

	Page		Page
Baker, Johnny	8	Collins, George B.	20
Cadoret, William H.	15	Colmey, John	20
Cady, Louis E.	16	Colton, Lewis	9
Cady, Arthur E.	13	Combs, Jerome A.	10
Cady, Adolph W.	13	Commissa, Tim	10
Cady, William H.	15	Conce, Crying	20
Cady, Charles	5	Connolly, Thomas W.	18
Campbell, Carl P.	16	Connors, John	20
Carpella, Alophosse	13	Connors, Peter	11
Cordus, Arthur L.	13	Corole, Clement V.	19
Carro, Elmer J.	16	Conrad, Albert J.	6
Carroll, William P.	17	Cook, Roy O.	9
Caruso, Clarence	16	Cook, Stewart G.	19
Case, Dr. William L.	17	Cooper, Paul H.	19
Cashman, Thomas J.	13, 15	Cooper, Thornton K.	10
Castle, Arthur	12	Corcoran, Thomas	7
Castle, Harward De H.	13	Corris, John W.	11
Castle, Wilmot, Sr.	16	Cort, Herman	10
Cekuta, Albert	12	Costello, John S.	19
Cheddie, Otto A.	14	Couch, Wallace P.	10
Chaintreau, Jean M.	14	Cowles, Arthur B.	11
Chapin, Harrison L.	14	Cox, James	7
Charbonneau, Edward	14	Crandall, Charles F.	1
Cherbonneau, James W.	13	Crane, Court	1
Christensen, Wallace C.	12	Crapsey, Arthur H.	18
Christie, Thomas H.	14	Creary, James R.	11
Cimino, Anthony	17	Creelman, John A.	11
Clark, John F.	8, 13, 17	Cremaldi, Samuel F.	11
Clark, Robert B.	16	Culhane, Daniel C.	18
Clerke, Thomas G.	17	Culhane, Daniel P.	18
Clement, Ernest W.	14	Culligan, Joseph P.	1, 2
Clifford, Jack	16	Culloton, Bernard A.	21
Cline, George F.	14	Cunningham, Charles J.	20
Coapman, C. Walter	10	Cunningham, Frank J.	16
Coates, Edward F.	18	Curley, Henry Y.	16
Cody, Col. William E. ("Bugsy's Bull")	3-5	Curtis, Albert B.	20
Colan, Jack	10
Corn, Herman C.	13
Collins, George	9

SB

Honor Carrierboy

Biog. C.
Democrat and Chronicle

D. & C. FEB 18 1940
Ready To Enter Business

Note to business executives:
This is one of a series of articles designed to acquaint you with the qualifications of Democrat and Chronicle carriers who have reached the age when they desire to enter wider fields of business. These carriers have been through a long period of training and experience in this newspaper's carrier organization.

COURT CRANE
19 YEARS OF AGE

Education—Court Crane has a high school education. He majored in commercial subjects and graduated with an average rating. He has also studied music and is a church soloist.

Special Capabilities—Court is a big lad and can stand plenty of physically hard work. He is athletic and goes in for skating, baseball, tennis and cross-country running. He is somewhat of a draftsman and would like clerical work or something to do with time keeping in a factory office. He is open minded and easy to get along with. Court is a clean-cut lad, American born, and has an excellent record as a carrier salesman of the Democrat and Chronicle, serving readers of this paper for nearly four years. Court wants a job, any job that is respectable.

If you would like further information regarding Court Crane or an interview with respect to employment, call the circulation manager, Democrat and Chronicle, Main 7400.

FIREMEN PLAN CULLIGAN RITES

D. & C. NOV 24 1937

Ninety of the city's firemen will form a detail for the funeral of Battalion Chief Joseph P. Culligan Friday.

Appointed by Chief George N. Fletcher, the group will attend services at Immaculate Conception Church at 10 a. m. for one of the most popular chiefs ever to wear a uniform in the city fire department. Culligan died Monday morning in Genesee Hospital following injuries suffered at a fire Nov. 2.

Brief services will be conducted at the home of his brother, Charles J. Culligan, 98 Melrose Street, prior to church services. Chief Fletcher also appointed a special committee to attend the services, including Battalion Chief Edward G. Selke, Capt. Raymond Schleyer, Lieut. Harry Kirke and Fireman Charles Hall. Bearers will be: Chief Fletcher, Battalion Chiefs Selke, John Slattery and Frank Gallagher, Hall and Edwin Yockel.

Burial will be in Holy Sepulcher Cemetery.

Battalion Chief Culligan 1937

Battalion Chief Joseph P. Culligan died a hero's death, from the effects of injuries sustained in the performance of duty. These injuries, resulting from a three story fall at a fire on Nov. 3, proved more serious than at first supposed. Coupled with later complications they sapped his strength.

The sudden accident that was to cost the life of this valued and esteemed officer emphasizes the risks that are the daily experience of those who protect the public from danger. Every alarm of fire is a call to danger, just as every detail of duty is a potential risk to the policeman. Chief Culligan had been a fireman for 28 years, rising by merit from one post to another. At 53 he was able to look back upon a career of faithful service, upon a long record of challenging dangers that always found him ready and unafraid.

His death is a loss to the department and a cause of sorrow to the city that he served. Words are a poor reward for supreme devotion to duty; yet those who serve under the consciousness of a public trust expect little more than that. Chief Culligan has joined the army of those whose names are inscribed on Rochester's wall of memory—those who were faithful unto death.

Times-Union NOV 24 1937 Joseph P. Culligan

On Nov. 3, while engaged in fighting a fire, Battalion Chief Culligan fell three stories. His injuries, with ensuing complications, have now led to his death.

It was the death of a brave man in the line of duty, engaged in service on behalf of the community.

Probably every fireman who has been in active service for a period of years has had narrow escapes, has perhaps been injured. It is perilous work thus to battle with smoke and flames, often under weather conditions which greatly increase the hazard.

Chief Culligan was an experienced, capable man. He had been a member of the Fire Department for 28 years, rising by merit to the responsible post he occupied when the accident occurred which cost him his life.

His death is a loss to the department; a cause of deep regret to the men who worked with him and appreciated his character and capacity, and to the city which received his devoted service.

Chief Culligan Rites Friday

Final tribute to their well-loved chief, Joseph P. Culligan, will be paid by Rochester firemen at funeral services Friday morning.

Chief George N. Fletcher has appointed a detail of 90 firemen to attend services at Immaculate Conception Church at 10 o'clock, which will be preceded by a brief service at the home of Battalion Chief Culligan's brother, Charles J. Culligan, 98 Melrose. A special committee composed of Battalion Chief Edward G. Selke, Capt. Raymond Schleyer, Lieut. Harry Kirke and Fireman Charles Hall also will attend the services.

Bearers will be Chief Fletcher, Battalion Chiefs Selke, John Slattery and Frank Gallagher, Hall and Edwin Yockel. Burial will be in Holy Sepulcher Cemetery.

Lines Form in Hospital to See Chief

D. & C. NOV 17 1937

Joe Culligan's conversation leaves off where the plaster of paris casts begin.

From his bed in Room 417 Northwest, Genesee Hospital, Battalion Chief Joseph wishes to inform the world he's "okey from the knees up" and recovering rapidly from Election Night's bad luck when he plunged three stories to the ground while fighting an $85,000 fire in two industrial plants in Anderson Ave.

He leaves unsaid details hidden by the casts. But the hospital is glad to speak for Joe, a courageous and cheerful patient from the beginning. Both legs are fractured, an ankle is shattered and a heel crushed. A large order even for a fireeater.

Joe was one of eight firemen injured in the three-two alarm fire which added to the furor of election. Hurt mostly seriously, he has only one comrade left in the hospital, James Garland, who is recovering from rib fractures at Highland.

Culligan's visit to Genesee Hospital was his first as a guest of any medical institution and he has laid a neat bundle of problems in the lap of the Genesee authorities.

These problems are concerned with visitors. The chief with the genial smile has too many friends and he wants them all to visit him. So the little glass-in porch at the rear of the northwest wing has become an impromptu waiting room for the friends of Joe. One at a time in the room is the rule.

Joe has had other falls than that of Nov. 2, falls almost as far as the three stories he fell two weeks ago today, but he always had escaped injury. He refers to them now as "bumps." In 29 years in the Fire Department, he figures, averages are apt to catch up with a man, and they were a little long in overtaking him.

Everybody is welcomed cheerfully by the chief—everybody but photographers.

"Gee," he ruminated, "I'd sooner go off the ladder again!"

Firemen Attend Chief Rites

While stalwart colleagues who had faced death with him many times gathered with bowed heads, Battalion Chief Joseph P. Culligan of the Rochester Fire Department was borne to his final resting place in Holy Sepulcher Cemetery this morning.

Final rites for the 53-year-old veteran fire fighter were conducted at the home of his brother, Patrolman Charles J. Culligan, 98 Melrose, and at Immaculate Conception Church.

Succumbs to Injuries

Chief Culligan died Monday in Genesee Hospital of injuries received fighting a fire in two Anderson Ave. plants late election night.

Today, his two drivers, Edwin Yockel and Charles Hall, his chief, George N. Fletcher, and three fellow battalion chiefs, Edward G. Selke, John Slattery and Frank Gallagher were active bearers.

Every Company Represented

More than 80 firemen, representing officers and men of every company in the city, attended the rites.

Honorary bearers were:

Harold W. Baker, Charles Stanton, Thomas P. O'Leary, Paul B. Aex, Augustine B. Hone, John G. Schreiber, Thomas G. Morrison, Morgan D. Hayes, John V. Lewis, Jeremiah J. McCarthy.

Walker E. Lee, William Flannigan, Patrick Slavin, Louis Lazarus, Joseph E. Silverstein, John Hart, Lester P. Rapp, Donald A. Dailey, George J. Nier, Charles E. Owen.

R. A. Hamilton, Harry J. Barcham, Curtis W. Barker, Edward Miller, William Deegan, Michael O'Brien, Frank Tegg, Monroe Hedges, William H. Graen, Dr. William Hartigan.

Dr. Arthur Johnson, William Hall, Edward Boelmer, Frank X. Kelly, George Welch, Henry T. Copenhagen, William P. Miller, James Collins, George Steinmiller, George V. Heisel.

James Morgan, Harold J. Burns, George Ruthenberg, Edward Dohbertin, Charles Roth, Edward Fisher and William McLaughlin.

Sudden Relapse Fatal To Injured Chief Culligan

Times-Union NOV 22 1937

Apparently recovering from leg fractures suffered in a three-story fall while fighting an election night fire, Battalion Chief Joseph P. Culligan took a sudden turn for the worse, and died in Genesee Hospital today.

Death struck the 53-year-old veteran of numerous battles with flames at 10:50 a. m.

Chief Culligan seemed to be on the road to recovery yesterday. Unexpected complications set in today and his death followed.

Coroner David Atwater issued a certificate of death due to complications following injuries suffered in the $85,000 fire which destroyed two Anderson Ave. plants early in the morning of Nov. 3.

In his plunge three stories to the ground, Chief Culligan suffered fractures of both legs, a shattered ankle and a crushed knee.

Chief Culligan celebrated the 28th anniversary of his appointment to the fire department last July 1. He was promoted lieutenant on Dec. 1, 1920, captain on Apr. 16, 1925, and battalion chief on July 1, 1931.

His career was marked by nu-

JOSEPH P. CULLIGAN

merous thrilling experiences and narrow escapes from serious injuries.

FORMER JUDGE GETS $6,000 JOB AS ENFORCER

D. & C. JUL 17 1941
Bechtold Attends Joint Committee Gathering

Appointment of a state director and a meeting of state legislators to ponder possible amendments last night focused attention on the new financial responsibility act for motorists that takes effect Jan. 1.

Former City Court Judge Bernard A. Culloton of Kingston, a Democrat, was named to the $6,000 a year job of director of the bureau enforcing the new law, Tax Commissioner Mark A. Graves, announced. His appointment is the forerunner to other designations throughout the state expected to be made within two months. Monroe County is anticipating from two to four jobs.

As the state administration was setting up the new bureau, a joint legislative committee, of which State Senator Karl K. Bechtold of Rochester is vice chairman, met in Alexandria Bay to discuss amendments. The main feature of the bill, providing a motorist involved in an accident causing $25 or more damage, personal injury or death, must post security to cover any judgment resulting from the accident, will be unchanged, it was said.

Insurance is considered security, under the law, which is designed to drive irresponsible motorists from the road. Assemblyman Russell Wright of Watertown is chairman of the committee and any recommendations for legislative action next session will be sponsored by him and by Bechtold in the Senate.

Bechtold said the lawmakers also will talk about proposed changes in the standard fire insurance policy and other insurance matters.

Friends of 'Buffalo Bill' Question Wisdom of Plan to Move Bodies of Three Children to Side of Father

Rochester Public Library
54 Court St.

Above, graves of three children of "Buffalo Bill" Cody in Mount Hope Cemetery, which a friend of the famous frontiersman would move to site of their father's grave on Lookout Mountain, Colorado, shown below. Right, "Buffalo Bill."

Those He Buried Near Home Should Remain, Old Friends Say

By MARGARET FRAWLEY

The desire of A. C. Irving of Milton, Mass. to remove the bodies of three children of Col. William F. Cody, "Buffalo Bill," from Mount Hope Cemetery for burial with their father on Lookout Mountain, is not regarded too seriously by the late Colonel's friends in Rochester.

The attempt does, however, serve to jog the memories of chroniclers as to the existence of the three graves in a secluded corner of the cemetery and recalls the years, half a century ago, when the Cody family resided in Rochester in a little frame house at 10 New York Street.

Family Here First in 1874

Leonard M. Weiner, a member of the undertaking firm of I. A. Jeffreys Company, knew Colonel Cody very well, having met the veteran frontiersman when he came to Rochester to visit his old friend, the late S. A. Jeffreys. Because of state laws and cemetery ordinances, such a removal as Mr. Irving contemplates could be made only with the consent of the two surviving grandsons, Mr. Weiner said yesterday.

"I doubt the good sense of Mr. Irving's plan," Mr. Weiner said. "Personally, I believe Colonel Cody wanted the bodies of his children to remain in the cemetery here. Otherwise he would have taken steps during his life to have them removed. It doesn't seem very likely that either of the two grandsons will consent to his project. That Colonel Cody and his wife should be buried on Lookout Mountain, just outside the city of Denver, is fitting, for he belonged in death as in life to the West."

The Cody family came to Rochester for the first time in 1874, and Mrs. Cody made a home for her three children while her husband embarked on the successful and irksome business of the stage. The year before Cody and his friend, Texas Jack, had rented a theater, persuaded a good friend to write a play in four hours in which there would be plenty of Indians and killings, and had swept the flourishing towns of the Middle West with the rapid fire action of their productions. Mrs. Cody in her memoirs remarks ruefully that the plays were "not much," but that Texas Jack and her husband lent sufficient vigor and dash to their characterizations to make their stilted speeches forgivable.

Colonel Returns to Field

During the second year of Mrs. Cody's residence in Rochester, their second child, Kit Carson Cody, was seized with scarlet fever and died on April 20, 1876. The little boy, then only five years, had been beloved by his father as the lad to whom would come all his dreams for the West.

That same year the Cody's packed their furniture, sold the house and turned back to the West, for Colonel Cody had decided to give up the stage which had proved a tolerably profitable venture to be chief of scouts with General Sheridan. In October, 1883, the third child, Orra Maude Cody, died of remittent fever in the new home at North Platte, Neb., aged 11 years. Colonel Cody and his wife made the sad pilgrimage back to Rochester and in the little plot of land at Mount Hope, with its low iron fence, the burial was made.

