIN.—One barrel soft soap, $15.00; and ten or more put on tabular above.

To Mr. JONES.—One barrel soft soap, $16.00; and ten or more put on tabular above.

To Mr. CARTER.—Six pounds soap, $0.50; and ten or more put on tabular above.

To Mr. RUSSELL.—One barrel soft soap, $18.00; and ten or more put on tabular above.

To Mr. MURPHY.—Two quarts of soft soap, $1.25; and ten or more put on tabular above.

To Mr. HARRISON.—One barrel soft soap, $20.00; and ten or more put on tabular above.

To Mr. WHITING.—Two quarts of soft soap, $1.50; and ten or more put on tabular above.

To Mr. BROWN.—One barrel soft soap, $25.00; and ten or more put on tabular above.

To Mr. BROWN.—One barrel soft soap, $25.00; and ten or more put on tabular above.

To Mr. BROWN.—One barrel soft soap, $25.00; and ten or more put on tabular above.
Moore's RURAL NEW-YORKER.

Sabbath Musings.

Written for Moore's Rural New-Yorker.

The SKEPTIC'S DAUGHTER.

by J.R. COX.

A young girl of twenty, the rather late born, and the last of her family. She had not seen from her birth, and she was never taught to pray. She was an ardent reader, and she had read every book, except one, that had been printed in her family. She was a strong, healthy girl, and she was a good scholar, and she was a good musician, and she was a good housekeeper. She was a good example to her younger sister, and she was a good example to her mother. She was a good example to her father, and she was a good example to every one. She was a good example to herself. She was a good example to all the world. She was a good example to all the world.

RESURRECTION.

It is a theme upon which the public teacher is not very fond of dwelling. It is not a pleasant theme, and it is not one that is generally accepted by the majority of the people. But it is a theme that is very important, and it is a theme that is very necessary for the public teacher to dwell upon. It is a theme that is very important, and it is a theme that is very necessary for the public teacher to dwell upon.

GREATNESS OF SALA.

Sala, the Egyptian, is the most famous of all the great men. He was a great warrior, and he was a great statesman. He was a great poet, and he was a great philosopher. He was a great man in every respect. He was a great man in every respect.

ABSTRACTION OF SORROW.

This is the last of a series of letters to the late Dr. Spalding, of New York. It is a series of letters to the late Dr. Spalding, of New York.

BEAUTIFUL SUNSETS.

When the sun sets in the west, it is a beautiful sight. The sky is red with the rays of the sun, and the clouds are painted with the colors of the rainbow. It is a beautiful sight, and it is a sight that is never to be forgotten.

THE HOOP.

This is the burthen of a manifest. From the New-Yorker. It is the burthen of a manifest. From the New-Yorker.

A young girl of twenty, the rather late born, and the last of her family. She had not seen from her birth, and she was never taught to pray. She was an ardent reader, and she had read every book, except one, that had been printed in her family. She was a strong, healthy girl, and she was a good scholar, and she was a good musician, and she was a good housekeeper. She was a good example to her younger sister, and she was a good example to her mother. She was a good example to her father, and she was a good example to every one. She was a good example to herself. She was a good example to all the world. She was a good example to all the world.

RESURRECTION.

It is a theme upon which the public teacher is not very fond of dwelling. It is not a pleasant theme, and it is not one that is generally accepted by the majority of the people. But it is a theme that is very important, and it is a theme that is very necessary for the public teacher to dwell upon. It is a theme that is very important, and it is a theme that is very necessary for the public teacher to dwell upon.

GREATNESS OF SALA.

Sala, the Egyptian, is the most famous of all the great men. He was a great warrior, and he was a great statesman. He was a great poet, and he was a great philosopher. He was a great man in every respect. He was a great man in every respect.

ABSTRACTION OF SORROW.

This is the last of a series of letters to the late Dr. Spalding, of New York. It is a series of letters to the late Dr. Spalding, of New York.

BEAUTIFUL SUNSETS.

When the sun sets in the west, it is a beautiful sight. The sky is red with the rays of the sun, and the clouds are painted with the colors of the rainbow. It is a beautiful sight, and it is a sight that is never to be forgotten.

THE HOOP.

This is the burthen of a manifest. From the New-Yorker. It is the burthen of a manifest. From the New-Yorker.
that will induce the pupil to ask questions after reading. Illustrations are very good indeed, relating more to events than the text

The fifth reader in the series is entitled "The Falcon," and is written by the same author. It is designed to give more information about the life of the falcon, and to show the virtue there is in personal neatness and order. We would recommend it to all who have the means of obtaining it.

DOBBY CARLYLE

Instead of giving all sorts of rules about looking out for the sick, about saving the body, and holding the shoulders back, all of which are impracticable to many, because new ideas, production of a feeling of awe, and copying the best, are the only things that can be done to guard against the evil. The only thing that can be done to guard against the evil is to have the reader put it into practice by himself, and to make simple sentences. Each lesson is illustrated with good engravings and letters.

The sixth reader in the series is entitled "The Falcon," and is written by the same author. It is designed to give more information about the life of the falcon, and to show the virtue there is in personal neatness and order. We would recommend it to all who have the means of obtaining it.

THE REVIEWER.

"DOBBY CARLYLE"

The man who is most useful is not the one who has the most knowledge, but the one who uses it most. He is not the one who has the most books, but the one who reads them. He is not the one who has the most money, but the one who spends it. He is not the one who has the most power, but the one who uses it.

The boy who is most useful is not the one who has the most facts, but the one who uses them. He is not the one who has the most books, but the one who reads them. He is not the one who has the most money, but the one who spends it. He is not the one who has the most power, but the one who uses it.

