SAMUEL V. PRYOR.

P.O. & Co. Prominent Rochesterian Dies at His Home at Age of 77. 1/8/14
Samuel V. Pryor, one of the best known citizens of Rochester, died this morning at the family home, 314 Pacific street. Mr. Pryor had been in ill health for some time, and his death was not unexpected, but came as a shock to his many friends in and about the city.

Mr. Pryor was born in Aurora, N. Y., February 4, 1837, and received his early education in that city. His family originally came to this country from England, settling first in Canada. Mr. Pryor was the only one of a family of twelve children to be born in the United States.

Coming to this city while a young man, he entered into the shoe manufacturing business, working his way up from an apprentice. About thirty-six years ago he went into the shoe business for himself, forming the concern of Pryor & Warrent. After fifteen years he was compelled to give up the business on account of ill health, and after traveling in the West for two years returned to this city and entered into the real estate business, continuing it till the time of his death. He was prominent in real estate circles in this city and interested himself considerably in the development of what was known as the Chili section.

Mr. Pryor was first married to Mrs. Amanda Warrent, who died about sixteen years ago. A few years after her death he married Mrs. Nettie S. Pope, who survives him. He leaves one brother in Buffalo and several nephews and nieces. The funeral will be held from the house Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

In 1872 while in Fairport Mr. Childs left the republican party and actively engaged in the campaign in behalf of Horace Greeley. her residence, 83 Rohr street, following a brief illness.

Mrs. Miller had been a resident of Rochester for seventy-nine years. She was born in Switzerland 88 years ago, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Rohr. Mrs. Miller came to Rochester with her parents in 1834, making the trip from Albany on the Erie canal. Her first home in Rochester was a log house at the corner of what is now Bay and Rohr streets. That section of the city was at that time a forest. Mr. Miller after considering the purchase of land in the vicinity of what is now Main and Swan streets bought a farm on which Mrs. Miller had always lived.

Mrs. Miller retained a clear mind till the last and was always interesting when in a reminiscent mood, when she would tell of the early history of Rochester and its wonderful growth. She would always recall the days when North street had sidewalks which ended at Central avenue, and those of Main street, which ended at Gibbs street. Beyond the sidewalks were paths leading to farms.

Deceased was a great reader and kept her mind occupied by reading good literature till her last illness developed. She had always led a Christian life and her lovable character, patience and cheerfulness will always be recalled by a host of friends, who mourn her loss.

The marriage of deceased to Peter Miller occurred on New Year's eve, 1850, at Zion Lutheran Church, Grove street, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Kempe. Soon after the marriage a home was built at 83 Rohr street, where Mrs. Miller resided for the past sixty years. Five children were born to the couple, who are living. Mr. Miller died December 13, 1907.

The fiftieth wedding anniversary of Mrs. Miller was celebrated on New Year's eve, 1900, the children, twelve grandchildren and two great-grandchildren being included in the gathering.

Deceased is survived by five children Mrs. J. C. Suter, Mrs. J. G. Wagner and Mrs. Mary Stoll of this city, and Peter Miller and John Miller of Webster; twelve grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

The funeral services will take place from the home, 83 Rohr street, Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. F. C. Martin of Grace Lutheran Church officiating.

APPOINTED BY "HONEST ABE"

Dead Postal Veteran in Service Nearly Fifty Years.

MAIL CLERK AND INVENTOR

Many Improvements Due to Foresight and Genius of George W. Smith

—In Several Wrecks.

Herald 1/22/14
George W. Smith, veteran mail clerk and inventor, who died Tuesday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. B. H. Hayes, at 67 Alliance Avenue, had the distinction of being one of the first mail clerks ever appointed. He was appointed in 1861 by President Abraham Lincoln, and was in the service continually for nearly fifty years. His career as a clerk was ended by a wreck five years ago at Black Rock, near Buffalo, when he was terribly injured when a freight train struck the passenger train upon which he was working. His suffering from the injuries lasted more than a year and was followed by a stroke of paralysis, believed to be due to injuries in the wreck.

Mr. Smith was born on a farm near Spencerport on June 19, 1836, and was married on December 26, 1865, to Miss Almira P. Remington of Sweden, who survives him. He had been injured in a number of wrecks previous to the one at Black Rock. Nearly fifteen years ago he was seriously injured in a head-on collision between a passenger and a freight train near Geneva, and it was fifteen months before he was able to resume work.

Being of an inventive turn of mind he had not been in the postal service long before he recognized the need for better equipment, and it was he who was the successful inventor of appliances for catching and delivering mail from the moving train. Improved models of some of those are still in service. He invented the first mail car letter cases and the first mail car racks for holding mail bags. He invented a number of devices to aid in sorting mail, most of which, however, have been superseded by more improved systems. His devices were about the first labor-saving devices ever used in that line of work.

Mr. Smith was the first mail clerk who had charge of a mail car over the "Falls Line," and he was first mail clerk on the fast mail train between New York City and Buffalo. For a number of years he had the best "run" on the New York Central Railroad. He lived to see the service grow up from the indefinite, hit and miss systems of the days when the wood fed steam trains only half pretended to keep to schedule to the days of efficiency systems and all steel trains, when it is almost a crime to be five minutes late.

George W. Smith ✓

Veteran Railway Mail Clerk and inventor, who served Uncle Sam for nearly half a century, and who died Tuesday at his daughter's home in this city.

In the fifty years, Mr. Smith was never off duty, except when suffering from the effects of injuries in wrecks, and his health was always remarkably good.

It is a notable fact that three other mail clerks have died in this vicinity in the last thirty days from injuries or illness contracted in the service. After the wreck which finally cost Mr. Smith his life, and disregarding the fact that he had been in the service such a length of time, Uncle Sam only allowed him one year's pay as compensation. It is said the cases of the other three dead mail clerks are parallel in that regard.

Al Beardsley Titus, believed to be the oldest practicing civil engineer and surveyor in New York state, died at the family residence, 15 Beechwood street, at 6 o'clock this morning, aged 81 years. He is survived by one son, one daughter and a grandson.

Mr. Titus, who had an office in the Exchange Place Building, was active almost to the day of his death. On Saturday he made a survey of the Penfield dugway and apparently was in the best of health. REV. J. H. DAY, HOLY ROSARY RECTOR, DEAD

Well-Known Priest Dies Suddenly of Apoplexy in Rectory of Church. 1/31/14

Returning to the rectory, 414 Lexington avenue, after hearing the confessions of the Sisters of Mercy at St. Mary's. Rev. James H. Day, rector of Holy Rosary Church, was stricken with apoplexy as he entered the dining ing room at 6:50 o'clock last evening. Seated around the supper table awaiting the return of the priest were F. Claire Mullaly, a nephew of Father Day, and his two small children. As the priest stooped to caress the children, he fell to the floor.

Father Joseph Dissett, assistant rector, summoned Dr. George C. Driscoll, of 348 Lexington avenue, but before the physician arrived life was extinct. After summoning the physician, Father Dissett administered the last rites of the church. Coroner Killip, who was notified, granted a certificate of death from apoplexy.

Father Day was apparently in the best of health just before being stricken except for a cold of which he complained Thursday. Yesterday, he remarked that he felt much better and put in an active day attending to his church duties.

Priest More Than Quarter of Century.

Rev. James H. Day was born in Auburn on December 12, 1857, and removed to Aurora with his parents at an early age. He attended the common schools and academy at Aurora, and prepared himself for the priesthood at the College of St. Hyacinth in Canada, where he was sent by the late Bishop McQuaid for classical study. He made his theological studies in St. Joseph's Provincial Seminary at Troy. He was ordained for the priesthood by Bishop McQuaid on July 10, 1881, and held his first pastorates in Cato and Red Creek, and as assistant pastor of St. Mary's Church in Auburn. He was then transferred to the pastorate of St. Patrick's Church at Dansville, where he remained nine years.

Sent to Mt. Morris Church.

In 1892, Father Day was appointed pastor of St. Patrick's Church in Mt. Morris. Included in that charge were the outlying missions of Moscow and Craig Colony. In 1903, after sixteen years in the Mt. Morris pastorate, Father Day was appointed by Bishop Hickey as successor to Rev. John Van Ness, the first pastor of Holy Rosary Church in this city, whose death left that pastorate vacant.

His Work in Rochester.

During his service in Rochester Father Day erected the convent in Crooks street at a cost of $10,000. In 1910 Holy Rosary parish was divided. After the reduction in membership, the priest went to work harder than ever, and in two years succeeded in doubling the membership of the old church. At the time of his death he had plans under way for the erection of a new church building and rectory at a cost of $85,000.

Besides a sister, Miss Elizabeth Day, with whom he lived, Father Day leaves two brothers, William F. and Daniel M. Day, both of New York city, and two other sisters, Mrs. Mary Halley of New York city and Mrs. Arthur Close of Aurora.

The Funeral.

The funeral will be held at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, Bishop Hickey celebrating the mass. The office of the dead will be recited in the church at 7:30 o'clock Monday evening by Bishop Hickey. The body will lie in state in the church from 4 o'clock Monday afternoon till the hour of the funeral. Interment will be made in Holy Sepulchre cemetery.

Father Day was a man of the saintliest character, mild in his ways, genial and companionable. He attracted friends by his very appearance. The children of his parish were attached to him most closely, and he took great happiness in guiding their steps in the precepts and practices of the Church. His older parishioners were most devoted to him, and gladly and energetically worked under him for the upbuilding of the parish. His manner rendered him easily approachable, and he was the refuge and guide of many in trouble or difficulty, while in sorrow and loss he was their kind counselor and helper. Always the priest, he labored with untiring zeal for the spiritual welfare of the members of his flock, and was their inspiration to the higher and better life. Scrupulous to the extreme in fitting himself for the duties of the priesthood, he was a scholarly man, versed in German, French and Italian, and a deep student of philosophy. Not a great orator, his discourses were models of priestly wisdom and counsel to the doing of good.

The expressions of sorrow heard in the parish, and outside it, too, as the news of his death was spread about, attested the love his people bore for him. To the city at large, the loss of Father Day is great, for he was a valuable citizen in himself, in his influence for good, and in his power to make good citizens out of those with whom he came into contact.

DEATH REMOVES WM. A. HUBBARD

Resident of Rochester More Than Sixty Years.

ACTIVE IN CHURCH WORK

Retired Business Man Dies in His Eighty-eighth Year — Prominent Member of Central Church for Many Years—Leaves Four Children

D.R. William A. Hubbard died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. E. R. Huddleston, No. 17 Phelps avenue, last evening at 9 o'clock, in his eighty-eighth year.

Mr. Hubbard was born in Ossining, October 5, 1826. When 15 years old he went to New York to enter a business career. Beginning at the lowest place in a dry-goods jobbing house, he worked his way up to the position of confidential clerk. In 1847 he married Miss Sarah L. Peck, and their married life covered a period of sixty-three years, her death occurring in August, 1910. In 1897 they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary, and ten years later their sixtieth anniversary. The house they first occupied in Rochester still stands in South Pittsburgh street, near Troup street.

In 1851 Mr. Hubbard came to Rochester as a member of the firm of Bartholomew & Hubbard, which occupied the store in State street, where the New York Central ticket office is. The firm was subsequently Hubbard & Torrance, and later, Hubbard & Northrop, which occupied what was then known as the "Marble" building in Main street. Retiring from the dry-goods business in 1871, Mr. Hubbard later was associated with the Rochester Paper Company. In 1887 he retired from active business.

