Useful and Interesting. Doct. A. G. HULL'S Lately improved Self-adjusting Patent HINGE TRUSS.

THE superior utility of this Truss, consists in its simple mode of application, as well as the happy effect of its approximation (log qualities) of the Rupture-Pad; which to its form and operation, differs from all others, inasmuch as it acts on the principle of a double hinge, presenting its flat border on the outer walls of the aperture only.

THE following communications, in addition to those heretofore published, are submitted. Certificate from Nathan Smith, M. D. C. S. M. S. Lond. Professor of the Theory and Practice of Physic, Surgery and Obstetrics, Yale College.

a variety of instances, and do not hesitate to recommend them, in the strongest terms, to public use and patronage.

MASON F. COGSWELL.

Extract of a letter from Doct. J. B. Whitridge, M. D. fellow of the R. I. Medical Society, member of the Medical Society of South-Carolina and corresponding member of the Physico-Medical Society of N. Y. dated Charleston, (S. C.) Jan. 8, 1820.

Dear Sir—I have attentively examined, and several times applied, your self-adjusting, patent hinge Truss. I am much pleased with the improvement, and do not hesitate to say, that I consider it superior to any thing of the kind which has hitherto come within the sphere of my observation.

Very respectfully yours, &c. J. B. WHITRIDGE.

Copy of a letter from Samuel R. Marshall, Hospitable Surgeon, United States Navy, New-York, to F. Le Baron, Esq. Apothecary General, United States Army.

Dear Sir.—THIS will be handed you by Doctor Hull, the inventor of a Truss that promises to be extremely useful in every species of hernia. It is in my opinion far superior to all the Trusses hitherto used, that I have determined to make use of them in all of the U. States ships, which may be fitted out at this port.

With great respect and esteem, I am, dear sir, truly your obedient servant, SAMUEL R. MARSHALL.

F. Le Baron, Esq. New-York, June 24, 1819.

DOCTOR HULL particularly invites the attention of females, to an Umbilical Truss, which he has recently invented & adapted to ruptures at, or about the navel. Females and children being more commonly subject to navel ruptures, these Trusses are therefore to them of great importance and comfort.

The almost universal neglect of parents, in regard to children afflicted with ruptures, is really melancholy, as the unfortunate child, in growing up to manhood, is liable to linger out a painful existence, or be hastened to an untimely grave. But parents may now learn, that by a timely use of Doctor Hull's Truss and Rupture Plaster, a perfect cure may be expected in all cases of ruptured children, from the earliest period to the age of fifteen years; and most generally in less than ten months.

AMOS G. HULL. Utica, July 5, 1819.

P. S. The above Trusses are to be had at the Druggist Store of Caleb Hammond. Rochester, Jan. 9, 1821. 9tf.

remind him of their peculiar excellencies. He will find the same common sense, dressed in the same simple, chaste garb; and the same original and striking views on the most common and familiar subjects. The book is addressed to the common sense of mankind, in the most simple, unaffected, yet irresistible manner. It is replete with the most pertinent and striking remarks on the daily concerns of common life; and it contains a fund of moral instruction, which for real substantial value, is not surpassed by any production of a similar kind and equal magnitude.

Since the above recommendation was published by me, the following new and revised edition of "The Brief Remarker," has been submitted for my examination: I have accordingly examined it with care, and had the satisfaction to find it well adapted, in its present improved form, for the use of Schools.

THE GAZETTE.

BY A. G. DAUBY.

TUESDAY JANUARY 16, 1821.

The Resolutions.—We have excluded much interesting matter this week to make room for the proceedings and resolutions of the late republican conventions in Ontario and Genesee counties—thinking, that the strong expression of the sentiments of the people here presented is to be preferred to variety of matter. The overflowing indignation of an insulted people, and the extraordinary harmony of sentiment which prevails through the extended ranks of Republicans both in and out of this state on the conduct of the governor and his council in relation to the convention bill, at once gives confidence and support to honest politicians and patriots, and spreads dismay and confusion amongst the factious and the desperate.

