Robert Toporcer, at the left, and his sister, Ruth, along with Vanney Florence, below, are great Red Wing rooters. Bobby's dad is the Wing pilot and Florence Junior's daddy was pilot when George was sick. Ruth is 10 years old, Bobby is 6 and Vanney is now 3 but will not be a catcher according to Daddy Florence.

Brother Catches, Sisters Cruise

and home as he tried to score. Mills kept the Montreal infield busy until Buddy Lewis had time to reach third base.

There's Hope for Leaf Star, When Playing Days Close

While construction companies probably forgot to detail their scouts to Red Wing Stadium yesterday, there still is hope for Richardson of Toronto to find work when his playing days are over. Richardson is shown above, missing home plate by but six inches, on a blind-folded wheel from second base to win that event in the Stadium field day program. Gabe Paul, running the events; Manager George Toporcer of the Wings, and Manager Boone of Toronto, No. 5, are at right.

COMING BACK, SURE ENOUGH

Rochester's own Rabbit Maranville, the greatest little ball player who ever trod the diamond, tells Judge Emil Fuchs, owner of the Boston Braves, just what he's going to do to conceited youngsters who try to grab his infield job next season.

Bravest of Braves Returns

A thunderous cheer seldom equaled at Braves Field, Boston, rolled out across the diamond as Beantown's favorite baseball figure returned to the park for the first time this year. The cheer was for Rabbit Maranville, the grand little old second baseman for the Braves who still is hobbling around on crutches waiting for his broken leg to heal. The Rabbit is shown in center with some of his mates. He has been convalescing at his home in Rochester.

Rabbit's Leg Out of Cast

Rabbit Maranville's broken leg has healed perfectly and he expects to be practicing in about a fortnight.

By Stretching Hits to Triples, or Over the Fence for Homers, Bears Keep Winning

Newark's front-runners of the International League showed two methods of attack yesterday. At the left, Muller, third sacker, is shown sliding safely into the hot corner as he stretched a safe blow into a triple with fast running and a slide after driving a run across. Jimmy Brown is about to field the ball, too late. Muller later slid into Lewis at the plate to be safe with the second run of the second inning. At right, Vince Barton is rounding third on a trot on his home run over the right field fence to receive a pat of congratulation from Coach Johnny Neun. Incidentally Barton is carrying the run that finally decided the fray in the Bears' favor. It was Barton's 30th of the year.

Provided Big Thrill

Some 17,000 persons roared approval last night as Johnny Mize, big first sacker of the Wings crashed a homerun over the right field wall with the bases loaded in the first game. It was the evening's prime thrill, and enabled Johnny Michaels to win the first game going away.

Cardinal Bad Boys Give Mr. Frisch The Once Over

man's Park, St. Louis. Paul signed a truce yesterday and went back in the lineup but Dizzy carried his case to Judge Landis.

One of the pivotal plays in the ten-inning Red Wing debacle, yesterday afternoon with the Toronto Maple Leafs is depicted graphically in this photograph. Big Ike Boone, who made four solid hits in as many times at bat during the game, slid home safely despite Lewis' desperate tag to tie the score. The Leafs went on from there to win in the tenth, 7 to 6.

Goodman 'Carries the Mail' as He Scores Wing Tally

Ival Goodman is shown sliding across the home plate with the first Red Wing run in yesterday's double loss. Goodman slid at the command of Paul Florence, No. 17, and evaded Catcher Heving's tag. Umpire Collins, at left is calling the play.

FOR HIS BIG DAY IN BOSTON

"Just one Rabbit to another," said Maranville as he stood beside his mascot, a white plaster rabbit. "And perhaps you think I'm not glad to be able to just to stand beside this fellow." And so the Rabbit proved that he'll be moving under his own power when he appears before the big welcoming gathering next Sunday at Boston.

RABBIT MARANVILLE

Rabbit Maranville hasn't played baseball since that day last March, when his left leg was broken as he slid into the plate during an exhibition game between the Braves and Yankees. But the Rabbit is happy, nevertheless, for he'll be back in Boston Sunday for Maranville Day, a big celebration the Braves and Boston admirers have arranged for the little infielder. In this picture the Rabbit demonstrates that crutches are no longer necessary as he takes a practise swing with one of his "wooden legs."

WARMING UP

A letter from Judge Emil Fuchs, president of the Boston Braves, reached Maranville this morning as he was taking a sun bath at his home, No. 1700 Winton Road North. "A great fellow, the judge," said the Rabbit as he read Fuchs' description of plans to make next Sunday a memorable day for the player who has given most of a long baseball life to the cause of the Braves.

On Top National Homer Listing

James (Rip) Collins, former Red Wing first sacker, yesterday tied Mel Ott, Giant outfielder, for the lead in the National League season home run race. Collins hit his 32d of the season for St. Louis against Brooklyn and entered first place.

Goodman won the open 100-yard dash and Smith took the pitchers' race and accuracy throw.

Visitors Had One Chance to Be Happy with Home Run—Cronin Sees Fray

of the right-fielder on a home run drive over the right field fence in the eighth inning for the only runs yielded to the visitors by Norbert Kleinke. Umpire Nallin is shown with "Buddy" Lewis, Rochester catcher. Joe Cronin, extreme right, manager of the Washington Senators, is shown as he witnessed the fray, in conversation with "Heinie" Groh, Rochester citizen and former major league third-base star. Cronin is recuperating from a broken arm

As Wings Smacked Senators in First Game

A crowd of 6,000 fans turned out last night to watch the Red Wings smother the Albany Senators in the first game of the semi-final play-off series. A goodly portion of the crowd is pictured above, and judging from the expressions, the fans were pleased with the goings-on. On the right is Johnny Michaels, southpaw pitcher, who was to get the call in the second game today.

From One 'Big Timer' to Another

A happy fellow last night was Robert Auer, after the one and only Walter J. (Rabbit) Maranville had presented him a wingfoot award for excellence in his track work in the youngest boys' group at the YMCA. Maranville, big league baseball star for many years, was honor guest at the 'Y' dinner yesterday at which awards were made.

Tony's Set for Another Whirl

Tony Kaufmann, veteran Red Wing hurler, yesterday forwarded his signed contract to the Wing office, thereby clearing the decks for another year of service in a Rochester uniform. Four other players also sent in signed contracts

Maybe they won't all click, but if all four of these lads live up to their fancy price tags—or a little bit beyond—they will give the long cellar-bound Cincinnati Reds at least the distinction of owning the youngest big league infield in baseball history. Their market value totaled $128,000 and they average just 23 years of age.

Launches Pro Baseball Career

Myron (Mike) Williams, who won his athletic spurs at West High School, photographed yesterday after trying on his new Red Wing uniform. Williams, a catcher, signed a contract with the Rochester Club last week and will report at the Bartow, Fla., training camp next March. The youngster is an all-around athlete and experts pick him to go places.

Red Wing Infielders Get Assist for Santa Claus

Santa Claus in the guise of three Red Wing infielders of the past season, Johnny Mize, Tommy Carey and Benny Borgmann (from left) paid an advance trip to the Vogel residence, 15 Keeler Street, yesterday afternoon and left baseball presents for Frank Vogel Jr., kneeling with the bat and Donald. The Wing players gave the youngsters, a baseball, glove and baseball bat. Carey is visiting the Vogels while Mize, who was sold yesterday to Cincinnati, is spending the holidays with the Kinsella on Stuntz Street. Borgmann left last night for home but will take his team on the road tonight.

Check Another Assist for George

Although the Red Wings have still to announce their manager for the 1935 race the weighty problem seems to rest lightly with George Toporcer, last years pilot and picked by most experts to succeed himself this year. Every day that skating ice permits George and the Missus can be seen getting their daily exercise at the Easter Widewaters. George is shown above tightening Mrs. Toporcer's skates yesterday as youngsters crowd around their hero.

GEORGE TOPORCER

Refuses to Sign Contract

George "Specs" Toporcer will not manager Red Wings in 1935. Rejects contract calling for wage reduction. Seeks other fields.

'Specs' in New Livery

Seems funny to think of George "Specs" Toporcer in a uniform other than Rochester's. Yet here he is, in the spangles of the Syracuse Chiefs, snapped at the spring training camp of Charlotte, N. C. On the left is Manager Nemo Leibold, Captain Toporcer center, and Business Manager Mike Kelly.