Mr. Hubbard was a devoted church man. In the fall of 1851 he and Mrs. Hubbard joined the Washington Street Church, which in 1859, in taking possession of its new edifice in Plymouth avenue north, was renamed Central Presbyterian Church. As a member of the choir, of which Mrs. Hubbard was leading soprano more than twenty years; as director of Sunday-school music, trustee and elder, the best of his endeavors were given to this church. He led its prayer-meeting music fifty-six years.

Aside from his labors at Central Church, Mr. Hubbard was one of the founders of West Avenue Mission Sunday-school, which grew into Westminster Presbyterian Church. In 1869, with Albert M. Hastings and William S. Alling, he founded the North Mission Sunday-school, which in 1884 became North Presbyterian Church.

Although a life-long Republican, Mr. Hubbard never held a political office. He was for many years a trustee of the East Side Savings Bank and was one of the original directors of the Homeopathic Hospital. He took part in the abolition movement and worked for temperance.

DROPS DEAD IN PHYSICIAN'S OFFICE WHILE BEING EXAMINED

Max Hippe, Well-Known German of Clifford Avenue, Dies Suddenly This Morning. Death May be Due to Over-Exertion While Bowling.

Times 2/6/14
Going to the office of Dr. William D. Wolfe, 62 Cumberland Street, this morning at 10 o'clock, to ask advice regarding a pain in the abdomen, Max Hippe, a well-known German of this city, dropped dead. Death may have been due to over-exertion while bowling last evening, or a rupture caused from the violent exercise.

Mr. Hippe lives at 264 Clifford Avenue and was a finisher in the furniture department of Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Company. He did not feel well this morning, and yesterday he also complained of a bad pain in the region of his stomach and lower part of the chest. This morning, with the aid of Ernest Piglow, who is also employed in the Sibley store with Hippe, he went to the office of Dr. Wolfe, in Cumberland Street. Dr. Wolfe examined him, and as he stood with his head to Mr. Hippe's chest the man fell over dead. Coroner Henry Kleindienst was notified and ordered the body removed to the Morgue. An autopsy will be performed to ascertain the cause of death.

Mr. Hippe was an exceptionally large and healthy man, and a fond devotee to bowling. For the past few nights he has been bowling with friends in his neighborhood, and last night it is said that he bowled more and harder than usual. This may have been the indirect cause of the man's death.

Mr. Hippe was born in Germany in 1867. He came to the United States when a young man, coming to Rochester. He did not stay here long, going west to Seattle, Washington, where he remained for 18 years. While in Seattle, Mr. Hippe served as Deputy Sheriff for several years. He also took two trips to Alaska, engaging in mining. On each trip he stayed two and one-half years.

He was well known in Rochester, being connected with several German societies. He was President of the Beethoven Singing Society, Deputy of

DEATH CLAIMS CLEVER ARTIST AND INVENTOR

Herald 2/18/14
Melville A. Yauck died at 12.25 o'clock this morning at the family residence, East Avenue, corner of Arnold Park, from a complication of diseases of the liver and heart. He had not been in good health for several months, but he was only forced to the confinement of his home for two or three weeks prior to his death. He was 44 years of age and had made Rochester his home for thirty years, exclusive of his residence in Ohio for a few years. He leaves surviving a wife; one son, D. Althen Yauck; his mother, Mrs. M. Yauck, and two brothers, Edwin C. and W. Percy Yauck, all of this city.

Mr. Yauck early chose portrait photography as his profession and mastered the first principles of the art in a Rochester studio, later removing to the Middle West. While there, he began portrait and landscape painting and showed a natural aptitude for this work. His pictures attracted attention at many exhibitions and a patron of art offered to send him to Europe for an extended course of study, but Mr. Yauck refused the offer. Among other portraits of famous men, Mr. Yauck painted the portrait of President McKinley that was chosen by Mrs. McKinley to hang in the Ohio state capitol at Columbus. He was also the artist of many other portraits of Ohio state officials that now hang in the capitol.

During Mr. Yauck's residence at Columbus, he conceived the idea of a photographic paper that could be printed by artificial light and rapidly perfected the process that resulted in Arturo paper, the first photographic paper to be manufactured in this country that could be printed by an artificial light. He formed the company that was to manufacture the paper and after many hardships saw his invention take first rank with American photographers. In the fall of 1900 the paper and process were sold to the Eastman Kodak Company and terms of the sale were almost contingent upon the fact that Mr. Yauck was to remain with the company. Consequently, despite the fact that he had flattering offers to go to Europe, he remained in a supervisory capacity with the Eastman company.

For many years Mr. Yauck was connected with the Baker Art Gallery in Columbus, where he found time to perfect the processes that made Arturo paper possible.

Mr. Yauck was retiring in disposition and therefore little known, but he counted among his personal friends all the greatest portrait photographers in the country. He was successful in commercial as well as artistic pursuits and had amassed a considerable fortune from his invention.

STROKE IS FATAL TO E. E. BAUSCH

Collapses in Car and Is Unconscious to End.

IN ROCHESTER SINCE 1854

One of Most Prominent Opticians in Country and Brother of John J. Bausch, of Bausch & Lomb Optical Company—Plans for Funeral

Edward E. Bausch, one of the most prominent opticians in the country and a brother of John J. Bausch, who, with Captain Henry Lomb, founded the Bausch & Lomb Optical Company, died yesterday afternoon at the home, No. 717 St. Paul street, aged 78 years and 5 months. He had been ill less than three days.

Up to Saturday Mr. Bausch had been well and able to attend to business. Saturday night he was returning on a street car from the store at No. 6 Main street east to his home when he was suddenly taken with a paralytic stroke. He managed to ring the bell for the car to stop and then dropped back unconscious into his seat. He was carried to his home and every measure taken to revive him, but he never regained consciousness.

Native of Germany.

Mr. Bausch was born in Gross Suesen, Wurlenburg, Germany, October 18, 1837. He was educated in the common schools and, on May 3, 1854, came to this country. He settled in Rochester, where he worked at the tailoring business, a trade he had learned in the old country. In 1857 he removed to Philadelphia, but stayed there only a few months, returning to Rochester. Since that time he had been a resident of this city.

In 1858 Mr. Bausch and his brother, John J. Bausch, entered the optical business, opening a store at No. 20 Reynolds Arcade. The partnership continued till 1893, when J. J. Bausch and Captain Henry Lomb organized the Vulcanite Optical Instrument Company, which later became the Bausch & Lomb Optical Company. Edward E. Bausch in that year formed a partnership with Thomas Dransfield, who is city clerk, under the name of Bausch & Dransfield. In 1881 this firm opened a branch store at No. 6 Main street east.

In 1886 George R. Bausch, son of Edward E. Bausch, purchased Mr. Dransfield's interest in the business, and the company became known as E. E. Bausch & Sons. The Arcade store was closed. The company was incorporated in December, 1911, as the E. E. Bausch & Sons Company, and in May of the next year the store at No. 15 East avenue, was opened.

Those Who Survive Him.

Mr. Bausch was married in 1859 to Miss Minnie Pack, who died March 21, 1908. He leaves a daughter, Mrs. B. R. Kollofak, of Rochester; three sons, George R. Bausch, of No. 201 Rutgers street, this city; Robert Bausch, of St. Louis, and Albert Bausch, of Philadelphia; twelve grandchildren, a great grandchild, his brother, John J. Bausch, and a sister, Mrs. Anna Woeller, of Glogau, Germany.

Edward E. Bausch

Thirteen years ago Mr. Bausch paid his first visit to his birthplace since coming to America. He gave liberally, but preferred to do it without publicity. Scores of persons in straitened circumstances appealed to him for aid, not in vain.

Mr. Bausch was an honorary member of Germania Lodge, F. and A. M.; an honorary member of the Rochester Turnverein, an honorary member of the Rochester Maennerchor, of the Rochester Optometric Society, a trustee of Teutonia Maennerchor, and a member of the American Association of Opticians.

The funeral will take place Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the home, and interment will be made in Mount Hope cemetery. All arrangements have not been perfected.

Manchester Resident Who Held Public Office First as Whig and Later as Democrat Dies at His Home.

Manchester, March 4. — Almerin Dunham, one of the best known residents of Ontario County, died at his home in this village this morning after a lingering illness, at the age of 83 years. He was the son of Samuel and Asenath Dunham and was born at Mansfield, Conn., on August 3, 1830. In 1832 he came with his parents to reside in Manchester, his father having purchased what is now known as the Rufus Smith farm, three miles north of this village.

At this time travelers considered it a long distance from Mansfield, Conn., to Manchester, and to shorten the journey of the Dunhams, they traveled by boat on the Erie Canal from Troy to Palmyra, which brought them within a few miles of their new home.

About sixty years ago Mr. Dunham came to the village of Manchester to reside, and entered the nursery business, which he followed until 1890. He was active in politics and was justice of the peace in the town of Manchester for over twenty years in succession, having concluded his labors along that line on December 31, 1911, when the business of the town was completed for the year and his last official business transacted.

Prior to becoming a justice of the peace, he served fourteen years as constable and one year as town collector, having been elected to that office in the year 1868, and collected for the town the sum of $22,500. He was elected to his first office as a Whig, and later took up the colors of the Democratic party, and his retirement from office was caused by the infirmities of age after holding different offices in the town for over 35 years.

He leaves his wife, whose maiden name was Miss Nora Harrington; four sons, Percy of Canandaigua, George of Rochester, Edgar A. of Pittsburg and Carl Dunham, who is in the West; and a half-brother, Augustus Turner of Manchester. The funeral will be held Friday.

Harley E. Hamil, Sheriff of Monroe County, died at 9 o'clock last night at Homeopathic Hospital, following an operation for appendicitis.

Mr. Hamil was stricken with the disease last Saturday afternoon at his apartment in the County Jail and hurried to the hospital at 2 o'clock. An hour later Drs. T. T. Mooney and H. T. Williams performed an operation upon him.

It was discovered that general peritonitis had set in and that his condition was critical. Saturday night his life was at low ebb, but he rallied during the day and Sunday night enjoyed snatches of sleep. His pulse and temperature became nearly normal.

A gangrenous condition of the intestines was discovered Monday and he began gradually to sink. Paralysis of the bowels followed. A second operation was performed Tuesday morning, without the patient taking an anesthetic. He laughed and joked with the surgeons while they were at work. This operation gave him some relief and hope for his recovery increased. A small quantity of champagne was administered to him and he laughingly suggested that "it wouldn't be a bad idea to alternate it with a little beer."

Possessing a vigorous vitality, unsapped by dissipation of any kind, he was able to fight the end for a longer time than was expected. Announcement of his death caused general sorrow to a host of warm and admiring friends.

Mr. Hamil was born in Clarkson on January 4, 1869, and was educated in the public schools of that town.

He was the son of Aaron H. and Amanda P. Scott. Hamil, both of whom were natives of Clarkson. His maternal great-grandfather, Dr. Isaac Scott, Sr., came from England and settled where Scottsville now stands, the town being named in his honor. The paternal line of Mr. Hamil's family originated in Holland.

SHERIFF HARLEY E. HAMIL.

Leaving school, he went into the hardware business, learning the trade, and later in life coupled that with the agricultural and general carriage business. He was elected Town Clerk of Clarkson in 1901.

Mr. Hamil was elected to the Board of Supervisors in 1903 and three times was re-elected. He served on the most important committees of the board, such as Committee on Ways and Means, Good Roads Committee, Salary Committee, and was one of the four commissioners of public buildings.

In the last year of his third term he was elected chairman of the board and was twice re-elected, establishing a record, which had never been equaled in that respect.

On October 7, 1911, he was nominated by the Republican County Convention for the place of Sheriff, and on November 7 he was elected by a plurality of 10,835.

During the two years and two months of his incumbency in the shrievalty chair, Mr. Hamil had made many improvements in the service, and had placed the office upon a better and more systematic basis than ever in its history.