Rochester came to know the frontiersman in the years that followed as "Buffalo Bill," who invaded Europe with his famous Wild West Show, and who carried into decorous little eastern towns the adventurous spirit of the new communities beyond the Mississippi. His visits to Rochester were triumphant ones, when the tent was packed and when the daring of his riders won a hearty hand.

Cody Died in 1917

In February, 1904, Arta Cody Thorpe, the youngest of the four children, who had been born here in 1874, died in Spokane, Wash., three weeks after her marriage to an ex-army surgeon, Dr. Charles Thorpe. The body of Mrs. Thorpe was brought to Rochester and interment made at Mount Hope. Three modest headstones in the little plot are the only reminders to the casual visitor to the cemetery. The oldest daughter, Irma, died about two years ago in the Philippine Islands.

Colonel Cody died in 1917 and was buried at Lookout Mountain, 20 miles outside the city of Denver. The city of Denver erected a museum near the grave to house his trophies. When Mrs. Cody died in 1922 her body was placed beside that of her husband.

Would Move Bones of Cody Children Should Rest by Father,

Says Buffalo Bill's Friend

D.C. July 9, 1919

Saratoga Springs, July 8.—With the avowed mission of seeking the removal of the bodies of two children of Col. William F. Cody, "Buffalo Bill," from Mount Hope Cemetery, Rochester, to the grave of their father at Point Lookout, Denver, Colo., A. C. Irving of Milton, Mass., a Summer visitor here, said today that he will shortly go to Rochester.

Mr. Irving, associated with the Henry Miner estate, said today that he was one of the last survivors of those who knew Buffalo Bill intimately, and one of the few who remember that the bodies of Kit Carson Cody and May Cody, 10 and 11 when they died, are resting across the continent from the grave of their father. The Codys were married in Rochester, and these two children died there. At the death of Cody, he was buried in Colorado, and the body of his wife lies in Cody, Wyo., with two daughters.

Mr. Irving was the first press agent with Buffalo Bill when he began his stage and show career. He knew the famous Indian fighter intimately, and tells many reminiscences of him. He is now 78 years old. He intends to remain here for several days he said today.

Stories of Bill Cody Printed Here to Hang On Walls of Museum

Stories printed in The Times-Union two weeks ago on the occasion of the birthday anniversary of Buffalo Bill will grace the walls of the Buffalo Bill Museum at Cody, Wyo.

Mrs. Mary Jester Allen, custodian of the museum and niece of the great frontiersman, today wrote The Times-Union to express her appreciation of the details published of Colonel Cody's associations with Rochester and announced that clippings have been mounted for display in a case at the museum.

R.T.U. Mar 10

1432

URNAL AND THE POST EXPRESS

8/18/31 T

Cody Family Gathers Again To Talk of Buffalo Bill

BUFFALO, Aug. 18.—(P)—Buffalo the days of old. Each member of Bill Cody, pioneer plainsman and Indian fighter, lived again today in the memories of those of his family who have survived him.

Stories of deeds which have made Buffalo Bill the idol of a million children were told and retold as some forty members of the Cody family gathered for their yearly reunion. The family banded itself together into an association shortly after the death of their illustrious ancestor in 1917. Each year they meet and relive the memories of the story of some overlooked adventure of Buffalo Bill. This is done in order that a book now being written on the Cody family will be completed in all details.

Colonel Cody's first wife was a Rochesterian and two of their children are buried in Mount Hope Cemetery. Buffalo Bill paid a yearly pilgrimage to the graves of his children. After his death, his lieutenant, Johnny Baker, followed the custom. Baker passed away a year ago.

Italy Press Hails Buffalo Bill As Native of That Country

His 'Fortune' Sought
By 'Relatives' in Europe

D. & C. MAR 9 1937

After all these years the "truth" about Buffalo Bill came out in the Italian Press yesterday.

William F. Cody was none other than a two-gun rarin' Black Shirt Fascist.

The great Indian scout and fighter of the 19th Century whose sister is buried in Rochester was discovered to be an Italian named Viovanni Tamblani, born in the town of Barbigarezzo about 1840, according to the Resto Carlino, Bologna, Italy, newspaper.

United Press dispatches reported that the Italian press had discovered heirs of the scout living near Parma and they were instituting suit "to recover a large fortune which he left in the United States."

"The suit is not important," Resto Carlino's editorial writers believed, "but it is important that this great hero now is proved to be a typical Italian—who was full of fascist courage and daring."

The fact that the folks out in Scott County, Ia., where Buffalo Bill was born in 1846 would be surprised by the revelation did not annoy the Italian press.

WILLIAM F. CODY

... full of fascist courage?

Neither were the publishers hindered by the fact that white-haired old Bill died in Denver, Jan. 10, 1917, in comparative poverty.

Buffalo Bill's Birthday Stirs Memories of Oldtime Stage Hand

George H. Salisbury Recalls How Celebrated Scout
Made Theater Debut in Rochester in Two Lurid
Melodramas of Life on Western Frontier

D & C 9-26-26, 1932

It might give the late Col. William F. Cody, known as Buffalo Bill, much satisfaction if he could return and see the recognition of his birthday today. As early as yesterday morning, Mayor Charles S. Owen had a glimpse of a letter from the governor of Wyoming, A. M. Clark, written to Governor Roosevelt, bearing greetings from the Wyoming Executive and commemorating the birthday.

The anniversary is being widely celebrated today. Dinners, dances and outdoor gatherings are being conducted in many parts of the country.

Cody's First Stage Appearance

Some amusing recollections of the first stage appearance in Rochester of Colonel Cody were recalled yesterday by George H. Salisbury of 15 Stanley Street, who was a stagehand at the Grand Opera House, where the Family Theater now is.

In 1874 Colonel Cody, having given up buffalo hunting, made his home for a time in Rochester. A friend wrote two exciting plays for him in a few hours. They had plenty of the action of the old West, and were called "Life on the Border" and "Scouts of the Plains." They were given their first performances on any stage at the old Grand Opera House.

In the company were such famous scouts as Kit Carson Jr., Texas Jack and Wild Bill Hickok. Acting seemed to come natural to Colonel Cody, Mr. Salisbury says, but to some of the members of the troupe the strain was too great. Wild Bill Hickok got more drunk at each performance, finally becoming so unmanageable that he had to be shipped home before the week's engagement had finished.

In one of these plays it was Mr. Salisbury's job to get inside of a bearskin and walk out on the stage on hands and feet, whereupon Texas Jack demonstrated his "bravery" by grappling with the "savage beast" unarmed. In one of these struggles young Salisbury, inside the bearskin, lost his balance, tumbled off of the stage, barely missing the orchestra leader, Lawrence Schaick, and landed down on the tiny stairway that led from the orchestra pit to the musicians' room under the stage.

In later years, Mr. Salisbury was train caller in the New York Central Station, but he never failed to go out to the grounds and greet Colonel Cody each time that he brought his big "Wild West" circus to Rochester.

Mr. Salisbury is now retired on a pension from the railroad. His Pension from the old Grand Opera House is in the form of the privilege, accorded him by the last few managers of the Family Theater, of free admission to that theater at any time.

How He Earned His Nickname

It was at the close of the war that young Cody earned his sobriquet of Buffalo Bill by contracting with the Kansas Pacific Railroad to furnish buffalo-meat to its laborers building the line westward. His record was 4,862 bison slaughtered in one year and 69 in one day. He was again with the U. S. Army as scout from 1868 to 1872, when he was elected to the Nebraska Legislature.

Scout Will Give Governor Letter On 'Buffalo Bill'

Tomorrow, the birthday anniversary of "Buffalo Bill" Cody, an Albany Boy Scout will give Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt a commemorative letter from the Governor of Wyoming.

This official communication was sent to The Times-Union from Cody, Wyo., by a niece of the great frontiersman. She chose Rochester because of the sentimental associations that bind the Cody family to this city. At her request the letter was indorsed by Mayor Owen and forwarded to Albany.

The Early Life Of Illustrious Buffalo Bill

R.V.F. Book - C

THE STORY OF BUFFALO
BILL, by Shannon Garth, illustrated. Bobbs-Merrill Company, New York. 237 pages.
$1.75.

THE author has centered his efforts on Bill Cody's early life and exploits as a bullwhacker, Pony Express rider, scout and buffalo hunter, and the keenness and courage which gave him the reputation of bearing a charmed life.

In covering this part of the life of the frontiersman, the book successfully depicts an exciting period of American history and some of the hardy characters besides Buffalo Bill who played important parts in the drama of the times. The story is frequently thrilling and the author never hesitates to halt the action momentarily for a good anecdote.

Boys particularly will like the story and find it valuable in gaining clear understanding of history. They will like the Indian fighting and the narrow escapes.

The story takes Cody into the establishment of his Wild West Show and indicates its success, but does not mention his romance or marriage, or the period in which he made Rochester his home, during which two children died and were buried in Mt. Hope Cemetery.

It does, however, make of Buffalo Bill the real hero that he was and definitely adds to the lore of the Frontier. — Don Record.

D. & C. SEP 25 1938

N. Y. Asked to Join In Marking Birthday Of William F. Cody

Friday, the 8th anniversary of the birth of Col. William F. Cody, will have especial significance for Rochester, for sentimental ties bind the Cody family to this city.

Today a commemorative letter from Gov. A. M. Clark of Wyoming, which paused in Rochester long enough to be inscribed with the endorsement of Mayor Charles S. Owen, was en route to Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt to signalize "Buffalo Bill's" birthday.

It was during the Cody family's residence here, in the little frame house at 10 New York Street, that the Indian fighter was stricken with the greatest sorrow of his life—the death of his only son, little Kit Carson Cody. The child lies buried in Mount Hope Cemetery with his two sisters, Orra Maude Cody and Mrs. Arta Cody Thorpe. In Mount Hope, too, are the ashes of Buffalo Bill's foster son, Johnny Baker.

Writes Letter

In this nationwide celebration of the frontiersman's birthday this year, Mrs. Mary Jester Allen, his niece and chairman of the Cody Family Memorial Board, be-thought herself of the Rochester associations. Writing from Cody, Wyo., the town built by her uncle and the site of the historic Buffalo Bill Museum, Mrs. Allen told The Times-Union:

"While Cody, Wyo., is the home of Buffalo Bill, something of his heart will ever be and live in Rochester. Because of this tender tie, I am eager to have the great State of New York take some part in this great national honoring of Colonel Cody, Feb. 26.

To Go to Governor

"As a friendly gesture between these two states so closely linked to the life and adventures of Buffalo Bill, I am sending you a letter of greeting from our Governor Clark to your Governor Roosevelt. I shall be grateful if you will arrange to have it forwarded appropriately."

The Times-Union, after submitting the Wyoming governor's communication to Mayor Owen for his official signature, dispatched it to Albany, where Boy Scouts will deliver it to Governor Roosevelt.

Observance of Buffalo Bill's birthday this year is widespread, Mrs. Allen comments. In many parts of the country, birthday dinners, dances, and outdoor gatherings will pay homage to the spirit of adventure that animated Colonel Cody in his efforts to develop and populate the eastern slopes of the Rocky Mountain region. In New York City, Karl A. Bickel, general manager of United Press, and friends of Buffalo Bill are giving a banquet Friday, to which Governor Roosevelt has been invited.

Fame Widespread

Buffalo Bill's fame was already widespread when he brought his family to Rochester in 1874. Born in Scott County, Iowa, in 1845, at the age of 15 he became one of the riders of the Pony Express at its establishment in 1860. Throughout the Civil War he served the Union government as a scout and guide.

It was at the close of the war that young Cody earned his soubriquet of "Buffalo Bill" by contracting with the Kansas Pacific Railroad to furnish buffalo-meat to its laborers building the line westward. His record was 4,862 bison slaughtered in one year and 69 in one day. He was again with the U. S. Army as scout from 1868 to 1872, when he was elected to the Nebraska Legislature.

Becomes Showman

Then in 1874, the Cody family came to Rochester and Mrs. Cody made a home here for her three children while her husband became a showman for the first time. A friend had written for him in four hours a play in which there were plenty of Indians and killings. With his fellow-plainsman, Texas Jack, Buffalo Bill toured the country, injecting sufficient vigor and dash into characterizations to make the lurid plots forgivable.

During the second year of Mrs. Cody's residence in Rochester, their second child, Kit Carson Cody, died of scarlet fever. The boy, only five years old, had been beloved by his father as the son who would inherit all his dreams for the West.

That same year, the Cody's packed their furniture, sold the house at 10 New York Street, and turned back westward. For the restless adventurer had given up the stage and enlisted in the Fifth Cavalry for the Sioux War of 1876. It was during this war, in the battle of Indian Creek, that he killed Chief Yellow Hand.

In 1883 Buffalo Bill's third child, Orra, died of fever at the Cody's new home in North Platte, Neb. The colonel and his wife made a pilgrimage back to Rochester to inter her body in Mount Hope. That same year the "Buffalo Bill Wild West Show," for which Rochesterians later came to know the colonel best, was organized. The show's visits here always were especially triumphant ones, yellowed newspaper files record.

In 1904, Arta, the youngest of the four Cody children, who had been born here in 1874, died in Spokane, Wash., three weeks after her marriage to Dr. Charles Thorpe. Her body, too, was brought to Rochester and three modest headstones in Mount Hope Cemetery are the only reminders to the casual visitor. The oldest daughter, Irma, died several years ago in the Philippine Islands.

Colonel Cody died in 1917 and was buried at Lookout Mountain, 20 miles outside Denver in a tomb of solid rock. Mrs. Cody's body was placed beside that of her husband in 1922. When Johnny Baker, foster son of "Buffalo Bill" and himself a famed marksman, died a year ago, his ashes were brought here to be committed to the earth in Mount Hope.

Wyoming clings closest to the memories of Buffalo Bill and has made his birthday a state holiday. The celebration there Friday will center at the town of Cody, where the frontiersman was so impressed with the possibilities of the country that is reported to have expended a fortune in placing settlers. The Buffalo Bill Museum is his memorial there.

EX-RESIDENT HURT IN WAR

Word that Staff Sergt. Charles Cameron, 27, USA, formerly of Rochester, was wounded seriously in the Japanese attack on Hickam Field, Hawaii, Dec. 7, reached his family here yesterday through the Red Cross.

The answer to the family's inquiries, made through the mercy organization, stated merely that Sergeant Cameron's condition was unchanged and did not say whether he had been evacuated to the mainland.

Sergeant Cameron, whose mother, Mrs. Ella Cameron, lives at 221 Willis Ave., Greece, also has two brothers living in Rochester who formerly were in the Army. Clayton, who lives with the mother, was in the 108th Infantry and was mustered out last fall because he is over 28.

Raymond, the other brother, lives at 48 Camden St. and is a member of Company A, New York Guard. He saw three years of active service with the cavalry on the Mexican border and later was for three years a member of Headquarters Troop of the old 121st Cavalry of the National Guard.

Sergeant Cameron enlisted about five years ago and served at Madison Barracks and Mitchel Field before he was transferred to Hawaii about a year ago.

Buffalo Bill A Fascist?

"Fascist courage and daring" and six-shooters in the hands of Giovanni Tambiana, native of Barbizarezze, Italy, aided in the conquest of the Western United States in the 19th century.

Benighted Americans might have thought the name was William F. Cody, otherwise "Buffalo Bill," but the Resto Carlino, newspaper of Bologna, Italy, now explains that Bill really was Giovanni.