'Specs' Debates Future After Colorful Diamond Career

"If no attractive offers turn up I will probably quit baseball in favor of a business career." Thus did George Toporcer sum up his baseball status after flatly rejecting the 1935 contract tendered him by the Red Wings. Toporcer, a member of the Cardinal chain for 14 years, has long been a colorful figure in baseball. Above are some highlights in his career; insert upper left; the way he looked on joining Cards in 1921; upper right, his first major league appearance in New York, Cards vs. Giants, Polo Grounds, 1921; below, left, his first managerial job, opening day at Jersey City, April, 1931; below, right, Wiley Post, famed aviator, snapped with Toporcer at Red Wing Stadium, 1933.

Where Speed Aided in Scoring Tally for Wings

Benny Borgmann is shown beating the play at home plate with plenty to spare as he stole home in a twin theft with Manager George Toporcer in the 8th inning at the Stadium yesterday. Catcher Heving, shown after missing the ball, had tried to nip Toporcer going to second, and dropped the return toss from Richardson. Heving drew an error as Toporcer continued along to third base to score later with an extra run on Mills' third hit of the game.

As Wings Bowed in Third of Series

Although the Wings lost to the Toronto Leafs in the third game of their play-off series last night, there were several high spots in the game. One of these is pictured above. Buster Mills slid headlong into third in the second inning to beat Regan's throw to Richardson after Carey smashed a liner off Regan's glove. On the right is Joe Morrissey of the Leafs coming home with the run that won the ball game in the 13th inning. He scored on Howell's single.

Just an Old Baseball Custom among Diamond's Stars

About this time of the year it's into the gym to take out and shed superfluous avoirdupois kinks for those who would be baseball stars in the spring. Above at the right "Rip" Collins, St. Louis Cardinals first sacker and the leading slugger of the National League, is seen baking out at the Central YMCA in preparation for the start of the grind. Maybe he is getting ready for his contract battle with Owner Sam Breadon and Uncle Branch Rickey of the World Champion Cardinals. Tommy Carey, of the Red Wings, left, is working on the rowing machine while the ever attentive "Doc" Hurley, trainer of the Rochester team, checks to see if everything is functioning as it should.

Quartet of Baseball Notables

A Big Four in Baseball attracted attention last night at the Knights of Columbus Father-and-Son banquet. Left to right they are: Rabbit Maranville, baseball's great Little Man; Warren

C. Giles, president of the Rochester Red Wings; Frank F. Frisch, manager of the world's champion St. Louis Cardinals and George Specs Toporcer, manager of the 1933-34 Red Wings.

Just A Cheerful Little Earful in Winter Baseball

Frankie Frisch, manager of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals at the left, is getting an earful from "Rip" Collins, Rochester's own adopted son and first sacker for Frisch's team. Rabbit Maranville is giving George (Specs) Toporcer, at the right, the same kind of treatment. It all happened last night at the Columbus Club Auditorium at the Fathers and Sons annual dinner which was held under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus. About 500 attended the affair.

Launch Convention Bureau Campaign

Annual drive for members and funds was launched today by the Rochester Convention and Publicity Bureau at Powers Hotel. This year $25,000 is being sought by 59 workers and division chairmen to be used in bringing conventions here and to advertise the city. In the above photograph Warren C. Giles, chairman, is beating the drum to start the drive, and with him (left to right) are Roy P. Brainard, division chairman; Harry B. Crowley, president, and Fred J. Odenbach, William T. Nolan and Augustus S. Mertz, also division chairmen. The drive ends Friday, and report meetings will be held each noon at Powers Hotel during the campaign.

One Hit, Everyone Safe!

James (Rip) Collins, famous first baseman for the world champion St. Louis Cardinals baseball team, is a Rochesterian fully convinced of the value of safety glass on automobiles. He is showing Eleanor Moss of 327 Rocket Street how a baseball, striking the glass, will break it but not cause it to fly and cut passengers. All of the new cars to be shown at the Auto Show at Edgerton Park Jan. 21 to 26 will be well-equipped with safety devices, according to Arthur C. Lohman, show manager.

an idea of the fighting phiz of the Carolinian. Pat will play first base as well as pilot the Red Wings. He is regarded as one of the fine types of batters in the majors. Today he is in a hospital at Kingston, N. C., recovering from a serious case of blood poisoning.

Well-Deserved Congratulations

Al Hollingsworth, southpaw pitcher of the Toronto Leafs (left) received congratulations from all sides last night, following his excellent performance in beating the Red Wings, 2 to 1. He fanned 12 of the home boys and gave only four hits. Nolen Richardson, Leaf shortstop is shaking his hand in the photo.

1934 World Series Features Cardinals vs. Tigers

Battlegrounds of Cards and Tigers in World Series Games

Sportsman's Park, shared by the St. Louis Cardinals and Louis Browns, again will be the scene of world series games Friday, weather permitting. This famous park, shown above, was the setting for the Cardinals' home conflicts in the classics of 1930 and 1931, the first of which they lost to the Athletics and the second of which they won. Park seats 34,000.

Twenty-five years have elapsed since the Detroit Tigers engaged in a world series and on the silver anniversary of the last debacle, the diamond classic comes back to Navin Field today as the Tigers clash with the St. Louis Cardinals. Even with temporary bleachers erected on the Tigers' lot, the series teams will find plenty of room to range in the Navin park, as the above picture indicates.

g wallop might have represented only run off him but the "General" retired for a pinch hitter and successors were promptly belted all over the park. Marberrysted only two-thirds of an inning and Hogsett, a southpaw, gained control of a hopeless situation only after being pasted for a double by Al Delancey, Cardinal catcher, which brought in the last two St. Louis runs.

The Cardinals themselves contributed to the sloppy performance with two errors marked up against their agile center fielder, Ernie rsatti, but they had nothing much to worry about and seemed on the whole to be playing very much like a big college football team going through the motions of an early season "breather" game.

The outcome, on the basis of the home guard's dismal showing in the first World Series setting Detroit had had in 25 years, was a rifle shock to a crowd of 42,505 whose customers who contributed $39,643 in gate receipts.

The crowd itself fell considerably below expectations and was several thousand short of the ballyhooed capacity of Navin Field, but any disappointment caused by this development paled by comparison with the mortifying performances of the Tiger infield, right out in public in the full glare of the most piercing of all baseball spotlights and before a gathering that was primed to cheer the discomfiture of the great Dean.

just about blown to the cool breezes that are adding a chilling note to baseball's annual big show.

They failed by only one to equal the all-time record for errors in a single world series game and their partisans hope today's performance is not the forerunner of an attempt to equal the series record of 19 errors, registered in seven games of the 1909 series by the last previous Detroit champions.

Third Baseman Owen's first error, when he failed to handle a smash from Manager Frank Frisch's bat in the opening inning, did no damage to the Detroit cause except a Billy Rogell threw wild on the relay back to first base. Medwick was forced out but Collins scampered to second on the error and then ran all the way home as DeLancey's hard grounder drifted through Greenberg's hands and into right field.

By this time the home-town crowd was beginning to boo the Tigers as lustily as they had started out to jeer Dizzy Dean and his mates. There was a brief Tiger flurry, with two out, in the third when Jo-Jo White walked and Manager Mickey Cochrane and Gehringer singled, the latter's base hit tallying White, but Greenberg took a futile swing at Dean's fast ball for a third strike.

Medwick's third straight hit was his fifth-inning homer into the temporary left-field stands but the Cardinals applied the crusher in the next frame with an attack that quickly drove Crowder's replacement, Marberry, from the box.

Dean started it with a long double to left center, a hit that gave him as much pleasure as anything he did all afternoon. Martin's single, Rothrock's sacrifice and successive singles by Medwick and Collins produced another run and chased Marberry to the showers. Hogsett's first pitch was pounded over "Goose" Goslin's head for a double, scoring two more runs, but the Indian southpaw kept the Cardinals in check thereafter.

Dean, sometimes gesturing disdain for the Tigers, continually fling his fast ball across the corners and occasionally arguing with Um-

GIL DOBIE'S TEAM READY FOR 2D TEST

Faces Richmond Team Saturday; Hopes For Dry Field

Ithaca, Oct. 3.—'34 Gil Dobie's Cornell eleven is now at the height of preparation for its second 1934 game Saturday with the University of Richmond here on Schoellkopf Field.