Before branching out in the broader field of county politics, Mr. Hamil was active for several years in town politics in Hamlin and Clarkson, and because of his host of friends in the northwestern end of the county, was often inveigled into the politics of Parma and Sweden. He was town clerk of Hamlin at one time and when he became the candidate for Supervisor in Clarkson, that town had been Democratic for 41 years, and was reckoned as the rock-ribbed Democratic town in the county. His election four times indicated his strength in that vicinity.

So soon as he retired from the supervisorship, in 1911, and became sheriff, Clarkson went back into the Democratic column and has twice elected a Democrat.

For many years Mr. Hamil was in the agricultural implement business at Clarkson Corners, selling to farmers in all sections of the county. For a time he sold automobiles in connection with his agricultural implements. He was known as a rare judge of horses, and it was the boast of his friends that he was never "beaten in a trade."

Although the Sheriff was compelled to occupy the jail in this city during his term of office, he never gave up his home in Clarkson. About 10 months ago, May, 1913, his wife died, after a lingering illness and the grief over it abided with him continually.

No Sheriff in the history of the county ever had a harsher initiation into his work than did Mr. Hamil, for 11 days after he assumed office (January 11, 1912) Bill Twiman, a negro, went on a rampage at Scottsville, killed his own father and held off the deputy sheriffs, city police and countryside for hours. Barricaded in an old fashioned brick house, on a rise of ground, 150 feet back from the road, Twiman defied capture. He shot and killed Deputy Sheriff S. J. Bermingham, riddled Deputy Sheriff Herbert Abbott's back with shot, and nearly killed two other special deputies. The crazy negro sent a bullet crashing through the coat sleeve of Sheriff Hamil who took great physical risks in trying to make the capture of the negro alive.

Mr. Hamil was a Mason, a member of Damascus Temple, A. A. O. N. M. S., Monroe Commandery, 12, K. T., Rochester Consistory, A. A. S. C., Hamilton Chapter, R. M. He joined the Masons in Monroe Lodge, 1 & A. M., of Brockport, of which he was past master. He was, also, a member of the B. P. O. E. (Elks) and Knights of Pythias.

Ten months ago Monday his wife died. Five children survive him, Isabelle, 19; Louise, 17; Doris, 15; Richard, 7, and Frances, 5 years old. He has four brothers.

A successor to Sheriff Hamil will be appointed by Governor Glynn. As the appointee will probably be a Democrat, this will be the first time in 30 years that Monroe County has had a Democratic Sheriff.

Funeral services will be held at the jail at 11:30 o'clock sharp tomorrow morning, by Rev. William R. Taylor, D. D., of Brick Presbyterian Church. The family and funeral escort from Monroe Commandery will leave on a special car at noon for Brockport. At Brockport Monroe Lodge will act as escort to Clarkson.

Services at the church at Clarkson will be held at 2 p. m., and Rev. Dr. Taylor and Rev. Mr. Mack, of Clarkson, will have charge.

Any who desire to attend the services at Clarkson can take the regular trolley at 12:20 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, and upon arrival at Brockport, will be driven to the church at Clarkson. Services at the cemetery will be in charge of Monroe Lodge, 173, F. and A. M.

A special meeting of the Board of Supervisors will take place at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning and action will be taken on the death of Mr. Hamil who was for three terms chairman of the Board.

Scenes at Funeral of Sheriff Harley E. Hamil

Upper picture shows the patient crowd which stood in front of the Monroe County Jail all yesterday morning, waiting to view the remains of the Sheriff. The apartments at the jail were far too small to accommodate all who called, and many of those who waited in the street were still there when the body of the Sheriff was removed to the waiting trolley car which took it to Brockport.

Lower picture shows the bearers, Sheriff Hamil's deputies, removing the casket from his apartments in the jail, to take it to the funeral car.

Resolution of Supervisors.

We are called together in special session to pay our last tribute of respect to a former member of this board and a former chairman, who but a few brief days ago was working side by side with us as an official of this county. Sheriff Harley E. Hamil died on Wednesday evening last after a brief illness of apoplexy, for which he was operated upon March 7. It seems but yesterday that he was with us in the full vigor of his young manhood, and his unexpected and sudden death comes with a great shock to his many warm personal friends and former associates of this board. He was a young man of unusual attainments, warm-hearted and of lovable disposition, and it seems extremely sad to us that he should be cut down in his prime, and that such a promising career is thus suddenly terminated.

He was born in Clarkson, N. Y., January 4, 1869, and lived in that town up to the time he became Sheriff in 1911. He received his early education in the public schools of his native town and later attended the Brockport Normal School. When 18 years of age he entered the employ of a hardware retail firm in Brockport, and there learned that business. After five years he engaged in the agricultural implement business for himself in the town of Hamlin and later erected a building and conducted the same business in Clarkson.

DEATH OF EAST ORANGE PASTOR, BORN IN THIS CITY

East Orange, N. J., March 12.—Rev. Dr. George S. Bishop, the venerable pastor emeritus of the First Reformed Church of this city, died at his home here this afternoon, following an illness of three months from the infirmities of old age. The fatigue, incident on the work of translation, which he did in Greece during the summer, undermined his health.

Born in Rochester, N. Y., on June 28, 1836, Rev. Dr. Bishop was a son of State Senator William S. Bishop, and on his mother's side was a descendant of Roger Williams of Rhode Island.

Mr. Hamil was a Republican in politics, and for a number of years was chairman of the Clarkson town committee and was also a member of the Republican general committee. In 1901 he was elected Town Clerk of Clarkson and served in that capacity up to 1904, when he was first elected a member of this board. He served as Supervisor of Clarkson for eight successive years and up to the time he became Sheriff in January, 1912. As a Supervisor he was one of the best informed members of the board in relation to the methods of conducting county business and served on every important committee of this body. He was at different times on the ways and means committee, the salary committee, equalization, good roads and many minor committees, and on all of them displayed ability which made his services almost indispensable.

Tribute to Faithfulness.

In 1908 Mr. Hamil was elected chairman of the Board of Supervisors and served in this capacity for three years. He was elected Sheriff of Monroe County in the fall of 1911 and was serving the last year of his term in this office when death came. He was an indefatigable worker and the illness which terminated in his death was undoubtedly brought on by the untiring activities he displayed as the chief executive of the county. He was ready to go out on every call at whatever the hour of day or night, and it was an ambition which he fulfilled to the letter to make a personal investigation of every case or crime which came to the notice of his office. The county of Monroe has never had a more faithful or painstaking official, and his loss will be keenly felt in this community.

To the surviving relatives and particularly to the orphaned children, this board extends its sincerest sympathy in their great affliction.

Resolved, That the members of this board attend the funeral services in a body and that the chair appoint a committee to attend the services in Clarkson and at the cemetery.

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of this day's session and that a copy be sent to the family of the deceased.

The following Supervisors were appointed a committee to attend the funeral at Clarkson: Allen, Brigham, Voke, Mengerink, Rapp, Taber, Kenyon, Chapman. They went as the official representatives of the board to attend the services at the jail and at Clarkson. Other Supervisors attended the funeral.

Editorial
Harley E. Hamil.

Union & Ad. Mar 12-1914

The death of Mr. Harley E. Hamil, Sheriff of Monroe county, which occurred last evening, following a critical surgical operation, is very deeply regretted throughout this community, in which he had lived for 45 years and in which he had a wide circle of friends.

Mr. Hamil had served the people acceptably in several offices of responsibility. As Chairman of the Board of Supervisors he was efficient. As Sheriff for the last three years he performed difficult and exacting duties in a manner that was above criticism.

The work of this important office never has been more satisfactorily conducted. Mr. Hamil gave to it the best that was in him, and that was much.

In his personal relations with his fellow men Harley E. Hamil was noted for his unflinching courtesy, good fellowship and fairness. Everybody liked him. He was prominent in Masonic circles and belonged to numerous societies in which he was highly popular. He was a Republican in politics and was a man of strength in his party, but his politics had nothing to do with his friendships. He was too broad for that.

In the public service, in business, in all the relations of life, Harley E. Hamil was a good man. His taking off in the very prime of life is a cause of sorrow to the community.

EDWARD T. WILDER. Mar 16-1914

Death of Canandaigua Man.

Canandaigua, March 15.—Edward T. Wilder, one of Canandaigua's best-known residents, died this morning at 1 o'clock at his home in Bristol street, aged 70 years. His death was the indirect result of a fall which he experienced about ten years ago, and which produced an abscess that failed to heal and has been a constant source of trouble and pain to him since, finally causing his death.

Mr. Wilder was born in October, 1843, in Bristol. Forty-seven years ago he married Miss Betsy Gregg, of Bristol.

He leaves, besides his wife, one nephew, Myron Wilder, and a niece, Miss Edna Wilder, both of this city, children of a deceased half-brother, Charles Wilder. Mr. Wilder has been a resident of this village for nearly forty years and for the greater part of that time conducted a produce business. He was widely known among the farmers and fruit growers of all the surrounding country. A few years ago, his accident and following ill health compelled him to retire from business and he has lived quietly since.

The funeral will be held from the late home to-morrow afternoon at 1 o'clock, with Rev. E. P. Wood, of Victor, and pastor of the local Universalist congregation, officiating. The burial will be made in Bristol.

CYRUS M. KNIGHT.

Death of Well-Known Le Roy Resident—Veteran of Civil War.

Le Roy, March 12.—Cyrus M. Knight, who had been a resident of this town for fifteen years, died yesterday at his home at Port Hill, two miles north of this village. He had been ill nearly all winter and for the past six weeks had been confined to his bed. Death was the result of hardening of the arteries.

Mr. Knight was born in Murray, Orleans county, May 22, 1836. He enlisted in the service of his country at Rochester, joining the Seventeenth Independent Battery. After about one year's service, he cut his foot seriously at the battle of Petersburg, Va., and was obliged to retire.

After the war he went to the island of Jamaica where he worked two years and then removed to Virginia. After remaining there, where he was engaged in farming, for several years, he went to Bergen, Genesee county, and came to Le Roy from there.

On April 4, 1864, he married Elizabeth Marlon, whom he leaves, with two sons, Frederic C. and Glenn I. Knight, both of Rochester. The funeral will be held on Saturday, Rev. Joseph Senter officiating, and interment will be made in the cemetery in Stone Church.

GALLANT MAN IN WAR AND PEACE

Deputy Collector of Customs
Hutchison Dead.

SUFFERS MUCH FOR COUNTRY

Bears Cheerfully for Half Century
Anguish of Bullet Wound Received at Fredericksburg.

James Hutchison, deputy collector of customs, died yesterday afternoon at 12.30 o'clock at his home at 137 Barrington Street. His death was not entirely unexpected, and followed a stroke of apoplexy which occurred last Saturday morning while he was in the office of Dolphus S. Barber at 68 Arcade. He was removed to his home, but the seriousness of his condition was recognized from the first, and his failure to rally from the attack had in a manner prepared his friends for the announcement of his death.

Mr. Hutchison was 77 years old, having been born in Niagara, N. Y.,

on September 3, 1837. He was appointed a deputy collector in the old customs district of Genesee in April of 1871 and remained in active service until the time of his death. His record as a faithful and efficient official is an enviable one, and throughout his many years of service he had been winning friends by his courteous and pleasing personality.