Folks in Rochester, where Buffalo Bill was a frequent visitor and where his sister is buried, were surprised to hear also from the Italian press that he had left a vast fortune. The general impression had been that Cody left little property.

Did Buffalo Bill Really Kill Yellow Hand? Yes, Rochesterian Told; No, Says Another

DEC. 20, 1936

Cody's Wife Quoted By Son's Playmate In Indian Mystery

Did Buffalo Bill kill Yellow Hand, the Indian chief, or was that merely a press agent story for his show?

It all happened 60 years ago and William F. (Buffalo Bill) Cody died 20 years ago next month, but an historian skeptic chose yesterday to open the old argument via Associated Press.

A Rochester man, now 68, came to the rescue of Bill's own story of the famous duel with the Indian in his show.

"He did kill Yellow Hand—Mrs. Cody told me so," Robert Jenkinson Hicks, 112 Meigs Street, said last night to The Democrat and Chronicle. Hicks as a small boy with yellow hair played a little part in the narrative that made history.

Quotes Cody's Wife

"Mrs. Cody called me from her front yard," related Hicks. "That was when the Codys were our neighbors in New York Street, (Rochester). 'Robert,' she said, 'come here! I have something to show you.'

"She always called me Robert," interpolated Hicks, now the gray-haired, neatly dressed custodian of Rochester Savings Bank. He was leaning forward in his chair and sketching on the edge of a table a diagram of how the Cody house stood in relation to others on the street.

"Right there in the front yard she had a box and she asked me to help her carry it into the house. We opened it and there were all Yellow Hand's things—his clothing, plus his scalp, pipe and implements of war.

"She told me—I clearly remember—that Mr. Cody killed Yellow Hand."

Historian Revives Report

Little, if anything, has appeared in newspapers about Hicks' relations with the Codys. He has kept in the background a good many years, but it all came out in an investigation started not long ago by Dr. Addison E. Sheldon, secretary of the Nebraska Historical Society.

The old-time pistol makes Robert J. Hicks of 115 Meigs Street think of Buffalo Bill, whose son, Kit, was a playmate of his long ago. He compares it with the modern revolver, reflectively, but then recalls that the famed Bill Cody killed Yellow Hand, the Indian Chief, without guns but in fist encounter. Anyway that's the version he knows

He turned to the Rochester playmate of the Codys son, whose complete name was Kit Carson Elmore Jenson Cody. Hicks got that straight from little Kit himself, a lad with long black curls who died at the age of 6. When Kit died, Robert Hicks no longer wanted his own long curls and cut them off.

At any rate, many historians have cast doubt on the story about Yellow Hand's violent end at Hat Creek Basin, Nebraska in 1876—the story of Cody finishing the Indian with his knife because the redman fired on him.

Sheldon wondered about it. The fact was published and answers started rolling in.

Two Different Stories

So yesterday Doctor Sheldon quoted Mr. Hicks in the Associated Press dispatch, among several others who supplied versions. He quoted a Robert R. Peale of Denver to whom Mrs. Cody apparently told a different story from the one she told Kit's playmate that day in Rochester 60 years ago.

"Mrs. Cody told Mrs. Peale and me the colonel did not kill Yellow Hand, but that it was a good story."

It was J. Bentley Frew, son of a soldier with the army in Hat Creek County who advanced the "press story" angle.

"As for the hand-to-hand duel, dad always considered it a press agent story for the Buffalo Bill show," wrote Frew. "He also said he was positive Buffalo Bill did not scalp Yellow Hand."

Sheldon said he was inclined to agree with the Frew version. There were many others that he repeated in the news dispatch.

The Rochesterian had a theory about what Mrs. Cody was reported to have told the Peales of Denver. He said the Codys were estranged and that Mrs. Cody might have said that to discredit her husband's story.

Came to Blows Here

"But you see," continued Mr. Hicks, "there was bad blood between Bill Cody and Yellow Hand. Yellow Hand played in Cody's show and they had a fight—right here in Rochester."

Here Mr. Hicks confuses the historians. Mr. Sheldon wasn't ready to admit the two Yellow Hands were the same man. But the playmate of the Cody son is positive the slain Yellow Hand was the one he knew as the showman; in fact, the one with whom Mr. Hicks appeared on the stage here one night. Young Kit and his playmate were only "extras" in a campfire scene.

Mr. Hicks remembers that very well because after the show that night in Grand Theater, Kit, Cody, Kit's sister, Arta and young Robert Hicks sorted out on the kitchen table a satchel of money that Buffalo Bill took in at the performance. Robert stayed all night at the Cody house that night.

Sheldon wrote Mr. Hicks and asked him how he knew Yellow Hand in the show was the Yellow Hand killed in the Hat Creek Basin skirmish.

"All I know," replied Mr. Hicks, "is what Mrs. Cody told me that day in the yard. She said she knew I would be interested to know Mr. Cody killed Yellow Hand."

Albert J. Conway 1940 Services Conducted

Funeral services for Albert J. Conway, a former president of the Knights of Columbus Choral Society, were conducted yesterday at St. Mary's Church, where a nephew, the Rev. Thomas J. Brennan, celebrated requiem Mass. Burial was in St. Ann's Cemetery, Palmyra. Conway, who resided at 405 Court St., died Monday.

Cody Family Friend Calls Attention to Historical Error

Arta Not Youngest Daughter of Buffalo Bill, Whose Birth Anniversary Occurs Today, Says Colonel Hess—Remembers Death of Son of Fighter

By ROY YERGER

Today, on Buffalo Bill's birthday, it fell to Col. F. Judson Hess, who as a boy played with Buffalo Bill's children, to correct an error of long standing in the history of the Cody family's associations with Rochester.

Colonel Hess, veteran of two wars and head of the Hess Perfuming & Costuming Company, himself looks like Buffalo Bill—so much so he hears school children commenting on the resemblance as he passes along streets.

Colonel Hess became acquainted with the Codys in 1875 when they made their home in a brown frame house on the east side of Exchange Street opposite Hubbell Park. The house, he says, was torn down just a year or so ago. He recalls well Colonel Cody, Mrs. Cody and the children.

Grows Critical

So it is that when Rochester newspapers, as they have for years, called Arta Cody the youngest daughter and tell of her birth in the family's stay here, Colonel Hess grows critical—for he knew Arta as a girl of 10 and one whom at that time he thought "the greatest girl in the world." She attended old School 3 and many times of a Saturday afternoon he went with her to the old Grand Opera House in St. Paul Street on her father's passes.

Colonel Hess recalls, too, Arta's younger sister, Orra, and the boy, 5-year-old Kit Carson Cody. But he knew of no Irma Cody, described in newspaper files as the oldest daughter, whose death in the Philippine Islands several years ago is recorded.

Colonel Hess remembers that Kit Carson's death from scarlet fever came while the family was residing on Exchange Street. So great was the family's grief that it abandoned this home and moved to the Waverly House, at State Street and Central Avenue, then one of Rochester's foremost hostels. It is now the Savoy.

Later the Codys moved to 10 New York Street, which is the only residence revealed in Rochester newspaper files. This house, too, has since been torn down, according to Colonel Hess.

Wonderful Mother

It is Mrs. Cody who particularly interests Colonel Hess as he reminisces, for information on her is scanty. He remembers her as a wonderful mother to the three children and he has a suspicion she may have been a Rochester woman, for an immaculately-dressed, grey-haired man whom he assumes was her father, appeared to own the New York Street house.

The Cody children often told their young friend of their life in the West. At their home in North Platte, Neb., bison grazed on the geraniums in their front yard, they recounted. It was when the family had returned to this home at North Platte in 1883 that Orra died. Her body was brought back to Mount Hope Cemetery to lie beside little Kit Carson Cody's.

Of Buffalo Bill himself, Colonel Hess did not see so much, for the Indian fighter was busy with rehearsals and road trips of his Wild West plays, "Life on the Plains," and "Scouts of the Plains." But Colonel Hess remembers him as a magnificently built, imposing man and one who always was a gentleman. Colonel Hess has recollections, too, of others in the troupe, Kit Carson Jr., Texas Jack, and "Wild Bill" Hickok who became too wild for the show.

Headstone Verifies Claim

A visit today to Mt. Hope Cemetery verified Colonel Hess' assertion that Arta was not the youngest daughter. On her headstone her date of birth is recorded as 1866, which would have made her during the family's stay in Rochester the girl of 10 he remembers. She died in 1904, three weeks after she had wed a retired army surgeon named Thorp. Her body was brought here from Seattle.

Beside her is the grave of Kit Carson Cody, marked "Our Darling Boy," and recording his birth at Fort McPherson, Neb., and his death Apr. 20, 1876, at the age of 5 years and 5 months. The third headstone, that of Orra Maude Cody, engraved "Our Darling Girl," records her death on Oct. 24, 1883, at the age of 11 years and 2 months.

Today, in connection with the nation-wide observance of Buffalo Bill's birthday, an Albany Boy Scout delivered to Governor Roosevelt a letter from Governor Cross of Wyoming. The missive paused in Rochester Wednesday to be inscribed with the endorsement of Mayor Owen.

Legends of Buffalo Bill Draw Crowds to Museum, Says Kin

The old "Buffalo Bill" legends continue to draw thousands of tourists annually to Lookout Mountain, Colo., where that famous plainsman is buried and his name kept alive by a museum holding collections of his souvenirs.

That information was brought to Rochester last week by Mrs. Johnny Baker, daughter-in-law of the famous Col. William F. Cody. Mrs. Baker is visiting Mrs. L. A. Jeffreys of 32 Chestnut Street.

More persons visited the museum last year than at any time since 1929, Mrs. Baker said, the register showing more than 600,000 who have ascended the winding path to its elevated site, about 20 miles from Denver. Many of these visitors are from foreign countries, she said.

After she became the wife of the Colonel's adopted son, who was for years manager and arena master for his Wild West Show, Mrs. Baker traveled with them for 18 years.

The interior of the museum, especially its paintings, suggest some of the late showman's associations. He entertained English royalty in both Windsor and Buckingham palaces. He knew the Prince of Wales who became King Edward VI so well that he taught the future head of the British Empire how to play poker, according to Mrs. Baker's records.

Pictures of Edward and Queen Alexandria are on the museum wall. Another painting is of Gen. John J. Pershing.

Mrs. Baker said she has a cylinder from an old phonograph, one of the first made, that bears the record of the voice of the old Indian, Iron Tail, once chief of the Sioux nation. She said he would sit at table with Colonel Cody, and they would talk in the sign language, as Iron Tail never learned to speak English.

"I should love to take that old phonograph with me sometime and go into the Sioux country and play that record just for them," Mrs. Baker added, after telling how interested the Indians in the show were in hearing the old chief's own voice reproduced.

Two of Colonel Cody's children are buried in Mount Hope Cemetery, Rochester. One, a young daughter, once attended Livingston Park Seminary. Mr. Baker was adopted by the Colonel after the death of the young son, educated and treated as his own, although never asked to give up his own name or his real parents.

Drug Firm Aide Succumbs at 68

Thomas Corcoran, 68-year-old employee of the Paine Drug Company, died of a heart attack yesterday morning while delivering a prescription at 1400 South Ave. Corcoran, who lived at 92 Ave. D., was pronounced dead by a Highland Hospital ambulance physician. Coroner David H. Atwater issued a certificate of death from natural causes.

Corcoran leaves his wife, Della Epping Corcoran; two sons, William T. Corcoran of Rochester and Walter L. Corcoran of Albion, and two grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted at 9 a. m. Saturday at St. Theodore's Church. Burial will be in Holy Sepulcher Cemetery.

James Cox Succumbs; Retired Shoe Salesman

James Cox, retired shoe salesman who had traveled 50 years as a representative of Rochester firms, died yesterday (Oct. 24, 1940) at his home, 158 Clinton Ave. S. He was 84.

Ten years ago Mr. Cox retired from his long career on the road. He had sold shoes for the Bolton Shoe Company, later for Wright, Peters & Co., and then for the Fred S. Todd Company.

He leaves a son, F. Teal Cox of Highland Avenue, and five grandchildren. The funeral will take place at 3 p. m. Saturday at 271 University Ave.

OCT 25 1940

Johnny Baker Dies and Severs Another Link with Buffalo Bill

Was Colonel Cody's Foster
Son; Often Visited This City To See Friends

Recl. April 23, 1931
Johnny Baker, foster son of "Buffalo Bill" Cody and himself a former frontiersman, star in Cody's Wild West Show, lecturer, author and for many years in charge of the Cody Museum at Lookout Mountain, Col., died last night at his home after an illness of several months, at the age of 60.

Word of his death was received by Mrs. Martha D. Jeffreys of this city, who for years has been a close friend of Baker and who visited him in February during his illness. Mr. Baker had frequently been her guest in Rochester.

Johnny Baker, whose first name, Lewis, was known only to his closest friends, was closely associated for years with Colonel Cody, whose life as an Indian scout, hunter and showman has become almost a legend in American history and is particularly interesting to Rochesterians because the Cody family for a time resided here, and three of their children are buried in Mount Hope Cemetery.

Taken into the family as a boy of 7, Baker was never legally adopted, but was treated as a son by Buffalo Bill, whose youngest boy, Kit Carson Cody, had died a short time before.

Baker became one of featured attractions in Cody's show, ranking with Annie Oakley in marksmanship, and later was the manager of the enterprise, with which he traveled through this country and Europe. After Cody's death he was one of the prime movers in the

JOHNNY BAKER
Rochester Public Library
54 Court St.
Rochester, N. Y.

Since that time he has been custodian of the Indian relics, paintings, and other souvenirs which the colonel collected in his world-wide tours. He also has written and lectured on the old frontier and the career of his foster father.

Mr. Baker last visited Rochester at Christmas of 1929. At that time, as was his custom whenever he came here, he placed wreaths on the graves of the famous scout's children in Mount Hope Cemetery, a ceremony which Buffalo Bill always performed when he visited the city.

Ashes of Johnny Baker, Foster Son and Companion Of Buffalo Bill Cody, Placed in Urn in Mount Hope

V.F. Biography - B.
Ashes of Johnny Baker, foster son of Buffalo Bill, committed to Mount Hope Cemetery, near the graves of three children of his noted foster father. Mrs. Johnny Baker (left), Mrs. Martha Jeffreys and the Rev. W. Carver, S. T. D., rector of Christ Episcopal Church, who officiated at the funeral.

Repose Near Remains of Three Children of Great Showman

"Dust to dust, ashes to ashes" was said yesterday beside a monument in Mount Hope Cemetery where had been placed the ashes of Johnny Baker, foster son of Col. William F. Cody, known to the world as Buffalo Bill. Mr. Baker was second only to his adopted father in interest in the Wild West Show that for years thrilled the boys of many countries. He was a crack shot and director of the arena. He died April 22, 1931, in Denver. His ashes were brought to Rochester by his widow to rest in the same ground with the three children of the great showman, once a resident of this city.

As Mrs. Baker laid red roses on the urn and the Rev. Charles C. W. Carver, S. T. D., rector of Christ Episcopal Church, uttered the last words, they participated in the closing of a romantic career.

Although Johnny Baker always was referred to as the foster son of Colonel Cody, he was never legally adopted. As Rochesterians have many times heard related, the showman mourned for the little son, Kit Carson Cody, who died in 1876, a child of 5 years. Not long afterward the colonel came to know a lad about the age his own son would have been at that time.

Traveled With Buffalo Bill

About that time the parents of Johnny Baker had a great disaster, in the destruction of their home in the Middle West. This left them much embarrassed financially. Buffalo Bill was eager to adopt Johnny and gave him the advantages he would have given to his own boy, but the father and mother could not be induced to part entirely with their son. They were persuaded, however, to let Colonel Cody have the companionship of Johnny and take him on the road.