Last Saturday's 14-to-0 victory over St. Lawrence showed very little of Cornell's real strength or weakness, as the game was played in a continual downpour which made footing tricky and passing almost an impossibility, thus making this second game an important one in the eyes of all football fans.

The Big Red team threatened twice during the first three quarters, but were held back by the stalwart St. Lawrence line. Stirred by the record crowd for a season opener, the Cornell team finally crossed the visitors' goal twice in the fourth period, both times by dint of a forward passing attack launched by Capt. Walt Switzer.

Official statistics of the game show real latent power in Cornell's

Part of Vast Detroit Throng and First Game Heroes

Here are the boys who whooped it up the noisiest, the bleacherites, at the opening World Series game yesterday. Joe Medwick, left, and Dizzy Dean, right, were the big heroes who gave the fans something to cheer about.

Just a Corner of the 42,000

More than 42,000 baseball-hungry fans stormed Navin Field, Detroit, for the first game of the World Series between the Tigers and the Cardinals, tying up traffic to such an extent that the game was twenty minutes late in starting. Here is a section of the bleachers during the game, showing the baseball bugs packed in like the proverbial sardines.

'The Ripper' Turns Actor

Hal Sherman, comedian on the current bill at the RKO Palace Theater, is seen giving some stage pointers to James (Ripper) Collins, World Series baseball star, who will appear on the stage with Sherman today at 2:23, 5:36 and 8:49 p. m. Rip, as all Rochester baseball fans know, is the star first baseman of the World Champion St. Louis Cardinals and formerly starred with the Rochester Red Wings. His home is in Rochester.

Diamond to Stage

James (Rip) Collins brushed up on his Shakespeare last night as he finished his rehearsals for a stage appearance today on the regular program at the RKO Palace. Collins, Rochester's representative in the World Series, will spin a for baseball yarns.

Rates Highly in National Loop

Jimmy (Rip) Collins, Rochester boy and slugging first baseman of the St. Louis Cardinals, compiled one of the best all-around batting averages of any player in the league during the past season. Collins was the only Cardinal player to finish among the first ten batsmen in the loop.

"Rip" Collins, Rochester's pride in the World Series is back home. With him he brought a spike-torn shoe, which he is showing in the above photo.

Close-up of Five Cards Who Played Winning Hand in Pennant Deal

It must have been in the Cards. The experts picked them to win the pennant in the spring but Frankie Frisch's boys waited until only a dramatic finish made the flag possible for the Mound City athletes. Pictured above are some of the players who figured prominently in the

'Ripper' Collins' Cheer Leaders Clear for Action

There was plenty of excitement at the Culver Road home of "Rip" Collins, St. Louis first sacker, yesterday. With Daddy playing against the Tigers today at Detroit and Mother away for the classic the rest of the Collins clan made preparations for a box seat via radio. Betty Collins, at right, perched expectantly on the floor while Warren at the radio dial and James Jr., left, made a final checkup to see that everything was in readiness for the first broadcast from Navin Field this afternoon.

Dean Knocked Dizzy

A baseball thrown with rifle speed by Shortstop Rogell of Detroit accomplished what Tiger batters had been unable to do—it knocked out Jerome "Dizzy" Dean, Cardinal ace pitcher. Above Dean is shown as teammates carried him from the field half-conscious after the accident during the fourth game of the World Series at St. Louis.

Home the Conquering Hero Comes

The whole family turned out to welcome James "Rip" Collins and Mrs. Collins as they returned today from the world series wars. Collins in

Cardinal players are shown carrying Dizzy Dean off the field at St. Louis a few moments after the National Leaguers' pitching ace was felled when hit in the head by Rogell's throw in the fourth game.

Collins' Son Listens to Tale of Great Tiger Hunt

Warren, youngest member of the Collins family, listens attentively as his daddy, James (Rip), St. Louis Cardinal first base-mana, relates how the National Leaguers twisted the Tiger's tail in the World Series. Collins returned yesterday from St. Louis.

'Daffy' Dean and Newest Pilot

Paul (Daffy) Dean is shown above with his newest manager, the former Dorothy Sandusky, now Mrs. Paul Dean. They were married suddenly last week. Picture was taken at a football game in Little Rock a few days before the event. At that time the pitcher refused even to give the name of his companion.

'Mirror Blinded Me'

Unfairness by Detroit fans was charged today by James "Ripper" Collins, Cardinal first baseman and former Red Wing star, as the teams prepared to start the third game of the World Series at St. Louis. Collins declared Cardinal batsmen were hindered by a flashing mirror from a factory window facing Navin Field. The "Ripper" made two singles in nine times at bat in the two games at Detroit.

Tiger Caged, Deans to Start Reaping Golden Harvest

Dizzy, head of the House of Dean, gleefully twists the tail of a toy tiger at the right after completing the rout of the Detroit Tigers by pitching the Cards to an 11-to-0 victory. At the left Diz reads one of several hundred offers the famous pitching brothers have received from theater and baseball magnates while Paul and Mrs. Dean look on.

Baseball Brothers Do It Again

The "Demon Deans," Paul, left, and "Dizzy," who scored their second "double" of the week in the Metropolis when they let Brooklyn down with three hits, all scored off "Diz" in a double bill yesterday. Paul capped off the day by hurling a no-hit, no-run game, the first since 1931 in the major leagues.

Hallahan Versus Rowe

Bill Hallahan

"Schoolboy" Rowe

"Dizzy" Dean having delivered his stint yesterday with an 8 to 3 victory, Wild Bill Hallahan, left, has been chosen by Manager Frankie Frisch to carry on the pitching burden for the Cardinals in the second game of the World Series today. The Tigers will pin their hopes on "Schoolboy" Rowe, right, a star of the American League season.

Trade Winds Blow Big Leaguers into New Ports

form, and George Watkins who went from the Giants to the Phillies. Top row, Dick Bartell, Phillie star who recently became the property of the Giants; Pat Malone, burly Cub flinger transferred to the Cardinals; Johnny Vergez, who has swapped his Giant uniform for a Phils' suit, and Bud Tinning who came to Cardinals by way of Chicago.

It's Your's Hank!

Lanky Hank Greenberg, Tiger first baseman, about to catch a pop fly from a Cardinal bat in the World Series at St. Louis. Hank was the batting star of yesterday's game with four hits.

This Bump Started the Row

Climax of the rough and tumble that featured baserunning of Tigers and Cardinals in the world series came in the sixth inning of the deciding battle at Navin Field, when Ducky Medwick hurtled against Third Baseman Marvin Owen as Medwick went into the third sack on his triple to right, as shown here. The pair squared off, then thought better of it.

Rothrock Slides Home Safely with First Card Run

Jack Rothrock, Cardinal outfielder, is shown scoring the first run in the sixth World Series game at Detroit yesterday.

Jack reached the plate with plenty to spare on Joe Medwick's single. Mickey Cochrane has left his feet to gather in Fox's throw.

'Pepper' Martin made a great stretch but failed to get his hands on the ball and Jo Jo White slid safely into third base in the fourth game of the World Series. It was one of a trio of miscues chalked up against the 'Wild Horse' in this game.

Will Pilot Champions in 1935 National Campaign

Frankie Frisch, second sacker and pilot of the St. Louis Cardinals, world champions, yesterday was named to direct the club again during the 1935 season. He signed a one-year contract after a short talk with Owner Sam Breadon.

Cardinal Pitching Ace Dropped by Thrown Ball

One of the greatest action pictures of the sports year shows "Dizzy" Dean, star St. Louis pitcher, as he was struck in the head and felled by a thrown ball in the fourth World Series game. The A. P. cameraman clicked his shutter a fraction of a second after the ball thrown by Bill Rogell, right, struck Dean, who had just entered the game as pinch runner.

Martin and Rogell Hit Dirt in Wild Mixup at Second

"Pepper" Martin and Bill Rogell, Tiger short stop, all tangled up after Martin's wild charge into second base in third game of World Series. Martin got to the bag safely when Rogell went down, missing ball shown on ground.