Outside of his home circle, Mr. Hutchison's death will be particularly felt by the members of the veteran organizations of the city, in which he was particularly well known and where his true characteristics were understood and appreciated. Mr. Hutchison had been among the first to answer the call of President Lincoln, in 1861, enlisting at Rochester in the 61st regiment going out from the city. Company A, of the regiment always spoken of with a proud fondness as the "Old Thirtieth." Its nucleus was the old Rochester Light Guard, which had been organized several years previous and was known as the "Rochester," an organization acting at that time in the same capacity as the National Guard of today. Following his honorable discharge in May of 1863, he re-enlisted in the Veteran Reserve Corps, and was finally discharged in June, 1867, at Galveston, Texas. Mr. Hutchison took part in the battles of Bull Run, Yorktown, Hanover Court House, Antietam, Fredericksburg, Gainesville Mills and Malvern Hill.

Wounded at Fredericksburg.

It was at the battle of Fredericksburg that Mr. Hutchison received the terrible wound from which he was to suffer almost constantly during the balance of his life. Shot through the groin, the rough edges of the bone had been ever since a constant source of irritation to the sciatic nerves, and his sufferings were at times intense. Through it all Mr. Hutchison kept bravely at his work and presented always to his family, his fellow employees and associates the quiet, pleasant manners that made him a general favorite. He had been a brave and gallant soldier and the same bravery was manifested in the soldierly manner in which he bore the wound that had been received in the service of his country, and which could best be described as a daily sacrifice upon the altar of his country. Of a picturesque personality, his remarkable vigor was a never ending source of surprise to those who knew of the physical difficulties under which he met the day's duties.

Mr. Hutchison leaves a wife, Mrs. Mary E. Hutchison; three sons, George F., Charles F., and Ernest J. Hutchison; two granddaughters; a grandson, and a brother, David Hutchison of Nebo, Ill. He was a member of George H. Thomas Post, G. A. R. The funeral will be held on Monday, but the hour had not been decided upon by the family last night.

MRS. JAMES M. WHITNEY Union Mar. 16-1914

Death at Advanced Age of Woman Who
Had Always Lived in Rochester—
Sister of Charles F. Pond.

Mrs. Martha Pond Whitney, widow of James M. Whitney and sister of Charles F. Pond, died this morning at 37 South Washington street, where she had for some time made her home. Besides her brother, she is survived by one son, Warham Whitney.

Mrs. Whitney, who was born in this city in 1831, had always lived in Rochester. She was for years prominent in the social life of the city and was much interested in charitable work. For over half a century Mrs. Whitney made a practice of keeping a daily record, which is said to be practically a social history of the Third ward. A daily record of the weather was also kept for the entire period, making daily notes from her own observation long before a weather bureau was established in this city. Among the interesting papers which she compiled is a record of every birth, marriage and death which has occurred for half a century past in the prominent families of the Third ward.

Funeral services will be held at the residence of Warham Whitney, 22 South Goodman street.

Dem. JAMES REED, Mar 17 1914 Man Dead at Bristol Would Have Been 91 Next Month.

Simons, his son-in-law and daughter several miles west of this city, about 5 o'clock this morning. The aged man suffered a stroke of paralysis Sunday and failed to rally. Mr. Reed was born in Bristol and passed his life in that township where he was widely known. His great age gave him opportunity to relate to three younger generations, many incidents of early years in this county. His memory was excellent and he distinctly remembered attending the first county fair ever held in this county in 1840.

Le Roy, March 15.—This morning at 1 o'clock occurred the death of Byron Coburn at his home in Craigie street as the result of a stroke. Mr. Coburn was a man of more than ordinary ability and one of the best mathematicians in this part of the state. He was also of a scientific mind and invented a number of things for which he obtained patents, but from all of his inventions he never realized much in a financial way, never caring to place them on the market. His workshop was a sort of curiosity shop.

Mr. Coburn was born in Canandaigua county July 30, 1832. He was twice married, his first wife being Sophia Sheldon, whose death occurred a number of years ago. After the death of his first wife and some 35 years ago, Mr. Coburn came to the town of Le Roy where he married Frances E. Cameron, who is still living. He was a member of Olive Branch Lodge, F. and A. M., No. 39.

93d Year.

Le Roy, March 15.—Death claimed one of the oldest residents of this village yesterday morning when Philo Lull died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Stanley M. Smith, in Church street. Had he lived until next Wednesday he would have been 93 years old. Mr. Lull was born in Morris, Otsego county, on March 18, 1821. After completing his education he went to Lockport, where he learned the drug business, and afterwards went to Hamilton, Ont. He was a graduate druggist and chemist, but after following that business for a time returned to his native town and engaged in the manufacture of leather, which he followed many years.

About fifteen years ago he came to Le Roy to make his home with his daughter. He was a member of St. Mark's Church. He was twice married, his first wife being Miss Mary Wilcox, by whom he had three daughters, Mrs. H. E. Kinne, of Hartwick Seminary; Mrs. Thomas Howard, of Philadelphia, Pa., and Mrs. Mary Walworth, of West Winfield, all living.

that place at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Mrs. Clark leaves her husband, William Clark; two sons, Frank E. and Howard W., and two daughters, Mrs. Helen E. Spencer and Miss Mabel A. Clark.

An interesting incident in the life of Mrs. Clark was that following the removal of the family to Ashtabula County, Ohio, following her graduation from the seminary at Whitestown, N. Y.

Here was Antioch College, under the administration of Horace Mann, statesman, educator and abolitionist. Antioch College was the first in the country to adopt co-education of the sexes, and Hannah Bingham Stark had the distinction of membership in the first class under the new regime.

The Greek Professor, however, held out against the intrusion of the gentler sex in his classroom, until one day Hannah and two other girls, slipped in behind the boys before the door could be closed. The Professor resigned blindness to their presence for three weeks when, finally, he capitulated and accepted their recitations.

After but two and a half years at Antioch College, Hannah Stark was graduated and secured a position to teach in the St. Louis, Mo., High School.

She was the first woman to be allowed to teach in a St. Louis High School.

Her St. Louis home was in the family of Francis Gage, who is remembered as "Aunt Fanny" the pioneer suffragist of the West. It was during this time that she met and married William N. Clark, who was teaching in the same high school.

After living in Madison, Wis., and Cleveland, O., Mr. and Mrs. Clark came to Rochester with three children in 1874. They took an eight-acre fruit farm in the northern part of town, known then as the Hollenbeck farm, and it was there that Mr. Clark laid the foundation for the business which is now the W. N. Clark Canning Company.

Mrs. Clark was converted to Woman Suffrage in Cleveland in 1869 by hearing an address by Lucy Stone. The occasion was the organizing of the Woman Suffrage Association of America. Later she became the President of a small Political Equality Club in that city. This club died from the persecution to which its members were subjected. The newspapers held it up to ridicule and members withdrew because they could not endure the unpopularity.

Mrs. Clark was born to the Free Will Baptist faith but always felt a terror of the form of baptism. Under the influence of Horace Mann she became a Unitarian.

In Rochester Mrs. Clark was associated with the Unitarian Church, with the Brotherhood, as she was a devoted follower of Dr. Algernon Crapsey, with the Local's Woman's Council, with the Humane Society and as Vice President of the Political Equality Club.

DEATH CLAIMS CHAS. B. ACHILLES

Prominent Mason Caught
Fatal Cold at Funeral of Sheriff Hamil.

IN LINE FOR 33RD
Degree of Masonry Next
September.

Times — 3/18/14

Charles B. Achilles, who died at 8 o'clock last night at his home, 461 South Goodman Street, was one of the best known masons in New York State, and was prominent in a number of bodies. A peculiarly sad feature in connection with his death is that he served as one of the guard of honor from Monroe Commandery, Knights Templar, at the funeral of Sheriff Harley E. Hamil, at Brockport last Friday afternoon, and there contracted a cold which later turned into pneumonia and resulted in his death.

Had Mr. Achilles lived until next September, he would have become a thirty-third degree mason at Chicago, as he was elected last Fall. He was a member of Yonondio Lodge, F. and A. M.; a member of Hamilton Chapter, Doric Council, Monroe Commandery, Rochester Consistory, Scottish Rite, Lalla Rookh Grotto, Damascus Temple and the Masonic Club.

At the time of his death he was treasurer of the Consistory and chief rabban of Damascus Temple, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, being next in succession for the Temple's highest office. He had attained high office in the New York State Council of Deliberation.

Mr. Achilles was born in Rochester 53 years ago, and was educated at old School 5 and the old De Graff Military Academy. He married the daughter of Superintendent Brower, of the Street Railway Company, when it was owned by Woodworth, Ellwanger and Barry. Later he was in the seed business with Hiram Sibbey. His father was founder of the old Achilles Corps.

For a number of years past he has been an investment broker, with offices in the Powers Building. He sold considerable mining stock, and it is said of him that he would not handle stock with which there was the slightest hint of shadiness.

He was enthusiastic in his life, particularly with regard to his Masonic duties, and one of his special delights was to see that his Masonic brothers were properly buried, and their families taken care of.

He leaves his wife, a son and his mother. Arrangements for the funeral have not yet been made.

Heart Trouble.

In Days When Aquatic
Sports Were in Vogue

on Genesee.

Times — 3/19/14

Wilna C. Harris, of 18 Alexander Street, probably the oldest boat builder in the city, died last night at his home at 18 Alexander Street. He was in his 88th year, and was born in Rochester in 1826. He was active up until two weeks ago, and had built 10 rowboats this winter and was working on another when he died.

Two weeks ago he was shoveling snow after the heavy storm, and his heart failed him, since which time he has been in bed. He had a remarkably strong constitution and lived a temperate life, so that he was never sick more than two days in his life.

When aquatic sports were in vogue on the lower Genesee, before the Lehigh Valley yards were in their present location, Mr. Harris was much interested and took part often, besides building boats, canoes and yachts. He was one of the best oarsmen who ever competed on the river, and won numerous silver and gold medals for his prowess.

He built racing boats which won prizes, and also constructed many pleasure craft. He was more interested in building a boat which would win a race than he was in getting a high price for his product, and his work was always conscientious. He was an enthusiastic reader of the Evening Times.

Mr. Harris leaves his wife, two daughters, Mrs. G. R. Garrison of Rochester, and Mrs. M. E. Culver of Spokane, Wash.; two sons, B. L. Harris of Penn Yan, and B. F. Harris of Chicago. Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

Mr. Schoenfeld died at St. Mary's hospital Monday of typhoid pneumonia. He was 34 years of age and his death was a shock to many. He was of a quiet, unassuming disposition and disliked publicity, but he was a power in the First and Second wards, and his practical charity was fully told only after his death, when weeping people besieged the Rossenbach undertaking parlors in Allen street for a last look at their friend and benefactor. Mr. Schoenfeld was a member of the local union of structural iron workers and was very well known and appreciated in organized labor circles.

The bearers were Charles J. Collins, William Curry, James L. Gardiner, David J. Hyman, George Gurnett and Robert Stone.

Walter A. Clark, of Geneva, Dies in the South.

Geneva, March 31.—Walter Alonzo Clark, 68 years old, president of the Phillips and Clark Stove Company, died early last night at Pine Forest Inn, Summerville, South Carolina, where he and his family had been spending the month of March. Telegrams announcing his death were received last night. Heart disease was given as the cause. Mr. Clark and his family left Geneva for Summerville on March 3d.

Out of respect to Mr. Clark's memory the plant was closed down to-day and will remain closed until after the funeral and only such business as needed immediate attention will be taken up by the office force.

Mr. Clarke was born in Troy, in 1846. He received his education in the grammar and high schools of that city and when a young man entered the employ of J. M. Warren & Company, a large wholesale hardware concern. In 1898 Mr. Clark married a daughter of the late George H. Phillips, former president of the Phillips and Clark Stove Company.

Early in 1869 Mr. Clark and Mr. Phillips formed a co-partnership for the manufacture of stoves. They engaged in business in Troy, where their enterprise was attended with success. Desiring to change the location of their plant the business was moved to Geneva in 1885, when the present company was formed and since then the business has been conducted under the firm name of the Phillips and Clark Stove Company.