Through life Mr. Baker kept in touch with his parents as long as they lived.

J. F. Clark Rites

Arranged AUG 25 1941

Last rites for John F. Clark, 57, treasurer of the Rochester Gas & Electric Corporation for the last two years, will be conducted at 271 University Ave. at 3:30 p. m. tomorrow. He died of a heart attack Saturday, (Aug. 23, 1941) while working in the yard of his new home at Alpine Dr. and Crestline Road, Pittsford.

Besides his widow, Louise, he leaves a daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Bishop. Burial will be private.

Collins Started Golf as Caddy--- He's Never Left Links Game Since

Genesee Pro Offers Long Experience To Clinic Fans

By MART GAGIE

GEORGE COLLINS, friend and adviser to thousands of Rochester golfers, is starting his 19th year as head professional at Genesee. In years of service at one club he ranks next to George Christ at the Country Club.

Like the majority of present day pros he got his start as a caddy. His family lived alongside the Country Club course and it was a simple matter to hop over the fence and be right on the links. He started doing just that before he was out of grammar school.

His first job in a golf shop was in 1915 for Walter Hagen and Christ. When Christ succeeded Hagen as pro Collins stayed on as assistant for two years before moving over to Irondequoit with Ned McKenna. From there he went to Genesee as its first pro and has been there since.

Back in those years a big crowd for the course was 350. Biggest turnout of the last couple

Pros to Discuss Clinic Program

WITH GODFREY MCGARVEY of Brook-Lea, president of the Western New York PGA, wielding the gavel, Rochester's pros will meet tomorrow at Genesee at 8:30 p. m. to make final arrangements for the PGA-Times-Union Golf Clinic, slated Sunday at 4:45 p. m. at Ridgemont.

At that time the program will be completed and the order of each of its individual events will be set. McGarvey, because of a recent operation, will be unable to fill an active part but will be one of the masters of ceremony.

of years was 1,500; the average is around 800. Genesee was an 18-hole course then; it's 36 holes now.

GEORGE COLLINS . . . Clinic master of ceremonies

Collins will be one of the masters of ceremony at the PGA-Times-Union Golf Clinic Sunday at Ridgemont at 4:45 p. m. He will work with George Vatiek of Monroe on the No. 4 and 5 irons. The Clinic costs nothing. It is open to the public. In as much as it will cover every club in the bag and each will be handled by the man most capable in the opinion of his associates, it's bound to benefit everyone to some degree.

Every golfer in the crowd will be invited to question each of the principals on his or her problem. A public address system will be installed so that everyone can hear the master of ceremony's analysis of the shots and can get the answers to the questions asked.

The event will be held in front of Ridgemont's practice green with the shots being hit down and across the 18th fairway, an ideal arrangement for both the spectators and the principals.

From the reaction of the district golfers at the various clubs, a bumper turnout seems assured. Ray Feller, Ridgemont pro, reports that everything is ready—but the weather. In the event that it rains the whole program will be postponed one week.

Alumni to Fete School Principal

Nearly 500 persons are expected to attend the alumni dinner Saturday evening at Hotel Seneca in honor of Roy O. Cook, veteran educator and principal of the Rochester Business Institute, where he has served for more than 40 years.

ROY O. COOK

Principal speaker will be Dr. Frederick G. Nichols, professor of education at the Graduate School of Education, Harvard University, and a former director of business education in the Rochester public schools. Dr. Nichols, who comes to Rochester to pay tribute to the man under whom he studied at the institute 40 years ago, will speak on "Permanent Values." He is a native of Avon.

B. & C. APR 27 1941

LEWIS COLTON NEW GENERAL MANAGER WITH BROWN FURNITURE

LEWIS COLTON

The Brown Furniture Co. wishes to announce that Lewis Colton has been made General Manager and Buyer of their Upholstering Dept. Mr. Colton is very well known amongst the Furniture Trade as a Capable Executive and Designer of Living Room Furniture. Mr. Colton's past Experience in the Furniture Business is known throughout New York State and Middle West. He was the owner of the Rochester Upholstering Co., and later he organized the K. & C. Upholstering Co. Mr. Colton formerly had charge of the Furniture Dept. of Sears, Roebuck & Co., of Cleveland, Ohio, and later organized the People's Outfitting Co., of Detroit, Mich., which was known throughout the Middle West, as one of the finest and outstanding plants in the Country. He later received an appointment with the State Dept. of Labor as Bedding Inspector. Mr. Colton has been connected with the Furniture Business for the past 25 years. His former Friends and Customers will be glad to learn that he is ready to serve them anytime at their Convenience, with any of their Upholstering Problems. All Upholstering work is under his Supervision, therefore assuring everyone of satisfactory work at reasonable prices.—Adv.

Jim Commisso Named Canandaigua Golf Pro

Announcement yesterday that Jim Commisso, for the last six years his brother Frank's assistant at Irondequoit Country Club, has been named professional at Canandaigua Country Club shared interest with the opening of the golf season in the Rochester district.

JIM COMMISSO

... New Canandaigua Pro

REAL ROOKIE

Lakeland, Fla. — (AP) — Virgil Tucks, young pitcher who spent the spring training period here with the Detroit Tigers, has never seen a major league baseball game.

No check was kept on the number of linksmen to turn out locally but clear skies and warm weather brought out banner opening-day crowds to those courses which reported their first sweepstakes events of the campaign.

Jim Commisso, the new Canandaigua Pro, for three years was president of the Western New York Assistant Pros. At 28, he has a golf background of 11 years as assistant professional. Besides his six-year term at Irondequoit, he served in that capacity for three years at Locust Hill and two years at Midvale.

The Canandaigua course is scheduled to open May 1, although continued balmy weather may permit an earlier start. Commisso, in addition to his teaching duties, will supervise the remodeled golf shop. Canandaigua at present has about 125 members.

Lowest scores reported locally yesterday were a trio of 77's at Monroe, by Hugh Shirey, Carroll Johnston and C. Zeitler. Monroe drew 115 links players. Johnny Robbins carded a 78-71 for gross and net honors at Ridgemont, where 42 played; George Maid scored 81 at Locust Hill, where approximately 75 golfers made use of the second nine (the first nine will be open sometime this week), and Carl Gath's 84 was best at Lake Shore, which drew 125 club-wingers for the day's largest reported turnout. Sweepstakes scores:

RIDGEMONT: Low gross, J. Robbins 78; low net, J. Robbins, 78-71.

LAKE SHORE: Blind bogey (73), H. Keegan 101-25-73, F. Bernstein 95-22-73, W. Dorschel 98-23-75. Low gross, C. Gath 84.

LOCUST HILL: Low gross, George Maid, 81; low net, W. Heiber, 83-7-76, W. Gray 88-10-78, F. Spiegel 91-12-79, T. Blatau 96-11-85, H. McCabe 106-21-85, R. Adair 99-13-86, W. Fogarty 102-16-86, P. Gillette 93-6-87.

MONROE: Low gross, H. Shirey 77, C. Johnston 77, C. Zeitler 77; low net, J. Houghton 92-24-68, M. Green 91-23-68, J. Bibly 84-15-69, Dr. D. Dorn 81-12-69, C. Jack 85-16-69. LILLACH,

GOP Leader Dies

Jack Cohan, former president of the Jewish Relief Organization here, died yesterday (Apr. 8, 1941). He lived at 66 Hoeltzer St.

He was an Eighth Ward Republican committeeman, vicepresident of the Beth Chaim Association and a member of the Red Men's Club. He leaves his wife, Belle; four daughters, Mrs. Jack Sollin, the Misses Leona, Annette and Shirley Cohan; a sister, Mrs. Besale Goldstein, and three brothers, Max Cohan, Rochester, Charles Cohan, Indianapolis, and Morris Cohan of Poland.

Services will be conducted at 4:15 p. m. today at 1125 St. Paul St., Rabbi Henry Fisher officiating. Burial will be in Britton Road Cemetery.

NEW JOB TAKEN BY DELCO AIDE

G. Walter Coapman, 25 Eastland Ave., business manager of the Delco Appliance Division of General Motors since 1939, severed his connection with that organization yesterday to become treasurer of Victor Insulator Inc. in Victor.

G. WALTER COAPMAN

His departure was marked by a testimonial dinner in his honor Friday night at Oak Hill Country Club, attended by more than 100 General Motors employees and executives. Edward A. Halbleib, general manager, on behalf of the group, presented Coapman an embossed scroll, signed by more than 200 employees, and other gifts.

Coapman entered the employ of the North East Electric Company in 1912 as a cost clerk. Following the acquisition of the firm by General Motors in 1929, he was advanced to comptroller and assistant treasurer and treasurer of the North East Service Inc. and all its foreign subsidiaries. In 1933 he was made manager of appliance sales, a post he held until he became business manager in 1939.

He was one of the founders and a president of the Rochester Chapter, National Association of Cost Accountants, and has served as vicepresident of the national organization. Active in Brighton school affairs, he has been a member of the board of education of District 1 and also served as its treasurer for more than 10 years.

Death Takes Ex-Head Of Relief Group

Jack Cohan, a former president of the Rochester Jewish Relief Organization and onetime Republican committeeman in the Eighth Ward, died today. He was 50.

He is survived by his wife, Belle Cohan; four daughters, Mrs. Florence Sollin and the Misses Leona, Annette and Shirley Cohan; two brothers, Charles and Max Cohan, and one sister, Mrs. Bessie Goldstein. His home was at 66 Hoeltzer.

Funeral services will be tomorrow at 1125 St. Paul.

HERMAN CORT SERVICES SET

Funeral services for Herman Cort, 58, former tax collector, assessor and Republican county committeeman of Irondequoit, will be conducted at 2 p. m. tomorrow at 176 Ridge Rd. E. Burial will be in Irondequoit Cemetery.

HERMAN
CORT

Mr. Cort, a lifelong resident of Irondequoit, was the operator of the school bus in Ridgewood School District 2 at the time of his death Tuesday at his home, 1716 Ridge Rd. E.

He leaves his wife, Minnie Westfall Cort; a daughter, Erna Cort; three sisters, Mrs. Chris Holtz, Mrs. Herman Noll and Mrs. Frank Bulck, and a brother, Henry Cort, Los Angeles.

DEATH CLAIMS FORMER CHIEF OF CITY LODGE Wallace P. Couch Well Known as Masonic Aide

Wallace P. Couch, widely known Mason here, died yesterday (Oct. 30, 1940) at his home, 84 Breck St. He was past master of Rochester Lodge, F&AM, and member Monroe Commandery, K. T.; Ionic Chapter, RAM, and Rochester Consistory.

He leaves his wife, Emma J. Couch; a daughter, Mrs. Erma Hughson; a stepson, Chester DeForest; two brothers, Harry Couch of Ontario and George Couch of Bastrop, La.; seven grandchildren and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow at 436 South Ave. Burial will be in Mt. Hope Cemetery with services by Rochester Lodge.

NORTH GREECE FARMER DIES

Jerome A. Combs, 78, of Latta Road, North Greece farmer, onetime star catcher for Hilton and Greece baseball teams, died yesterday (Aug. 25, 1940) of a heart attack.

JEROME A.
COMBS

Local baseball fans who knew Mr. Combs said he "used to catch a baseball at 50 feet barehanded." They recall that about 50 years ago he "won bets catching without a glove any pitcher who came through the section."

A native of Greece, he was the son of Lewis Combs and Sarah Cline Combs. He lived in North Greece all his life and was a member of Clio Masonic Lodge and served as a North Greece volunteer fireman for 20 years.

Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Anna Tenison Combs, and two nephews. Services will be held in Walker Brothers funeral parlor, Spencerport, at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow. Masonic lodge members will officiate at burial services in Parma Union Cemetery.

Former U. R. Athlete Dies in Florida

Thornton Kendrick Cooper, 55, one-time University of Rochester star athlete and nephew of Ryland M. Kendrick, professor emeritus of the university, died last Wednesday at Apalachicola, Fla., according to word received here.

Mr. Cooper served with the U. S. Lighthouse Service.

He prepared for the University of Rochester at Colgate Academy, and while on the campus was quarterback of the varsity football team from 1897 to 1900.

He was at one time connected with the Schantz Button Company here and later with coal mine management in West Virginia. In the World War, he served with the Vancouver University Battalion of the Canadian Expeditionary Forces.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Beatrice W. Cooper; a son, Paul, San Francisco, and two brothers, George F. Cooper, New York, and Paul H. Choper, Maplewood, N. J.

'Smiling Pete' Connors, 75, Dies; Well Known as Weight-Guesser

"Smiling Pete" is dead.

His real name was Peter Connors, but to thousands of Rochesterians, young and old, he was known as "Smiling Pete," the guess-your-weight-man.

For years—back when the old Rochester Exposition was in its glory and in the halcyon days of Sea Breeze Park—"Smiling Pete" plied his trade. He'd bet you a box of candy against a dime that he could guess your weight within three pounds. And he didn't lose too much candy.

In the Hotel Webster in Canandaigua yesterday they found "Smiling Pete" dead. He was 75 years old, and death was attributed by Coroner Leon A. Stetson of Ontario County to a heart failure due to acute jaundice.

Right up to the end "Smiling Pete" had been "working the scales" as he called it. He'd been appearing nightly at Roseland Park, Canandaigua Lake, even though he'd been under treatment for some time for his illness.

Easily distinguishable by the gaudy shirts and eyecatching vests he wore, Connors was a familiar local character for many years. A native of Central New York, he worked for a number of summers at Sea Breeze, and when the Rochester Exposition was in operation was stationed near the entrance to the midway with his chair-scales, straw hat, and cane.

In his youth, "Smiling Pete" held a world c/c skating championship, believed to have been won in the Middle West.

Little is known of the man's relatives except for a son, Jack Connors, also engaged in show business, who is believed to live in Troy. Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. tomorrow in St. Mary's Church, Canandaigua, with burial in Calvary Cemetery.

D+C June 27, 1941

DEATH CLAIMS

A. B. COWLES, 76

Arthur B. Cowles, founder of the A. B. Cowles Company, folding box manufacturers, and of the Rochester Folding Box Company, died yesterday (Dec. 18, 1939) in his home, 748 Garson Ave., after an illness of several months. He was 76 years old.

Born in Watkins Glen, Mr. Cowles attended public schools there but spent most of his life in business here. He left the Rochester Folding Box Company in 1910 to establish his own concern with offices in 4 Commercial St.

Mr. Cowles was a member of the Rotary Club, Chamber of Commerce and Mt. Hor Presbyterian Church. Besides his wife, Mrs. Clara Ella Cowles, he leaves two sons, Harold and Richard A., and two daughters, Mrs. C. Nelson Gregware and Mrs. Earle H. Potter, all of Rochester.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in Mt. Hor Presbyterian Church, with burial in Mt. Hope Cemetery.

UR Aide Assists Tunney in Naval Recreation Unit

Junior Lieut. John W. Corris, who in civilian life is director of the University of Rochester's Todd Union, has shifted his desk from River Campus to the Navy Department, where he is associated with Gene Tunney in the Navy's morale and recreation division.

Corris, university alumnus and director of Todd Union for the last three years, was commissioned last spring, and went on duty recently. His duties include educational classes for sailors, as well as plans for recreational activities at sea and ashore.

Tunney has the adjoining desk in the division offices in the Bureau of Navigation, according to Mrs. Corris. Lieutenant Corris' mother, Mrs. Albert J. Corris, and his wife, will join the reservist at Washington today.