Rothrock Camps Under Gehringer's Fly in 1st Inning

Jack Rothrock, St. Louis right fielder, came in fast to take Charley Gehringer's fly and retire Detroit in the first inning of yesterday's final World Series game. Gehringer is shown rounding first while "Rip" Collins looks on near the edge of the grass. Frankie Frisch is running out toward Rothrock. Umpire Reardon, is watching the play.

Durocher Scores Winning Run

Leo Durocher slides over the plate with the winning run in this picture, giving the Cardinals a 4-3 victory over the Tigers in the sixth game of the World Series at Navin Field, Detroit. Durocher had doubled in the seventh inning and scored from second on Paul Dean's single to right. Waiting for the throw is Catcher Mickey Cochrane, with Umpire Bill Klem calling the play. The fourth man in the picture is Pepper Martin.

Rothrock Scores First Marker

First run of the sixth World Series battle was scored at Navin Field, Detroit, as Jack Rothrock, Cardinal right fielder, slid across the plate as shown in this picture. Rothrock, after doubling with one out, scored from second on Med-wick's single. Snagging the throw-in is Catcher Mickey Cochrane, with Umpire Bill Klem calling the Card runner safe. Backing up Cochrane stands Schoolboy Rowe. Jimmy Collins, next Card hitter, is the fifth man in the picture.

As Tigers, Led by Schoolboy, Evened Series Count

A ringing single to center flew from Pepper Martin's bat as he started the Cardinal's half of the third inning of the second World Series game at Detroit. Shortly after being sacrificed to second by Jack Rothrock, Martin scored on Joe Medwick's single. Here is the Pepper Pot getting his bingle, with Mickey Cochrane and Umpire Bill Klem looking on.

A scorching grounder from the bat of Jack Rothrock, Cardinal's outfielder, found its way into the capacious mitt of Tiger Second Baseman Charley Gehringer in the Cards' half of the first inning of the second World Series game at Detroit. Gehringer to Greenberg—and Master Rothrock was an easy out. Here's the action at first base.

Who Started Trouble? Camera Catches Rumpus Play

Marvin Owen, Tiger third sacker, is shown with his right leg high in the air dodging Joe Medwick's spikes as the husky Cardinal outfielder slid into third base in the sixth inning of yesterday's series game. Evidently Medwick thought Owen was trying to step on him when the latter planted his foot back on the turf and when the Card outfielder lunged at the Tiger third sacker the two players soon became engaged in a merry mixup. When Medwick attempted to return to his post in left field fans showered him with oranges and pop bottles and he was removed from the contest.

Detroit Fans' Wrath Flamed High

The fans in the left field stands clamored for vengeance, when Ducky Medwick strolled out to take up his position in the left garden for the last half of the sixth stanza. Pop bottles sang through the air, vegetables and fruit came in a shower. Ducky was signaled back to the infield. He went in, then came back to the pasture, but once more the irate fans showered him. Umpires, players, photographers and groundkeepers rushed out and went into a huddle.

Judge Landis Ended Hostilities

Back to the home plate boxes moved the parade, and Judge Landis, indicated by arrow, went into-conference with Manager Frisch, shown before him, right, and Medwick, left. Back of them were arrayed the photographers and behind the cameraman, Owen, No. 8, waited. After mulling over the situation, Medwick went to the dugout, Owen back to the third sack, the other players resumed their positions, Fullis going to left field, play went on, and peace descended over the battleground.

What's a Skinned Chin or Two in a World Series

Jo Jo White had to dive head first to beat Dizzy Dean's throw as the Cardinal hurler attempted to pick him off first base in the opening series clash. "Rip" Collins is taking the ball which arrived a second too late to catch the Tiger outfielder.

Freshman Pitcher Dean, Catcher DeLancey Top First-Year Crop on Showing in National Loop

Form Sterling Battery for Cards, Success in Season, Series

St. Louis, Oct. 16—(AP)—While St. Louis baseball fanatics danced their joy on the Mississippi levees, they didn't forget to sing the praises of fair-haired Bill DeLancey, a good half, though perhaps the lesser half of the finest freshman battery to come up to the major leagues in years.

Bill DeLancey and Paul Dean were teammates on the Columbus team of the American Association in 1933. They were important factors in bringing the Little World Series title to the Ohio capital then, but their play, though it merited a chance with the Cardinals, parent club of the Columbus team, did not indicate that they would be the outstanding battery combination in the National League and heroes of a World Series triumph in one brief year.

When the cardinals started this amazing season in the sleepy little town of Bradenton, Fla., Bill DeLancey was strictly a rookie catcher, compared to Virgil Davis, whose batting average in the National League was remarkable, and who was considered certain to remain as the Cards' first catcher.

Though Pitcher Dizzy Dean and Catcher Virgil Davis have reached the top, it is more than a possibility that these two youngsters will outshine them before their careers are finished.

Collins and Hallahan Retire White for 1st Tiger Out

Jo Jo White, first Tiger batsman in the second World Series game, was retired when Collins, left, took his bounder and tossed to Bill Hallahan who gathered in the ball and beat the Detroit outfield to the initial sack.

"I just buzz 'em in there and let the batter worry." That's the philosophy of "Dizzy" Dean, the Cards' phenomenal right-hander, shown at the top demonstrating it, wheeling his high hard one plateward. Dizzy was on the mound today opposing Alvin Crowder, Tiger hurler, below, as the first game of the series opened at Detroit today.

'So This Pitcher Grooved One an' I Gave It the Works'

Jimmy (the Ripper) Collins, the spell-binder, the Dan'l Webster of the Cards, was letting his entranced audience have a jawful of Collins lore when this picture was snapped. "Rip" is busier than a one-handed carpenter these days, what with dashing hither and yon to fulfill a crowded speaking calendar. He's getting to be the Sage of the Genesee, or something. As a rookie he's making good with a bang.

Rip Collins Signs Contract

James (Rip) Collins, Cardinal firstbaseman, on advice of Warren C. Giles (right) president of the Red Wings, accepts a one-year contract at an increase in salary. The exact amount is withheld, but Collins avers it is more than $10,000. Picture was taken in the Red Wing office just before noon today. Collins will leave Feb. 25 for the Bradenton, Fla., camp of the Cardinals.

"Make it louder and funnier," advised "Rip" Collins, Rochester's adopted son and first baseman of St. Louis Cardinals, to his boss, Frankie Frisch, manager of '34 world champion ball tossers, as the latter was about to address the Fathers-and Sons banquet held recently in Columbus Civic Center Auditorium.

There's Still Plenty of Life in the 'Old Limb'

"The old leg's as good as new," the doughty little "Rabbit" Maranville, center, told George Toporcer, left and George Mogridge, his baseball cronies, at the Gyro Club's annual "baseball day" yesterday. Maranville, who has started training for his comeback try with the Braves, is confident he'll win the job as regular second baseman.

Familiar Faces Who'll Be Ready When Wings Answer Training Bell

Florida, the land of sunshine and sore arms, beckons to the Red Wings once more and although the camp will be studded with new faces when the first workout is held Thursday it will not be without its sprinkling of veterans. Tony Kaufman has been with the team since 1928 and along with John Berly, another seasoned performer, is counted on to do a large share of the mound work. Buster Mills is back for the third time and if you can believe the Colonel he's going out to pace the International League outfielders. Picture above is typical of setting-up drills which players will be subjected twice daily. It was taken at opening of Spring training last season.

No. 1 Red Wing Flinger

John Berly, curve-ball flinger of the Rochester Red Wings is being counted on as No. 1 starting pitcher this season. John managed to attain a good record last year despite arm trouble and illness that kept him idle the final month of the campaign. An early arrival in the Wings' training camp at Bartow, Fla., Berly has advanced rapidly in spring conditioning, and was named as starting pitcher in the Reds' game against Detroit today.

Tommy Carey Named Captain Of Red Wings by Pilot Dyer

Portsmouth, Va., Apr. 13—(Special Dispatch)—Tommy Carey, shortstop for the Red Wings in 1933 and 1934, tonight was named field captain of the club for the 1935 season by Manager Eddie Dyer. Dyer, who left the club last night for a brief visit to Asheville, N. C. wired the announcement.

The selection of Carey was made after careful deliberation. Several of the older players on the team volunteered the opinion that Carey would be the logical man and when Dyer studied the situation himself he confirmed the ideas of his veterans.