After Mr. Clark had his business well established in this city, he turned his attention to public affairs and in succession held three offices. At the annual school meeting in December 1891, he was elected a school trustee for a full term of five years, but this service was cut short, for on February 24, 1892, he resigned in order to become supervisor for the town of Geneva. He served on the Board of Supervisors during the years of 1892 and 1893. In the fall of 1894 he became the Republican candidate for member of Assembly for Ontario county and was elected to that office. He declined a renomination and since that time had held no public office, although he was repeatedly sought to fill an elective or an appointive office.

However, he filled several positions of a semi-public character. He was one of the five presidents of the Kanadasaga Club after its organization. In 1895 he was elected a trustee of Hobart College and served until the January meeting of 1907, when he resigned. From 1895 to 1907 inclusive he was treasurer of the Board of Trustees of the college. On August 2, 1902, he was elected vestryman of Trinity Church, a position he held at the time of his death.

Besides being the head of the Phillips and Clark Stove Company, Mr. Clark was a stockholder and director in many of the other corporations of the city. His interests included holdings of stock in the Patent Cereals Company, Standard Optical Company, Geneva Preserving Company, and many other corporations. # Body of Missing Webster Farmer Found in Pasture

William Woodhull Disappeared on Tuesday—Lost His Way, Died of Exposure.
Dem+Chron. apl 3-1914

Webster, April 2.—The body of William H. Woodhull, 72 years old, was found in a pasture lot on the Hosenfeldt farm in this town late this afternoon. The man had been missing from his home since Tuesday afternoon. He had not been in good health for some time and it is thought he fell while walking and was unable to rise.

Mr. Woodhull was one of the best known farmers in Webster. He lived on what is known as the Lake Shore road. On Tuesday he went to Rochester and transacted some business, leaving for home on the 1 o'clock car that afternoon. He was seen to leave the car at Webster and walk away in an easterly direction. When he did not reach home that night, his son, Orvil Woodhull, started an investigation. No one had seen him after he left the car, yet it was certain that he had not gone far away.

This afternoon a member of the Hosenfeldt family discovered the body. Coroner Kleindienst was notified and investigated the case. It was learned that Woodhull had become dazed while walking Tuesday afternoon and it is thought probable that he lost his way in the fields between the Salt and Phillips roads. Weak from illness he undoubtedly stumbled and fell, and soon died of exposure. The coroner will give a certificate to that effect.

William H. Woodhull was a veteran of the Civil war, serving in Company A, 108th Regiment, New York Volunteers. He was shot through his left lung in the battle of Gettysburg and was forced to retire from the conflict. He later recovered and resumed his place in the ranks.

Besides his wife, Mr. Woodhull leaves his son, Orvil, a daughter, Mrs. Ina J. Hase, of West Webster; and his brother, B. Frank Woodhull, of Webster.

DID PIONEER WORK IN WEST AS A SURVEYOR

James Kane Livingston Is Dead in Penfield.

Dem 4/12-1914
James Kane Livingston died Friday at the home of Andrew H. Bown, in Penfield, aged 64 years. He was born in Shortsville and spent his early days in Rochester. He was employed in 1870 in a surveying party in laying out the line of the Union Pacific railroad through Minnesota, when that state was little more than a wilderness.

When the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad was only sixteen miles long in 1881, Mr. Livingston was appointed general land agent and laid out the city of Albuquerque, N. M., as well as other towns that have since grown into cities. Of late years Mr. Livingston was in the hotel business, and was connected with the management of the old Gilsey House and Hotel Breslin, of New York, and the Lakewood, of Lakewood, N. J., and was manager of the Edgemere Club, on Long Island.

Mr. Livingston's grandfather, bearing the same name, rode with his cousin, Chancellor Robert Livingston, through Rochester when he was on his way from Albany to Buffalo to hold court. At that time Rochester was a village. He afterward settled in Rochester and built a flour mill on the lower river flats, and later erected mills in Penfield and Shortsville. The land around Livingston park was purchased by him, and the building occupied by the Livingston Park Seminary was the family homestead.

The body will be cremated at Mount Hope to-morrow and the ashes will be interred at Cambridge, N. Y.

WAS LAURIE IN "LITTLE WOMEN"

Dr. Frederick L. H. Willis Dies at Home of Daughter Here.

INTIMATE OF FAMOUS MEN

Early Part of Life Spent in Company of New England Writers and Thinkers.

Dr. Frederick Llewellyn Hovey Willis, intimate of Nathaniel Hawthorne, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Henry D. Thoreau, Margaret Fuller, Louisa M. Alcott and of the coterie of transcendentalists who founded "Brook Farm" and the undoubted original of Laurie in "Little Women," died at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Samuel H. Linn, at 243 Alexander Street, yesterday, aged about 85 years.

DR. FREDERICK L. H. WILLIS.

Dr. Willis was born near Boston and was from his early youth thrown into the company of the distinguished of New England literary geniuses. He graduated from Harvard Divinity School and was ordained as a Unitarian minister and was given a charge in Michigan. Later he abandoned theology and entered the Homeopathic Medical School in New York City, from which he was graduated. He practiced his profession until about two years ago in Elmira and Glenora in Yates County. He married Miss Love Whitcomb of New Hampshire, who died five years ago, and leaves a daughter, Mrs. Linn, and two grandsons, D. Willis Linn of Washington and Benjamin Linn of Corning.

For forty years Dr. Willis had had a home in Glenora on Seneca Lake, and there he gathered about him a company of men and women who were interested in advanced thought and literary matters. In the latter years of his life, he had made his home with his daughter in this city.

Was Writing Memoirs.

At the time of his death, Dr. Willis was engaged upon his memoirs, which contained intimate reminiscences of the famous men and women whom he had known during his long and busy life. Many chapters of his book were to be devoted to the associations with the famous Alcott family, with whom he boarded during a portion of his Boston life. He was in possession of letters from Louisa M. Alcott proving indisputably that he was the original of the character of Laurie in "Little Women." Dr. Willis had often lectured upon his experiences, and was an intensely interesting and scholarly speaker.

Despite his advanced years, he maintained a keen interest in current affairs and preserved a diction that was remarkable for its clarity and scholarlyness. Whether his memoirs are in such a state of completion to allow of publication, is not known. He had traveled extensively and was a brilliant conversationalist, with a remarkable memory for persons and associations.

Romantic Meeting with Alcott.

The identity of the prototype of Laurie had remained a mystery in the literary world for nearly half a century, but Dr. Willis had chosen to keep quiet about his claims. However, letters in Miss Alcott's writing prove indubitably that he was the person after whom the pen picture was drawn. Publishers who had looked over advance sheets of this proposed autobiography declared that it would create a sensation in the literary world because of the hitherto unknown facts it chronicled.

Dr. Willis became associated with the Alcott family in a romantic way. He met the mother of the family on a stage coach and a casual conversation led to an invitation to her home. Later he became like a member of the family while he boarded there. He carried the first manuscript of Louisa May Alcott to the publishers and returned with $5, which he received for it.

Dr. Willis was a member of the Unitarian Church. The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Rev. James H. Dennis
Herald May 5 1914

Word was received last night of the death yesterday noon, in Portsmouth, R. I., of Rev. James Hogarth Dennis, who was for 25 years rector of St. James Episcopal Church in Rochester. At the time of his death he was rector of Holy Trinity Church in Tiverton, R. I., a suburb of Fall River, one of the oldest Episcopal parishes in New England, where he had lately been instrumental in erecting a new church edifice.

Rev. Mr. Dennis was born in Canoga, N. Y., and was in his 75th year at the time of his death. He was graduated from the Genesee College in Lima, in the class of 1860, having been prepared for college at an early age. He was the eldest son of the late Rev. John Dennis, D. D., and a brother of the late Rev. Henry Seeley Dennis. An inherited artistic talent manifested itself in his college course, and after graduation he engaged for several years in artistic study, for seven years of the time in the Life School of the New York National Academy of Design. Early in the seventies, having studied for the ministry, he was ordained to the priesthood by the late Bishop Arthur Cleveland Coxe. After serving in a parish in Middleport, N. Y., and establishing a mission in Victor, he became rector of St. James parish in Rochester, where he remained for a quarter of a century.

During all of his ministerial life, Rev. Mr. Dennis continued his artistic work, and it has been said that his best work was done during the last decade of his life in his studio on the shore of Narragansett Bay, at Willow Brook Farm in Portsmouth. He was one of the founders of the Rochester Art Club and its first president, and many examples of his work are found in Rochester as well as in New England homes.

Rev. Mr. Dennis's parishes in Rochester is well known, and needs no comment. His life here, and also for many years in New England, was essentially a life of sacrifice for his kind. But it was a willing sacrifice, and his ministrations will be recalled by many to-day as they learn of his departure, for he took no thought of self and devoted his life to ministering to others.

He leaves two brothers, John Dennis and Richard H. Dennis of Rochester, and two sisters, Mrs. Francis D. Hodgson of Newark, N. Y., and Miss Jennie Dennis of Portsmouth, R. I.

ROBERT G. BOYD.

Robert G. Boyd, Rochester's oldest contractor and builder, died at 9 o'clock this morning, at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. E. B. Littlejohn, 35 Girton place, in his eightieth year. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Littlejohn and Mrs. William D. Worden, of this city.

Robert G. Boyd was born in Potsdam, St. Lawrence County, October 21st, 1834, the son of Robert and Elizabeth Summerville Boyd. He left school at 15 years, and spent some time in Rochester and Bergen. He learned the carpenter trade at Le Roy.

When he reached his majority, Mr. Boyd decided to locate permanently in Rochester, and he established a contracting business for himself. He met with success from the outset and many of Rochester's buildings stand to-day as monuments to his memory. It was not many years before Mr. Boyd was known as one of the leading contractors of New York state. Among the buildings he constructed are the Powers Hotel, the Savoy Hotel, Whitcomb House, Livingston Hotel, later remodeled as office building; Congress Hall, later remodeled and now known as the Bristol Hotel, and Powers Building, which for many years was the home of the Powers art gallery.

Mr. Boyd did not confine his operations to buildings, but constructed many of Rochester's finest residences. He resided in Lake avenue till three years ago in a house he built for himself. Other residences which he built are the old Fred Cook residence in East avenue, and the Allen, Doyle and Duffy homes in Lake avenue. He also built what is now Dr. Lee's Hospital in Lake avenue.

For many years Mr. Boyd was a close friend of the late Daniel W. Powers, who in his day was one of the most extensive of the city's real estate operators. Until his retirement a number of years ago, Mr. Boyd maintained business offices in Warehouse street, being associated with E. B. Chase, a lumber dealer.

Mr. Boyd had been ill for the past year, but had not been confined to his bed till the past week. His wife, Frances S., daughter of Cornelius S. and Elizabeth Farnham Luddington, died three years ago.

Deceased was one of the oldest subscriber to the Union and Advertiser, having read that journal for the past forty years. For many years he was an active Democrat. Mr. Boyd always believed that honesty was one of the best assets a man could have in a business career, and it was known far and wide that his word was as "good as gold." After his retirement from business the occasions were numerous when young men of the city would call on Mr. Boyd and seek his advice, which was always cheerfully given. The hours he spent in advising young men were numbered among the happiest of his life.

Mr. Boyd was a member of the Masonic fraternity.

No arrangements have been made for the funeral.

WAS POPULAR POLICE OFFICER

Death of William W. Plato,
Policeman of Batavia
for 25 Years.

WAS WELL KNOWN
enjoyed the Respect of a Wide Acquaintance in Genesee County.

