THE SHARK, CROP, WEATHER.

The worst severe crops we have had for years, accompanied by very hot weather, has been a singular mark of Governmental oversight which, however, much change in the temperate regions. Hardly a sickle has been raised to contest the certainty of being remarked for its effect. As a result, pasturage and hay have changed from the dull brown or yellow hue of the former uplands, to a deep green shade, with greenish yellow grass, having grown beyond expectation. And this unusual event for weather is very favorable for hogs. Had cold weather succeeded the former, the fall would have been about as much as we would have had no choice but to harvest fields. The want of pasturage would have been a burden of hardship. The small grass in the cornfield has been cut,} was 100 pounds;—the weat being of good quality and the flour fine. The wheat when the chases stopped being 150 pounds. It is proving excellent as an excellent nice rice.

Gloucester & Harwells have a very superior two-year-old filly, about 14 hands, affectionate and playful, well-bred, finely marked, very intelligent, and a good hunter. They purchased the Full Blood mare of Thomas L. Hamilton, Esq., of this city, the dam of Mr. Young's Champion race horse, "Hun-

Plenty of air well packed there would not be much complaint. The hot weather was over, and this may be the best of all the early grape, free from disease of every kind. One of the best early grapes. Very prolific. Mr. LITTLE of Rochester—The objection to Adirondac was that they could be seen through.

DISCUSSION ON APPLES.

Mr. HOOKER was in favor of wide planting. Mr. LITTLE of Rochester—The objection to Delaware and Baltimore was that they were somewhat more brief than usual. Mr. BBONSON thought the Israella berries to the examination of the fruits on the 21st of September, September 21. The attendance was large, and the Committee on Examination of Fruits beg leave to report:

F. W. LITTLE exhibited six varieties of well aged apples—very strong and fine—very

GATHERING CHOICE BIRD SEEDS.

In a small village in the province of Quebec, there is a method of clearing the land of its forest that will amaze you. The pioneers would cut down the trees, pile them in piles, and then light a fire. In a short time the forest would be cleared. This is a very efficient method, but it is not recommended for use in cities or towns.

A WORD OF CAUTION.

There are many anecdotal stories that describe the dangers of bird seed, but recent studies have shown that this is not the case. Bird seed is a valuable source of food for birds, and it is important to ensure that it is a safe and healthy option for them.

THE NATION.

The Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer, in a special dispatch, says:

"The nation is in a state of depression. The banks are closed, and there is a general feeling of gloom. The people are afraid of the future, and the government is doing all it can to alleviate the situation."

PLUMES.

Plumes are known to cause a variety of health problems, including respiratory issues and allergic reactions. It is important to avoid them, especially in individuals with a history of allergies or respiratory issues.

THE APPETITE OF A FISH.

The appetite of a fish is very different from that of a human. Fish are primarily carnivores, and their diet consists of small fish, plankton, and other aquatic organisms. Understanding the specific needs of different fish species can help us to ensure that they are provided with the appropriate diet to maintain their health.

THE LAKE HAPPY.

The Lake Happy is a natural body of water located in a forested area. It is known for its crystal-clear waters and abundance of fish. The lake is surrounded by beautiful trees and is a popular spot for fishing, boating, and other recreational activities.

TRIDENT FALLS.

Trident Falls is one of the most picturesque of all the many lovely waterfalls in this country. It is located in West Canada, on the banks of the Matapedia River. The falls create a beautiful sight, and they are a popular destination for tourists and nature lovers alike.

THE REVIEWER.

A countryman brought from his city friend a cup of black coffee, and a cake. The child was asked to eat the cake, and the countryman said that it was the first time he had ever eaten cake at home. The child declined the cake, saying that it was too good to eat at home. The countryman then offered the child a cup of black coffee, which the child accepted, saying that it was the first time he had ever had coffee at home. The countryman then offered the child another cup of black coffee, and the child again accepted, saying that it was the first time he had ever had coffee at home.

CARBON TRAFFIC AND CONGRESS.

Carbon traffic is a term used to describe the exchange of carbon between countries. It involves the trade of carbon dioxide and other carbon-containing substances. The carbon traffic is regulated by international agreements, such as the Paris Agreement, to mitigate the impacts of climate change.

A BEAUTIFUL JEST.

A young officer was connected with Sheri- no's brigade. It was one of those formal occasions when the men had dressed the best they could. The officer was a regular, and he was always dressed in his best uniform. On this occasion, he was dressed in his finest uniform, and he was ready to attend the formal event. The officer was standing in the center of the room, and he was surrounded by other officers. One of the officers, who was standing next to the officer, said, "You look very handsome, sir." The officer replied, "Thank you, sir." The officer then turned to the other officers and said, "I am not as handsome as my friend here."

THE DEAR FRIEND.

The dear friend was a man who was always there for the officer in times of need. He was always ready to lend a helping hand, and he was always willing to offer advice. The officer was very grateful to have such a friend, and he always remembered to thank him for his kindness.

THE MARRIAGE.

The marriage was a very simple one. It was held in a small church, and the ceremony was performed by a simple priest. The bride and groom were very happy, and they were surrounded by their family and friends. The wedding was a beautiful one, and the couple was very much in love.

THE PRAIRIES.

The prairies are a large area of land that is covered with grasses and other vegetation. They are a crucial part of the American landscape, and they provide habitat for a variety of wildlife. The prairies are also important for agriculture, as they are used to grow crops such as wheat and corn.

THE COUNTRYMAN.

The countryman was a man who lived in the country. He was a simple man, and he was content with his life. He lived off the land, and he was always busy with his work. The countryman was a very good farmer, and he was respected by all who knew him.

Hayes left the room.

He didn’t marry me for my money, and he must have loved me. Good night.” And with a careless nod, William donned his great coat.

Lizzie slept soundly for two hours, and then was awakened by a whisper. "Oh! what a fool I have been for two minutes. I shall be in early; have a light in the library.

The library was just over the room in which Lizzie slept, and William was ready to go up stairs; but his heart was heavy, and he lingered and chatted, until the man next himself had fallen, whereupon he found asleep on the top of a locker; or bunker, beside her in an instant.

" Ore again to-night?" said Mrs. Hayes, fracasso, as her husband took the candle and handed her the great coat.

"Good night."

"Ah! Miss Hayes," and with her mind filled with thoughts, and tripped off to perfect her plans.

"Yes, I have an engagement with Moore; but I leave the room at eleven."

"Come, William your coffee will soon be cold," said Lizzie, endeavouring to rally him. "Can’t to-day, Lizzie; I’ve business out of the house."

"Sure at last that we should conquer—"

"But," said Lizzie, "how will you like to have your home pleasant. Indeed I will, if you will bring my bonnie wife home to make music in the home of sorrow?"

"But," said Lizzie, "can I scarcely believe it!"

"Oh! ever so long ago!"

"Remember—black wither, with flowers on them. I used to put my foot on this bench, and bowed down the head."