Spanish Treaty.—We have pleasure in stating the credible report, that the Treaty between the U. S. and Spain, ceding the Floridas to the former, has at length been ratified unconditionally by the Spanish Government.

Accident.—Mr. Henry Ballard of this village, while with a small party on a Fox hunt on Wednesday last, received a very dangerous wound in his arm and shoulder, from the accidental discharge of his own gun. The mouth of the gun was against his arm as it fired. Great hopes are now entertained of his recovery.

The Military Peace Establishment.—We cannot but observe, that without surprise, how eagerly the partisans of Mr. Clinton catch at every slight occasion, accidentally presented, as the proper one to commence those loud denunciations against the general government for which they stand momentarily prepared. For a long time, their complaints were confined to low and distant murmurs, to deep grumbings within themselves. Since, to be sure, and as soon as their liege commander, at his last annual speech to the legislature had thrown down his glove, as the signal, they cast off the mask and avowed their opposition; but no occasion for clamour and violence had yet presented itself. When, however, the report of the secretary at war, recommending a system for the military peace establishment came out, to the weakest among them, it was the signal for onset. They pounced upon it like young eagles, as they would devour it, but when they found that the military committee had reported to congress a different system, and that the Secretary's might not at last be adopted, they suddenly drew off their forces, wisely concluding the time for clamour had not yet arrived. Whoever will candidly follow the secretary through his reasoning on the subject, will conclude that, let other systems possess what merit they may, his system is at least a good one. He will there find the difference plainly stated, between true economy, and narrow, niggardly policy. A retrenchment of this establishment, in some shape, will be effected.

At a meeting of the Republicans of the county of Genesee, in county Convention, consisting of Delegates from all the several towns in the said county, excepting one, at the house of Worthy L. Churchill, in Stafford, on the 2d day of January 1821, the following Resolutions &c. were unanimously adopted:

Whereas several important alterations of the constitution of this state, have for a long time been correctly called for by the almost unanimous voice of the great body of the people; and whereas his Excellency De Witt Clinton has in various communications to the Legislature recommended a law to be passed authorizing the calling of a convention for that purpose; and whereas at the last session of the Legislature, an act was passed by a large majority of both branches, recommending such a convention, not to alter the constitution, but to prepare amendments thereof to be submitted to the people in their primary assemblies, in conformity to the strict advice of the Governor in his speech at the opening of the session; and whereas the said act was rejected in the council of Revision, by the casting vote of the Governor alone, Therefore:

Resolved—That Dewitt Clinton by this act has forfeited all claim to the confidence of the people of this state; that no act of such gross political inconsistency on the part of the chief magistrate of any state, ought not to be passed over without the indignant reprobation of all honest men.

Resolved—That the reasons assigned by the council of revision in their objection to the Bill, are trifling, and totally irreconcilable with the former conduct of Mr. Clinton, both before and during his present administration; and more clearly evinces a determination on his part to prevent any convention, until one can be had which shall be subject to his control and subservient to the views of his political party—

Resolved—That the necessity of an alteration, or modification of that part of the constitution by which the extraordinary and dangerous powers of the council of Revision, are created or assumed, is sufficiently manifested by this one act on their part—

Resolved—That from the recent management of Mr. Clinton, and the conduct of his political friends, it is evident they are opposed to any alteration of the constitution extending the elective franchise—the most important alteration and the one most loudly called for by the people of this state.

Resolved—That the Republican members of the Senate and Assembly, and Justices Yates and Woodworth two of the Members of the Council of Revision for their independent and patriotic conduct respecting the convention Bill, are entitled to the thanks and gratitude of the people of this state.

