R. G. & E. Honors Retiring Engineer

Retiring from active service after 46 years in the employ of the Rochester Gas and Electric Corporation, Patrick Drumm, 399 Flower City Pk., chief engineer of Station 3, was guest of honor at a farewell party given last night at the Turn Verein.

During his long service, Mr. Drumm witnessed the evolution of steam generation of electricity from crude, laborious methods to the present high speed system.

Only a few weeks ago he was given the honor of setting in motion the newest turbine, with automatic coal feeders pouring in fuel at the rate of 12 tons per hour under full load.

Dreisewerd, Rookie Southpaw Hurler, Agrees to Wing Terms for '41 Season

Wife Dons Glove to Aid 'Lefty Clem' In Workouts

ONE of the most likely rookies on the 1941 Red Wing mound staff, Lefty Clem Dreisewerd, yesterday officially entered the International League champions' family as he returned his signed contract to Prexy Oliver French. The signed contract of Lynn Meyers, utility infielder, was in the same mail.

Skipper Tony Kaufmann and French look for Dreisewerd to "arrive" this season on the basis of his record with lastplace Portsmouth in the Middle Atlantic League last season. The big fellow, 6 feet 1½ inches and 195 pounds, won 23 last season while losing but nine, and he won 13 in a row.

Dreisewerd has developed a screwball, the same pitch which is taking Mike Ryba back to the majors this year, and as he is a lefthander, Kaufmann figures it to be doubly effective. Though he uses it frequently, he walked but 49 men all season while fanning 165.

Dreisewerd has lived in a trailer during the off season of the last three years, following the warm weather South. He is now wintering in New Orleans, working out every day. Dreisewerd insists his wife dons a catching glove to act as his battery mate, and can catch his fastest pitches.

The tall hurler will probably drive from New Orleans to West Palm Beach, where he will continue to live in his trailer during spring training.

Clem Dreisewerd, who returned signed Wing contract yesterday, won 13 in a row, 23 for season against 9 losses last year in 25 complete games for last-place Portsmouth team of Mid-Atlantic League. He boasts great record.

Retiring Engineer Honored at Party

Employee of the Rochester Gas & Electric Corporation for 46 years, Patrick Drumm, 399 Flower City Pk., had retired as chief engineer of Station 3 yesterday after a farewell party at the Turn Verein.

Having seen the evolution of steam generation of electricity from crude methods to the present high speed system, Drumm recently set in motion the newest turbine, with automatic coal feeders pouring in fuel at the rate of 12 tons per hour under full load.

Emel Dozier, 77, Retired Farmer, Dies

Emel Dozier, 77, retired farmer who was born in Belgium and came to this country in 1891, settling in Irondequoit, died yesterday at his home, 2437 Ridge Rd. E.

Mr. Dozier was a member of the Belgium Holland Club. He leaves a son, Joseph Dozier; four daughters, Mrs. Peter A. Baart, Mrs. Charles Treiber, Mrs. Martin Dougherty and Mrs. Louis Weimer; two granddaughters, two great-grandchildren, three brothers and a sister in Belgium.

Last rites will be conducted Tuesday at 8:15 a. m. at the home and at 9 a. m. at Our Lady of Victory Church, with burial in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery.

DAILEY LEADS

SERVICE LIST

Acting Postmaster Donald A. Dailey stands Number One on a federal civil service list and his permanent appointment thus becomes closer, a Washington dispatch announced yesterday.

Roy F. Bush, who succeeded Dailey as Democratic county chairman, stands second and former Representative George B. Kelly third. The next step towards a permanent appointment will be submission of the three names at the head of the list to Robert F. Wagner and James M. Mead, senators from New York State, by the first assistant postmaster-general with a request for a recommendation.

It is customary in such cases for the senators to be guided by the local organization. Bush is expected to yield to Dailey in this matter, thus opening the way for the latter's appointment. The position pays $7,000 a year and appointment is for life.

Dailey, in Washington yesterday in business connected with the local Postoffice, refused comment when told of the results of the civil service examination, according to the Washington dispatch. He left for Annapolis where his son, Donald A. Jr., is entering the U. S. Naval Academy.

Commander C. H. Davis To Be Buried Today

Comm. Charles Henry Davis, who served as an inspector here during the World War, will be buried today in the Presidio, San Francisco. He was a son of the late Admiral Davis and a nephew of the late Senator John Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts.

He leaves his widow, Maude Seely Davis, formerly of Rochester, and three sons, Charles H. Davis Jr., Lyman and Constant Davis, all of Berkeley, Calif. Commander Davis died Sunday (July 13, 1941).

Rufus Dryer, Dean Of Bankers, Dies at 91

Rufus K. Dryer, 91, dean of Rochester bankers, died at 6 a. m. today.

In his home, High Acres, Geneva, death quietly ended the long and prominent career of a man who had for three quarters of a century been actively identified with Rochester industry and banking. He had been ill about 10 days.

At his death, Mr. Dryer was chairman of the board of trustees of Monroe County Savings Bank. He had been a trustee since 1883. From 1918 to 1935, he was president of the bank and was made chairman of the board Jan. 8, 1935. He made weekly trips to Rochester to preside at board meetings, making the last of these Oct. 13.

Born Aug. 17, 1846, in Gorham, he was the son of Dr. and Mrs. Cyrus Dryer, who later moved to Henrietta.

Mr. Dryer's first job was with the James Cunningham Company, 1862. He later became vicepresident and treasurer of the firm. His son, James C. Dryer, is now vicepresident.

It was 21 years after starting his first job that Mr. Dryer became active in banking, becoming associated with the Monroe County Savings Bank as a trustee in 1883. He was for many years a member of the board of directors of the Security Trust Company of Rochester and at the time of his death was chairman of that bank's executive committee.

Kept Faith in America

His long and intensive experience and his staunch faith in the ability of the American people to weather any kind of crisis brought this typical comment from him on the 50th anniversary of his trusteeship at the Monroe County Savings Bank, July 10, 1933, in the depth of the economic depression: "We are coming through all right, if we only wait. This world is too big to give up."

Modest to a high degree, Mr. Dryer often told interviewers "not to waste printers' ink on this."

Took Interest in Yachting

One of his many interests was yachting. He was a member of Rochester Yacht Club and at one time was active in the Royal Canadian Yacht Club of Toronto.

RUFUS K. DRYER

He was a member of the Genesee Valley Club, the Country Club of Geneva and the Rochester Chamber of Commerce.

Formerly a resident of 19 Arnold Pk., Rochester, Mr. Dryer moved to Geneva in 1914.

Surviving are his wife, the former Margaretta Cunningham, whom he married in 1875; two sons, James C. Dryer and Joseph F. Dryer, Rochester bond brokers, and one daughter, Miss Leora M. Dryer of Geneva.

R. K. DRYER, 91, BANKERS' DEAN, DIES IN GENEVA

Board Chairman
Active in Clubs,
Business

Rufus K. Dryer, 91, prominent figure in banking and business circles in Rochester for many years, died yesterday in High Acres, Geneva, where he established a home in 1914.

Funeral services will be in St. Stephen's Church, Geneva, tomorrow morning. Burial will be private at the convenience of the family.

For 54 years, Mr. Dryer was a trustee of Monroe County Savings Bank, was president from 1919 until January, 1935, when he surrendered that office to become chairman of the board, which post he held at the time of his death. For many years he was associated with the Security Trust Company, serving as trustee and as chairman of the executive committee. He was a director of the old Fidelity Trust Company and of the old Merchants Bank, serving as its president at one time; he also was a director of the old Traders Bank.

Mr. Dryer's business career started when at the age of 15 he became office boy for James Cunningham, carriage maker. Later, when Mr. Cunningham organized James Cunningham, Son & Company, he took his own son, James, and Mr. Dryer into the business, the latter eventually becoming vicepresident and treasurer. Mr. Dryer retired from the firm in 1909, but his son, James, is vicepresident of the concern, which beginning as a carriage factory later took on the manufacture of automobiles and airplanes.