"THE REVIEWER."
The Army in Virginia

A retiring took place on the 1st inst., in York County, and the army took up its quarters in the vicinity of Harrisonburg, the Stanley's troops and one column of Army of Northern Virginia, which had been fighting him back two years. Two bulletins have been received from the Arsenal, which state that the army is five miles in length and two miles in width, and that the troops are highly mottled and in poor condition. The same day, the Rebels were in full force beyond Bainbridge, and according to previous accounts was to march in pursuit, although their horses were jaded. The troops are being prepared for a night attack, and the information from this Department up to the 23d is that the enemy was in full force at Bainbridge, and that the Rebel force is not to be seen.

The Department of the South

From his story it seems that some of the North Carolina troops have been divided into small squads and stationed at various points. Gen. C. H. Kirk, commanding at Scottsville with 150 men, when informed of the enemy's approach, marched against them with impunity. The obstructions which up to this time had been decidedly in favor of the Union forces, have been removed, and according to previous accounts was to march in pursuit, although their horses were jaded. The troops are being prepared for a night attack, and the information from this Department up to the 23d is that the enemy was in full force at Bainbridge, and that the Rebel force is not to be seen.

From Folly island that rumors were rife that the hotels are so much injured as to be cleared, and that the Rebel forces are in full force. The obstructions which up to this time had been decidedly in favor of the Union forces, have been removed, and according to previous accounts was to march in pursuit, although their horses were jaded. The troops are being prepared for a night attack, and the information from this Department up to the 23d is that the enemy was in full force at Bainbridge, and that the Rebel force is not to be seen.

The Tar Heel correspondent writes from New York that the newspapers are full of stories about the troops retiring into the mountains of North Carolina. Some of the papers say that the troops are in poor condition, and that the Rebel forces are in full force. The obstructions which up to this time had been decidedly in favor of the Union forces, have been removed, and according to previous accounts was to march in pursuit, although their horses were jaded. The troops are being prepared for a night attack, and the information from this Department up to the 23d is that the enemy was in full force at Bainbridge, and that the Rebel force is not to be seen.

The Herald writes from Folly island that rumors were rife that the hotels are so much injured as to be cleared, and that the Rebel forces are in full force. The obstructions which up to this time had been decidedly in favor of the Union forces, have been removed, and according to previous accounts was to march in pursuit, although their horses were jaded. The troops are being prepared for a night attack, and the information from this Department up to the 23d is that the enemy was in full force at Bainbridge, and that the Rebel force is not to be seen.
Attend to Club—A matter of organizing a club can materially aid a friend in & re requested to help it along by forming clubs or aiding number; but the former Is the best time, and we shall pr#8S, the rush was such that we added 15,000 copies to we now need. After No. 1 of this volume had gone to postage, one year ($2.20) therefor.

Also an assortment of Evergreen and other trees. 732-tf

A farm of about 320 acres belonging to the estate of the late John Ayrault, in the town of Perinton, about 12 miles... (mostly with cedar,) good buildings, orchards of choice fruit; about 70 acres of heavy timber, including several acres of

STAMMERING permanently cured by BATES' PA-

ADDRESSES TO—John J. Thomas, Union Springs, Cayuga Co., or Thomas STAFFORD, Druggists, 69 Beekman St., New York, N. Y.

AND STUTTERING permanently cured by BATES' PA-

SAL*;.—A farm of about 320 acres belonging to the estate of the late John Ayrault, in the town of Perinton, about 12 miles... (mostly with cedar,) good buildings, orchards of choice fruit; about 70 acres of heavy timber, including several acres of The Story-Teller.

When Miss Nora's New Neighbors.

NINA RONALDSON.

OR, THE HERITAGE AT GRANVILLE.

If this is true, why, the storm had swept away the smiles, and winds had taken the flowers; but the sweet spirit of youth still lingered, and the azure blue sky still reflected the sun's warmth.

The storm had swept away the smiles, and winds had taken the flowers; but the sweet spirit of youth still lingered, and the azure blue sky still reflected the sun's warmth.

The storm had swept away the smiles, and winds had taken the flowers; but the sweet spirit of youth still lingered, and the azure blue sky still reflected the sun's warmth.

The storm had swept away the smiles, and winds had taken the flowers; but the sweet spirit of youth still lingered, and the azure blue sky still reflected the sun's warmth.

The storm had swept away the smiles, and winds had taken the flowers; but the sweet spirit of youth still lingered, and the azure blue sky still reflected the sun's warmth.

The storm had swept away the smiles, and winds had taken the flowers; but the sweet spirit of youth still lingered, and the azure blue sky still reflected the sun's warmth.

The storm had swept away the smiles, and winds had taken the flowers; but the sweet spirit of youth still lingered, and the azure blue sky still reflected the sun's warmth.

The storm had swept away the smiles, and winds had taken the flowers; but the sweet spirit of youth still lingered, and the azure blue sky still reflected the sun's warmth.

The storm had swept away the smiles, and winds had taken the flowers; but the sweet spirit of youth still lingered, and the azure blue sky still reflected the sun's warmth.

The storm had swept away the smiles, and winds had taken the flowers; but the sweet spirit of youth still lingered, and the azure blue sky still reflected the sun's warmth.

The storm had swept away the smiles, and winds had taken the flowers; but the sweet spirit of youth still lingered, and the azure blue sky still reflected the sun's warmth.

The storm had swept away the smiles, and winds had taken the flowers; but the sweet spirit of youth still lingered, and the azure blue sky still reflected the sun's warmth.