Another local naval reservist, Ensign Thomas D. Spencer, has arrived at Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, for assignment as an assistant naval attache at the American embassy. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Spencer, 1000 East Ave., and was called to active duty in April.

D+C JUL 15 1941

Death Takes Weight Expert

"Smiling Pete," the guess-your-weight-man to thousands of Rochesterians, was dead today.

From the halcyon days of Sea Breeze Park to the old Rochester Exposition, "Smiling Pete" Connors guessed the weight of the city's large and small "within three pounds" and seldom had to give a box of candy in return for the dime he charged.

During the old Exposition, Pete, with his chair-scales, straw hat, cane and gaudy shirts, was stationed near the entrance to the midway.

He died yesterday in the Hotel Webster in Canandaigua where, at 75, he had been guessing weight at Roseland Park, Canandaigua Lake.

He leaves a son, Jack Connors, also engaged in show business. Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. tomorrow in St. Mary's Church, Canandaigua. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.

Private Rites Conducted for C. F. Crandall

Private funeral services were conducted today at his home, 1050 Lake Ave., for Charles F. Crandall, 84, Rochester-born architect who designed many of the city's best known buildings.

Retired for 15 years, Mr. Crandall died Wednesday at his home after a long illness. At his death he was one of the oldest members of the Rochester Club.

At his retirement, he was in partnership with John Strobel.

Mr. Crandall entered the field of architecture while in his 20's. He studied in Rochester offices and then went into business for himself.

Among the buildings he designed are the Duffy-Powers Buildings, long famous as a department store and now the Rochester Civic Exhibits Building; buildings housing the department stores of E. W. Edward & Son and McCurdy & Company; the original buildings at Kodak Park, the original Kodak factory in State Street, the Hotel Rochester and the American Laundry Machinery Company plant.

Mr. Crandall leaves a son, Traf-ton M. Crandall; a daughter, Mrs. George B. Caudle; three grandchildren, Charles T. and Robert W. Crandall and Daniel B. Caudle.

J. A. Creelman Rites Arranged For Monday

Funeral services for John A. Creelman, 85, for nearly 60 years a trustee of United Presbyterian Church and once head of the Barr & Creelman Mill & Plumbing Supply Company, will be conducted Monday at 2 p. m. at 271 University Ave., with burial in Mt. Hope Cemetery under the supervision of Monroe Commandery.

Mr. Creelman died yesterday after a long illness at his home, 3259 Lake Ave.

Rochester-born, he attended public schools and the old Rochester Free Academy, formed a partnership in March, 1880, with William Barr Jr., and purchased the steam-fitting and plumbing business of Herman Mutchler.

Retiring in 1918, Mr. Creelman remained as nominal head of the business for several years. Barr & Creelman Company was a charter member of the Rochester Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Creelman was for many years secretary of the board of the United Presbyterian Church and later its president. He was a member of Yonnondio Lodge, F&AM; Hamilton Chapter, RAM; Doric Council and Monroe Commandery.

He leaves his wife, Christina; two daughters, Mrs. Emma White and Mrs. George McNearney; five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Just in Passing

An architect who made a lasting impression upon Rochester's business section was Charles F. Crandall, whom death has just claimed at the age of 84. Many of the city's largest retail stores as well as the original buildings at Kodak Park were of his design. The former Duffy-Powers building, now proving its usefulness for civic display purposes, likewise is a Crandall creation. His career covered nearly a half-century.

Final Rites Conducted For James R. Creary

Requiem Mass for James R. Creary, former special county judge and attache of the attorney general's office in Albany, was celebrated yesterday at Blessed Sacrament Church by the Rev. Thomas F. Connors, assisted by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Joseph Grady and the Rev. Francis W. Luddy. Mr. Creary died Thursday (Feb. 27, 1941).

Memorial services for Mr. Creary and Smith O'Brien, local attorney, were conducted yesterday noon by members of the Rochester Bar Association. Mr. Creary was buried in St. Michael's Cemetery, Penn Yan.

Services Arranged For Boatswain's Mate

Funeral services for Samuel F. Cremaldi, 35, whose home is at 40 Leland Rd., Irondequoit, and who served in the U. S. Navy for 18 years, will be conducted tomorrow in Brooklyn. Burial will be in Arlington National Cemetery.

Chief Boatswain's Mate Cremaldi died Saturday at the Brooklyn Naval Hospital. He enlisted at the Rochester Recruiting Station 18 years ago and had seen service on nearly every sea with the Navy.

He leaves his father, Frank Cremaldi, Rochester; four sisters, Mrs. Vincent Scancarella and Miss Lucille Cremaldi, Rochester, and Mrs. George Shicker, Jamestown, and Mrs. Fred Schmidt, Buffalo, and a brother, Mathew Cremaldi, Rochester.

Times-Union JUN 23 1941

SCOUT LEADER TO TAKE NEW DETROIT POST

D. & G. JUL 20 1941
W. C. Christensen
Has Held Many Positions Here

Wallace C. Christensen, assistant scout executive of Rochester Council, Boy Scouts of America, has been appointed to a similar position with the Detroit Area Council, Boy Scouts, effective Sept. 1. It was announced last night.

WALLACE
CHRISTENSEN

Christensen has been identified with Rochester scouting since 1925, when he became a scout in Troop 15 of Brick Presbyterian Church. He served successively as assistant Scoutmaster of Troop 15 and scoutmaster of Troop 34 of Calvary Baptist Church. He also served as assistant cubmaster, pack committeeman, and cubmaster of Cub Pack 15, and became assistant scout executive in March, 1939, after completing the National Training School course for scout executives.

He has been identified with the development of cubbing in Rochester, and has more recently been director of senior scouting and secretary to the council advancement committee. He has been a member of the Camp Cutler staff since the opening of the Cutler Reservation in 1939. At present he is assistant director of the camp.

Funeral Rites Tuesday For Albert Cekuta

D. & G. JAN 12 1941
Funeral services for Albert Cekuta, 24, of 736 Parsells Ave., athlete and electrical worker, who died of an electric shock while wiring a lathe at Morgan Machine Company, 1230 University Ave., Friday, will be conducted at 8:30 a. m. Tuesday in the home and at 9 a. m. in Corpus Christi Church. Burial will be in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery.

Two Industrial Leaders

Rochester is called upon to mourn the passing within a few hours of each other of two men who have played a large part in the industrial and business life of this city and whose lives may well be held up to the young for exemplification.

A native of Rochester was Francis J. Yawman. His father was one of the founders of the Yawman & Erbe Manufacturing Company. But young Francis did not let that deter him from learning the business from the ground up.

From Philadelphia back in 1882 Arthur Castle came to Rochester. He had not been here long when he threw in his lot with a new business for making sterilizing equipment. Soon it was embarking in the brand-new field of equipment for sterilizing surgical instruments and was the first to produce a practical apparatus.

As other types of sterilizers were developed, the Wilmot Castle Company outgrew its old plant and a new one in University Avenue became necessary.

More than successful business men were Mr. Yawman and Mr. Castle. They built themselves into the life of Rochester. Their interests were many and they did not measure their success solely by the positions they had achieved in the industries to which they devoted their lives.

Their death is cause for sincere regret and their influence will continue to be felt.

ARTHUR CASTLE
Erbe Manufacturing Company and Mr. Castle vicepresident of the Wilmot Castle Company.

Sterilizer Firm Vicepresident Succumbs at 77 --- Served Baptist Temple as Trustee More Than 50 Years

Arthur Castle, Philadelphia native and minister's son who came to Rochester in 1882 and rose to prominence in industry and as an active layman in the Baptist Church, died at 1:40 a. m. today in Strong Memorial Hospital. He was 77.

Mr. Castle had been ill a month. At his death, he was vicepresident and purchasing agent for the Wilmot Castle Company, 1255 University Ave., manufacturers of surgical instruments and sterilizers.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p. m. Monday at his home, 333 Meigs, by the Rev. W. Harry Freda, minister of Baptist Temple. Burial will be in Mt. Hope Cemetery.

Mr. Castle was born July 20, 1863, in Philadelphia, son of the Rev. Dr. John Harvard and Mary Arnold Castle. The Rev. Dr. Castle was a Baptist minister in the Pennsylvania city.

Arthur Castle came to Rochester in 1882. Shortly afterward, the Castle Company was organized by William A. Arnold, and Mr. Castle joined the firm. Beginning the manufacture of surgical sterilizers in 1891, the firm was the first to start such production.

The firm later developed a milk sterilizer, outgrew its old plant at 800 St. Paul St., and moved to University Avenue.

In May, 1939, Arthur Castle was honored by 400 members of Baptist Temple for his 54 years of service to the church and was made an honorary life trustee.

In 1939, Mr. Castle had served 50 years as a trustee and five years as a member of the board of deacons.

At his death, he was a member of the board of trustees of the Colgate-Rochester Divinity School, an officer of the Federation of Churches of Rochester and Monroe County and the Allied Temperance Forces, a member of the Baptist Union of Monroe County and the Chamber of Commerce, chairman of the board of managers of the Baptist Temple and a member of the Financial Board of the Temple.

He leaves two daughters, Miss Marguerite A., and Miss Carolyn M. Castle; two brothers, Wilmot and Kendall B. Castle, and a sister, Mrs. John Turnbull, Groton, Mass.

Then and Now --- Harvard Castle MAY 19 1941

Harvard De H. Castle (right) of the Wilmot Castle Manufacturing Company, is shown (left) as he appeared during the World War. He entered the service in June, 1917, as a private, and was mustered out Apr. 16, 1918, to accept a commission as 2d lieutenant. He was assigned to the air service and promoted to 1st lieutenant. He served overseas from August, 1917 to March, 1919, being wounded Sept. 15, 1918. He was discharged Oct. 9, 1919.

Services Arranged For T. J. Cashman JUN 30 1941

Funeral services for Thomas J. Cashman, employe in the city comptroller's office for 36 years, will be conducted at 8:30 a. m. tomorrow at the home, 68 Arnett, and at 9 a. m. in St. Monica's Church. Mr. Cashman died Saturday.

Delegates of the City-County Employees' Credit Union and of the Knights of Columbus, of which he was a member, are to attend the services.

Father of Teacher In City Dies SEP 3 1940

Adolph William Callisen, 85, former headmaster of the onetime Berkley School, a Manhattan preparatory school for boys, and father of Sterling D. Callisen, professor of Fine Arts at the University of Rochester, died Saturday night of heart disease at his home in Clifton, Staten Island. He had been ill five years.

Mr. Callisen was graduated from Columbia University and studied at the universities of Heidelberg and Kiel in Germany. After that he became associated with Callisen School, a preparatory school in Manhattan, founded by his father. The school was sold in 1906 and Mr. Callisen became headmaster at Berkley School. He retired in 1935. His second wife, Mrs. Dora Sterling Callisen, survives.

Arthur E. Caley Succumbs, Auto Concern Official

Arthur E. Caley, vicepresident of Caley & Nash Inc., auto body builders, 1828 East Ave., and a member of one of the city's pioneer families, died yesterday (Oct. 10, 1940) at Highland Hospital. He was 59.

Mr. Caley, who resided at 274 Breck St., had long been a member of the firm founded by his family nearly 100 years ago and which developed into the automotive field with the coming of the automobile in the early part of the century.

He leaves his wife, Cora R. Caley; a son, Douglas A. Caley, Kingsport, Tenn.; a daughter, Mrs. James Beale, Philadelphia; three brothers, Morrill J., Frank T., and William H. Caley; two sisters, Mrs. Thomas Copson and Mrs. George Beagle, and three grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p. m. tomorrow at Brighton Presbyterian Church, preceded by a private prayer service at the home. Burial will be in Brighton Cemetery.

Police Spread Hunt for Youth JUL 24 1941

Sought through an eight-state police teletype alarm today was Alphonse Cardella, 17, of 852 North, missing since he left his home for summer school at Monroe High, Tuesday.

School officials said the youth did not report for classes Tuesday morning. His mother, Mrs. Carmella Cardella told police she knew of no reason for the boy to run away.

He is described as weighing 165 pounds, 5 feet, 10 inches in height. He was wearing brown trousers, a white shirt, tan sweater and brown shoes. He has a crew haircut.

CARDELLA Missing

Services Arranged For Arthur L. Cardus

The funeral of Arthur L. Cardus, 67, retired president of the Lake Erie Law School, Cleveland, who died Wednesday night in Genesee Hospital, will be conducted tomorrow at 1 p. m. at 756 Main E., with burial in Forest Lawn Cemetery, Buffalo.

Mr. Cardus, a native of this city, had lived at 102 Aldine St. since his retirement some time ago. He was the son of the late Rev. Thomas Cardus, and was a graduate of the University of Rochester. He attended the New York State Teachers College, Albany, and Yale University, where he received the degree of doctor of philosophy.

He was a member of the Ohio State Bar Association; Batavia Lodge 475, F&AM, and a 32d degree Mason. He was a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

He leaves two sisters, Gertrude Blanke and Marian Cardus.

Briefly Noted D. & C. AUG 25 1941

Death, this summer, has taken a shocking number of Rochesterians in middle life who have been dynamic forces in community efforts of all worth-while sorts. Sudden passing of John H. Clark, treasurer of the Gas and Electric Corporation, adds sadly to the list. For Mr. Clark not only was efficient in his work for the corporation; he was a familiar center of many groups that worked as citizens to build the community industrially and civically. His vision and spirit will be an inspiration for many years to come.

Contractor Dies in South THE UNION MAR 20 1941

James W. Cherbonneau, 75, former Rochester builder and contractor, died Mar. 9 in St. Petersburg, Fla., it was learned here today.

Born in Bowmanville, Canada, he lived in Rochester from 1893 to 1909, moving to Wisconsin then, and to St. Petersburg, where he has lived since, in 1910.

Besides his wife, Clara, he leaves a brother, George, of Rochester, three daughters, a son, 23 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Funeral services and burial were in St. Petersburg.

DEATH CLAIMS VETERAN CHEF OF HOTEL HERE

J. M. Chaintreuil At Seneca for 23 Years

JAN 15 1941
Jean M. Chaintreuil, 131 Mulberry St., widely known French chef at the Hotel Seneca for 23 years and a former chef in noted hotels and clubs in Europe, England and New York City, died yesterday (Feb. 14, 1941) at Highland Hospital.

JEAN CHAINTREUIL

Mr. Chaintreuil came to the Hotel Seneca when it was opened in 1908 and remained at the hotel until late in 1930, when he left to open the Downtown Athletic Club in New York City, attracting many Rochesterians on visits to New York.

Born in St. Pierre le Vieux, France, he learned his trade in the thorough manner of French chefs, working in restaurants in Macon, Lyons, the Italian-French frontier, and finally Paris.

He came to this country in 1901 to work at the Knickerbocker Club in New York City, going from there to the Hotel Shenley in Pittsburgh, Hotel Iroquois in Buffalo, Sherry's in New York, Hotel Edgemere on Long Island, Hotel Somerset in Boston, Hotel Hollywood at Long Branch, and finally to the Seneca here.

He was a member of Damascus Temple and a life member of Monroe Commandery, Hamilton Chapter, RAM; Yonnonadio Lodge, F&AM; Rochester Lodge of Elks, and the Chefs de Cuisine Association of America and of Paris.

He leaves his wife, Ester deBorger Chaintreuil; a daughter, Delphine Chaintreuil; a son, Dr. Jean A. Chaintreuil, and two sisters and a brother in France.