Born in Gorham, Aug. 17, 1846, son of Dr. Cyrus and Mary Keeler Dryer, Mr. Dryer knew what it was to work at an early age. His father's death when the son was a boy necessitated his going to work at 12 to assist in the support of his mother. He was first employed by members of the Corning family at their store in Webster, his home having been established some time before in Henrietta. Then came his job as office boy, and 21 years later he started his career as a banker by becoming trustee in Monroe County Savings Bank. At the time of his death he was oldest trustee of the bank both in age and years of service. Although he lived in Geneva, he came to Rochester every week to conduct his bank affairs.

At one time he was a director and president of the Curtice Canning Company, and was one of the founders of the Chamber of Commerce, and in which he always maintained his membership. He also was a founder of the Highland Hospital, known earlier as the Hahnemann Hospital.

He was a member of the Rochester Yacht Club and at one time was active in the Royal Canadian Yacht Club of Toronto. Other clubs included Genesee Valley and Country Club of Geneva.

Surviving are his widow, Margaretta Cunningham Dryer, the youngest daughter of James Cunningham, whom he married Oct. 27, 1875, and three of their four children, James C. Dryer and Joseph Dryer, Rochester bond brokers, and Miss Leora M. Dryer, Geneva.

Rufus K. Dryer
D. & C. OCT 29 1937

The name of Rufus K. Dryer for more than half a century was linked with business and financial leadership in Rochester. His death in Ontario County, where he was born 91 years ago, gives proper occasion for adding to the recognition that was given him during his lifetime further tribute to his life and services.

One of Mr. Dryer's most important services was his part in guiding the services of the Monroe County Savings Bank. He served on its board 54 years and for fourteen of these years he was its president. He also served as a director of the Fidelity Trust Company, long one of the city's leading banks, and of the old Merchants' Bank.

His other business interests were important in Rochester's development. An officer of the Cunningham Carriage Company, a director of Curtice Brothers Company and one of the founders of the Chamber of Commerce, he was recognized as a business leader. He also was a leader in social service effort. The Hahnemann Hospital, later the Highland, was one of his major interests.

His interest in yachting was expressed in his membership in the Rochester and Toronto Yacht clubs.

The impress of such a long and useful life is difficult to estimate, but two communities, Rochester and Geneva, will long remember his presence and be grateful for his efforts. RNF Biography, D.

Rufus K. Dryer

For more than 50 years Rufus K. Dryer was active in the banking and industrial life of Rochester. His death at 91 at Geneva, where he had made his home in recent years, has given occasion for testimony to his high quality of leadership.

Mr. Dryer's first job in Rochester was with the James Cunningham Company, in 1862. He later became vicepresident and treasurer of the firm.

In 1883 he was chosen a trustee of the Monroe County Savings Bank. His increasing interests in banking led to his becoming an executive. For 14 years he was president of the Monroe County Savings Bank and was chairman of its board of directors until his death, coming regularly to Rochester for bank meetings.

He was also for many years a member of the board of the Security Trust Company. He was a director of Curtice Brothers Company, one of the founders of the Chamber of Commerce, and was interested in the development of the Hahnemann Hospital, later the Highland.

Thus Rufus K. Dryer's long and useful life was a valuable factor in the progress of Rochester. RNF Biography, D.

Memorial to Rufus K. Dryer

At a special meeting of the Board of Directors of the Security Trust Company, held Saturday, Oct. 30, 1937, the following Memorial was unanimously adopted:

Rufus K. Dryer, for thirty-seven years a director of the Security Trust Company of Rochester, died on the 27th day of October, 1937.

Elected to the Executive Committee on Jan. 15, 1908, Mr. Dryer served in that office continuously until his death, and was its chairman during the last thirteen years of his life.

His quiet modesty of demeanor served only to emphasize the strong, forceful personality which so characterized Mr. Dryer all through his business career and made him so universally loved, admired and respected. He had too much to put at ease those associated with him, and his helpful and sympathetic understanding of their problems especially endeared him to the younger members of our staff.

His standard of conduct and well balanced judgment added greatly to the fine tradition of this Trust Company, and it is with deep appreciation of the great loss that we who were privileged to work with him have sustained, that we spread this testimonial to Mr. Dryer on our minutes. Let them be so recorded, published in the press, and a copy sent to Mr. Dryer's family.

Rufus Keeler Dryer

The Rochester Clearing House Association has suffered a real loss in the passing of Rufus Keeler Dryer, Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Monroe County Savings Bank. He was the oldest trustee of the banks of Rochester, both in age and in period of service.

The Association has gained much from his keen foresight and invaluable experience. His unfailing optimism, engendered by a thorough understanding of the problems at hand, stimulated the work of the Association, especially during the trying days of the Bank Holiday.

Mr. Dryer has been associated with many financial, charitable and business institutions during his long years of service, and he will be remembered gratefully by all of them for his contributions to their success.

His personal qualities endeared him to all who were privileged to associate with him. In spite of the many responsibilities and demands made upon him in business life, he retained those enviable qualities of modesty and simplicity of living.

We shall miss his counsel and encouragement. His family will miss him to a far greater measure, and it is to them that we express our deepest sympathy in his passing.

By this resolution we would honor the life and work of Rufus Keeler Dryer.

Resolution

The following resolution relative to the death of Rufus K. Dryer, Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Monroe County Savings Bank, was adopted at the meeting of the Board held October 27th: RNF

Death has taken from our midst Rufus Keeler Dryer, our beloved and esteemed Chairman of the Board of Trustees. His extreme modesty and simplicity of living have so endeared him to all of us that we shall miss him greatly at our meetings and councils and in our daily life.

Mr. Dryer has served this Bank as Trustee since 1883—a service of over fifty years—as Vice President and beginning in 1918 as President until 1934, when, at his own request, he was relieved of the heavy responsibilities he had borne so ably, especially during the depression period, to become the first

Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Monroe County Savings Bank.

His interests, especially during his later life, was centered in his family and in his Bank. To live with and for his family was his great comfort; to be engaged in his calling at the Bank was his joy and pleasure. During the depressing period of the bank holiday his spirit of optimism stimulated all those who were associated with him to solve the problems at hand with courage and determination. At one time his optimistic outlook found expression in the statement: "We are coming through all right, if we only wait. This world is too big to give up."

His long years of service to the Monroe County Savings Bank, his courageous leadership, his wise judgment, his ability to solve new problems and to meet the changing conditions in the banking world with an open mind, have created for us, his associates, a heritage to be cherished always.

Of all his business interests, his Bank was his pride and received his first and more careful attention. Nevertheless, he found time to devote to his other important interests in the community. He served as Vice President and Treasurer of the James Cunningham Company, as officer and adviser of the Curtice Brothers Company, as director and officer of the Merchants Bank, and as trustee and Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Security Trust Company. The benefits which these and other organizations derived from his affiliation with them, we can appreciate from our own experience.

To his family we extend our sincere sympathy, especially to her who has been his companion for so many years. For them there is sorrow in his passing, but tempered by the joy that he has been spared so many years.

We, the Trustees of the Monroe County Savings Bank, wish to record our esteem and affection in this simple memorial.

Born in England, he came to Rochester at the age of 7 and early in life became interested in the milling business, then the city's leading industry. He was president of the J. A. Hinds Milling Co. which operated a plant in Brown's Race, and later the Corona Mills in Murray Street.

He was a charter member of Lake Avenue Baptist Church and Oak Hill Country Club and was the oldest living past master of Corinthian Temple Lodge, F&AM. He also was a member of the Chamber of Commerce.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. John F. Ancona and Mrs. W. Berry Huntley, and three sons, Norman, Ross and Wayne Duffett.