Resolved—That the conduct of Samuel M. Hopkins, Fitch Clippman and Jesse Hawley, the Federal members of assembly from this county in disregarding the unanimous voice of their constituents in voting against the convention bill, merits our highest disapprobation; and that we regard with surprise the puerile attempts lately made by their political friends in this county (who met at Batavia, in October last on the same day with the Republicans to recommend and who did earnestly recommend the calling of a convention) to render their conduct consistent and proper—

And whereas the governor in his late communication to the legislature, intimated opinions in relation to the conduct of the officers of the United States Government, which if founded in truth called for the guardian care of our representatives—Therefore,

Resolved—That in our opinion it became the duty of the governor to avail himself of the earliest opportunity to disclose to the Legislature the facts in support of the charge against the officers of the general Government; and that we approve of the measure adopted by the senate in calling upon the governor, for information relative to said charge, as a duty incumbent upon our representatives—

And whereas the opinion of the governor so expressed to the Legislature, tended to excite suspicions prejudicial to the President and Vice President of United States, who were reputed candidates for a re-election—Therefore

Resolved—That in the opinion of the meeting, it became the duty of our representatives to defend the reputation of the highest officers of our country from any reflections, or reproaches not supported by facts.

Resolved—That we concur in the resolution of the senate expressive of their confidence in the administration of the general government.—And

Whereas—The Governor in his reply to the senate for information in support of such charge, refused to comply with the request of the Senate, supported as it was by justice to the party implicated—Therefore

Resolved—That we approve of the course pursued by the senate in returning the answer of the governor, as unsatisfactory and as trifling with the representatives of the people.

Resolved—That the preceding resolutions be signed by the Chairman and Secretary, & that the names of the several Delegates with the towns which they respectively represent be thereto attached, and that the same be published in the Republican newspapers of this county and in the Albany Argus.

JOHN LEE, Ch'n.
GIDEON T. JENKINS, Sec'y.

Resolved—That this meeting approve of the several preambles & resolutions adopted at a meeting of the republicans of the county of Genesee, held at the house of Horace Gibbs, in the town of Batavia, on the 28th Oct. last and that the same be republished in the Republican papers of this county.

ONTARIO CO. CONVENTION.

At a meeting of Republican Delegates from 54 towns at the house of Erastus Rowe in said co. in the village of Canandaigua, on the 28th inst. John Price was chosen chairman, & Thomas P. Baldwin, secretary.

On motion it was unanimously resolved that the Convention proceed to vote by ballot for delegates from this county to the western district Senatorial Convention, whereupon there was balloting accordingly and the following persons were duly appointed for that purpose— viz:—Philetus Swift, John Price, Matthew Warner, Timothy Barnard, Geo. Smith, (of Livona,) Elisha B. Strong & Oliver Hartwell.

On motion it was unanimously resolved that the Convention proceed to vote by ballot for delegates to represent the republicans of this county in the congressional district convention whereupon the following persons were duly appointed, viz:—Ira Selby, Abm. P. Vosburgh, Ebenezer C. Kingsley, Birdseye Brooks, James Ganson, Elisha Ely, and Byram Green.

On motion it was resolved to appoint a county committee of general correspondence, whereupon the following gentlemen were nominated and duly appointed, viz:—Cornelius Masten, Byram Greene, Elisha B. Strong, Harvey Pettibone, Ichabod A. Holden, Oliver Hartwell and Heman Norton:—

The committee appointed for the purpose, reported the following preambles and resolutions, which were unanimously adopted by the convention and the secretary thereof was authorised and requested to sign the name of every delegate present thereto.

RESOLUTIONS.

Whereas—It is a sacred principle in all free governments, but more particularly in this, that the people are the primary possessors and true source of all civil power, and that it is their duty liberally to canvass and review their political institutions, and scrutinize the acts and proceedings of their law-givers, to the end that defects may be amended and evils expunged so that a pure system may be retained:—And whereas experience has demonstrated that the constitution of this state is, in some of its provisions, imperfect and defective—Therefore

Resolved—That it is the duty of the Legislature, in conformity with the wishes of the people to pass a law authorizing an unrestricted convention for the purpose of revising and amending the same—and

Whereas—The eligibility of the citizen to every office of trust, honour or profit, is a principle interwoven with the spirit of our political institutions, congenial with rational liberty, and calculated to develope genius and integrity, whereby the weed of merits becomes free and unshackled and the only sources of legitimate authority remain pure and undeciled:—And whereas the extension of the Elective Franchise, is a desideratum which the leaders of faction, the aristocratical perverters of power, or the unhalloed tergiversations of a chief magistrate, cannot prevent, without being exposed to the greatest obloquy and reproach that can be merited by the stranglers of civil liberty.—Therefore

Resolved—That we view with regret the supererogating veto of his excellency Dewitt Clinton as exercised on the convention bill—that we consider it as a direct violation of a sacred pledge twice deliberately tendered to the people—that it is hostile to equal liberty and equal rights—that it is tyrannical in the extreme, and well calculated as a precedent to subvert our political institutions, and on the ruins thereof to establish a dictatorship.