Harrison Chapin To Wed Apr. 5

INVITATIONS are in the mail today for the wedding of Miss Laura Odell, daughter of Mrs. Laura D. Odell, Boston, and Harrison L. Chapin Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison L. Chapin, Landing Road.

The ceremony will take place Apr. 5 in First Congregational Church in Braintree, Mass. The bride-elect's brother, Edward Odell, will give her away.

The bride-elect has chosen Miss Betty Hughes, Braintree, as her only attendant, and John Estes Chapin will be best man for his brother. Ushers will be Frank and Robert Odell, brothers of the bride-elect.

The couple will make their home in Rochester.

J. W. Cherbonneau Passes in Florida

Word reached here yesterday of the death in St. Petersburg, Fla., of a former Rochesterian, James William Cherbonneau, operator of a tile company in the Florida city. He died Mar. 9.

Mr. Cherbonneau was employed by the Thomas W. Finucane Corporation for several years here and later went into business for himself. In 1909 he moved to Wisconsin and from there to St. Petersburg. As head of the Crescent Tile Company there he had a part in the construction of the Ponce de Leon Hotel.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Clara Welsenborn Cherbonneau; three daughters, Mrs. Clara L. Battle, Mrs. Dexter Rambo and Mrs. George F. Matthews; a son, Max Cherbonneau, 23 grandchildren, one great grandchild, all of St. Petersburg, and a brother, George Cherbonneau of Rochester. Burial was in St. Petersburg.

Rochesterian Dies First Day on Job

EDWARD CHARBONNEAU, 29, of 6 Clarence Pk., a structural iron worker, was killed yesterday in a fall from the framework of a Curtiss-Wright airplane plant being constructed at Buffalo.

Officials said Charbonneau was hired only yesterday morning. The cause of the accident was being investigated.

Charbonneau leaves his wife, Ruth Freeman Charbonneau; a son, Edward Charbonneau; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Charbonneau; six brothers and a sister.

Final Rites Conducted for Contractor

Last rites were to be conducted today at his home, 117 Huntington Pk., for Otto A. Chadde, retired building contractor, who died Friday.

The Rev. Wilfried Tappert of Lutheran Concordia Church was to officiate, with burial rites at Mt. Hope Chapel in charge of Yonnonadio Lodge, F&AM.

Mr. Chadde was a native of Zemmin, Prussia. He was a member of Germania Lodge of Perfection, Consistory of Scottish Rite Masons, Damascus Temple, Knights of Calvin, the German-American Welfare Society and the George Ellwanger Unit of the Steuben Society of America.

He leaves a son, Walter Chadde, granddaughter, and several brothers and sisters in many.

Funeral Services Set For Otto A. Chadde

Funeral services for Otto A. Chadde, retired building contractor, will be conducted at 2 p. m. tomorrow at the home, 117 Huntington Pk., with the Rev. Wilfried Tappert of Lutheran Concordia Church, officiating.

Committal service at Mt. Hope Chapel will be in charge of Yonnonadio Lodge, F&AM. Mr. Chadde also was a member of Germania Lodge of Perfection, Consistory of Scottish Rite Masons, Damascus Temple, Knights of Calvin; George Ellwanger Unit of the Steuben Society of America and the German-American Welfare Society.

Mr. Chadde, who died Friday (Feb. 21, 1941) at his home, was born in Zemmin, Prussia. He retired as a building contractor in 1931. He leaves a son, Walter F. Chadde; a granddaughter, and several brothers and sisters in Germany.

Death Takes Father Of Rochesterian

Ernest Wilson Clement, 81, who taught in Japanese schools for 40 years and was a special correspondent of the Chicago Daily News from 1895 to 1920, died yesterday at his home in Floral Park, L. I. He was the father of Edward J. Clement, 97 Westland Ave., Rochester.

Mr. Clement began his teaching career in the Atlanta (Ga.) Baptist Seminary in 1881. He taught at the Mito, Japan High School from 1887 to 1891 and then returned to the United States for three years. He returned to Japan in 1894, becoming principal of the Duncan Academy in Tokyo and later teaching English in the Tokyo High School. In the years he was in Japan, Mr. Clement was acting interpreter for the United States Legation, Librarian of the Asiatic Society and editor of the Japan Evangelist. He returned to this country in 1927.

Also surviving are his wife, Mrs. Belle Hall Clement, and two daughters, Mrs. Ruth C. Hoyer of Floral Park and Mrs. Ione Clarke of Syracuse.

DEATH CLAIMS LIGHT PIONEER

THOMAS A. CHRISTIE, 84, of 39 Alameda St., who supervised the laying of the city's first underground conduit in 1890, died yesterday (Oct. 13, 1940).

Mr. Christie, employed at the Rochester Gas & Electric Corporation for 45 years, retired a year ago. He was one of several men responsible for installation of the city's first electric street lights, as a member of the corporation's electrical department staff.

A charter member of the Knights of Columbus, and a lifelong honorary member, he also belonged to the Fourth Degree Assembly. Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Helen Brayer Christie. Services will be held in the home at 9:30 a. m. and in Holy Rosary Church at 10 Wednesday. Burial will be in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery.

George H. Clune Enters 82d Year

George H. Clune, retired but not inactive Rochester businessman, yesterday quietly observed his 81st birthday anniversary.

Mr. Clune, who lives at 590 Mt. Hope Ave., formerly was auditor and treasurer of the Rochester & Pittsburgh Coal & Iron Company. At present he maintains an office in the Lincoln Alliance Bank Building which he visits a few hours each day.

He was president of the old Rochester Athletic Club for 35 years and even in recent years performed athletic feats which would stump younger men. He still holds the city bicycle speed record for the mile, a mark set in the late nineties. He is the father of Henry W. Clune, Democrat and Chronicle columnist.

THEATER HEAD SUCCUMBS TO HEART ATTACK

W. H. Cadoret Had Charge of 5 Film Houses Here

Funeral services for William H. Cadoret, 67, who died yesterday (Dec. 20, 1941) after being stricken by a heart attack in a Stillson Street garage, will be conducted at 9 a. m. Tuesday in Blessed Sacrament Church. He was general manager of Monroe Amusements Inc., which operates five theaters here.

Services will be conducted in the home, 161 Crosman Ter., prior to church rites. Burial will be near Kankakee, Ill.

Mr. Cadoret had driven to the garage en route to his office, 63 East Avenue. When he stepped from his car in the garage he complained of feeling faint and sat in a chair, attendants said. Dr. John F. MacAmmond administered first aid while waiting for a General Hospital ambulance. With Dr. Wilbur Buholz, ambulance physician, he continued efforts to revive Mr. Cadoret. Dr. Buholz said death apparently was caused by a heart attack.

One of the best known motion picture theater executives in the East, Mr. Cadoret had charge of the Palace, Century, Regent, Temple and Capitol theaters here.

He was born in Canada and educated in Hartford, Conn. When he was 16 and 17 he was advance publicity agent for Washburn's circus, but at 18 he gave up the road life and returned home to work as program boy in the Hartford Opera House.

He entered the theater business in February, 1909, as owner of LaPetite Theater, Kankakee, Ill. Eventually he gained control of four Kankakee theaters and operated them until 1921 when he came East to join Comerford Theaters Inc. at Scranton, Pa. He became booker and buyer for that organization's 75 theaters. He came to Rochester nine years ago to manage the Capitol Theater and later took over management of the five associated theaters.

WILLIAM
H. CADORET

in his long career, Mr. Cadoret saw the movies develop from the one-reelers to the million dollar productions of today. He knew personally many pioneer and present film company owners and directors, including the greatest of the early directors, David W. Griffith.

Survivors include the widow, Mrs. Graziella Picard Cadoret; a daughter, Miss Marie Therese Cadoret, and two brothers, Jeremiah and Arthur Cadoret, Scranton, Pa.

W. H. Cadoret, Movie Theater Manager, Dies

Stricken with a heart attack in a Stillson Street ramp garage, William H. Cadoret, general manager of Monroe Amusement Inc. for 15 years, died unexpectedly today.

Dr. John F. MacAmmond administered first aid while waiting for an ambulance, and with Dr. Wilbur Buholz, General Hospital ambulance physician, continued efforts to revive Mr. Cadoret. Dr. Buholz said death apparently was caused by a heart attack or a pulmonary embolism.

Cadoret, one of the best known picture theater men in the East, had driven down to work. When he got out of his car at the garage he complained of feeling faint, and sat down in a chair. Shortly afterward he died. His home was at 161 Crosman Ter.

At 5 City Theaters

Cadoret was in charge of the Palace, Temple, Century, Regent and Capitol theaters. He was born in Hartford, Conn., educated at business college and entered the theater business as owner of LaPetite Theater, Kankakee, Ill., in February, 1909.

Eventually he gained control of four Kankakee theaters and operated them until 1921, when he came East to join Comerford Theaters Inc. He became booker and buyer for that organization's 75 theaters and had since then been an associate of M. E. Comerford and Frank C. Walker.

Started with Circus

When he was 16 and 17, he was advance man for Washburn's circus, but at 18 gave up the road life and went home to work at the Hartford Opera House as program boy.

In his long theater career, he saw the movies develop from the one-reelers, and was well acquainted with the greatest of the early directors, David Wark Griffith.

MR. CADORET

William Calver Dies at Golf

William H. Calver of 22 Milton, head of the Taylor Instrument Companies order department and softball enthusiast, fell dead while playing golf at the Durand-Eastman course today.

Calver was widely known in softball circles. For many years he was associated with the Industrial League and during the last two seasons served as umpire-in-chief in the Major Softball League.

DEATH CLAIMS W. H. CALVER, 51, ON GOLF LINKS Amateur Athlete Umpired for Softball

Funeral services for William H. Calver, 51, of 22 Milton St., head of the order department of Taylor Instrument Companies, and a prominent figure in industrial amateur athletics, who succumbed to a heart attack on the golf links yesterday (Nov. 1, 1941), will be held Tuesday at 2 p. m. at his home. Burial will be in Mt. Hope Cemetery.

Mr. Calver was stricken at the Durand-Eastman course. Dr. David H. Atwater, coroner, issued a certificate of death due to natural causes.

He was active in softball circles and for years was an influential leader of the Industrial League. For the last two seasons, he has acted as umpire-in-chief of the Major Softball League.

He was a member of Yonondio Lodge 153, F&AM, and of the Taylor Fellowship Club. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Beulah M. Calver; two daughters, Eleanor and Marjorie Calver; a son, Ralph Calver, of Rochester; his mother, Mrs. Minnie Barton; a sister, Mrs. Muriel Dunn, and a brother, Frank Calver, all of Bowmansville, Ont.

T. J. Cashman, Veteran City Aide, Dies

Thomas J. Cashman, longtime employe of the city comptroller's office, died today at his home, 68

Arnett, after a heart attack. He was 72. Surviving are his widow, Mary E. O'Hara Cashman; two daughters, Helen M., and Mary Elizabeth Cashman, a son, James S., and a brother, John M. Cashman. Born in Rochester May 28, 1869, Mr. Cashman entered the city's employ Feb. 9, 1905, five years after the office was organized. He was appointed by Samuel B. Williams, second comptroller of the city, and through conscientious effort advanced himself to the position of chief clerk, a job he held until June 1, 1939, when he was compelled by the compulsory age retirement law to resign.

Mr. Cashman had served under every comptroller the city had except the first, James J. Johnston, City Manager Cartwright, under whom he served from 1928 until he retired, paid tribute to him today.

"His death has proven a great shock to me," City Manager Cartwright said. "I considered him one of my best friends as well as one of the most faithful and efficient servants the city has had. He opened the comptroller's office in the morning and he closed it at night. He was dependent, reliable and trustworthy, a man who gave the best he had to the city."

T. J. CASHMAN FUNERAL SET D&C JUN 29 1941

Friends and neighbors last night mourned the passing of Thomas J. Cashman, 72, for 36 years an employe in the city comptroller's office, prominent in 19th Ward politics and activities of St. Monica's Church.

Funeral services for Mr. Cashman, who died of a heart attack in his home, 68 Arnett Blvd., yesterday (June 28, 1941) will be held at the home Tuesday at 8:30 a. m. and at St. Monica's Church at 9 a. m. Delegations of the City-County Employees' Credit Union and of the Knights of Columbus, of which he was a member, are to attend the services. He was director and one of the founders of the Credit Union, as well as an honorary member of the Veterans Relief Committee, a member of Knights of Columbus Choral Society, St. Monica's Church Choir and the Holy Name Society.

He was staunch Republican, and was a lieutenant of the late Joseph C. Wilson, long time 19th Ward ruler. He was a member of the Republican ward committee for 30 years.

Mr. Cashman was born in Rochester May 28, 1869, and entered the city's employ in 1905, five years after the comptroller's office was founded. Appointed first by Samuel B. Williams, second comptroller of the city, he was advanced to chief clerk, holding that position when he retired under the age limit, June 1, 1939. City Manager Louis B. Cartwright, former city comptroller, under whom he served for 11 years, paid tribute to him as "one of the most faithful and efficient servants the city has had."

Besides his wife, Mrs. Mary E. O'Hara Cashman, he leaves two daughters, Helen M., and Mary E. Cashman; a son, James S., and a brother, John M. Cashman.

Tribute Paid T. J. Cashman At Last Rites

City officials paid tribute today to Thomas J. Cashman, former chief clerk in the comptroller's office, by attendance at funeral services at his home, 78 Arnett, and St. Monica's Church, this morning.

A solemn Mass of requiem was celebrated at the church by the Rev. Edward Hartmann, assisted by the Rt. Rev. William F. Bergen as deacon and the Rev. Edward Cleary, subdeacon.

The honorary bearers were: City Manager Louis B. Cartwright, Mayor Samuel B. Dicker, Safety Commissioner Tom C. Woods, Comptroller Raymond V. Ellis, Public Works Commissioner William H. Roberts, Parks Director Patrick J. Slavin, City Engineer Henry L. Howe, City Purchasing Agent W. Ray Whitley, Councilman Ross E. Erwin, City Judge George D. Ogden, Sheriff Albert W. Skinner, Commissioner Harold S. W. MacFarlin, City Assessor William H. Woodworth, Fred W. Erath, John H. Law, Edwin A. Miller and Charles Frisbie.

Active bearers were Robert Aex, Frank Hawken, John Buckley, Edward Kammer, Supervisor William T. Nolan and William Glinity. Burial was in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery.

Death Takes Wilmot Castle Sr.

Times-Union OCT 20 1941

Death Takes Wilmot Castle Sr.

Wilmot Castle Sr., founder and president of the Wilmot Castle Company, manufacturers of hospital and surgical supplies, died today at his home, 1173 Monroe Ave., after a month's illness. He was 86.

Until two months ago, Mr. Castle was actively managing the business at 1255 University Ave., he founded 58 years ago. Now one of the country's leading manufacturers of bacteriological apparatus, the business got its start making tin steamers for home cooking of puddings and vegetables, patented by his grandfather, William E. Arnold. These were used in thousands of homes.

Sterilizer Produced

A New York pediatrician wrote Mr. Castle about a Yale professor who found one of the cookers in his kitchen and used it as a sterilizer. That led to the Castle firm's turning out sterilizers and lighting equipment for physicians, dentists and hospitals.

Mr. Castle was born in Pottsville, Pa., Feb. 7, 1855. He was the son of John Harvard Castle and Marie Antoinette Arnold Castle. His father was a prominent Baptist clergyman who became president of the Toronto Baptist College, now MacMaster University. The son attended Saunders Military Academy, and the Hastings Military School both in Philadelphia. He later was connected with the Canadian Bank of Commerce there for 10 years before moving to Rochester in 1883, to organize the Wilmot Castle Company, which was incorporated in 1903. He served as its president from that time on.