Mr. Duffett died at his home Sunday. He was formerly president of the New York State Milling Association.

In 1880, he joined W. H. Glenny & Co., silverware and crockery dealers here, became salesmanager and then formed the Dudley, Given & Simpson Company after the dissolution of the other firm in 1910.

He was president of the Dudley, Given & Simpson Company until his retirement in 1928.

He was a member of the Bergen Lodge of Masons.

DEATH CLAIMS R. C. DUDLEY, 84, EX-MERCHANT

Founded Silver,
Crockery Firm
Here

Richard Carver Dudley, 84, who engaged in the crockery and silverware business here for 48 years prior to his retirement in 1928, died yesterday (Sept. 9, 1940) at his Clay Road, Henrietta, home.

RICHARD C. DUDLEY

A descendant of pioneer Connecticut families, Mr. Dudley came to the Rochester area from Guilford, Conn., where he was born Oct. 3, 1855.

In 1872 he established a grocery business at Fairport with his brother, the late Edward L. Dudley, and eight years later joined the staff of W. H. Glenny & Co., crockery and silverware dealers here.

He became the Glenny firm's sales manager before the company's dissolution in 1910, and then formed the Dudley, Given & Simpson Company, serving as president until his retirement.

During his Rochester residence he was active in affairs of St. Peter's Presbyterian Church, and was an elder of the congregation for many years. He was a member of Bergen Lodge of the Masons.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. William Weber, Los Angeles, and Mrs. William B. Hanks, Henrietta, and three grandchildren, the Misses Nancy and Elizabeth Hanks, and William B. Hanks Jr.

Funeral services will be conducted at the home at 3 p. m. Thursday. Burial will be in Mt. Hope Cemetery.

Best of All, Civic Leader Finds Young Son's Casual Tribute

Jim Duffus, aged 10, newspaper in hand, walked up to his father, Roy A. Duffus, this morning with a "Nice going, Dad," and walked out of the room again.

And that, said the casualty insurance expert just elected president of the Underwriters' Board, was the best congratulation of all. The Duffy boys, he explained—there's also Roy Jr., 14—are their father's chief recreation, as well as one of the big reasons he has for years been active in Rochester's civic life.

"I feel other men are giving up their time to be Scout leaders for me boys, and the least I can do is be active in work for other men's boys," Mr. Duffus explained in the clear, rapid speech for which he is famous.

Furthermore, he added, all his civic enterprises, from being a member of the board of management of the Central YMCA to teaching a Bible class, have no direct bearing on his job.

Leads 'Double' Life

"I keep business and the rest of my life as separate as possible," he said. "I haven't written a nickel of insurance for a member of the Hubbell Bible Class at First Baptist Church, for instance. That's something that has nothing to do with business."

In other words, Mr. Duffus' philosophy is directly opposed to the comic-strip interpretation of insurance salesmen who "join" groups only for the contacts they make. And he believes most established companies, like James Johnston Inc., of which he is secretary, encourage their agents to confine selling to regular clients and prospects suggested by clients.

"Established companies have a definite responsibility to the community and each other," Mr. Duffus said. "That's one reason I've been glad to serve on the Underwriters' Board and will be glad to be president. The board acts as a clearing house for insurance men's ideas."

In insurance about 13 years, Mr. Duffus started his business life with Dugan & Hudson Shoe Company. Except for a few years out in France during the War, he was with this company from 1909 to 1924. Then he went with the Travelers' Insurance Company which wanted men trained in salesmanship. Four years later, tired of moving around all the time, he decided to "settle down in a city" and joined Johnston's.

Popular in Public Library

Then he took a public speaking course and has become one of the most popular and best known speakers for such groups as Kiwanis clubs in small towns, and at father and son banquets. Besides offices already mentioned, he has been president of Lions Club, vice-president of the Ad Club, and is insurance instructor at RBI, field commissioner of Boy Scouts of America, chairman of the business development and educational committee of the New York State Association of Local Agents.

The Duffus family lives at 56 Elmwood Ave., where Mr. Duffus is busy building a track for his sons' trains around the attic. He has promised them $10 if it isn't done before Christmas. He doesn't expect to pay.

Duffy Appointment Gives Mon

Joy Brought To County Democrats

By CHARLES E. WELCH

Monroe County gains one Supreme Court justice, through appointment by Governor Lehman of former Representative James P. B. Duffy, Democrat, to fill a vacancy in the Seventh Judicial District.

Confirmation of Mr. Duffy's appointment, which spelled joy to the Democrats here and gloom to the party in Ontario County, which made a strong bid for the $15,000 job, was given by the Senate today.

Recommended by Donald A. Dailey, Monroe Democratic leader, Mr. Duffy's name was sent to the Senate last night by Governor Lehman and was referred to the finance committee.

2 Others Appointed

Governor Lehman at the same time announced the appointment of Supreme Court Justice Benjamin B. Cunningham to a full five-year term as associate justice of the Appellate Division, fourth department, and of Justice Marsh N. Taylor as temporary associate justice of the Appellate Division.

Justice Cunningham, who has been serving under a temporary appointment as an associate justice since Jan. 2, succeeds the late Justice Robert F. Thompson of Canandaigua, Ontario County. The vacancy which Mr. Duffy will fill was created by Justice Cunningham's advancement.

Appointment of the former congressman, who was defeated for renomination by Representative George B. Kelly in the Democratic primary in the 38th District last September, carries with it recognition of Mr. Dailey as county leader. It foreshadows, in the opinion of party leaders here, the early appointment of Corporation Counsel Harold P. Burke as federal judge to succeed Harlan W. Rippey, who is now on the Court of Appeals.

Mr. Duffy had been proposed for the federal judgeship in opposition to Burke.

Appointment of Burke is being opposed by Kelly, because Burke supported Duffy in the primary election.

Governor's Choice for Justice

Athletics at Georgetown

"Jim" Duffy, as his friends know him—tall, blond and well-groomed—began the practice of law after his college years, but has found little time to devote to his chosen profession in the last 25 years.

Born in Rochester, Nov. 25, 1878, a son of Walter B. Duffy, he attended Cathedral School and later went to Georgetown University. He studied law at Harvard and was admitted to the bar in 1904.

"Big Jim," as he was called in college, went in for athletics at both Georgetown and Harvard and was a member of the varsity crews of both institutions.

Upon his return to Rochester in 1904, he began the practice of law, but seven years later put aside his law books to look after his father's business interests.

He became head of the Duffy-Powers Company, and remained with the department store until it discontinued business.

Nominated on Both Tickets

A Democrat, as his father had been, Jim Duffy nevertheless attracted the attention of George W. Aldridge, Republican leader of Monroe County, early in his business career. He was nominated on both the Republican and Democratic tickets for the Board of Education.

He served 26 years on the board and was its president four years. Following repeal of prohibition, he was appointed by Governor Lehman as a member of the State Alcoholic Beverage Control Board.

He served on this board until the fall of 1934, when he was elected for a two-year term in Congress, defeating former Representative James L. Whitley, Republican.

He had just been re-appointed by the Governor to a five-year term on the ABC board, and was reluctant to resign to make the run for Congress. He did so only after Governor Lehman had approved a proposal by Judge Rippey, then County Democratic leader, that Duffy enter the race against Whitley.

Duffy's term in Congress was brief, due to his defeat after one term by Kelly, who had the aid of the newly-organized American Labor Party.

Votes by Conscience

Always conscientious, Duffy acted upon his own personal impulses and convictions, voting in Congress as his conscience dictated.

Mr. Duffy will serve only until Dec. 31, unless he succeeds in winning in the November election, in which he is expected to be a candidate to succeed himself. The full term is 14 years.

Duffy is a trustee of St. Patrick's Cathedral, has been a director of the Community Chest for several years, and a trustee of the Chamber of Commerce more than 20 years.