Considering the reasons assigned by a portion of the Council of Revision against the convention bill as untenable and groundless—as not embracing any cause which could give them equitable or colourable right on the grounds of its constitutionality or expediency to reject it, and believing that the opposition to its passage originated out of, and was predicated on party politics and consummated by his excellency the Governor without just cause.

It is resolved that the friends of the convention bill merit the lasting approbation of their fellow citizens for their zealous efforts to procure its adoption—for their strenuous exertions to blot from our constitution forever those aristocratical features, which give precedence to property, and place beyond the reach of the people, the enemies of equal rights and equal privileges.—And

Whereas—We have lately witnessed various attempts emanating from his excellency Dewitt Clinton and his parti-

zans, to induce a belief that the general government encroaches upon the prerogatives of this state and that its officers as “an organized and disciplined corps” have invaded the dearest rights and privileges of the people; thereby calculating to excite state jealousies, to array the north against the south and the east against the west, to the great prejudice of the people.—Therefore

Resolved—That we have the most unlimited confidence in the administration of the general government, and that we see with regret the adoption of measures by the administration of this state, so well calculated to destroy that harmonious interchange of sentiment which ought to prevail the union.

Resolved—That the senate of this state in repelling promptly the above obvious suggestion of his excellency the governor against the general government, have satisfactorily manifested to the union, that spirit of republicanism which always characterizes a free legislative body, and scorns “to minister at the shrine of unchastened ambition.

Resolved—That we do highly approve of the conduct of the hon. Joseph C. Yates, and John Woodworth Esqrs. for the dignified and decided stand which they took in the council of Revision, in complying with the wishes of the people and boldly advocating their rights in the bill to call a convention to alter the constitution of our state.

CHRISTMAS.
Lo what rejoicings mark the birth
Of each proud royal worm of earth;
And shall no triumphs tell
The dawning of that hallowed day
That free'd the earth from Satans sway
From darkness, death and hell?
Yes, in our houses shall be seen,
The festive boughs of evergreen,
And in that temple Lord, of thine,
The cedar's lovely branch we'll twine,
And there our choicest homage pay,
To him who sought the world to day,
And raise our voices high in praise to Heaven,
That unto man there's a Redeemer given. HENRY.

[From the Lady's Miscellany.]

The following translation from George of Montemayor, is selected, as an elegant specimen of SPANISH POETRY.

Ah, me! thou relic of that faithless fair!
Sad changes have I suffered since that day,
When in this valley, from her long loose hair
I bore thee, relic of my love! away,
Well did I then believe Diana's truth,
For soon true love each jealous care represses;
And fondly thought that never other youth
Should wanton with the maiden's unbound tresses.

Here on the cold clear Ezla's breezy side
My hand amid her ringlets went to rove,
She proffer'd now the lock, and now denied
With all the baby playfulness of love
Here the false maid, with many an artificial tear
Made me each rising hope of doubt discover,
And vow'd and wept—till hope had ceas'd to fear
Ah me! beguiling like a child her lover.

Witness thou how that fondest, fairest fair,
Hassigh'd and wapt on Ezla's shelter'd shore,
And vow'd eternal truth, and made me swear,
My heart no jealousy should harbor more.
Ah, tell me! could I but believe those eyes?
Those lovely eyes with tears my cheek bedewing,
When the mute eloquence of tears and sighs
I felt, and trusted, I embrac'd my ruin.