Former Bank Official

From 1915 to 1920, he was active manager, as well as secretary and treasurer of the Mechanics Savings Bank, resigning because of the pressure of private business.

The Castle firm originally was located in St. Paul Street, but moved to University Avenue about 25 years later when it purchased the former plant of the Todd Photographic Company in University Avenue.

Career Ends

WILMOT CASTLE

One of Rochester's outstanding industrialists, Mr. Castle died today at his home in Monroe Avenue.

During the first World War, the firm made large quantities of field equipment for the Army and Navy medical departments, and in the present national defense effort, it is devoting more than half its production to government orders. An addition has been made to the plant for this purpose.

Surgical Illumination Developed

At the time of the depression, Mr. Castle added a new department, surgical illumination, taking over the American Lamp Company.

In his relations with his employees, Mr. Castle was known for his kindness, his energy, honor, and his fairness. He was at his desk at the plant until a few weeks ago.

Mr. Castle was married twice. His first wife was Mary William Quinby of Morristown, N. J., niece of the late Gen. Isaac F. Quinby of Rochester, by whom he had three sons, Harvard, Wilmot V. and John R. Castle, a few years after her death in 1925, he married Ermine Oviatt of Toronto, who survives him.

His three sons are prominent in yachting circles, particularly Wilmot, better known as "Rooney," who has been one of the Rochester Yacht Club's top racing skippers for many years, having twice won the Canada's Cup.

He also is survived by a sister, Mrs. Laura Turnbull of Montreal; a brother, Kendall B. Castle of Rochester; six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. Arthur Castle, his brother and lifetime partner in the business, died early this year.

Active in Philanthropy

Mr. Castle was active in cultural, philanthropic and humanitarian affairs of the city. He was a member of St. Paul's Episcopal Church; the Civic Music Association, Memorial Art Gallery, Historical Society, Academy of Science, YMCA, and served on the boards of the Monroe County Health Committee, Association for the Blind, Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, the Baptist Home at Fairport, and the Chamber of Commerce. He also was a member of the Country Club of Rochester, the Rochester Yacht Club, and the Automobile Club.

Other News of Deaths on Page 3-A.

Wilmot Castle Rites Arranged Tomorrow

Funeral services for Wilmot Castle, head of the Wilmot Castle Company, will be held tomorrow at 3 p. m. in St. Paul's Episcopal Church. Burial will be in Mt. Hope Cemetery.

Mr. Castle died yesterday at his home, 1173 Monroe Ave., at the age of 86. Until a few weeks ago, he had taken an active part in the affairs of the firm, which manufactures sterilizers and other hospital and physicians' supplies.

Ex-Peace Justice Dies in Ogden

Louis E. Cady, for a number of years a justice of the peace in Ogden, died yesterday (Nov. 1, 1941). He was born and lived his entire life on the farm in Lyell Road, Ogden, that was cleared by his parents, the late Aurora and Jane E. Comstock Cady.

A lifelong member of Ogden Presbyterian Church, Mr. Cady was a member of the Ogden Grange for 35 years. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Bessie Nichols Cady; four children, Stanley H. and Dr. Francis L. Cady of Rochester; Clayton B. Cady of Spencerport, and Deane A. Cady of New York, and four grandchildren. Funeral services will be conducted from his home Sunday at 2:30 p. m.

Paralysis Victim Marks Birthday In Iron Lung

TWENTY years old today, Clarence Caruso, Rochester CCC boy stricken with infantile paralysis Oct. 14, 1939, is still in an iron lung in City Hospital, Syracuse.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Roth, 41 Clifton, with whom Caruso, an orphan, had made his home here, it was reported he was improving, but still had to spend some time in a mechanical breathing device provided by the government.

Mrs. Roth also was in St. Mary's Hospital today, recovering from a serious operation.

Times-Union JAN 19 1942

Ex-Court Clerk Wins State Job

The position of assistant chief executive officer of the New York State Liquor Authority, formerly held by Charles W. Wilson, has been given to Carl P. Campbell, former City Court clerk, it was revealed today.

Campbell, a son of former Councilman William W. Campbell, is married and resides at 96 Devon Court. He served as clerk of City Court, civil branch, during the seven years the Democrats had control of the court. His new position will require that he reside in New York.

Robert B. Clark Rites Scheduled Today

Final rites for Robert B. Clark, real estate broker who died in the home, 361 Seyle Ter., Wednesday, (Aug. 20, 1941) will be held at 2 p. m. today in the home with the Rev. Arthur J. Gillard officiating.

Mr. Clark was at one time treasurer of Joy, Clark & Nier Company, former shoe manufacturers. He was a member of Corinthian Temple Lodge, F&AM, and Damascus Temple and Rochester Consistory. Besides his widow, Vivian, he leaves two sons, Elmer and Vernon Clark; a sister, Mrs. Cora MacDowell, and a grandson. Burial will be in Riverside Cemetery.

Frank J. Cunningham Funeral Arranged

Funeral services will be conducted at 10 a. m. tomorrow in Albany for Frank J. Cunningham, 42, for six years manager of Metropolitan Life Insurance Company offices in this city. Mr. Cunningham died Wednesday, (Apr. 18, 1941) in Albany where he was manager of that office.

He was appointed manager of the Saratoga Springs office in 1927, was transferred to Oswego in 1930, to Endicott in 1932 and came to Rochester in 1934, remaining here six years before being sent to Albany.

He is survived by his wife, Louise; three sons, Francis, Robert and John Cunningham, and a daughter, Mary Ellen Cunningham.

Henry Y. Curley Dies; Ex-Resident of City

Henry Y. Curley, 67, former Rochesterian and an employee in the maintenance department of the New York News for 14 years, died yesterday (Aug. 31, 1940) of a heart attack at his home in Brooklyn.

The body will be brought to Wednesday. Mr. Curley leaves his Rochester tomorrow for burial wife, Mary Curley, and a sister, Elizabeth Curley.

Ex-Baseball Player Dies in Iowa

Rochester friends were advised today of the death in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, of Jack Clifford, 50, oldtime Rochester baseball pitcher and husband of Agnes McCarthy Clifford, formerly of this city.

Mr. Clifford played with Rochester and Jersey City teams in the International League and was with the New York Yankees in 1916 and 1917. He died last Tuesday while en route to his home in New York City. Funeral services were held there Saturday.

Besides his widow, he leaves a son, John L. Clifford; two brothers, William and Christopher Clifford, and three sisters, Mrs. Mary Mott, Mrs. Jennie Slattery and Mrs. Fred Rogers, all of New York City.

Private Rites Held For E. J. Carroll

Private funeral services were to be conducted today for Elmer J. Carroll, one time foreman of the job room of the old Post-Express and later building superintendent. He died Wednesday at his home, 48 Pershing Dr. He was a life member of Valley Lodge, F&AM.

Blind Student Wins Alfred Diploma

BLIND since infancy, Anthony Cimino of 21 Evergreen, walked proudly with classmates to the rostrum at Alfred University's commencement today and received a diploma rewarding him for years of scholastic effort against tremendous odds.

The Rochester-born youth of Italian parentage ranked high scholastically despite his handicap. He belonged to Klan Alpine fraternity and was president of the International Relations Club in his senior year.

Cimino is a graduate of Batavia School for the Blind and Benjamin Franklin High School, where he ranked 12th in a class of 310 students. Today he's a step nearer to his goal of becoming a lawyer, thanks to an Alfred scholarship provided by the Rochester Northside Lions Club. He received a Bachelor Arts degree from the Liberal Arts College.

Other Rochester graduates at Alfred today were: George F. Brown, Leo M. Schifferli Jr., Lewis Shayler, Grant E.

ANTHONY CIMINO

Tucker and Robert Weidel, all of whom received Bachelor of Science degrees from the New York State College of Ceramics.

Brown was treasurer of Kappa Psi Upsilon fraternity in his senior year, led college cheers three years and played freshman football. He took part in the CAA aeronautics course at the university this past year.

Schifferli, accorded department honors and a degree cum laude for his work in the department of glass technology, was vicepresident of the Newman Club, secretary of the 1-3-6 Club of glass technology students and a member of Keramos, honorary ceramic engineers' fraternity.

Shayler belonged to Klan Alpine fraternity and ran cross-country. Tucker was secretary of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity and managed the freshman cross-country team and Weidel was vicepresident of Kappa Psi Upsilon fraternity and treasurer of the Interfraternity Council.

JOHN CLARK, RG&E AIDE, DIES IN YARD

D. & G. AUG 24 1941
Utility Treasurer
Served Many
Civic Units

John F. Clark, treasurer of the Rochester Gas & Electric Corporation, died of a heart attack last night while working in the yard of the new home at Alpine Drive and Crestline Rd., Pittsford, into which he planned to move tomorrow.

He was 57. Mr. Clark had gone to the new home from his present residence at 141 St. Regis Drive, Brighton, to work in the yard, Sheriff's Deputies Joseph Kennedy and Stephen Zicari learned.

He was seen lying in the driveway by an unidentified passerby who notified Fire Headquarters at 8:45 p. m. He was pronounced dead by the Park Avenue Hospital ambulance interne, Coroner David H. Atwater attributed death to a heart attack.

Mr. Clark joined the Rochester Gas & Electric Corporation following his graduation with a degree in electrical engineering from the University of Michigan in 1916. His first post was that of an industrial engineer. Later he became manager of the building service department.

For many years he played an important role in bringing new industries to Rochester through the Rochester Industrial Development Corporation of which he was manager and the Chamber of Commerce Industrial Bureau. In this connection he traveled extensively throughout the East in an effort to bring new factories and plants to the city. Thus he further added to his knowledge of industrial finance problems in his work on industrial and power sales for the utility. He became a director of several of the companies he interested in coming to Rochester.

JOHN F. CLARK

J. F. Clark Dies In Yard of Home

Continued from Page 1C

On Aug. 1, 1939, he was appointed treasurer of the RG&E, succeeding Joseph C. Collins who retired.

His hobbies were golf, which he played in the upper 80's, and bridge. He was a member of Oak Hill Country Club, the Rochester Club, the Chamber and various Masonic orders, the Rochester Engineering Society, the YMCA, Asbury-First Church and Rotary International.

Mr. Clark leaves his widow and a daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Bishop.

Rites Arranged For Utility Executive

Times-Union AUG 25 1941
Final rites for John F. Clark, 57, who died Saturday, will be conducted tomorrow at 3:30 p. m. at 271 University Ave.

Mr. Clark, treasurer of the Rochester Gas & Electric Corporation for the last two years, succumbed to a heart attack while he worked in the yard of his new home at Alpine Drive and Crestline Road, Pittsford, into which he was to move his family today. His former address was 141 St. Regis Dr., Brighton.

He had been associated with the RG&E since graduation from the University of Michigan in 1916, holding posts which included industrial engineer and manager of the building service department. He was a member of Oak Hill Country Club, the Rochester Club, the Chamber of Commerce, Rochester Engineering Society, YMCA, Rotary International and Asbury-First Methodist Church.

He leaves his widow, Louise, and a daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Bishop.

William P. Carroll, 63, Ex-Railroader, Dies

D. & G. SEP 28 1941
William P. Carroll, 63, onetime Rochester railroad man and executive assistant to the late Charles M. Schwab, steel magnate, during the World War, died in Cleveland Friday (Sept. 26, 1941), according to the Associated Press.

Mr. Carroll was born in New York City and attended Columbia University. Upon graduating he joined the New York Central Railroad and became master mechanic and superintendent of shops in charge of motor power equipment. He held that post for 10 years and during that time lived several years in Rochester.

A representative and consultant in labor relations for all shipyards during the World War, he worked under Schwab in the Emergency Fleet Corporation of the United States Shipping Board.

Thomas G. Clarke Rites Slated Monday

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Monday at his home, 824 Jefferson Ave., for Thomas G. Clarke, 68, 19th Ward florist, who died yesterday.

Born in Clarkson, Mr. Clarke moved to Rochester when he was 18 to enter the florist business, establishing his own shop and greenhouses at 820 Jefferson 25 years ago.

The Rev. Albert F. McClements, pastor of Emanuel Presbyterian Church, will officiate at the services. Burial will be in Falle Cemetery, Ridge Rd. Greece. Mr. Clarke is survived by his wife, Mrs. Anna C. Clarke; two daughters, Mrs. Arthur Rickman and Mrs. Leo Regan; four sons, Thomas, Robert, George and Richard; four sisters, Miss Alice Clarke, Mrs. George Beavin, Mrs. William Athay and Mrs. John Lott; a brother, William Clarke; and seven grandchildren.

Dr. William Case Dies in N. Y.

D. & G. JUL 7 1941
Word reached here last night of the death in New York City of Dr. William LeFurgie Case, 71, brother of George Glenn Case, 110 Westland Ave., onetime head of the New York State Federation of Post-office Clerks.

Dr. Case died Friday (July 4, 1941). Funeral services will be held in New York. Burial will be in Clifton Spring, Dr. Case's birthplace.

Then and Now—Arthur H. Crapsey

At the age of 21, Crapsey (left) enlisted here May 11, 1917, in the Second Ambulance Company, New York National Guard, later the Medical Department, Ambulance Company 106, 102d Sanitary Train, 27th Division. He served overseas from June 30, 1918, to Mar. 6, 1919, and saw action in several engagements. After the Armistice he served in the personnel adjutant's office, 27th Division Headquarters. Back home again, he resumed his work with the A. T. Crapsey Company, then had 14 years as a reporter on The Times-Union and Democrat and Chronicle. Jan. 1, 1936, Crapsey (right) became executive secretary to County Manager Clarence A. Smith, a position he still holds.

Former Rochesterian Named Program Head

Daniel C. Culhane of Chicago, son of Daniel Culhane of 328 Flower City Park, has been appointed national program director of the National Catholic Community Service.

A former Cathedral High School athlete, Culhane was graduated from Notre Dame University and later was director of the Old Town and Valentine Boys' Club of Chicago. He is a member of the executive committee of the Chicago Council of Social Agencies and has served on key committees of the Chicago Community Fund and Boys Club of America.

JUN 22 1941

Daniel P. Culhane Passes at 84

Funeral services will be conducted at 10 a. m. tomorrow from Our Lady of Victory Church for Daniel P. Culhane, 84, retired chief engineer at the Federal Building, who died Wednesday at his home, 73 Moran St., after a brief illness.

Born in Fairport, Sept. 23, 1856, Mr. Culhane, while employed by the De Land Chemical Works, is said to have operated the first dynamo to produce incandescent light in Western New York.

Chief engineer in the Federal Building for 31 years, he was retired in 1927.

D. & C. OCT 25 1940

HERMAN COHN SERVICE TODAY

Funeral services for Herman C. Cohn, 86, philanthropist and founder of the H. C. Cohn Company, neckwear manufacturers here, will be conducted at his home, 227 Pelham Rd., today at 3 p. m. with Rabbi Philip S. Bernstein officiating. He died yesterday, (Sept. 4, 1941) in Strong Memorial Hospital.

HERMAN C. COHN Mr. Cohn was born in Brockport and founded the necktie company after coming to Rochester in the early part of 1880. Recently changed to Superba Cravats, the establishment is said to be one of the oldest in its line in the city. Herman M. Cohn, son of M. Cohn, now heads the firm and is president of the Rochester Council, Boys Scouts of America.

A board member at the time of his death, Mr. Cohn founded the dental clinic at Baden Street Settlement. He was a member of the Temple B'rith Kodesh, Irondequoit Country Club and Rochester Club.