(Special to The Evening Times.)

Batavia, May 8.—William W. Plato, former deputy sheriff, police officer, and a well known horseman, died last night from pneumonia. He was born in Batavia in 1829 and at one time owned the Wilson House here. He was Deputy Sheriff from 1879 to 1882 when he was appointed a police officer. He served in the police department 25 years and had a record for bravery throughout Genesee County.

Mr. Plato was familiarly known to the older residents of Batavia as "Billy," and his "fixed post," at the corner of Jackson and Main Streets, the heart of the business section of the city, placed him in a position to meet and know practically every man, woman and child whose daily affairs took them back and forth through the business streets.

It was no unusual thing for a business man, in search of another, to go up to "Billy" and ask him which way the man he was looking for had gone, and how long since he had seen him. He was a walking directory for the town, and was respected by all who knew him. The children were usually introduced to "Billy" when they were first led downtown by their mothers, as a warning to them to behave, and throughout the rest of their childhood "Billy" Plato was usually looked up to in awe and respect. Nor did he forget them, and as they grew up they were always sure of getting a pleasant nod or cheerful greeting from the man who for 25 years acted as guardian of the business section of Batavia.

Two sons, William J., of Batavia, and Walter H. Plato, of Grand Junction, Col., survive him.

FORMER RECTOR OF ROCHESTER CHURCH DIES IN RHODE ISLAND

Times May 5 1914

REV. JAMES HOGARTH DENNIS.

The death of Rev. James Hogarth Dennis, who was for 25 years rector of St. James' Episcopal Church, Rochester, occurred at his home at Willow Brook Farm, Portsmouth, R. I., yesterday noon. Mr. Dennis was 75 years of age. At the time of his death he was the rector of Holy Trinity Church, at Tiverton, R. I.

Mr. Dennis was the eldest son of the late Rev. John Dennis, D. D., and a brother of the late Rev. Henry Seeley Dennis. He was born at Canoga, in Seneca County, and was graduated from the Genesee College at Lima in the class of 1860.

During his college course he developed an inherited artistic talent. For several years after graduation he pursued his art studies, at the National Academy of Design, in New York. Later he studied for the ministry, and in the early seventies he was ordained to the priesthood by the late Bishop Arthur Cleveland Coxe. After ministering to an Episcopal parish at Middleport, he established a mission at Victor. Then he took up the work at St. James' Church in this city, and carried it on for a quarter of a century. Latterly he has had charge of the Holy Trinity parish at Tiverton, one of the oldest Episcopal parishes in New England, where he was instrumental in erecting a new church edifice. His work at Tiverton continued until his death.

Throughout his long and busy ministerial life, Mr. Dennis continued his artistic work. His best work was done in the last decade in his studio on the shore of Narragansett bay, which looked out upon the resting place of King Philip, at Mount Hope. He was one of the founders and the first president of the Rochester Art Club, and several of his latest canvases were shown at the club's recent exhibition. Many of his paintings are in Rochester, as well as in New England homes.

Of Mr. Dennis' parochial work in Rochester it is not necessary to speak at length. His life in this city, as well as among the fisherfolk of Tiverton and the mill workers of Fall River, Mass., was a life of willing sacrifice for his kind; but it was a sacrifice which will cause thousands to hallow his memory; for in the fullness of his charity he took no thought of self.

Mr. Dennis was not married. He leaves two brothers, John Dennis and Richard H. Dennis of Rochester, and two sisters, Mrs. Francis D. Hodgson, of Newark, N. Y., and Miss Jennie Dennis, of Portsmouth, R. I.

The funeral will be held at Portsmouth, R. I., and interment made at Mt. Hope Cemetery, this city. The burial will be private and held Saturday with brief family services at Mt. Hope Chapel.

Last of State Press Association Charter Members.

LONG AND EVENTFUL LIFE

Pioneer Publisher in Western New York and First Man in Wyoming County To Volunteer in Civil War.

By Special Dispatch to The Herald.
Warsaw, May 7.—Major Harwood A. Dudley, the last of the charter members of the New York State Press Association, died at his home in this village at 6 o'clock to-night at the age of 90 years. He had been in failing health for some time, and for the last 24 hours was in an unconscious state. He leaves three daughters, Mrs. Charles Lawton of Auburn, Miss Martha Dudley and Mrs. Charles E. Ketchum of Warsaw. The funeral will be held Saturday at 3 o'clock from his late home, 30 Park Street.

Major Dudley was born in Greenwich, N. Y., March 5, 1825, and came to Perry in 1831 with his parents. From 1837 to 1895 he was actively engaged in newspaper work. In 1837 he became an employee of the American Citizen in Perry, of which he said in a recent letter: "I commenced my devilship in a printing office in Perry, N. Y. I had my board and clothing for my work. One of my duties was to deliver the paper to sixty village subscribers each week. My first money came from a carrier's address to these subscribers, and its closing lines were: 'The carrier now, if you are willing, will make his bow and take his shilling.'"

"I got $6 and was a very happy boy."

In his work in Perry he was under David Mitchell, father of the present owner of the Rochester Post Express. There he remained for four years until a syndicate bought the paper and changed the name to the Mirror. In 1841 the paper moved to Warsaw, and Major Dudley remained with it until 1864, when it was merged with the Western New Yorker, at that time owned by W. H. Merrill, later editor of the New York World. This partnership continued until 1876, when Mr. Mitchell went to New York and Mr. Dudley became sole owner of the paper. He continued here until February, 1895, when he retired.

He was an enthusiastic Republican and took an active part in the organizing of Company K, one of the first companies to go to the Civil War from Western New York. He was in the first battle of Bull Run, but had left his affairs at home, both in business and in his household, in such a chaotic condition that he found it necessary to return home. He served as provost marshal for this county during the rest of the war.

Major Dudley served as County Treasurer for six years, as a member of the Board of Supervisors for fourteen years and as president of the Warsaw Library since its inception; in fact, it was through his efforts that the library was founded. He was the "father of the Warsaw Centennial" in 1903, and it was mainly due to his enthusiasm and interest that the affair was carried to such a success.

Major Dudley was one of the 32 charter members of the New York State Press Association, founded in Elmira in 1856, and the attended the meeting of the association held in Elmira last year. At that time Secretary Bunnell in his report said of Major Dudley: "Of the 32 organizers sixty years ago this month in this city, but one survives, and he is with us to-day."—Major Harwood A. Dudley, in his 89th year. Major Dudley is not only a pioneer publisher, but also a pioneer patriot, being the first man in his county to volunteer to fight in defense of our country. All honor to the veteran, a shining example to his fellow craftsmen. That he may be permitted to bless us by his presence yet many years is the fervent prayer of all who know him."

Frank Newkirk Thrown from Loaded Wagon near East Pembroke and His Head Crushed under Wheels.

By Special Dispatch to The Herald.
Batavia, May 11.—Frank Newkirk, aged 47 years, a well known Genesee County farmer, was instantly killed at 12.30 o'clock this afternoon in a runaway at the foot of Slusser's Hill, four miles north of the village of East Pembroke. His team of horses, drawing a heavy farm wagon loaded with bags of feed, became frightened when one bag of feed rolled off the load and struck the horses' heels. Mr. Newkirk strove vainly to stop the horses and one of the reins broke. He lost his balance and fell from the load. One of the wagon wheels passed over his head, crushing his skull.

Mr. Newkirk discovered the team without the driver and telephoned to the home of Frank Slusser to learn what had happened. Mr. Slusser nor no one else had witnessed the accident, but Mr. Slusser went out to the road to learn what he could. He found the dead body of Mr. Newkirk in the highway. BODY OF G. A. DE FABBIO ARRIVES AT BATAVIA HOME OF PARENTS

Spanish War Veterans Fire Salute and Many Residents Stand with Uncovered Heads To Honor Hero Killed at Vera Cruz.

Herold May 13, 1914

BY SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE HERALD.

Batavia, May 12.—Despite the pouring rain fully 1,000 people stood with uncovered heads while the body of Gabriel A. De Fabbio, the Batavia hero of Vera Cruz, was being removed from the 11:31 o'clock train on the Erie Railroad this morning. The body had been shipped from New York via Corning and Avon and was consigned to Thomas A. De Fabbio of 38 Center Street, Batavia, father of the dead youth.

The Spanish War veterans firing squad fired a salute of seven guns as the train rolled slowly into the station and a cannon placed in the street was fired at intervals as the body was being transferred to the hearse. Immense wreaths of flowers from comrades of the United States battleship Montana, to which Gabriel A. De Fabbio formerly belonged, from R. A. Smith, Commissioner of Docks at New York, and from the daughters of the American Revolution were unloaded before the casket.

Six veterans of the Spanish-American War carried the coffin on their shoulders to the hearse. They were District Attorney William H. Coor, John Manley, Frank Miller, Earl Newing, John Haller and Louis Wiard. Hundreds of people followed the hearse to the house and stood in the yard. The interior of the house was draped with large American flags.

When the metallic case was opened the youth was seen dressed in the uniform of a gunner's mate. Mrs. De Fabbio, the boy's mother, had accumulated the toys of his boyhood, some of his clothes, a prayer book, some sketches and other things which were relics of his early days, and these she placed in the casket, which was sealed and will not again be opened.

At regular intervals until the funeral to-morrow morning there will be a detail on duty constantly at the De Fabbio house. Veterans of the Spanish-American War in full uniform are standing guard. The funeral will be held at 10 o'clock to-morrow morning from St. Joseph's Catholic Church.

It will be semi-military in character and practically every organization in Batavia will be in the funeral procession. Louis Wiard will be marshal of the day. There will be four divisions, the first including the military organizations such as the G. A. R., Sons of Veterans and the like and the funeral party. A large number of Spanish War veterans from Buffalo will have a place in this division.

The body of Gabriel A. De Fabbio will be drawn on an artillery caisson draped in an American flag in the rear of the first section. Spanish War veterans will be the bearers, three sailors and three soldiers, while ahead and behind the caisson the Spanish War veterans will carry arms reversed.

In the second section will be a large number of Italian societies. The third section will be composed of city officials, Aldermen, Board of Trade, Town Board, high school and grade students and Boy Scouts. The fourth division will be made up chiefly of fraternal societies, Elks, Moose, Knights of Columbus, Macabees, A. O. U. M. E. A. and practically all similar organizations in Batavia. There will be five bands and a number of drum corps.

At St. Joseph's Church Rt. Rev. Charles H. Colton, D. D., and Chancellor Walsh of Buffalo will be seated in the sanctuary. The bishop will bless the remains following the solemn requiem mass. Priests from this and neighboring counties will have places in the sanctuary, while Protestant clergy have had seats reserved at the front of the church.

Besides the address of the bishop, Rev. W. T. Wilber, pastor of St. Joseph's Church, will deliver the panegyric and Rev. Joseph Laguzzi, pastor of St. Anthony's Church of Batavia, the celebrant of the mass, will make a few remarks in Italian. An elaborate musical programme has been prepared. At the grave in St. Joseph's Cemetery the ceremonies will be conducted by the G. A. R.

JAMES HOGARTH DENNIS.

Resolution Is Passed on His Death by Post Ep.

The following resolution has been adopted by the board of directors of the Rochester Humane society:

The character of James Hogarth Dennis would have been a rare one in any age. We have almost faultless pictures of heroes and saints drawn by enthusiastic poets and historians where long distance in time and lack of personal acquaintance with the subjects of eulogy has caused the biographers to overlook grave faults. But told man was known by so many of us and so long, and his conduct so transparent to us in every walk of his life that to those who were nearest to him and knew him best he appeared greatest and grandest of characters.