Carey recently rejoined the Red Wings after his second trial with the St. Louis Cardinals. He first advanced to the Cardinals following the 1933 season, his first with the Red Wings. He made the spring training trip with the Cards last year and was dispatched to the Wings in March.

With a flock of rookies in the Bartow, Fla., camp, Dyer finds his seasoned material a big help in tutoring the youngsters. Flowers wore Cincy Redleg livery as an infielder and Spencer hurled under spangles of the Giants and the Pirates.

John Berly, the Rochester Adonis will go to the mound this afternoon for the Red Wings against the Newark Bears. The curve ball artist rates as the man ready to stop the hard-hitting men of Bob Shawkey according to Manager Dyer.

NEW BOSS IN FIRST TEST

EDDIE DYER

Ruppert Stadium, Newark, N. J., is the scene and today is the day for Dyer to make his debut as manager of the Rochester Red Wings in International League competition. Dyer fell heir to the post when Pat Crawford, originally slated to succeed George (Specs) Toporcer, was ruled off the diamond for a year under doctor's orders.

New Captain

Tommy Carey, clever little shortstop, will guide the field play of the Red Wings this season.

Makes Debut

Eddie Dyer, of Houston, made his first appearance as International League pilot when he led Red Wings against Newark Bears.

New Wing Infielder

'SPARKY' ADAMS

It Started Just Like Any Other Opener but Wound Up Differently

Jimmy Brown started the Red Wings off yesterday at Newark as if they might win. The peppery little second sacker is seen arriving at first base safely in the initial inning. Jimmy was the first man at bat. Prexy Warren Giles and Manager Eddie Dyer of the Rochester baseball club, right, are talking things over before the game. There was no Red Wing celebration after the fray. Rochester hopes to notch first verdict today.

Jimmy Brown Gets First Wing Hit

A crashing drive to deep center was the greeting the young keystone for the Red Wings gave Southpaw Kleinhans as the game started yesterday but it was a futile gesture as the final score indicates.

Estell Crabtree Sets Homerun Pace

In the seventh inning "Crabby" bashed the ball for the circuit to notch first homer and lead the way for the others but the hit meant nothing in the face of a barrage of Bruin runs.

Thrills, Spills and Flowers Crowd Baseball Bows

Richardson of Newark is going down after tripping over Barton of Rochester in the opening Rochester-Bear tussle at Newark. Note Mr. Richardson's strained expression.

A Slide in the Nick of Time

Art Graham, Syracuse outfielder, hits the dirt to best pitcher's throw to John Mize at first base in Red Wing-Chief game.

Jerome (Dizzy) Dean, the Cardinal ace, laid low in the opening game, is getting the X-ray treatment and a lot of professional advice after the mishap. He will be back soon.

Mize Comes Back to the Wings

St. Louis Cardinals surrender slugging firstbaseman on plea by Giles after third defeat at Baltimore.

Johnny Comes Marching Back Home

Johnny Mize will be back in Red Wing spangles Wednesday at Syracuse when Rochester faces the Chiefs. Johnny will be in town today to talk things over with Prexy Giles.

Here they are, boys, the 1935 Red Wings who'll pry off the lid at the Stadium against the Newark Bears this afternoon.

Plenty of new faces but the wouldn't be in there if they didn't have something on the ball. The boys are rarin' to go and if they mess things up they will hear about it from the cheering section. Only three were in home opener last year.

Gene Moore, left, picks out a warclub and prepares to take his "cut." He'll make first start in Red Wing uniform this afternoon. Center, Tommy West, who will catch "Caesar" Lyons' shoots this afternoon, adjusts inflated chest protector to make sure all is in good working order. At the right, Eddie Dyer, new Wing pilot, obligingly puts his autograph in the book of one of his many young admirers, Carl Yellow.

Thumbnail Sketches Of Red Wing Players

catching prospect to wear Rochester regalia in years. Healy, with the Giants and Cardinals last year, is 24 years old, but has been in baseball five years. He is a right-hand hitter.

LARRY BARTON—Rookie first-base candidate, up from Greensboro of the Piedmont League. Has plenty of long distance power. His fielding is sensational. He bats and throws lefthanded. 22 years old.

JIMMY BROWN — Last year's regular third-sacker who is being transformed into a second baseman this year. The Boston Red Sox thought enough of him to purchase an option on his services for 1936 for a substantial amount. He is 23 years old and bats and throws righthanded.

TOMMY CAREY—One of the minor league's outstanding shortstops the past two years. He had a trial with the Cardinals this spring. Bats and throws righthanded. 25 years old.

JAKE FLOWERS—The veteran of the Red Wing infield. Played with Cincinnati last year and has seen service with Brooklyn and the Cardinals. Bats and throws righthanded. Only 30 years of age.

BUSTER MILLS—One good season in the International is all that is needed to send this young man to the majors. He has so much speed, fire and defensive skill that any kind of a halfway decent batting average will do the work. One of the best base runners in the league. 2 years sold. Bats and throws righthanded.

ESTEL CRABTREE — A great fielder and a long and timely hitter. Rated by players on his own team as the most valuable member of the 1934 Red Wings. Bats lefthanded and throws right. 29 years old.

HOMER PEEL—Veteran outfielder. Always has been a good hitter. Last played in the International League with Syracuse in 1927. Last year was with Giants, Minneapolis and Nashville. Bats and throws righthanded and is 32 years old.

JOHN BERLY—Regarded as the club's ace. Won fourteen and lost eight before going down with bronchial pneumonia last year. Throws curve balls incessantly. One of baseball's handsome men. 31 years old. Led International League in 1930.

CLARENCE HEISE—Southpaw who led the American Association in pitching in 1933. Also with Columbus last year. Has had sore arm all spring and it is a question whether he will be much use to Red Wings during early part of season.

TONY KAUFMANN—Veteran of of the pitching corps. Had broken wrist last year and was out of action part of time. Now in perfect shape and has done exceptionally good work this spring. A good hitter. Bats and throws righthanded.

JAMES LYONS — Called Little Caesar by the players. A shrimp, who struts like a maestro and smokes big, black cigars pushed way back in his mouth. Won fourteen and lost six for tail-end Elmira team last year and has good chance of making the grade with the Red Wings. Only 5 feet 6½ inches tall. 22 years old.

MAX MACON—Believes he is the best pitcher in the world. Welcomes an argument as it gives him marvelous opportunity to talk about himself. Also a southpaw. Broke in with Hutchinson, Kan., last year. 19 years old and stands well over 6 feet tall.

GLENN SPENCER — Veteran righthander who has been in the majors with Pittsburgh, New York Giants and Cincinnati. Bothered by sore arm last year but claims it is healing now. Depends largely on his fast ball. 29 years old.

JOHNNY MIZE—Big Johnny, first sacker, recently obtained from the Cardinals is the powerhouse of the team. His long distance hitting is expected to win many a game this summer. He says his leg injury last year does not bother him. He is righthand thrower but bats from the left side.

GENE MOORE—Outfielder from the Cardinals who had batting average of .340 with Columbus in the American Association last year. Left-handed hitter expected to add punch in the attack. May switch with Homer Peel in right field. Today will mark his first appearance in Wing livery.

JOHNNY MICHAELS — Southpaw pitcher returned from the Chicago White Sox after a trial this spring. Always effective in the International League, winning 16 games for the Wings last year. Johnny as otherwise known as "Stony."

DICK WARD—Righthand pitcher, sent over from St. Louis to bolster the mound staff. Figured by Dyer to be a regular starter. Dick enjoyed a good year in the Pacific Coast League last year, winning 13 and losing 4.

NATHAN ANDREWS — Young righthand pitcher up from Greensboro of the Piedmont League. He was effective and had a good earned run record, despite his record of seven wins and 10 defeats. Looked good in spring training camp, warranting further trial.

MAYWOOD BELCHER—Southpaw twirler only 20 years old, won his first two starts for the Wings this year. One of these was from Newark. With Greensboro last year and won eight and lost six there. One of the coolest rookies ever to hit camp; doesn't ruffle when the going gets tough.

WARD CROSS—One of the best looking young pitchers in training camp, throwing plenty from the right side. Joined Columbus late last year and won six and lost five. Only 21 years old, he stands six feet and weighs 185.