He was recently re-elected a director of the Motor Terminal Company which controls the Terminal Building. He makes his home at Hotel Rochester. He is a bachelor.

HERBERT WEET BACKS JUSTICE FOR NEW TERM

Ex-School Leader
Cites Duffy's
Board Term

More than a quarter of a century of association between Supreme Court Justice James P. B. Duffy and former Superintendent of Schools Herbert S. Weet induced Weet last night to announce support of Justice Duffy's campaign for election to a full 14-year term.

Announcing his support in a letter to The Democrat and Chronicle, Weet praised Justice Duffy as having "to an exceptionally marked degree all the qualities that we are accustomed to think of as essential to the ability, tolerance, integrity and independence of the judiciary."

Mr. Duffy was a member of the Board of Education much of the time Mr. Weet was head of the city school system.

"He was profoundly devoted always to every task that came before him, Mr. Weet wrote. 'Never did he spare himself in an effort to get before him all facts in any given case before reaching a decision. And it was seldom indeed that any important fact escaped him for his intellect is as keen and penetrating as his devotion is profound.'

"Justice Duffy knows no guide to conduct, private or public, save his own highly enlightened conscience. Never have I known a single act of his private or public life that has been an exception to this rule."

DUFFY FRIENDS MAP CAMPAIGN

Republican and Democratic friends rallied to Supreme Court Justice James P. B. Duffy's support yesterday.

Prominent at a Powers Hotel luncheon, called to discuss plans for advancing his candidacy, were Harper Sibley, former president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, and Dr. Herbert S. Weet, former Rochester superintendent of schools.

Mr. Sibley was at Harvard while Justice Duffy was studying law at that institution. Mr. Weet was school superintendent at the same time Mr. Duffy was member of the city Board of Education. J. Arthur Jennings, chairman of the Duffy Nonpartisan Campaign Committee, outlined progress of the campaign.

Colleague Praises Judge Duffy

Supreme Court Justice James P. B. Duffy, Democratic candidate to succeed himself on the bench, received high praise today from a former Congressional colleague, Rep. Walter Chandler of Memphis, Tenn.

As a fellow member of the House Judiciary Committee, 74th Congress, Chandler developed "the highest confidence in the integrity, honesty and reliability of Justice Duffy," he wrote in a letter to Harper Sibley, chairman of the Non-partisan Judicial Committee which is supporting the Justice.

"No man more faithfully and more vigorously represented a Congressional district than he," said Chandler. "I am sure that he has carried the same qualities into his judicial work, and I sincerely hope that he will be honored by selection to fill the remainder of the term of public service for which he is so well qualified."

Further indorsement came from Senator-elect John E. Miller of Arkansas, who wrote.

"As a member of the House Judiciary Committee, I had an opportunity to appraise him. I doubt very much whether I have ever met any man who possessed, in my opinion, more qualifications that a judge should have than does Jim Duffy."

D. & C. JUN 16 1938 Duffy on Trail Of Family Heirs

Returned from a trip to Ireland to trace descendants of the O'Dea family of which he is a member, James P. B. Duffy yesterday began a further search through Washington records to settle an estate valued at several million dollars.

He is expected to return to Rochester today or tomorrow.

The estate was left by Michael O'Dea who died intestate in Los Angeles last year. He was a first cousin of Mr. Duffy's mother, Harriet O'Dea, named a co-administrator of the estate, is the daughter of Mr. Duffy's uncle.

All parties, according to the former justice of the State Supreme Court are working toward an equitable settlement of the valuable estate. Information obtained in Ireland was sketchy, he reported, because many records were destroyed in the Dublin rebellion of 1922. W.F. Rye - D

Society Chooses U. of R. Teacher

Jack W. Dunlap, associate professor at the University of Rochester, yesterday was named president of the Psychometric Society meeting at State College, Pa., according to the United Press.

Meeting at the same time was the American Psychological Association which was told by a University of Iowa psychology professor that so-called "intellectuals" who know all the answers often are "unintelligent."

"When carried to extremes, mental stunts such as cross-word puzzles and question and answer superficiality have the effect of making a waste-basket of the human mind," said Dr. George D. Stoddard. "Sheer accumulation of information is the antithesis of intelligent activity."

His energetic manner and youthful appearance belie his long service record, believed to be one of the longest in the business. His youthful outlook is typified by his fondness for snappy neckties and his smart grooming that make him resemble one of the well-dressed men in the clothing advertisements he deals in.

Studied Law

After attending New York City public schools, Duffy studied law for two years and in 1891 took a job as typist and office boy in the office of T. B. Elker, representing the Chicago Herald, the Chicago Evening Post and Buffalo News.

In 1902 he became advertising salesman on the New York Evening Telegram, and two years later joined the C. J. Billson firm, which represented several leading large city newspapers. In 1905 he went to Verree & Conklin, also newspaper representatives, and in 1907 to Smith & Thompson, later the John Budd Company.

Joins Gannett Group in 1932

He became president of the Budd Company when John Budd died in 1926. He retired in 1928, but soon was back in harness, going on the Cleveland News to do special national advertising work. In 1930, he went to the Dallas News as advertising counselor.

SPORTS FIGURE OF '90S PASSES OF AUTO HURTS D.C. Jan 4, 1940 Peter J. Dukelow Succumbs at 85 After Accident

One of the most colorful figures of Rochester's oldest generation, an athletic hero in this city in the 1880's and 1890's, Peter J. Dukelow, died last night in Memorial Hospital, Canandaigua, from injuries suffered when he was struck by an automobile five weeks ago. He was 85 years old.

Mr. Dukelow, father of John J. Dukelow, 14 Galusha St., outstanding boxer and bicycle rider at the turn of the century, operated a lens grinding business in Honeoye until he retired several years ago. Since then he had been living on his 160-acre farm in Honeoye with his wife, Mrs. Minerva Mason Dukelow, who, with his son, survives him.

Formerly a lens specialist at Bausch & Lomb Optical Company, Mr. Dukelow was tops as a high-wheeler bike rider in his youth. Among his feats was the winning of a race from Buffalo to Rochester in record time.

With his wife, one of the first woman bicycle racers in the United States, Mr. Dukelow raced at the old Driving Park track, at South Park, and the old baseball field in University Avenue.

The Dukelow family lived for many years in Clifford Avenue before they moved to Buffalo, where Mr. Dukelow became superintendent of a spectacle factory. Since his retirement he had been in excellent health until the automobile accident, Nov. 24.

Mr. Dukelow's son, John, learned his bicycle racing from his father, and himself won many amateur championships. He later took up boxing and became world amateur middleweight champion.

FBI Investigators Probe Mystery of Lost Professor

D. & C. AUG 3 1938

New York — (AP) — Federal agents investigating the strange drama of a midnight death struggle aboard the transatlantic liner Normandie, prelude the disappearance of a 35-year-old Colgate University professor, planned yesterday to question the victim's wife.

The missing man, Dr. Robert Moore Duncan, a graduate of Princeton University, apparently plunged overboard while the liner was 450 miles at sea en route to New York.

Henry Villar, purser on the Normandie, said a seaman told him Dr. Duncan grabbed his wife, Alice, by the throat on the wind-swept upper deck, hit her on the head, knocked her unconscious, and attempted to throw her over the side before seaman Joseph Brouard rescued her.

Mrs. Duncan, the mother of two small children, daughter of an associate of John D. Rockefeller Jr., was taken from the Normandie with a bandaged head and removed to the Montclair, N. J. Community Hospital for treatment.

Hospital attached reported "very little change in her condition. She was badly beaten and shocked."

The Federal Bureau of Investigation, under Reed Vetterli, New York chief, stepped into the case because Dr. Duncan's presumed death occurred at sea.

Purser Villar said Mrs. Duncan, upon reviving, sobbed: "Get my husband. He's going to commit suicide."