Besides his son, he leaves three daughters, Mrs. Florence Wiley and Miss Helen Cohn, of Rochester, and Mrs. Morton Wallenstein, of Richmond, Va. Burial will be in Mt. Hope Cemetery.

D. & C. * * * SEP 5 1941

Rochester's economic and social service well being was materially served by Herman C. Cohn, founder of the neckwear industry which bears his name. Like other industrial leaders who have served the city and its people in many ways, he also made important social-service contributions, among the most important the founding of the dental clinic at the Baden Street Settlement. His son carries on both traditions, as the active head of the business and in community service as head of the city Boy Scout Council. Work and service are the ingredients of good citizenship. Rochester has been fortunate to have so many citizens who have followed that formula.

T. W. Connolly Rites Arranged

Final rites will be held Wednesday at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Church for Thomas W. Connolly chief plumbing inspector for the city for 20 years. Burial will be in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery. Mr. Connolly died yesterday at his home, 375 Melville. He was 81.

A lifelong resident of Rochester, Mr. Connolly was for 75 years a parishioner of Old St. Mary's Church. He retired as plumbing inspector in 1930. Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Genevieve DeWitt; five sisters, Mrs. John Scales, Mrs. Agnes West, Mrs. Clifford West, Miss May M. Connolly and Miss Teresa Connolly, and a granddaughter, Joan DeWitt, all of Rochester.

CONNOLLY
Funeral slated

Rites Arranged For E. F. Coates

Masonic funeral services will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. at 1601 Main St. E. for Edward F. Coates, retired New York Central engineer and Spanish-American war veteran, who died Friday in St. Cloud, Fla.

Burial will be in the Spanish War veterans' plot in Mt. Hope Cemetery, in charge of members of the L. Bordman Smith Camp.

Mr. Coates was with the railroad for 30 years, and for many years had the run between Syracuse and Buffalo on the Ohio State Limited. He moved to Florida seven years ago after his retirement. He was a member of Rochester Lodge of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen and for 25 years was its financial secretary. He served in Cuba in the Spanish-American War, and had been commander of L. Bordman Smith Camp.

Surviving are his wife, a daughter, Mrs. F. R. McKernan; two brothers, William Coates, Buffalo, and Ross Coates, Kenndale; a sister, Mrs. Della Cristwell, Seattle, and two grandchildren.

Brighton Family Mourns Death of Pilot Son

A Brighton family today mourned the death of their elder son, a 22-year-old Army Air Corps officer of less than five months.

He was Lieut. John S. Costello, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Costello, 114 Westland, killed late Thursday night when his two-motored pursuit plane crashed into a swamp near Beaufort, S. C.

The officer's body was found in the wreckage yesterday.

Moved for Maneuvers

Lieutenant Costello was a member of the 27th Pursuit Squadron, First Pursuit Group, from Selfridge Field, Mich., stationed at the Savannah, Ga., air base for air interceptor maneuvers to begin Oct. 20.

Home over Labor Day for what was to be his last visit, Lieutenant Costello left for maneuvers in the South, at Dallas, Tex.; New Orleans and then Savannah.

A graduate of Brighton High School, where he won his letter as a member of the baseball team, as a member of the baseball team and was on the staff of the school publication, The Trapezoid, he attended Niagara University at Niagara Falls and played interclass baseball.

Joined Corps in 1940

After three years at Niagara and a CAA course, he joined the Army Air Corps in August, 1940, and received his training at Jackson, Miss., Gunter Field and Maxwell Field. He was commissioned a second lieutenant May 29, 1941.

Besides his parents, Lieutenant Costello is survived by a brother, William. He was a member of the Holy Name Society of Blessed Sacrament Church, the Rochester Undergraduate Club of Niagara University and the University Sodality Unit.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed up to this afternoon.

LIEUT. JOHN S. COSTELLO
Plummets to death in plane.

Air Salute Planned for Dead Flyer

Military services on the ground and an aerial floral salute will pay final tribute Wednesday to Lieut. John S. Costello, Army Air Corps pilot killed when his plane crashed Thursday in South Carolina.

The body, accompanied by Lieut. Ord Fink of St. Petersburg, Fla., his roommate, arrived in Rochester today and was taken to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Costello, 114 Westland.

After services at the home, Requiem Mass will be celebrated in Blessed Sacrament Church at 10 a. m. Wednesday and burial will be in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery, on which flowers will be dropped from planes after the services at the grave.

Niagara University, ROTC and the Army and Navy Union will have a military guard at the services.

LABOR DEPUTY APPOINTED IN SAFETY WORK D. & C. OCT 4 1941 Conole Advanced To Post Created This Year

Named to the $8,000 a year position of third deputy commissioner in the State Department of Labor, Clement V. Conole, 31, for the last two years assistant industrial commissioner here, will assume his new duties in New York City Monday.

The appointment, announced by Commissioner Frieda S. Miller yesterday, is to a post created by the 1941 Legislature, and it is expected that Conole, a native of Binghamton, will take active charge of promoting industrial safety and health work by the Labor Department. Increase in industrial accidents under the expanding defense program has made safety and health New York's first defense problem, according to Commissioner Miller.

In a talk to the Central Trades and Labor Council here recently, Miss Miller said she hoped to get a $50,000 appropriation from the Social Security Board to set up a Western New York office, including a laboratory, to aid in the safety and health work of the state.

The position Conole assumes next week is an engineering "job" and, according to dispatches, he would be placed in charge of inspection, industrial hygiene and industrial codes, although Conole said last night his duties were not yet definitely outlined.

Conole, father of three children, has lived at 124 Hermitage Rd., Irondequoit, since he came to Rochester in 1940 to succeed the late Willard A. Marakle as assistant industrial commissioner. At the time he was an assistant industrial commissioner in Binghamton.

His advancement leaves the $5,200 to $6,400 position here open, and numerous names were mentioned last night as probable appointees to the noncivil service post.

Included were Arthur W. White, business agent of the Carpenters' Union, and president of the Allied Building Trades Council; William H. Mostyn, president of the Metal Polishers Union, and a Democratic candidate for councilman-at-large this fall; Harmon Smith, treasurer of the Central Trades and Labor Council, and Emmett L. Doyle, attorney, now a compensation referee. White and Doyle were mentioned following Marakle's retirement as possible appointees.

AIDE OF RIPPEY HAS COURT JOB D. & C. OCT 11 1941 Stewart G. Cook, secretary to Harlan W. Rippey, judge of the Court of Appeals, has been ap- pointed deputy clerk of that court, it was announced in Albany yester- day.

STEWART G.
COOK

will succeed C. W. Kimball, veteran deputy, who is retiring on pension. Cook's new salary will be $6,000, against $4,000, the statutory salary fixed for secretaries of judges of the Court of Appeals.

Born 29 years ago in Newark Valley, Cook graduated from Cornell University Law School and was admitted to the Bar in 1934. Judge Rippey, then newly appointed to the federal bench, appointed him his stenographer in June, 1935. Following Judge Rippey's election to the Court of Appeals, Cook became his lawyer-secretary on Jan. 1, 1937.

Judge Rippey has not named Cook's successor, but under the law, he will have to be someone with a law degree. Probabilities were that Judge Rippey would select some one now connected with the Court.

Cook was senior in service among the lawyer clerks of the court.

State Labor Aide Times-Union OCT 3 1941 Promoted

Clement V. Conole, 31-year-old assistant state industrial commissioner here since Apr. 9, 1940, today was named third deputy commissioner in the State Department of Labor.

The third deputy commissioner-ship, recently created, pays $8,000 annually, according to the Associated Press.

Conole will be stationed in New York City.

An assistant commissioner since 1938 in Binghamton.

Conole succeeded Willard A. Marakle, who retired as head of the Rochester office after 20 years service several months before Conole's appointment here.

In the time between Marakle's retirement and Conole's appointment, building trades union leaders sought the appointment, with Arthur W. White, business agent of the Carpenter's District Council, apparently leading the field.

No successor to Conole here was announced today.

Conole previously had been connected with the WPA, the State Division of Unemployment Insurance, the Central New York Park Commission, the Department of Public Works and the U. S. Department of the Interior.

UR Graduate Dies

Funeral services for Paul Hamilton Cooper, 60, University of Rochester graduate in 1902, will be held today at his home in Maplewood, N. J., where he died Friday, (July 11, 1941). He was a buyer for the Western Electric Company in New York for many years, retiring in February. He had been ill for some time. He leaves his wife, Frances Chapin Cooper, formerly of Rochester and sister of Mrs. Frank H. Goler.

OCT 14 1941

Death Claims John Colmey, Ontario County Ex-Judge

JOHN COLMEY
Lawyer 53 years.

Canandaigua—Death last night claimed John Colmey, 83, for 53 years a practicing attorney here and a resident of 90 Avondale St., Rochester, and Canandaigua Lake. He was stricken ill a week ago and died in Park Avenue Hospital, Rochester, at 7:30 p. m. of a heart ailment.

Mr. Colmey was a former Ontario County Surrogate Court judge and was active in Democratic Party politics in the county. He had been accustomed to commuting from Rochester to his practice here, passing the summer months at his Canandaigua Lake cottage.

Once Lived in Victor

Mr. Colmey was born in Stillwater, Saratoga County, on Aug. 2, 1858. He came to Ontario County three years later with his parents, who located in Victor. He received his elementary education in the Victor grade and high schools, graduating from the high school in Victor in 1877. He then attended Canandaigua Academy for a short time before entering the law office of Henry W. Chesebro and Elihu Morse in Canandaigua as a law student. After three years of study he was admitted to the bar in 1880.

During 1881 he clerked for Chesebro & Morse but then was forced to give up his work and spend a year in the South to benefit his health.

Returning to Ontario County in 1882, Mr. Colmey opened offices in Victor, practicing law in that village until 1889. During 1877 and 1878 he represented the Town of Victor on the Ontario County Board of Supervisors, being elected on the Democratic ticket. At the end of his second term he came to Canandaigua and opened a law office here. A year later he formed a partnership with Maynard N. Clement, then district attorney. In 1891 Mr. Colmey was appointed by Governor Flower to serve the unexpired term of Oliver Armstrong as Ontario County Surrogate Judge. Mr. Armstrong had died in office.

When Mr. Colmey became surrogate he and Mr. Clement dissolved their partnership and in 1892 Mr. Colmey reopened his own office and has continued to practice here since that time.

Congress Candidate

Mr. Colmey always had been an active member of the Democratic Party. For 20 years he was a member of the Ontario County Democratic Committee, during 12 of which he served as chairman. For several years he was a member of the Democratic State Committee. In 1910 he was his party's nominee for member of Congress in the 36th District, being defeated by Sereno E. Payne of Auburn, Republican.

In 1919 Mr. Colmey ran against Benjamin B. Cunningham of Rochester for State Supreme Court Justice, being defeated by the Republican candidate. During the administration of Governor Hill in 1893 and 1894, Mr. Colmey served as a corporation tax commissioner for the Western New York District.

In 1905 he was appointed by Attorney General Cunniff as one of three commissioners to judge laws passed by the State Legislature as to their propriety, constitutionality and legal form.

For 18 years Mr. Colmey was a member of the Canandaigua Board of Education. As a lawyer he handled many important cases, both in and outside of Ontario County. In Ontario County he had defended many important criminal cases and was judged a strong opponent by opposing attorneys. He was a member of Canandaigua Council, Knights of Columbus.

Honored by Bar

When Mr. Colmey completed 50 years as a member of the bar, he was honored at a dinner by the Ontario County Bar Association, of which he was a member. Fifty-two years ago last August he was married to Miss Mary Widman, Canandaigua.

He is survived by his widow; a daughter, Mrs. Robert Golden, 118 Elmcroft Rd. Rochester; four sons, Augustus J. and Leo W. of Penn Yan, John A. of Rochester and Edward J. Colmey of Canandaigua, the latter an attorney who has been in partnership with his father; two sisters, Mrs. Ella McCarthy and Miss Mary Colmey of 11 Arnett Blvd., Rochester.

George B. Collins Rites Scheduled 1942

Funeral services for George B. Collins, 48, of 289 Renouf Dr., World War veteran and purchasing agent for Kellogg Compressor Works, 97 Humboldt, will be held at 8:15 a. m. Monday from the home and at 9 a. m. in St. Augustine's Church. Burial will be in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery.

Mr. Collins, who died Thursday (Feb. 12, 1942) at his home, leaves his wife, Ellen Kingsley Collins; three sons, George D., Dwain L. and Gerald Collins; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George M. Collins; three sisters, Miss Mabel Collins, Mrs. James Billington and Mrs. Louis Schmitt, and a brother, Albert Collins. He was a member of the Gates Grange and the Nocturnal Adoration Society.

Then and Now

Erving (Happy) Conge today (directly above) is retired on a pension by the U. S. Marine Corps. He enlisted in the Marines in 1917 (top above) and served overseas in the Toulon sector. He was machinegunned in both legs and left arm June 3, 1917, and discharged for disability Dec. 15, 1920.

Times-Union SEP 23 1941

Cunningham Rites Slated Saturday

Funeral services will be held at Mr. Cunningham's home, 381 Yarmouth, Saturday at 9:30 a. m., and at St. John the Evangelist's Church at 10 a. m. for Charles J. Cunningham, 54, eastern sales manager for the Aeolian American Piano Company of East Rochester.

Mr. Cunningham died unexpectedly yesterday (Feb. 4, 1942) in Harrisburg, Pa. He was found dead in his hotel room by a bellboy. Dr. Samuel B. Fluke, deputy coroner, reported death was due to heart disease, and said that Mr. Cunningham had been dead about 10 hours.

On the road since Jan. 1, Mr. Cunningham was visited in his hotel room Tuesday by Charles S. Troup of a Harrisburg music house, who said the Rochesterian had been suffering from a cold.

Born in Rochester, Mr. Cunningham attended Nazareth Hall, the Rochester Free Academy and a local business school. He had been with the piano company for about 35 years. He served with the Quartermaster Corps in Washington during the World War, and at the time of his discharge in January, 1919, he was a first lieutenant.

Surviving are his wife, Olive Kavanaugh Cunningham; a son, Gardner Robert Cunningham, Princeton University student; a sister, Miss Anne F. Cunningham; a brother, Arthur A. Cunningham, Montclair, N. J.

Burial will be in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery.

Albert Curtis Passes In Philadelphia 1942

Albert Benjamin Curtis, 73, a former resident of Hilton and Rochester died Monday (Jan. 26, 1942) in Philadelphia, according to word received here yesterday.

Mr. Curtis was a member of a pioneer family of Parma and lived in Rochester for some years before going to Philadelphia where he represented the Rochester firm of M. D. Knowlton Company. He is survived by a brother, Fred Curtis, Hilton, and several cousins.

Dinner Marks Golden Wedding

Married 50 years ago today, Mr. and Mrs. John Connors of 56 Oxford St., celebrated the golden anniversary last night at a dinner in the Sagamore Hotel for 21 guests, including the couple's eight children.

Helping them recall their wedding in Immaculate Conception Church were their bridal attendants of half a century ago, Miss Mary Gragan, Mt. Hope Avenue, and the bridegroom's brother, the Rev. Thomas F. Connors, pastor of Blessed Sacrament Church.

Mrs. Connors was Miss Frances Maloy before her marriage. Mr. Connors for many years was secretary-treasurer of the old Howe & Rogers Company. Among their children is Mrs. Murray Dailey of Albion, wife of the Orleans County Democratic party chairman.