So false and yet so fair! so fair a mein—
Veiling so fair a mind who ever knew:
So true and yet so wretched! who has seen
A man like me, so wretched and so true?
Fly from me on the wind, for you have seen
How kind she was, how lov'd by her you knew me;
Fly, fly, vain witness what I once have been,
Nor dare, all wretched as I am, to view me.

One evening, on the river's pleasant strand,
The maid, too well belov'd, sat with me;
And with her finger trac'd upon the sand,
"Death for Diana—not inconsistency!"
And Love beheld us from his secret stand
And mark'd his triumph, laughing to behold me—
To see me trust a writing trac'd in sand,
To see me credit what a woman told me!

Sad changes have I suffered from that day,
When here reclining on this grassy slope,
I bore thee, relic of my Love! away,
And faded are thy tints, green hue of Hope!

The first stanza of the original, alludes to a Spanish peculiarity. The hair of Diana was kept in green silk.

[From the Cattskill Recorder.]

WINTER—

"I love thee, all unlovely as thou seemest
And dread as thou art."—Cowper.

Every season has its enjoyments and its discontents; but the triumphs and the desolations of winter are peculiarly and signally its own. Many are the epithets which have fallen upon the bleached head of this "Ruler of the inverted year;" and many are they that reject his dominion, tho' they acknowledge his power. But the well-comers and the hearty deprecators of his approach are after all about equally divided; and comfortless as is his aspect, he has as true friends and followers as most of the legitimates of our time.

I remember seeing once in an old almanack, an emblematical representation of Winter, from a rude wood cut, discovering an ill-dressed female, driven furiously on by the wind, her garments torn, her countenance wild and stern, her right arm distended, and brandishing aloft the remnant of a pointed icicle.

Considering her sex, and mistaking the icicle for a broom-stick, I looked upon the picture as no other than an apt though unfinished type of a scold, until my eye was arrested by the inscription (something after the manner of a countryman's sign) "this is Winter." Numerous have been the allegorical representations of Winter; but the brief personification & apostrophe by Cowper, the true poet of nature, are most to my taste: "O Winter, ruler of the inverted year, Thy scattered hair, with ashet-like ashes filled,

Thy breath congealed upon thy lips, thy cheeks
Fring'd with a beard made white with other snows
Than those of age, thy forehead wrapt in clouds
A leafless branch thy sceptre, and thy throne
A sliding car, indebted to no wheels,
But urged by storm along its slippery way."

There is an aptness and beauty in this that one cannot avoid feeling the force of; & as slightly as I regard the pageants of royalty in general, I cannot but love the titular monarch of this season of good gifts and good cheer. Though he comes often in storms and tempests; yet he comes nobly—there is a stateliness and grandeur in his whole demeanor, that add wonderfully to the effect of his presence, and there is even in his sternness an unflattering annunciation of the ill and the good which we are to brave and to hope for.—And then there are the ungathered joys and blessings, and the Mirth and Pleasantry, that even accompany him; to say nothing of the bright eyes and cheerful minds which reflect so much the more powerfully at his bidding and in his presence. Who then are the haters and revilers of winter?

Not the Poet; for altho' the season of Spring produces more sprightliness of thought and conduct, there is yet a moral soberness prevailing the presence of Winter, which abundantly compensates for feelings of a more rapturous kind, and is not the less allied to the conceptions of poetry. The one produces thought, chastened by moral reflection; the other, feeling, heightened and expanded by the external appearance of nature. Burns wrote best in November; and the imagination of Cowper was more expansive and vigorous in the depth of Winter.—The former, in one of his fugitive productions says:

"The sweeping blast, the sky o'ercast,
The joyless winter day,
Let others fear—to me more dear
Than all the pride of May."

The poets, from Chaucer and Spenser, to Scott and Wordsworth and Coleridge, have distinguished winter as the season of "myrthe and hilaritie;" and when "the heart all chastened loves to muse." One of the sweetest of our modern poets (Bernard Barton) has published the following appropriate "Sonnet to Winter;"

"Thou hast thy beauties, sterner ones,
I own,
Than those of thy precursors; yet to thee
Belong the charms of solemn majesty,
And naked grandeur. Awful is the tone
Of thy tempestuous nights, when clouds are blown
By hurrying winds across the troubled sky:
Pensive, when softer breezes faintly sigh
Through leafless boughs, with ivy overgrown.
Thou hast thy decorations, too, although
Thou art austere: thy studded mantle,
With icy brilliants, which as proudly glow
As erst Colocanda's, and thy pure array
Of regal ermine, when the drifted snow
Envelopes nature: till her features seem Like pale, but lovely ones, seen when we dream."