But Duncan was not to be found on board.
Villar said he was unable to shed any light on the events leading up to the struggle. He said the couple appeared happy and dined in their cabin Sunday night, their last night together.

E. H. DUNNIGAN NRA MEDIATOR IN RIOTS, DIES

D. & C. DEC 29 1934

Won National Note in Minneapolis Truck Strike Settlement

Eugene Henry Dunnigan, who augmented a grammar school training with rigorous self teaching in higher education, then rose to national prominence as a federal mediator in labor riots involving the NRA last summer, died yesterday afternoon (Dec. 28, 1934) in Milwaukee. He was 56.

Mr. Dunnigan was born in Rochester and learned the three R's at St. Bridget's School in the city's "Little Dublin." He went to Washington in 1904 to live, but often visited his brothers, Henry S. and Raymond J. Dunnigan, who live at 854 and 322 Silver Road respectively.

Personal friend of the late President Harding, Dunnigan was appointed to the U. S. Labor Board by him. He was while attending an NRA conference in Milwaukee several weeks ago that he suffered a stroke and was unable to leave that city. He died at 1:20 yesterday.

Mr. Dunnigan probably attracted most attention during July of this year, when the bloody Minneapolis strike of truck drivers was at its height. He was there as a federal labor conciliator throughout the rioting, and, with Rev. Francis Haas, drafted agreements which eventually stopped one of the fiercest strikes of modern times. Minneapolis hospitals were filled with wounded men and thousands of National Guardsmen thronged the city.

Mr. Dunnigan, who worked under Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, was a Republican, but his worth was rated so high that President Roosevelt permitted him to continue in the department which he had served 19 years. During the heated Cox-Harding campaign, Dunnigan was drafted to take the stump for Harding. He made an extensive trip through the Southern states.

She'll See Mate Get His Degree

Thomas H. Dennis of 29 Clio St., who went back to school after a nine year lapse, is shown with Mrs. Dennis, who will see him get B. A. degree from Syracuse University.

Rochesterian Wins Degree At Syracuse U. in Long Quest

Such a thing as a nine-year lapse in his quest for higher education couldn't curb Thomas H. Dennis' desire for "more of the same," so on Monday he will step right up in the Syracuse University sheepskin parade and receive his B. A. degree.

Dennis, nearing his 29th birthday, a claims investigator for the city when Federal Judge Harold P. Burke was corporation counsel. His wife, Mrs. Vera Dennis, now is Judge Burke's secretary. The couple's home is at 29 Clio St., Charlotte.

Dennis graduated from Aquinas Institute in 1929. For a few years he worked at various jobs, played some semi-pro football and investigated claims against the city. Then the Democratic regime went out and so did Dennis.

That political upheaval opened the door for Dennis to resume his education quest. He entered Canisius College in Buffalo in September, 1938. After two years there he transferred to the College of Fine Arts, Syracuse University. By dint of hard study and extension courses he became eligible for his degree in less than three years.

So this weekend will find Mr. and Mrs. Dennis enjoying the pre-commencement festivities on Piety Hill. And Monday Mrs. Dennis will see her husband receive his degree.

The summer will be but an interlude on his educational trail as he has been accepted for entrance at Hahnemann Memorial College, Philadelphia, where in September he will begin a course to gain an M. D. degree.

Boy Science Test Winner To Leave Tonight for Fair

Week's Stay as Guest Awaits Builder of Radio Set

Winner of the grand award offered by the American Institute of the City of New York at this spring's Science Center Fair at Monroe High School, 16-year-old George Dundon, will leave Rochester tonight for New York City and the World's Fair, where he will be guest of the Institute next week.

Dundon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Myrl Dundon, 283 Sagamore Dr., captured the prize by exhibiting the amateur radio telegraph set he built and operates at his home under the call letters W8TOH. Now completing his junior year at Charlotte High School, Dundon exhibited his scientific handiwork at the fair in competition with exhibits in all fields of science entered by pupils of high schools from five counties. The award was based on excellence of construction and general completeness of the exhibit.

There is nothing new or novel in his radio set, with which he has communicated with amateurs in 30 states, Dundon modestly confessed last night, but on his trip to New York he will be required to exhibit it and explain it to visitors three hours daily at the Westinghouse Building. The rest of the time in New York will be largely his own, and his Institute host will furnish a guide for sightseeing.

Dundon became interested in amateur radio about three years ago, largely through listening to amateurs on the short wave bands. Studying the subject, he began building his own apparatus and a year ago qualified for his amateur station license. His station uses 100 watts input and thus far he has confined himself to the telegraph end of the hobby, though plans eventually to work into the phone field.

He Saw the World

ADAM DI GENNARO
Once his horizon was limited.

Marine Spins Ocean Yarns Times-Union JUL 31 1941 Corporal Covers Waterfront Of World

THREE years ago, when he graduated from Madison High School, Adam Di Gennaro's horizon was limited pretty much to the Rochester skyline, but he has gone a long way since then.

Ask Adam about Iceland, Pago Pago, Tahiti, New Zealand and he'll give you a good, firsthand impression of what those far places are like. You see, he's Corporal Gennaro now, of the U. S. Marine Corps.

Things began happening for him soon after he enlisted Sept. 6, 1938. He was assigned to the light cruiser, U. S. S. Brooklyn, and for the next two and a half years saw a good deal of the world. His last cruise took him to Iceland in the convoy for the U. S. occupation forces sent there last month.

In fact, he traveled so much that he's glad he's going to be "on the beach" for awhile. Recently transferred to the Marine Barracks, Washington, D. C., he is home on 30 days' leave, visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Di Gennaro of 373 Columbia Ave.

He reports that the Icelanders appeared glad to see the Americans; that Iceland is a bleak, treeless place, shrouded in fog much of the time and so windy that the natives have to anchor their roofs with huge boulders. Its main port, Reykjavik, is unimpressive. It was closed by the British and the Icelanders welcomed the American occupation because it meant trade with this country would be resumed. The British soldiers there are glad they will be leaving, they told Gennaro; the natives didn't seem to like them.

Icelanders are big, blonde, Nordic folk, and many of their girls are very pretty, he observed. Of the sights he saw there, he was particularly struck with the windowless "boogey huts" built for the British soldiers. They are made of corrugated iron, cylindrical shaped for wind resistance, and resemble oil drums. In the winter, snow is packed around them for insulation.

On a 9,000-mile goodwill cruise to New Zealand, he had the time of his life. The New Zealanders turned the country over to the American service men.

"They wouldn't let us pay for a thing," recounts the bronzed youth, who was 18 when he enlisted, is now 21. "We just walked into theaters. In restaurants, someone always insisted on paying our checks. We were taken on a 175-mile train ride into the interior, where we saw the famous Rainbow Mountain, which is composed of bands of bright-colored rock; the hot sulphur springs where the native tribes cook their meals. I spent only $2.50 all the while we were in New Zealand, and that was for souvenirs."

A CLASSROOM CAPITALIST

BYC Jan. 14, 1940
By William J. Kirby

DONALD L. DETTMAN, entrepreneur!
The "entrepreneur," or enterpriser, is the backbone of the Capitalist System, say the economists.

He risks his capital on the chance of gain; he fails or he succeeds and sometimes builds up giant industries like the Kodak industry, providing wealth for the world and employment for thousands. He is the spark in the ginger ale of the BUSINESS SYSTEM. An artist could draw the well-known picture of Uncle Sam, label it The Enterpriser, and be right.

So, dear reader, look at Don Dettman, a senior in Jefferson High School, and see Uncle Sam.

It is true that Don has not got to the point of studying reports on steel production, car loadings, bank debits, electrical output, the price of commodities, etc., etc. and etc.

"When you went to bed nights," we asked in interviewing our entrepreneur, "did you lie awake pondering the problem of inventories, or raising capital, or the trends of trade?"