That almost wholly true saying that "no man is a hero to his valet" does not apply to him. To be the champion, defender, helper and liberator of the oppressed, needy or unfortunate human being or animal, was not a second nature to him, but was his whole being. He was one of those exceptional human beings that not only preached Christianity, but practiced it. This practice commenced first and his good actions were his sermons and the benedictions which followed them were from the recipients of his bounties, except when he saved dumb animals from abuse, and a merciful God will bless him for that.

It is impossible to think of him as the possessor of wealth, houses and lands, stocks and bonds—his generous heart and open hand could not have retained them for a moment from the children of want. He never asked what was the cause of a human being's or animal's sufferings or needs—whether it came from a fault or sin of theirs—or immediately started to relieve it with anything at his disposal.

In the year 1897 Mrs. H. C. Reynolds, touring the world in the interests of humane education, stopped in Rochester and succeeded in forming a humane education society. Mr. Dennis, by general suggestion, was asked to be its first president, but although he declined that honor, he was, perhaps, the most efficient of any of its members in making that society a living force. After its incorporation into our Rochester society it became the first society, we believe, in the world, which, with its own lecturer, made humane education a part of the education furnished by the public schools. Its example has been followed by other societies in different states, who have sent for our lecturers to explain the methods of their work.

In the early days of this society it was often necessary for its members to assume the duties of officers of the law and in the protection and rescue of dumb animals he has suffered severe bodily injury; he was so devoid of the resentful spirit that he never returned blow for blow nor for any injury inflicted upon him never prosecuted any individual.

His religion was so broad that in this city of churches he had the largest parish of anyone I ever knew, although his congregation was one of the smallest and weakest. At the cry of human or animal distress he invaded another to give such relief and succor he could furnish or command. He seemed to think God's day which we call the Sabbath was made also for man, and his outside labors of mercy on that day often encroached upon his own services inside his own church.

At last worn and exhausted with his diversant and increasing work here he was providentially called by an able friend and co-laborer to rest awhile far from us by the great sea. Here surrounded by congenial friends, and associates in good works, with his brush he transferred the changing beauty of sea and sky, in sunlight and shadow, in calm and storm to unchanging canvas, and as we view them with lasting satisfaction we think not only of the artist's art but thank God for his everlasting good deeds. When he left us for another field a public meeting was called and many testimonials were tendered to one who was perhaps Rochester's most loved and useful citizen. Many, very many heartstrings were strained at the parting and many constant prayers for his welfare were sent up when he left us for the Atlantic coast. But his warm heart could not rest and like his Master he gathered the fisher folk and preached to them by the sea.

This society had endeavored again and again to obtain his likeness to hang upon its walls, but his modesty gave no answer to our request. He shunned notoriety and cared nothing for brass bands, dress or applause. His delight was the satisfaction of doing his duty and giving happiness to others.

A bronze bust executed by his friend and co-broker, Miss Sarah J. Eddy, is considered by many of us who saw him often, faultless. If goodness is greatness he was one of the greatest of men. To say that such a man was an advocate of peace is to misunderstand his life and nature. He waged a never ending war against cruelty which ended only with his death. Could he sum up his own life and actions as did the great poet of Israel, he could truly repeat King David's words, "Thy gentleness hath made me great," and we his associates who have long known him so intimately in parting forever with his physical presence will use this expression of our appreciation of his life work, "Servant of God, well done."

DARWIN S. ELY

Life-Long Resident of Henrietta Prominent in Church and Society Circles Died in His 73d Year.

WEST HENRIETTA, N. Y., May 18.—Darwin S. Ely, aged 73 years, died at his home in West Henrietta.

The deceased was born in this town and spent his entire life here, for many years on the farm of his birth, moving to the village after strength failed to continue heavy labor. Fifty-one years ago he was united in marriage to Erin Bushman, who survives him. He leaves two sons, William and Austin, and four grandsons. Mr. Ely was for many years a member of the Christian Church of North Rush, also of Henrietta Lodge of F. & A. Masons.

Of a sunny, optimistic temperament, he was a valuable charter member of Henrietta Grange, also Monroe Pomona and the New York State Grange, as well as the national organization, being active in all fraternal work, having filled the various offices of master, chaplain and trustee with credit to the organization and himself. He was a member of the board of trustees and filled the office of chaplain at the time of his death. His experience in fraternal work fitted him for an organizer and teacher in ritualistic and parliamentary work when Henrietta Grange was in its infancy.

Pleasant and genial by nature, gifted with natural musical ability, he was a companionable neighbor who will be sadly missed in the community. The large number of friends and the choice and generous floral offerings of the funeral, conducted by the Rev. J. Masteller of North Rush, attested the sympathy extended to the family.

DEATH ENDS LONG ILLNESS

Sister M. Leonida Kewin

Dies at Villa Maria, in Wayland.

Times 5/16/1914
After a long illness of varying severity, Sister M. Leonida Kewin, a Sister of St. Joseph, died yesterday, at Villa Maria, Wayland, N. Y. For some months Sister Leonida had been living in Wayland with the hope that in its healthful location she might find restoration to health. An attack of heart trouble, however, brought her eminently useful life to a close.

Sister Leonida was born in Rochester, November 23, 1871, and this city had been the scene of her many years of devoted service. She was educated at Nazareth Academy, specializing in music, for which she had exceptional talent, and in which she reached an eminent proficiency. In 1890 she entered the novitiate of the Sisters of St. Joseph at Nazareth Convent, and made her religious profession in August, 1892. For 16 years she was on the staff of instructors in music at Nazareth Academy, until the establishment of the department of music at St. Agnes Institute, to which she was appointed as head of the department. Here, as at Nazareth Academy, with devotion and faithfulness to be found only in one whose life and labors were directed by a solemn and complete consecration, she spent her years of service, equally faithful while blessed with perfect health and when that health began to decline; and devoted was her soul-service, even to heroism.

One who knew Sister Leonida intimately, said of her today:

"During the many years of her connection with Nazareth Academy her influence and her personality touched many lives, not only among the music pupils, but among all the pupils of Nazareth Academy. Her beautiful personality, lovely spiritual influence, will be remembered and will continue its sweet, spiritual mission for many years after her devoted soul has entered into the joys of the eternal reward which was the hope and inspiration of that noble life from its early consecration. Those sweet and gentle virtues which were always associated with this generous, thoughtful, self-sacrificing soul will be remembered and will make her memory as they have made her life, a benediction."

The body was brought from Wayland to Nazareth Convent this afternoon. The funeral mass will be said at Nazareth Convent Monday morning at 9 o'clock, from which the interment will take place in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery.

All departments of Nazareth Academy will be closed on Monday.

A requiem mass will be said for Sister Leonida in the chapel at Nazareth Convent on Saturday morning, May 23, at 8 o'clock. The present and former pupils of Nazareth Academy are invited.

ERIE TRAIN STRIKES AUTOMOBILE HURLING OCCUPANTS FORTY FEET

Mrs. William Acomb Instantly Killed near Avon while Her Brother, Fred McCurdy, Has Narrow Escape.

BY SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE HERALD.

Avon, May 20.—Mrs. William Acomb, widow of ex-Sheriff Acomb of Livingston County, was instantly killed this afternoon at 5.20 o'clock when an automobile in which she was riding with her brother, Fred McCurdy of Dansville, was struck by a passenger train on the Erie Railroad a short distance west of Avon.

Mrs. Acomb with her brother was returning from a short visit to her son, Clarence, who is spending his vacation on the farm of William G. Markham. The Markham place opens on the road directly opposite the Erie Railroad crossing and as they approached the road Mr. McCurdy says he stopped and looked for an approaching train and to listen for bell or whistle. Not hearing any warning he started the car forward. It appears from his statement that obstructions near the track prevented him from seeing much of it in the direction of Avon, and the car had hardly reached the railroad crossing before the train was upon it.

Mrs. Acomb and her brother were hurled 34 feet. Mr. McCurdy lighting on the grass near a milk stand was only slightly injured, but Mrs. Acomb was thrown on the track in front of the train. Her head and right arm were crushed and her right thigh broken. There is no doubt that she was instantly killed.

Doctor J. C. Preston, the Coroner, and Dr. E. C. Perry, surgeon of the Erie road, were quickly at the scene, but there was little for them to do except to give first aid treatment to Mr. McCurdy and take the statement of Mrs. Peter Burgette, who was driving near the scene and was an eye witness. The car, which was a Ford runabout, was completely wrecked. Mrs. Acomb leaves four children. The train which struck the auto was an Erie passenger train leaving Avon at 5.20 o'clock for Rochester.

TEAM RUNS AWAY GOING DOWN HILL

By Special Dispatch to The Herald.

Corning, May 20.—Thrown out of a wagon when his team ran away down the steep Corbett hill, on the shores of Seneca Lake, yesterday afternoon, Oscar Harring, 72 years of age, one of the most prominent residents of Reading, received a fractured skull and died at his home a few hours later. A. F. Vandevender, 76 years old, who was with Harring at the time, had both legs broken and was otherwise injured, but it is thought he will recover.

The tongue of the wagon broke when the two men were about half way down the steep hill. The wagon pushed forward against the horses, and the frightened animals plunged madly down the hill, overturning the wagon and throwing both men out. Their cries brought aid from employees of the salt works, and they were removed to their homes, where they were attended by physicians.

LIFELESS BODY IN WOOD LOT

Evidence That Tracy McClintock Committed Suicide. RESPECTED GENESEO CITIZEN

Continued Ill Health Apparently Drives Wealthy Farmer To End Life with Razor.

Livonia, May 25.—This community was saddened this morning on learning of the death last night of Tracy McClintock, one of the best known farmers in this locality. Mr. McClintock lived on the Groveland Road in the town of Geneseo, about three miles south of Upper Lakeville. His farm was one of the finest overlooking Conesus Lake. He had retired from active farming several years ago. His health had not been good of late. Yesterday afternoon he attended the men's meeting at the Methodist Church in this village and apparently was about the same as usual. Last night he wandered from the house and shortly afterward a search that lasted nearly all night was started.

This morning about 6 o'clock his lifeless body was found in a small wood lot north of the house. His throat was badly slashed on both sides and tightly gripped in his hand was the razor with which he had ended his life. Mr. McClintock was the son of John and Julia McClintock and was born 64 years ago on the farm where he died. He was a man of exemplary habits. To know him was to respect him and his staunch friends were innumerable.

Dr. W. S. Trimmer, Coroner, of this village was summoned and rendered a verdict of death from suicide while temporarily insane. Mr. McClintock was an elder in the Presbyterian Church at Lakeville, where he will be greatly missed. About 23 years ago he was united in marriage to Miss Ola Dieffenbacher, who survives him. Mrs. McClintock is prostrated from shock and the sympathy of the community goes out to her in her sad loss. No reason can be assigned for his rash act except that his health had become so bad it had unbalanced his mind.

NEWARK MAN'S DEATH
CAUSES DEEP REGRET

E. Alvin Miller Was Noted for Horticultural Work.

Newark, May 24.—E. Alvin Miller, of Newark, who died in St. Mary's Hospital in Rochester last Friday morning, is a man who, because of his achievements in the horticultural world, is worthy of more than passing notice.

Mr. Miller was for several years a horticulturist in Rochester, and for twenty-eight years with the Jackson & Perkins Company of this village, as a practical propagator and official in the company. He retired from the company two years ago because of ill health, but not until he had, by his own untiring efforts, made a reputation for himself that will not soon be forgotten.

Mr. Miller was born in Saxony, Germany, November 26, 1856. There he received his education and learned the nursery business. For his work and research there he received several diplomas. He came to America in June, 1876, locating in Rochester and entering the employ of Ellwanger & Barry. He remained with that firm for several years. In 1884, Jackson & Perkins engaged him to act as their superintendent. He was with them during the infancy of their business.