Not the husbandman; for to aim the season is the quickener of the fruits of his toil, and loud and surly as it sometimes comes unbidden, it brings the promised gladness of a future harvest.

Not the student, whose nerves are strengthened to his labours; nor the club, for long and even dull may be the harangue, and many the repartee, before the night is warded; nor even the dandy and the lounge, for the season brings also their unnumbered expedients to "give time a shove."

Not the lovers of innocent pleasure; for the little courtesies and amusements, and all those generous immunities, which make up the sum of life, and which tend to soften the asperities and jealousies that arise from unsocial habits and unbending natures, are gathered now in clusters; and unfeeling indeed must they be who refuse to partake of them in thankfulness.

Not he who grows wiser and better, in the bosom of his family; for it is he who crowns the season

—"king of intimate delights,
Fireside enjoyments, homeborn happiness,

And all the comforts of the lowly roof
Of undisturb'd retirement, & the hours
Of long uninterrupted evening, know!"

And surely not the Christian, who sees in it the appointment and the hand of Him who "crowns the year with his goodness." Melancholy as may now be the face of creation, in the eyes of some, the christian is mindful only of that great scheme which gives to each season its allotment, & brings each in its own proper time. He well knows that it is but the filling up of his own cup of earthly enjoyment; and the arrival of that annual period when Nature rests that she may again walk forth in beauty. In short, he sees, in this season a confirmation of that sublime truth, on which rests his hope and his belief, that the eyes of the Almighty are over all his works.

Lansingburgh Academy.

The public are informed that this Seminary will be open the second day of January next, on a system which has been recently tested by experience, and which is believed to unite the most valuable principle in the theory of education, with the most solid improvement in the art. This improvement consists in a more thorough SEPARATION of the Teachers' departments, and a more perfect classification of the students. The Trustees, aided by a generous subscription, and prompted by the conviction that a good Academy is more easily supported than a poor one, have erected in the same vicinity two large and commodious buildings to be occupied as a Classical and Commercial Academy. Besides the classical and commercial chambers, there is a chapel-hall, equal to the accommodation of all the Students in weekly and quarterly exercises. The Students will be arranged, for the departments, in two classes, according to the ultimate design of their education, but may be transferred from one department to another, according to their immediate requirements.

The Classical School is to consist of Students in the Latin, Greek and English Classics, including such English Studies only as are auxiliary to the classical course. The Commercial School is to comprise all other Students who are pursuing English studies, or qualifying themselves for the mercantile or any other professional business. Hence this department is not limited to the mere studies of a Common English Academy, but is extended to the higher branches of a polite commercial education, including political economy and the elements of law.

By thus enlarging the Institution, and procuring a permanent professor in the English department, the Trustees have only given expression to the sense of the whole community, as to the paramount importance of elevating the standard of English education; for it is to be lamented, that the most essential parts of a mercantile education, generally remain to be acquired, by young gentlemen, after entering into business,

The professors are well qualified, by education and experience, for the duties of their stations, and will be aided by the Trustees, in arranging the studies and conducting the examinations. Measures will be taken to maintain an efficient and uniform discipline; and students will receive attention to their manners, morals, and religious principles, as well as to their progress in science and literature.

It is needless to suggest to the Public, that the village of Lansingburgh, for local advantages, for natural scenery, for easy communication by land and water, and above all, for the salubrity of its air, and the health of its inhabitants, may challenge a comparison with any other village in this state or the United States.

RATES OF TUITION.

For the Latin & Greek Classics, and the common studies in Colleges, including History, Philosophy, Chemistry, Geometry, Navigation & Surveying, Political Economy, & the Elements of Law, (per quarter,) $5 00