He looked rather contemptuously at us and answered:

"I figured that I could make and sell Christmas wreaths and I did it—at a profit."

The facts?

Don, a senior in Jefferson High School, living at 136B Lake Ave., decided a year ago, when he learned the knack of making wreaths from his older brother, a florist, that he would swing the job himself in the Christmas season just closed. He began to lay his plans last summer. There was foresight, an admirable business quality.

He went on his bicycle to various places to gather cones, an indispensable article in decoration of wreaths. Last August, it was necessary for him to go to Highland Hospital for diabetic treatment. (He has been diabetic for six or seven years but by the faithful use of insulin daily he keeps well and is growing fast). Having some idle time on his hands in the hospital, he obtained leave to visit nearby Highland Park, where he gathered cones, cached them on the hospital grounds and retrieved them when he went home.

As the Christmas season loomed, problems of capitalization and help had to be solved. Don had a little money of his own, saved from his weekly earnings as a carrier for The Democrat and Chronicle, but hardly enough. There were frames and saws to buy, and ribbons, hemlock, white pine, cedar, yew,

Wherein Young (in Fact Quite Young) Don Dettman Of Rochester Proves by Personal Experience That Private Enterprise Still Can Pay Off in Profits

wire and ruscus. So he turned to his brother, Howard, for a non-collateral loan, and so solved the problem of capitalization.

The "plant" problem was easily solved; it could be in no better place than the cellar of his home. Here, one section, near an open window, was shut off as a storehouse for supplies. At the other end of the cellar, his workbench was set up; this part was enclosed with an old piece of canvas and an oil heater was utilized to keep the working temperature around 40 degrees.

When it came to employees, Don was undecided whether to take in partners or hire "help."

In our interview with him, Don admitted that this point bothered him. He wanted no one to work with him or for him older than himself; he wanted to give his neighborhood chums a break. He knew that he would have to carry the "manufacturing load," that he would have to have help at the bench and a sales force outside and that the sales force would have to work in relays; for it would be too cold for one boy to stay out too long.

He argued the partner problem, he admits. If he just employed "help" what would he pay them and would they be good workers? If he went into partnership, what should be the divvy? He was the enterpriser; it was his idea; the overhead was his; he had painted the sales signs, contacted someone in the country for his greens, and was putting up the capital.

In the end he compromised on taking Frank Contestable, of White Street, a chum, as a partner, the partner to have 33 1-3 per cent of the net, and decided to hire other boys, the partners to set a figure on what the workers were worth.

Wreaths were first displayed Dec. 1. Don's business ledger shows no sale.

Was he discouraged?

No-o-o-o!

He knew it was necessary to display his goods early, and, besides, some persons would be "looking around" for wreaths and bouquets for not only home decorations, but also to decorate graves of beloved and remembered relatives and friends.

As he was filling the roles of manufacturer and retailer, there was in addition to work at the bench the question of bookkeeping. Because Don gets up at 5 a. m. to deliver his papers, he has made it a general rule to go to bed at 9 p. m. And this rule was kept, with the exception of a few nights during the Christmas rush, when time simply didn't count. This meant that actual work at the bench had to stop at 8 o'clock, for there were books to be kept, and one had to clean up, even if there isn't a mother living, before one goes to bed. The RBI probably wouldn't approve the bookkeeping system, but it appears to be accurate and gives an interesting picture of the "business," showing that as the Christmas season neared, the tempo got faster and there were days when receipts averaged more than $15.

Customers were kind. One woman became so interested in the venture, she spent some evenings in the cellar watching Don and his crew at work. One of Don's periods at school is Retailing. His "business" gave him opportunity to put some of his classroom theories into practice.

"Be courteous, but firm," he told his sales force. "Don't sell for less than the marked-up price, unless you ask me. Don't let the prospective customer go away without suggesting that if he doesn't like a 50 cent wreath, he might want one of the 75 cent ones. And show him the $2 kind."

What was the result?

The result was that Santa Claus was able to carry presents to parents in several homes in that neighborhood. Put into cold figures, it foots up!

Two hundred and fifty wreaths sold. Gross earnings, $149. Cost of materials, $47.50. Net earnings, $101.50. Wages, one boy, $4; one boy, $5; one boy, $15; Frank Contestable, the more-or-less partner, $26.50. Net profit to the entrepreneur, $51. Hours worked by the entrepreneur, approximately 170; income per hour, approximately, 30 cents.

"I'm planning to go into it in a big way next year," Don confided to us. Perhaps, being Don's uncle, we are prejudiced. But we feel sure that the Capitalist System is safe so long as Don's spirit lives.

Death Takes Ex-Head of Baking Firm

D. & C. SEP 7 1941
William C. Deininger,
80, Followed Father
In Business

William C. Deininger, retired head of the huge General Baking Company which grew from a firm founded by his father in this city, died last night (Sept. 5, 1941) at his home, 963 East Ave. He was 80 years old.

WILLIAM C. DEININGER

Prominent as a businessman, club member and philanthropist, Mr. Deininger was a native of Rochester and lived here all his life.

He headed the baking firm from 1918 to 1925, and after nine years of retirement he returned to active management as chairman of the board of the company, retiring in 1940 but retaining his status as a director.

Soon after his first retirement he plunged into a protracted legal battle with the William B. Ward baking interests as head of a committee which demanded payment by Ward of $8,000,000 to the General Baking firm as the result of negotiations for a merger.

Deininger was leader of national and city baking groups in the fight, which involved charges of anti-trust law violations and was waged in high federal courts before settlement.

In 1934, after a stockholders' fight, he again won control of the company and held it until final retirement last year.

Two brothers, the late Fred and Henry, were associated with him in the baking business. They inherited the old Deininger firm founded in Rochester by their father and by mergers built up the general firm.

In 1934 Mr. Deininger gave $40,000 for a new wing to be added to St. John's Home for the Aged. He was a prominent Republican here, politically active in his younger days. In the early 1900's he served as a Public Market Commissioner.

He was a member of Oak Hill Country Club and Rochester Club. Funeral services will be conducted in the East Avenue home at 2 p. m. Tuesday. He leaves a daughter, Mrs. J. Edmund Byrne, New Rochelle; a sister, Louisa B. Reinhardt, and two grandsons. Burial will be in Mt. Hope Cemetery.

Not long after his first retirement, Mr. Deininger entered a long-drawn out legal battle with the William B. Ward baking interests, heading a committee that demanded payment by Ward of eight million dollars to the General Baking firm as the result of negotiations for a merger. The court battle, which involved charges of anti-trust law violations, was carried to high federal courts before a settlement was reached. After a stockholders' fight in 1934, he again won control of the company and held it until his retirement last year.

Seven years ago, Mr. Deininger gave $40,000 for a new wing for St. John's Home for the Aged. A Republican in politics, he was active in party affairs in his younger years and in the early 1900's served as a public market commissioner.

was an important and constructive figure in Rochester business circles. Composer

David Diamond, brilliant 25-year-old modern composer, a product of the Eastman School of Music, has been awarded a Guggenheim fellowship in music for the second time within three years, it was announced yesterday in New York City.

The award, providing $2,500 for creative work, adds to a long line of scholarships and honors that have fallen to the young musician, son of Mr. and Mrs. Osias Diamond, 249 Edgerton St.

Because of Diamond's presence in New York, where he is studying and composing, it was not certain last night to what use he would devote the fellowship.

Music by Diamond, whom critics consider quite modern in technique, has been played by the Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra, the Greenwich Sinfonietta, the Bamberger Little Symphony, the Philadelphia Orchestra, the New York Philharmonic Chamber Symphony, the Philadelphia Chamber Symphony and others.

Diamond first won nationwide attention when he was selected as the winner of the Elfreda Whiteman $2,500 scholarship given by Paul Whiteman. Later he was one of five winners in a contest among American composers sponsored by the Federal Music Project of New York City.

