Now the revolution is over, the Union likely to be speedily restored, and years to precursor the reconstruction of the Federal Government, the soil of the South is becoming a question of vital interest. The problems involved are very properly attracting much attention, and being discussed by both the Union and Europe. The matter is not one to which the people of the North, and especially the producing classes — North, and especially the producing classes — should give their attention, and be interested in, in a greater degree than at the present time. The southern soil by intelligent and persevering attention is capable of a most wonderful cultivation and improvement. The people and the government of the Southern States have the advantage of being efficient, intelligent, and skilful in the management of their resources. THE STATE SHEEP FAIR.

The first Annual Fair of the New York State Board of Agriculture was held at the state fair grounds in Utica, on the 12th of last month. It was a great success, that it is said, for the Experiment Station of the State Board of Agriculture, and especially favorable. Indeed, it is the type of sheep breeding among American agriculturists, and is for once in the history of the breed, and it shows great promise. Of the weather and the ground that the N. Y. Central Railroad furnished, it is feared, to kill the State Sheep Fair. And the same was true of multi-

A number of sheep were sold on the ground at all times. Price of the sheep varied from $100 to $150, and the prices of the sheep were paid promptly. The following are the entries which were presented:

J. A. B. Allen, New York, 1 pen ewes 2 years or over; 1 yearling ram. Delos Blodgett, Gorham, N. Y., 1 yearling ram. Stephen Francis, Bristol, N. Y., 1 pen yearling ewes. H. M. Boardman, Gorham, N. Y., 1 pen ewes 2 years or over; 1 yearling ram. P. H. McMillen, Canandaigua, N. Y., 1 pen 5 lambs. E. B. Pottle, Naples, 6 ewes, 2 years or over; 1 yearling ram.

FERTILIZING PLANTS.

The recent warm weather has caused the plants to grow more quickly than usual, and this has necessitated the application of additional fertilizer. The following are some of the recommendations:

1. For general purposes, use a mixture of 1 part by weight of superphosphate of lime and 2 parts of nitrate of potassium. Apply at the rate of 5 pounds per acre every 6 weeks.

2. For potatoes, use a mixture of 1 part by weight of superphosphate of lime and 1 part of sulfate of potash. Apply at the rate of 10 pounds per acre every 4 weeks.

3. For grass, use a mixture of 1 part by weight of superphosphate of lime and 1 part of ammonium sulfate. Apply at the rate of 5 pounds per acre every 6 weeks.

4. For vegetables, use a mixture of 1 part by weight of superphosphate of lime and 3 parts of nitrate of soda. Apply at the rate of 10 pounds per acre every 6 weeks.

5. For tomatoes, use a mixture of 1 part by weight of superphosphate of lime and 2 parts of nitrate of soda. Apply at the rate of 10 pounds per acre every 4 weeks.

6. For strawberries, use a mixture of 1 part by weight of superphosphate of lime and 2 parts of nitrate of potash. Apply at the rate of 5 pounds per acre every 4 weeks.

APPLICATION OF FERTILIZER.

The application of fertilizer should be done at the end of the dormant season, before the plants begin to grow. The fertilizer should be mixed with the soil to a depth of 2 to 3 inches. It should be applied evenly, and care should be taken not to damage the roots by too deep application.

Among the greatest of the moral and physical achievements of our century was the triumph over death. The body, at the moment of its dissolution, became the vehicle of a higher spirit, and the soul was released to soar to the realms of eternity. This was the most sublime and noble accomplishment of the human race.

In order to facilitate this transition, various rituals and ceremonies were devised. One of the most significant was the practice of embalming. The deceased was prepared with perfumes and ointments to preserve the body and prevent decomposition. This process was carried out by skilled practitioners, often called embalmers, who were trained in the art of preserving the body for eternity.

Another important aspect of this transition was the funeral ceremony. The body was placed in a coffin or sarcophagus, and taken to the burial site. Among the accompanying rituals was the laying of flowers and prayers, and often a eulogy was delivered to honor the deceased.

During the ceremony, the body was then buried or cremated, depending on the cultural and religious traditions. The burial site was often marked with a gravestone or monument, which serves as a permanent reminder of the loved one's life and accomplishments.

These rituals and ceremonies were not only a way to pay respects to the deceased, but also a means of coping with the loss and finding solace in the knowledge of the afterlife.

In conclusion, the triumph over death was a monumental accomplishment that continues to shape our understanding of life and death. It serves as a reminder of the human capacity for resilience and the quest for eternal life.

Have you ever attended a funeral ceremony? What were your thoughts and feelings during that event? How do you think the rituals and ceremonies you observed contributed to the healing process?

The Pursuit of Happiness, by A. B. S.

Hit and Tumor.

What is the name of the happy, joyful and serene man who, when asked if he has a headache, will say "Yes"?)

"I have a terrible headache."

"Why?"

"Because I am happy."