TOMMY WEST—It looks like a big year for young West, who shares the catching with Francis Healy. Tommy started hitting opening day at Newark, and has not stopped since. Was with Knoxville last year. Bats from the left side of the rubber.

EARL ADAMS — Veteran of many years of major league experience, "Sparky" Adams will no doubt prove of value as a utility infielder. He plays every position in the infield, including first base. Is the oldest man on the club, claiming 37 years. Played a stretch with Cincinnati last year.

Madison Nine Starts Season With Win Over Jefferson, 8-4

4 Games on Today's Card; East and West Collide In Feature Fray

Play in the Interscholastic Baseball League was officially opened yesterday afternoon on the Genesee Valley Park diamond with Madison High making an auspicious start, turning back Jefferson, 8 to 4. Long distance hits rang off the bats of the Wilson Park lads and the offerings of two Jefferson tfrilers were bombarded over the lot.

GeGorge Reisinger led the assault on the flingers with two ringing triples and a double to drive in three runs. Bob Stewart and the Walter brothers contributed two doubles apiece to drive in tally after tally. Argento, on the mound for Madison, hurled effective ball, limiting the losers to six scattered blows.

Four Games on Program

Four games are on tap for this afternoon, with all frays slated to start at 3:30 oclock. Franklin will play host to Edison Tech, East High will pair off with its old rivals West High, at the West High field, Monroe, joint defending champions, will cross bats with Vocational High at Elgerton Park, and Charlotte will tangle with Marshall at No. 40 School.

Hubbard, first string hurler, fo

Franklin High, injured his hand in chemistry labratory and will be forced to watch the game from the sidelines today. George Loveland, sophomore hurler, will probably shoot his slants at Edison Tech. Tech has Frank Vas back for mound duty.

Marshall will field a young and inexperienced nine in its clash with Charlotte today. Tom McKeon, pitcher; Robert Popp, first base, and Paul Crego, third base, are the only veterans that remain from last season's baseball edition.

Coach Pete McKay has practically his entire team from last season to pit against East's traditional foe, West High. West, jointly defending the championship with Monroe, will have Vic Caccamise on the mound. Caccamise turned back East last season in the opening encounter.

Monroe Faces Vocational

Coach Ralph Blair's 1935 baseball machine will attempt to setback a comparatively weak Vocational High aggregation. John Ryan, pitcher, Irv Snyder, outfielder, Ames Curchin, first base, Frank Avery, second base, George Gamble, outfielder, and Ralph Du Boise have all returned for another season of baseball to give the Redjackets a strong nine.

Vocational's lone setback is the need of a first rate flinger. Lynch,

B-r-r-r! Cold, certainly, but feminine fans were ready for it. Estelle DeKoker, left and Kathryn Wengender brought along winter furs to opening game at Red Wing Stadium yesterday.

"We're for the Red Wings." That's what bleacher boys (above center) were shouting when photographer came long. Bleacherites whooped it up all afternoon despite the cold. No opening game would be complete without parade to flag pole. Here's band, members both teams marching to center

Frigid Air Fails to Spoil Opener for Fans and Home Team

action on the field. Mayor Charles Stanton, center, tossed the first ball, but it was a very wild heave. On the right, Tommy Carey is shown after he hit under one of LaRocca's pitches for a high fly. In the lower strip, "Sparky" Adams, new reserve infielder in on the

man in the center shot, as Gene Moore slid head first into third base safely. Jim "Little Cesaer" Lyons, who covered himself with glory in blanking the Bears is on the right.

He's Got Class Around That Third Base Sack

A fixture at third base in the Red Wing lineup is D'Arcy (Jake) Flowers, former National League infielder. Flowers is a polished fielder and he gives Wings clever combination on left side of inner works along with Capt. Tommy Carey at shortstop

Mize's 'Butterfly Net Glove' Gets Wild Ones

John Mize, Red Wing first baseman, shown with new first baseman's mitt, dubbed the "butterfly net glove" by players

John Doesn't Mind What They Call It as Long As He Catches 'Em

They call it the "lobster pot" and butterfly net glove. Long John Mize, the designer, hasn't any particular name for it and doesn't care what the boys call it just so long as he goes on snaring high, wide and low throws.

It all started a year ago when Georgia Johnny, observed a funny contraption on Oscar Roettger's first baseman's mitt. Being a rookie John didn't want to talk out of turn so he bided his time and observed Oscar closely.

"It's usually only a matter of an inch or two when you miss one," said John, "and I noticed that Goettger was getting the ones most first sackers got errors for.

In spring training this year Mize was amazed to see Hank Greenberg using a glove patterned along the lines of the Roettger mitt, with taped wire webbing between the thumb and index finger. It resembled a big strainer and extended at least six inches beyond the fringe of the leather.

So John visited a glove maker and designed his own "net" and in Thursday's opener against Newark he used the glove for the first time.

He says there is no rule in baseball against using it. John takes a lot of good natured kidding from the boys but in his own words, "if its good enough for Hank Greenberg then its good enough for me."

There's Power in Those Bludgeons But It Wasn't Noticable Yesterday

Thirty-two home runs in 19 games! That's the record this quartet of Baltimore Oriole sluggers has compiled this spring. Yesterday these mighty bludgeoners were strangely quiet as Dick Ward muffed their bats in nitching a three-hit Red Wing victory. But today is another day and the fireworks are liable to explode any time. Players from left, Eddie Mayo, third base; Woody Abernathy, center field; Vince Barton, right field and George (Pooch) Puccinelli, who leads the home run derby with 10 round trippers.

He Ran for Sweeney but Was Late

Bill Sweeney of Baltimore is seen above being tossed out at first base in yesterday's Stadium tussle in the eighth inning. The Orioles' first sacker was out by the proverbial mile on a great play by Tommy Carey, Red Wings' clever shortstop.

Game off! But Buster Mills didn't waste any time getting his "sweetie" on the telephone. They were just in time for the matinee show at the theater.

'Rain, Rain Go Away . . .'

Before leaving the ball park yesterday, Ed Dyer and his Red Wingers, gathered under an umbrella in the Stadium to put the "whammie" on the dripping skies. The athletes have a right smart ball club now and are anxious to prove it to the fans. But the weatherman just won't seem to co-operate. Players, from left, Tony Kaufmann, Jake Flowers, Dyer (holding umbrella), Tommy Carey and Buster Mills, in the rear.

Catcher Paul Florence, an old Rochester favorite now pastiming with Milwaukee, and Second Baseman Lin Storti donned skis and put in a short practice session during a snow storm a week ago. Paul was at his customary post.

Ready for Wing Infield Action

It won't pay for any of the Rochester Red Wing infielders to fall down in doing their chores or else the peppery Sparky Adams will be in there. The big league veteran who is a legend for hitting in the pinches is ready to take his place.

Robbery, First Degree

And 'Specs' Comes Home

George Toporcer, erstwhile Red Wing pilot, returns as an enemy but picks local team as one to beat in pennant race.

THEY'LL CLASH TODAY!

Dick Ward To Face Pooch and Company

DICK WARD

When those busting bombers from Baltimore move into Red Wing Stadium this afternoon to open a four-game series with the Rochesters, the visitors will have to bat against Dick Ward, big right-hander who was sent here early this week by the Cardinals. It will be Ward's first start in the International League, and Skipper Dyer, still smarting under the sting of four straight defeats at Baltimore, hopes his new pitcher will be able to silence the Oriole bats. George Puccinelli, league leader in smiting home runs, holds no love for the Cardinal chain.

GEORGE PUCCINELLI

We Have With Us Today . . .

Yes sir, it's none other than your old palsie, George Toporcer, in the livery of the enemy. "Specs" belongs to the Syracuse brain trust now and the other half of course is Manager

Nemo Leibold, right. The ex-Wing boss makes his first start here today when the Chiefs trek into Red Wing Stadium. Bring cotton batting for the din should be terrific.

D. and C. Weekly Lessens Tension Before the Game

The Democrat and Chronicle's new Screen and Radio Weekly has made a hit with the Red Wings. Here is a quartet of players en-

As Wings Lost a Big Run at the Plate

Most everyone in the ball park thought Buster Mills was safe in a steal of home in the third inning of yesterday's first game with Newark, but Umpire Sweeney called him out, and a run was lost. Later the Wings dropped the game by a single run, 5-4. The photo shows Mills sliding into Wallie Hershberger, Newark's catcher.