In April, 1938, he was first awarded a coveted Guggenheim fellowship for a year's study in "creative work in musical composition."

He began studying the violin at 8, and was composing bits of music at 12, his family said. He studied at the Eastman School under Dr. Howard Hanson, director; at the Cleveland Institute, the New Music School and the Dalcroze Institute in New York.

He also studied in the American Conservatory in Fontainebleau, France.

DEATH CLAIMS LABOR LEADER

Edward Decker, president of the AFL Allied Building Trades Council and business agent of the Painters Union, died last night (Mar. 10, 1941) in his home, 553 Seward St., after an illness of one month. He was 67.

For 15 years Decker has served as business agent for the painters, a post during which he skillfully conducted the affairs of one of the larger building trades groups. He was taken ill during the recent strike of that union and was in the hospital when the agreement with the contractors was signed.

For 27 of his 40-year membership, Decker served as secretary of the Rochester local. His quiet, unruffled approach to labor problems drew attention to him in labor matters. Although he spoke infrequently in various labor councils, he enjoyed respectful attention when he did voice his views.

Decker was chosen as president of ABT when it was reorganized 10 years ago and guided it through many labor squabbles. Both management and his colleagues had confidence in his judgment, his friends said last night. Among those who voiced sorrow for his death was Henry D. O'Connell, president of the Central Trades and Labor Council, a friend of years standing.

DUFFY NAMED TO USO POST AT CAPITAL

Ex-Jurist Chosen To Function in Liaison Role

Appointment of former Representative James P. B. Duffy as Washington representative of the United Service Organizations was announced here yesterday by Harper Sibley, national USO president.

JAMES P. B.

up his duties.

Sibley, "very happy that Mr. Duffy accepted, because he knows Washington well and because he commands great respect in whatever he does," said the Rochester man's job will be in the nature of liaison work between the USO and other branches of the government.

"The USO," its president said, "naturally must be in very close touch with the Army and Navy, particularly with the morale officers. One of Mr. Duffy's duties will be to keep in constant touch with those offices."

Furthermore, Sibley pointed out, "in order to get the USO's clubs built—they're now in the making—the Federal Security Administration has to consider the problems of community welfare around the camps. Whenever a new situation is created by establishment of a camp in a community, the FSA surveys the program and tries to work out the proper community relationships, including educational, recreational and social."

In addition, the Public Works Administration will handle construction of the camps, so Duffy will have to keep in constant contact with the FSA and PWA, as well as with the offices of the armed forces, Sibley said.

A prominent Catholic layman, Duffy is a former Supreme Court justice, was former commissioner of the State Liquor Authority, former school commissioner here, and was representative from the 38th District.

Doyle Steps Up In New State Labor Post

Emmett L. Doyle played a dual role in State Labor Department affairs in Rochester today.

The former Monroe County supervisor, state senator and present 18th Ward Democratic leader assumed the post of assistant industrial commissioner and continued hearing cases as referee in compensation court.

DOYLE
Dual role

Doyle's promotion from referee to the head of this division was announced last night by State Industrial Commissioner Frieda S. Miller. Myer Braiman, local attorney and former assemblyman named to the refereeship, will study compensation court proceedings in New York City until the first of the year. Meanwhile, Doyle will continue with the current calendar in this district.

Doyle succeeds Clement V. Conole, now third deputy industrial commissioner. Braiman's selection was made from a field of aspirants including four men endorsed by the AFL Central Trades and Labor Council. The pay for Doyle's new job ranges from $4,400 to $5,200 and the refereeship pay range is $5,000 to $5,200. Doyle, a member of the law firm of Scully and O'Brien is expected to start high in the pay range because of his previous service record in the department.

NEW JOB SEEN FOR E. L. DOYLE

Emmett L. Doyle, compensation referee and 18th Ward Democratic leader, will be appointed assistant state industrial commissioner in charge of the Rochester office, according to Albany advices last night. Since Doyle is now an official of the State Labor Department, the appointment will be listed as promotional.

Doyle has the backing of Democratic County Leader Roy F. Bush. As state senator in 1937 and '38, Doyle handled a considerable volume of labor legislation and sponsored the state wage-hour act.

The position to which Doyle is expected to be named pays $5,200 at the start and attains to $6,400. Compensation referees get $3,400. Central Trades and Labor Council endorsed Arthur W. White, Carpenters' Union business agent; William H. Mostyn, president of the Metal Polishers' Union; Harmon Smith, CTLC treasurer, and Mario Ventura, attorney and member of the Webb Pressmen's Union, for the position.

Reports were last night that Smith was to get the appointment as compensation referee, following Doyle's elevation. Earlier gossip had it that Rubin Brodsky, Fifth Ward Democratic leader, or Myer Braiman, former Fourth District assemblyman, had approval of the local Democratic organization for refereeship.

E. J. DOYLE, AIDE DENY TAX COUNTS

Fake Entries on Books Laid to Oil Dealers

Allegedly phony commissions charged in the bookkeeping operations of the Doyle Gasoline & Oil Company yesterday landed Edward J. Doyle, president and William B. Leonard, auditor, in federal custody on charges of income tax evasion and conspiracy to defraud the government.

Doyle, whose firm was sold some time ago to a major national gasoline company, and Leonard pleaded innocent before Federal Judge Harold P. Burke to the charges contained in three sealed indictments handed down by last May's Federal Grand Jury. Doyle was released in $2,500 bail and Leonard in $1,500, both cash, on recommendation of Joseph J. Doran, assistant United States attorney.

Tax evasion totaling "a large part of" $64,066.06, are charged against the company, Doyle and Leonard between 1931 and 1937. In 1935 Doyle and Leonard are charged with "knowingly and feloniously" attempting to evade $4,077.44 in taxes and in the same year Doyle himself is charged attempting to evade payment of $6,340.84.

The allegedly phony commissions were the basis for the conspiracy charge. On the books of the company at various times, the government charges, commissions totaling $156,285.82 are shown as having been paid to Leonard, William J. Burns, superintendent, and George E. Meyer, manager of the Doyle Stations. In fact, the government contends, $136,161.85 of that amount went to Doyle himself "for his own personal use and benefit," and he failed to report it in his income tax statements over the period the money is alleged to have been received, between 1931 and 1936.

Taxes were paid on the "commissions," however, for the government charges that Leonard, Burns and Meyer signed and filed income tax returns for the money Doyle is alleged to have received, at the instigation of Doyle and Leonard, for the direct purpose of evading the higher tax rate that Doyle would have had to pay if the money had been listed in his tax report.

Doyle, who lives at 207 Pelham Rd., has been active in club and sports circles, being a former commodore of the Rochester Yacht Club and a high-average bowler. He is a graduate of the University of Rochester, Class of 1915, and a World War veteran. Leonard resides at 462 Seneca Parkway.

Auto Victim

HOMER E. A. DICK

Prominent attorney, dry leader and former state senator, Mr. Dick, 57, died early today of injuries suffered when he was struck by an auto two hours before.

Ex-State Senator Killed By Car

Injuries received when he was struck by an automobile last night in Chili Avenue brought death early today for Homer E. A. Dick, 57, well-known attorney and former state senator.

Coroner Richard A. Leonardo issued a certificate of accidental death. Dick is believed to have alighted from a bus just before he was struck.

Harold J. Goodell, 40, of 185 Willis Ave., Greece, driver of the car that hit Dick, told police the attorney was crossing Chili Avenue from the north to the south side of the street, towards Normandy Avenue. Dick's home was at 81 Normandy. The accident occurred at 10:45 p. m. Dick was taken to General Hospital, where he died two hours later.

Served 7 Years in Senate

Goodell operates the Goodell Insurance Agency at 183 Main St. E. Supervisor Albert Daniels of the Accident Prevention Bureau indicated no charges would be placed against the insurance man.

In 1921, Dick was elected to the State Senate from the 46th District at a special election, and was returned to office for three terms, serving seven years. He succeeded John M. Mullan, joint author of the Mullan-Gage Law, prohibition enforcement measure.

He was not renominated by the Republican organization for the Senate in 1928, and said in a formal statement at that time that he was denied the redesignation because he voted consistently dry at Albany.

Masonic Leader

In recent years Dick had been a staunch worker for the Allied Temperance Forces. He was a leader in Masonic activities, holding a number of offices. In 1933 he served a term as illustrious master of Doric Council, Royal and Select Masons, and was a member of Cyrene Commandery, Zetland Lodge, Rochester Consistory, and Damascus Temple, the Shrine, Ionic Lodge and Lalla Rookh Grotto. He had been serving as district deputy grand master.

A widower, Dick is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Laura Dick Pinney of Hartford, Conn., and Miss Pewilla Dick of Dansville, his father, Charles H. Dick of Rochester, and a sister, Mrs. Warden C. Hayes of Watertown.

He was born at Three Mile Bay, Jefferson County, and came to Rochester in 1903. Educated in the public and high schools of Watertown, he later studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1906. For several years he was associated in legal practice with Walter S. Hubbell, later opening an office of his own. In 1915 he attended the constitutional convention. He was a member of the Rochester Bar Association.

Funeral arrangements are not yet complete.

Senators Pay Tribute to Dick

The New York State Senate today paid its respects to former Senator Homer A. Dick, whose funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock at 271 University, by appointing 14 senators to attend the services.

Mr. Dick was struck down by an automobile in Chili Avenue, Wednesday night, and died in General Hospital. Burial will be in Watertown.

Legislators expected at rites today are Senators Joseph E. Hanley, Karl K. Bechtold, Rodney B. Janes, Henry W. Griffith, Earle B. Warner, William Bewley, G. Frank Wallace, Charles B. Burney Jr., Walter J. Mahoney, John J. Dunnigan, Jeremiah F. Twomey, John Buckley, Stephen J. Wojtkowiak and William S. King, clerk of the Senate.

A memorial meeting for Mr. Dick will be held by the Rochester Bar Association Tuesday at 12:15 p. m. in the Court House.

A Community Loss

News of the death of former State Senator Homer E. A. Dick as the result of a traffic accident at a dangerous intersection in Chili Avenue Wednesday night is particularly shocking to many of his fellow citizens in Western New York by reason of his able service in a host of activities.

Senator Dick was keenly alive to his responsibilities as a church member, as a resident of his ward and city and county, and as a citizen of the state and nation.

A member of the Masonic Fraternity, he had been honored only recently by appointment as deputy grand master of the Second Monroe Masonic District and was to have taken a leading part Friday of next week in entertaining the state grand master at a sectional Masonic meeting.

As a member of the Allied Temperance forces, he was outspoken in his advocacy of the principles of that organization. Numerous other constructive endeavors owed much to his assistance and advice.

In the State Senate his name was attached to the two bills which would have set up a school district with separate taxing powers to include the city and some suburban areas. Now that the tax limitation difficulties which caused their defeat have been eliminated by constitutional changes, the plan may be revived. His high ideals won him widespread respect in Legislative circles.

The intersection where he was struck down by an automobile is particularly dangerous, his neighbors and residents of the area say. Its dangers have been called to the attention of city authorities repeatedly, with a request for traffic light protection. It is their hope that this tragedy may lead to action on their petitions.

Bar Pays Tribute To Homer Dick

AUTO KILLS HOMER DICK, EX-SENATOR

Attorney Struck While Walking In Chili Ave.

Homer E. A. Dick, attorney and former state senator, was injured fatally late last night when he was hit by a car in front of 300 Chili. Supervisor Albert Daniels of the Accident Prevention Bureau said.

At General Hospital, attendants said tentative examination showed his hurts to be a serious head injury and a left leg fracture. The accident took place at 10:45 p. m. and Senator Dick died two hours later.

The driver of the car which felled the 57-year-old attorney was Harold J. Goodell, 40, of 185 Willis Ave., Greece, Daniels said. Pending further investigation and questioning of Goodell, details of the accident were sketchy, the Accident Bureau supervisor explained.

However, Daniels indicated that no charges would be placed against Goodell in connection with the accident.

Dick, who lived at 81 Normandy Ave., had been active in Republican circles and had been a staunch worker with the Allied Temperance Forces. As state senator in the late 1920's, he represented the 46th District. In 1933, he served a term as illustrious master of Doric Council, Royal and Select Masons.

Driver Receives $25 Fine In Highway Hit-Run Death

Admitting that he got out of his car, viewed the body of his fatally injured victim and then, panic stricken, fled the scene, Harlow V. Root, 46, of Lighthouse Street, Henrietta, was arrested by deputy sheriffs yesterday afternoon for leaving the Scottsville Road scene of the fatal accident Tuesday night.

Taken before Peace Justice Lowell Lane of Chili last night Root pleaded guilty to the charge. Justice Lane fined him $25.

Victim of the accident, Christopher Herman, 32, lay alongside the road for about two hours before being discovered by another motorist and died on the way to a hospital. His home was in Scottsville Road, Chili.

Deputies got their first break in the hit-run death case when Root appeared at the Monroe County Jail yesterday morning and told deputies that he thought his car had struck something Tuesday evening in Scottsville Road about the time Herman was struck. He said he stopped his car, walked back on the road, but could see nothing and assumed he might have struck a dog which had then run off.

He said that Wednesday morning he noticed a large dent in a fender of his car and what appeared to be blood. When he read about Herman's death he said he decided to report. He did not know he had struck a man when he felt the bump, he said.

Dissatisfied with Root's story deputies and Assistant District Attorney Harry Rosenthal continued to question him yesterday afternoon until he finally admitted having left his car, viewed the victim and then fled in panic.

With the hit-run charge disposed of by the Chili peace justice last night with a $25 fine, Root now stands to lose his operator's license, revocation being required by state law after conviction for leaving the scene of an accident.

Probe Continued In Lawyer's Death

As relatives of Homer E. A. Dick, attorney and former state senator, who was injured fatally by an automobile in Chili Avenue Wednesday night, made funeral arrangements yesterday, police of the Accident Prevention Bureau and Assistant District Attorney John C. Little pushed investigation of the accident.

Several witnesses were questioned yesterday and last night and Little asked that any others who might have seen the accident report to the police.

Driver of the car that struck Dick, Harold J. Goodell, 40, of 185 Willis Ave., Greece, told police that as Dick was crossing the road he suddenly stepped back in front of Goodell's car. The attorney, who was 57 and lived at 81 Normandy Ave., is believed to have left a bus just before he started across the road, toward Normandy Avenue.

Dick was elected to the State Senate in 1921 from the 46th District, succeeding John M. Mullan, and served seven years as the result of re-elections. A consistent dry while at Albany, Dick in recent years has strongly supported the Allied Temperance Forces.

Active in Masonic circles, in 1933 he was illustrious master of Doric Council, Royal and Select Masons, and was a member of Cyrene Commandery, Zetland Lodge, Rochester Consistory, Damascus Temple, the Shrine, Ionic Lodge and Lalla Rookh Grotto. He had been serving as district deputy grand master.

Born at Three Mile Bay, Jefferson County, he came to Rochester in 1903. Educated in Watertown schools he later studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1906. After several years of legal work with the late Walter S. Hubbell, he opened an office of his own. He was a member of the Rochester Bar Association.

A widower, he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Laura Dick Piny of Hartford, Conn., and Mrs. Pewilla Dick of Dansville; his father, Charles H. Dick of Rochester, and a sister, Mrs. Warden O. Hayes of Watertown.

Masonic funeral services will be held at 271 University Ave. Sunday afternoon. Burial will be in Watertown.