Take That! 'Specs' Rubs It In With Triple; Brown's Raid at Third Base

He won't get credit for it in the official records but George Toporcer got a lot of satisfaction when he smashed a long triple to left-center in his first appearance at plate against Wings yesterday. He scored a moment later with first run of game. Below Jimmy Brown takes a "belly whopper" into third but he didn't have to. Ball went over head of Wera (in air) and Brown romped home. Jim's score was in vain however as rain turned diamond into quagmire and umpires called contest at end of third inning after long wait. If weather permits they'll stage a doubleheader this afternoon.

Mills out in Debatable Play at Plate in First Game

Everybody thought Buster Mills safe at the plate on attempted steal of home in 3d inning of first game at Stadium but Umpire Sweeney saw it the other way. Run cost Wings' ball game as Bears came back to win, 5 to 4. Buster appeared to have beaten ball to plate after getting big lead when Wicker, took full windup before delivering the ball.

Covering Short Stop with Tommy Carey

'The best shortstop since Tommy McMillan'. That's what wise old baseball heads are saying about Tommy Carey, brilliant little captain of the Red Wings. Above left, Tommy whips one over to first. Upper right, lays down a bunt to move a runner along. Center, makes perfect toss to Jimmy Brown for start of double play. Lower left, comes up with hot bouncer over bag. He knocks down balls over second that other shortstops don't budge after. Lower right, spears a line drive in full stride to rob batsman of a base hit.

Covering S

The Syracuse Chiefs may be near the bottom of the league, but they've done better than any club against the Red Wings to date at home. Two games have been played, with honors even, the Wings taking the first game yesterday and the visitors the nightcap. Bits of spicy action caught by the camera are shown above. On the left, Buster Mills is seen rapping out a two-bagger that drove in two runs in the first inning of the first game. Gene Moore did some neat running to slide into the plate safely (center) in the same inning. On the right Johnny Mize is a force out at third base as an attempted sacrifice went wrong. It was a long afternoon, but the crowd seemed to enjoy it. A goodly number of ladies turned out for the season's first doubleheader.

'It Ain't Gonna Rain No More' Chant Wings in Vain

'It Ain't Gonna Rain No More' is the theme song of the Rochester Red Wing quartet, but it doesn't mean a thing with the weatherman who has cut down the Dyermen with monotonous regularity. The crooners from left, Jake Flowers, John Berly, Buster Mills and Tommy Carey snapped yesterday afternoon as they ran over a few bars at their hotel.

When Old Baseball Pals Meet

"Hack" Wilson, left, and "Sparky" Adams reviewed old times yesterday before the Rochester-Albany game. "Sparky" and "Hack" were in the big time together. "Hack" now plays rightfield for the Senators and Adams broke into the Red Wing lineup at third yesterday for the first time.

Gene Applies the Clincher

Any doubts as to which club was to be the winner in the Rochester-Albany game yesterday at the Stadium were dispelled in the eighth inning as Gene Moore pumped a homerun over the right field wall at the 346-mark with Crabtree on base. Those two runs sewed up the contest as Ward Cross pitched three-hit ball. Moore is seen crossing the plate.

A familiar figure cavorted in the pre-game infield workout of the Red Wings yesterday afternoon. He was Charlie "Swampy" Wilson, former Red, who stopped off at Rochester bringing Mrs.

Wilson, who is a local girl, home. When the photo on the right was snapped, he was watching his former teammates whip the Albany Senators. On the left is Bud Hafey, rounding third base after reaching second on Mills' miff of his drive.

Eddie Dyer Jr. Can Hit 'em in Marble League

Eddie Dyer Jr. shown as he took his final "hitting practice" before opening of Democrat and Chronicle marble tournament while his daddy, the Red Wing boss, gives him a few pointers. "I think the D. and C. is doing a great thing for youngsters in staging event," said Eddie before departing for Toronto yesterday for series with the Leafs.

When Jake Closed the Gate to Mr. Kellett

Don Kellett, late of the University of Pennsylvania and now of the Albany Senators, gave 'em that old "college try" when he slid into third base in second inning at Stadium yesterday, but it was to no avail. Jake Flowers, ball in hand, was waiting.

Red Wing centerfielder Crabtree (right), scoring first homerun in the local stadium, receives the handshake of Jake Flowers, third baseman, as he crosses plate. Later in the same game Flowers hit one over the fence for the second four-sacker.

Jimmy Brown Hits Dirt in 8th but Not in Vain

Jimmy Brown, above, is seen as he arrived at third base in the eighth inning of yesterday's Red Wing-Montreal Royal game. Our Jimmy was safe although he had to hit the bag in a hurry to beat the throw. He scored later with an extra run for the Red Wings.

It Was Bouquet for Flowers with Two Home Runs

Jake Flowers was the big man with the stick in yesterday's first Rochester-Montreal game. Twice Jake hit for the circuit and his blows drove in four runs. He is seen above getting the glad hand from Tommy West at home plate after his first round tripper

Another 'Pea-Souper' Hits the Dust

This is not a photo of the latest Russian dance step; it is Fresco Thompson of the Montreal Royals sliding into third, ducking the throw at the same time. Fresco tripled in the seventh inning of the first game, but it was wasted as the Wings won 12 to 8. The nightcap went to the Royals, 5 to 0.

'Brother Crabby' Never Complains

Estel Crabtree, his teammates call him "Brother Crabapple," is one of the most popular players in the International League. Crabby has been with the Red Wings since the middle of the 1933 season and his ability and willingness to play wherever needed are qualities which have made him solid with the fans.

Center field is Crabtree's natural spot and he rates tops as a defensive outfielder. His knowledge of hitters and his speed in covering ground have helped Rochester pitchers out of innumerable tight spots.

Crabtree played first base last season for several weeks while Mize was out of action and it was then that Crabby demonstrated that he is a stoic. Early in his tour of duty at first base, the emergency first sacker suffered a painful injury when a thrown ball hit the end of his left thumb. The injured thumb was stiff and swollen to twice its natural size, but Crabby remained in there without complaint.

When Crabtree's baseball days are finished he expects to step into insurance, a business he has been building for several years in Nelsonville, Ohio, his home town. Crabby is giving this business the same careful attention he devotes to baseball, which means that he will learn everything he can about his future line of work.

Everyone in the crowd of more than 13,000 fans had his share of fun as the Red Wings split a double-header with the Buffalo Bisons at the Stadium yesterday. The crowd pictured above was made up mostly of Rochesterians and they were pretty glum when the photo was snapped, third for a stolen base in the same frame.

as the Wings were taking a beating. They had their chance to cheer later as the locals copped the second game. Upper left shows Ollie Carnegie receiving the congratulations of Manager Ray Schalk of the Bisons after his first inning homer. Below, Ray Fitzgerald is sliding into

Pitcher Slides to Third After Ninth Inning Triple

Just to prove that a pitcher can hit Bill Harris, Buffalo twirler, hit a triple in the ninth inning of the initial battle.

He is seen above sliding safely to third base. He was hurt on the play. Umpire Parker is at scene on time.

All Hands Safe When Carey Heaves Wild to Mize

It was safe at first for Ollie Olson of the Bisons in the first frame when Tommy Carey pegged a wild throw to Johnny Mize in the initial frame. Olson and Mize can be seen watching the ball as it continues on toward the stands while the Wing fans groaned.

CHIEF BOMBER FOR WINGS

When baseball talk turns to discussion of bombers, the name of Johnny Mize, Red Wing first base man, is sure to be mentioned. Young John hits a ball as hard as any man in the game and he has been doing pretty well at the plate against pitching that is more careful than anything the rest of the Rochester lineup is asked to bat against.

Mize was unfortunate in suffering a groin injury early last season and the big boy from Georgia was lost to the Reds for some sixty games. He was sold to Cincinnati during the winter on a conditional agreement and the Cincinnati club finally decided that it did not care to invest the $55,000 required to take title to Mize's services. This refusal was based on the claim that Mize had not entirely recovered from his injury of a year ago.

When Mize returned to the Reds in April, he came back with more zest for baseball than he had shown in 1934. The first baseman, a native of the Deep South, is not built for speed, but Johnny has made considerable progress in overcoming this handicap and the manner in which he ran out a two-base hit in the last game the Reds played here showed that he is extending himself to the limit of his ability.

Opponents of the Reds regard Mize as the bell cow of the Rochester attack and enemy pitchers are ordered to bear down with everything they have when John is at the plate, because the opposition figures that a game is half won if Mize can be stopped.

Kleinke to Join Red Wings; Slated to Pitch Wednesday

Young Right Hand Who Won 19 Games in '33
Comes from Cards

Norbert (Nubs) Kleinke is coming back to bolster the Red Wing pitching staff. The sensational youngster who won 19 games in his freshman year last season will join the club Wednesday and will pitch the inaugural night game of the season against Toronto at the Stadium that night.

President Warren C. Giles made the announcement between games at the Stadium yesterday, after he had talked with Frank Frisch, Cardinal manager, over the long distance telephone in Chicago. It was the fifth time that Giles had contacted Frisch in the last 24 hours as the St. Louis boss was reluctant to depart with the powerful right hander.

Kleinke won 19 and lost seven last year ranking as one of the league's premier flingers. Only the fact that the Cardinals are in the midst of a winning streak and have been getting good pitching of late made it possible for Rochester to get him back.

With Dick Ward returning to form in the second game against Buffalo yesterday it is hoped that the down-trodden Wing staff will be moulded into a formidable pitching corps. Frank Pearce, although not too impressive in his debut yesterday, is calculated to help the club once he gets accustomed to the League.

Burt Shotton, appointed Saturday to succeed Eddie Dyer as manager, is expected to join the team Wednesday or Thursday at the latest.

NORBERT KLEINKE

Thursday will be bargain day this week. Today is an off day.

Woolworth Staff Dissolved As Lyons, Belcher Are Cut Adrift

The Red Wings' Woolworth pitching staff was dissolved yesterday when President Giles ordered Caesar Lyons and Maywood Belcher to doff their aprons and get out from behind the counters. The Woolworth staff, lost its first member last Saturday, when Nate Andrews' was given railroad fare to Asheville.

MAYWOOD

a ticket to Greenwood, Miss.

Never again, sighed Prexy Giles after athletes had departed, "Never again will I look for million dollar pitchers in the five and ten cent store."

Both Lyons and Belcher showed occasional flashes of form early in the season but acquired the knack of hitting opposing batsman's bludgeons so well that it nearly proved fatal to all concerned.

Manager Shotton Gives His Red Wings A Pep Talk

Believe It or Not Here's 2d Sacker Tagging Oliver Out at Home

Bill Hunnefield, Wings' new second sacker and Oliver, Toronto centerfielder figured in a unique play yesterday afternoon at the Stadium. Oliver tried to come from second base on Ike Boone's fielder's choice but Hunnefield raced in from second to tag Oliver as he tried to go back to third. From left are Oliver, Bill Hunnefield just after making play, Umpire Parker, Schulmerich of Toronto, next batter, and Catcher Healy.

Meet Bert Shotton---Red Wings' New Pilot

—Umm. Some story.

—“Guess it's alright.”

—Now for a pipeful.

—Bring on those Maple Leafs!

Burton Edwin Shotton, new manager of the Rochester Red Wings, is shown above in candid camera pictures taken in his rooms at Hotel Seneca today by Joseph Durnherr, Times-Union photographer. Shotton will pilot the Wings in their first owl game of the season—and, incidentally, his own—tonight at Red Wing stadium. The Toronto Maple Leafs furnish the opposition.

The Red Wings, under their new manager Burt Shotton had several opportunities to score in their first game under the lights last night, but muffed them. One of these came in the fifth inning when Mills

and had to be removed in the fifth. The right is a general view of the good-sized night game crowd.

Maybe 'His Nubs' Can Remedy This

Norbert (Nubs) Kleinku arrived in town yesterday to read about the plight of his former Red Wings in the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle. He set some kind of record hurrying from the St. Louis Cardinal camp and will be on the firing line against Toronto in tonight's owl fray at the Stadium.

Burt Shotton, Manager.

JOHN BERLY

He's Coming Back to Help the Limping Red Wings

Glenn Spencer, former Wing twirler, is coming back to the Rochester nine. He figured in a deal which sent John Berly to the Dallas nine of the Texas League. Spencer has been twirling winning ball for the Dallas Steers and will come here after an impressive Texas League record. He is slated to join team next week in Buffalo. Spencer was with the Wings at training camp and came up north with the Rochester aggregation. His showing with the team was far from impressive and he was cut adrift. The change apparently proved a big help to his mound efforts for he immediately started a winning streak at Dallas Stadium.

LITTLE LEADER BOUND TO RISE

If you have watched the Red Wings through the last three seasons, you must have noticed the smooth playing of Tommy Carey at shortstop. Critics rate the Hoboken Harp as the best shortstop in the International League, and Captain Tommy hopes that 1936 will find him attached to some major league club as a regular.

Carey has spent two spring training periods at the Cardinal camp in Bradenton, but it was his misfortune each time to land there when Frank Frisch had more infield talent than he could use to advantage. Tommy found it impossible to break into the St. Louis lineup and each time he bounced back to the Rochester club.

Next Spring, however, Carey will be doing his stuff for some major club other than the Cardinals, unless the front office at St. Louis undergoes a change of heart. There are several clubs in the big show which could use Tommy to advantage and his third shot at a job in the upper strata of baseball should find him hitting the mark.

Carey grew up in a neighborhood where youngsters started to play ball as soon as they could swing a bat. He was still in short pants when he was accepted as a regular with one of the leading semi-pro clubs in the Metropolitan district and he was not yet out of his teens when he held down his first job in professional baseball.

Captain Tommy—he's boss of the Reds on the field—felt badly last Spring over his failure to stick with the Cardinals, but the little shortstop gave no sign of his feelings as he dug in, determined to MAKE some major league club notice him this year.

Returns to Wings

Paul Florence, former Rochester Red Wing favorite, is coming back to Norton Street Stadium. Florence, a smart catcher, should help the Wing pitchers.

Old Favorite Back in Wing Fold

Ray Harrell, favorite with the Red Wings, will be back at Norton Street Stadium tomorrow. He was obtained from the Cards and will show against Toronto in the day's double bill.

BURT SHOTTON

Toporcer, Crawford, Dyer, Shotton—thus reads the list of men who have held the title of manager of the Reds during the last year. Toporcer and Dyer were deposed; illness took Crawford out of the picture, and today Burt Shotton is battling to lift the Wings from the depths of the second division.

I Hope It's for Keeps This Time

Glenn Spencer, recently returned to the Rochester Red Wings, was hoping that he was here for keeps this time. As he unpacked his trunk yesterday he told Prexy Giles that he is here for the rest of the season if he gets any breaks.

Coming Back to Wings

PAUL FLORENCE

It was good news to Rochester fans yesterday when the Red Wing offices announced the return of Paul Florence, catching mainstay of the local club for several seasons. Florence will re-join the Wings in time to catch one of the Fourth of July games.

Safe at Third---New Red Wing Battery

Our George Spoils No-Hit Tussle

George (Specs) Toporcer, former Red Wing manager and now the man of the hour at Syracuse, was the only thing that stood between Cook of Toronto and a no-hit game yesterday afternoon. Specs got a single in the first frame of the second game. It was the only blow off Cook.

Mills Arrives Safely at Third in Cloud of Dust

Wing-Leaf tussle yesterday at Red Wing Stadium. The Buster died at third as his mates failed to hit timely to bring him in.

They Both Hit The Dust but Jake Got There First

May, Newark third baseman, rapped deep to Jake Flowers at first base in eighth inning of yesterday's game at Stadium but Wing first sacker beat him to bag as both went for the dirt. Pociask, new Rochester pitcher, is shown as he dashed over to the bag to help Flowers make putout if necessary. Pociask was slow on the play so Jake had to hit dust.

Couple of Home Run Sluggers Ready for Action

The old International League home run king, Jimmy (Rip) Collins, left, met the new loop home run monarch, George (Pooch) Puccinelli, yesterday afternoon at Red Wing Stadium. "The Ripper" was home for a two-day holiday from the St. Louis Cardinals. Jimmy is tied with Mel Ott for the National League circuit crown while Puccinelli now is setting the pace for homers in the Knapp-directed circuit.