Mr. Miller became a partner in the business, and when the Jackson & Perkins Company was incorporated became vice-president of the company, holding that office until his retirement on account of ill health, two years ago.

During the twenty-eight years he was with the company his horticultural achievements were many. Many successes resulted, the greatest, perhaps, being his origination of the Dorothy Perkins climbing rose. He named the rose after the daughter of George C. Perkins, son of C. H. Perkins, president of the company. Miss Perkins is now a student in Syracuse University.

After retiring from the nursery business, Mr. Miller bought a fine farm just west of Newark. His health continued to decline and some weeks ago he was taken to Alden to try the baths. He grew worse, and was brought to St. Mary's Hospital, where he died. The funeral was held last Monday afternoon at No. 208 Sanford street, Rochester, with interment in Mr. Hope cemetery. He was a member of the Odd Fellows and Foresters, Newark Grange, the Western New York Fruit Growers' Association, and the Western New York Horticultural Society. He attended the Newark Presbyterian Church, of which his widow is a member.

Mr. Miller leaves a wife; one son, Henry, and three sisters who live at the old home in Saxony.

It was not until last Sunday that his condition became so critical that he was compelled to remain in bed, although he had been suffering from heart and kidney trouble for nearly two years.

Although Mr. Hayden retired from the office of chief of police in 1909, to his hundreds of friends in the city which he served for thirty-six years in an official capacity, he was affectionately known as Chief. During the past few months he did not spend much time in his office because of failing health.

Not only did former Chief Hayden win a name for himself in Rochester, but he was favorably known among high police officials in this and other countries. He enjoyed the personal friendship of the Pinkertons, William J. Burns, and other famous detectives.

Naturally, his life was full of adventure, and to attempt to detail his experiences would be to write volumes of detective stories, some of them stranger than fiction. His record was told in the daily press of Rochester during his long and useful career in the police department.

John C. Hayden was born at Staten Island on February 23, 1848, and came to Rochester when he was 14 years of age. He attended the public schools of the city and Graff's Private Academy. Upon the completion of his school work he began learning the trade of machinist.

Appointed Policeman.

This occupation was not to his liking, however, and on April 8, 1872, when he was 24 years of age, he was appointed a policeman and assigned to Main street in the vicinity of Scio street.

He remained on this beat for four years, after which he was assigned to duty with the day force and given a section of Main street to patrol. During this time he made a number of important arrests which attracted the attention of his superior officers, and in 1882 he was made a detective.

Had Remarkable Memory.

He was gifted with a remarkable memory for faces and did some exceptional work as a detective. In 1890, assisted by Detective Furtherer, he cleared up the mystery of the murder of Mrs. Arthur H. Day at Niagara Falls, Ont.

Day was living with his second wife in this city after having murdered his first wife, and he talked about the murder while he was asleep.

This aroused the suspicions of the second wife and she called the matter to the attention of the police. Day was arrested on a charge of bigamy. Detectives Hayden and Furtherer, who were assigned to the case, learned that a few days before, Day, his first wife and his sister had visited Niagara Falls. Taking Day's sister with them the detectives went to the Falls and upon arrival there instructed the sister to guide them over the same ground traversed by Day, his wife and sister. She had insisted that her brother had not killed his wife.

Intensely Dramatic Scene.

The party crossed to the Canadian side and the sister led the detectives along the river bank for some distance. Suddenly the woman, who was a few feet ahead of the detectives, stopped, threw up her hands and exclaimed:

"Over the bank lies the body of Arthur Day's wife."

She reeled and swooned falling into the arms of the detectives. Within a few moments she was able to talk and for a time pretended she did not know what she had said. Hayden and Furtherer went to the authorities of the town and with the assistance of several officers a search of the river bank was made and the body of Mrs. Day was found lodged on a ledge a hundred or more feet below the spot where the dramatic scene was enacted on the bank.

Day's sister later confessed and told how her brother had pushed his wife over the bank as she was picking berries from a bush. The charge of murder was made against Day, he was tried and convicted at Welland, Ont., and hanged.

Because of the excellence of his detective work, Detective Hayden was assigned to many important cases and his investigations included many murders, highway robberies, forgery cases, embezzlements and other crimes.

Chief of Detectives.

On August 14, 1887, he was made chief of detectives and this was followed by his appointment as assistant chief of police in 1893. In May, 1900, he was made director of detectives and on March 1, 1905, he was made chief of police.

He resigned from this office on January 1, 1909, and about a year afterward opened the office of the John C. Hayden Detective Agency.

Mr. Hayden was married to Miss Linda Cogar of this city on September 30, 1872. Besides his wife, he leaves two sons, Charles J. and Frank Hayden; two daughters, Miss Grace Hayden and Mrs. Archibald Harris, and one sister, Mrs. Rose Bryant.

Mr. Hayden was a member of Holy Rosary Church, the Elks, Knights of Columbus, the A. O. U. W., the C. M. B. A., Exempt Firemen's Association, Sons of Veterans and the Union Club.

Mr. Hayden was also a member of the International Association of Police Chiefs and the State Association. He was a member of the Police Benevolent Associations and took an active interest in the organization after his retirement from the police department.

Funeral Saturday.

The funeral will be held on Saturday morning at 9 o'clock from the family residence at 94 Augustine street and at 9:30 o'clock from Holy Rosary Church. Burial will be in the family lot in Holy Sepulchre cemetery.

Announcement of the death of the former chief brought sorrow among the members of the police department, many of whom had worked with him for years; who admired him for his great ability as a detective, and whose friendship for him was cemented by long association.

"I am profoundly sorry to hear of his death," said Chief Quigley. "I knew him for many years before I was connected with the police department and I have met him many times since then. That he was a police officer of exceptional ability there can be no doubt."

Police Mourn Death.

"We were members of the police department together for 28 years," said Deputy Chief M. J. Zimmerman, "and I cannot tell how deeply I regret his death. That John C. Hayden was a great detective no one can deny, for he cleared up some of the most baffling criminal cases in our city's history."

"He had just been made a detective when I became a member of the police department and I remember well the first time that I saw him when I was on my beat in South avenue. Fire had broken out in a five-story building and the structure was pretty well enveloped in flames."

"Firemen had their lines on the blaze, which seemed to be gaining rapidly and the building seemed to be doomed. Presently the crowd saw through the thick smoke a woman standing at one of the windows in the upper story, beckoning for aid."

"Hardly a moment elapsed before the people saw a young man dash up the stairway, which seemed to be filled with smoke and flames. He fought his way to the top and back again and when he returned he carried the unconscious woman in his arms. It was a heroic piece of work and the crowd cheered the young man lustily."

"Who was that young man?" I asked in admiration.

"That is Detective John Hayden; he has just been made a detective," I was told.

An Important Arrest.

During the time he was in the department he made many important arrests and it is impossible for me now to recall them off hand. I remember one case, though, in which his work resulted in breaking up one of the worst gang of yeggs in the city of New York.

"Information was obtained by Hayden that the leader was coming to Rochester and he also learned that he was also going to stop at the old Breaky Hotel in West avenue. Hayden waited until he arrived, then went to the room and calmly informed him that he was under arrest."

"The yegg, who was the leader of a notorious gang of yeggs with headquarters in a saloon at City Hall park, New York city, pulled a revolver from his pocket and ended his life rather than submit to arrest. The discovery led to the breaking up of the gang."

Chief Joseph M. Quigley this afternoon appointed the following committee to assist in the arrangements for the funeral: Deputy Chief Michael J. Zimmerman, Inspector James E. Ryan, Detective Sergeant Edward J. O'Brien and Detective Sergeant William J. Maguire.

ROCHESTER'S LAST EX-FIRE CHIEF DEAD, FOLLOWING PARALYTIC STROKE, AGED 83

Herald 5/29 1914

WENDEL BAYER AND HIS OLD FIRE DOG, MAJOR, TAKEN YEARS AGO, WHEN MR. BAYER WAS CHIEF OF THE DEPARTMENT.

Wendel Bayer, former chief of the Rochester Fire Department, died last evening at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Joseph J. Schmueler, at 25 Leopold Street, aged 83 years.

Mr. Bayer suffered a stroke of paralysis on Monday of this week and a second stroke came upon the following day. It was seen from the first that at his advanced years recovery was almost impossible.

Wendel Bayer was born in Seebach, a town in Alsace-Lorraine, on August 10, 1831. He was the youngest of six children. The family emigrated to the United States in 1843, when Wendel was only 12 years of age, arriving at New Orleans and traveling a long, hard six weeks' journey on water by way of Cincinnati to Rochester, then only a town.

He received a common school education here and at the age of 17 he became a member of the Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company No. 2 of the Rochester Fire Department, with which he was to be prominently identified for many years and through several stages of development.

Long Fire Experience.

Later he joined the Pioneer Hook and Ladder Company No. 1, which finally became known as the Empire Hook and Ladder Company No. 1. Mr. Bayer was foreman of that company for many years. From this company came several of the best fire fighters Rochester has ever had, among them being Charles Little, the present chief of the city fire department.

In 1862 Mr. Bayer became assistant manager of the department, and he performed its duties with much credit to himself. It was mainly through his efforts that the use of the horses of the department in street cleaning work was discontinued in the early seventies, after which the animals were reserved for fire duty only. In 1870 he was chosen chief of the department, but resigned at once because of political opposition. In 1880 he was promoted to the position again, however, and he served in that capacity with distinction for nearly a year and a half, his career as a fireman ending in 1881.

Fought Big Fires.

Mr. Bayer saw service at many of the largest fires that occurred in Rochester in the second and third quarters of the last century. He fought the long remembered Mill Street fires, and he was one of the most active at the old Rochester House conflagration in Exchange Street in 1869. When the large church, which was located where the City Hall stands, burned, his work was conspicuous, and at the great Osgood & Farley Building fire, his fighting was a matter of considerable comment.

He had been presented many testimonials for his services as a fireman. As far back as 1867 the Common Council made public recognition of his work. The citizens of the city presented him a gold badge in 1868, and several of the fire companies with which he was identified showed their respect with gifts at various times. In 1869 Alert Hose Company gave him the first 25-comb fire helmet ever used in this city, and the late Alderman James H. Kelley presented him the first silver trumpet ever in use here, in the same year.

Major Good Fire Dog.

Mr. Bayer's career as a fireman, and the name of his famous dog, known as "Old Major," are always associated with each other in the minds of old residents. Old Major was a big Newfoundland, weighing 132 pounds. He was always at the headquarters of the fire department, and his intelligence at the time of fires gave him a great reputation. He was known throughout the state as the most remarkable fire-fighting dog. He would hear an alarm sooner than any fireman, and if the doors were not open, he would jump through a window and go directly to the blaze. Old Major climbed ladders with amazing speed, and he usually would nose out the point of greatest danger at a smothered fire sooner than the men. He died in 1872, aged 12 years.

Mr. Bayer was married in 1852 to Miss Frances Pausch, who came to this country from Waldurm, Germany. She died in 1907. Seven children were born to them. They are Charles M. Bayer of 616 Main Street East, Wendel Bayer, Jr., of 314 Andrews Street, Mrs. Philip J. Hartell of 773 Main Street East, Mrs. Joseph J. Schmueler of 25 Leopold Street, Mrs. Albert Feinberg of 163 Seward Street, Mrs. John A. Baird of Saratoga Avenue and Mrs. George Wendell of Plymouth Avenue. He also leaves twenty-nine grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The funeral will take place on Monday morning at 10 o'clock from St. Joseph's Church, of which Mr. Bayer had been a member for more than seventy years.

Eyesight. Times 5/27/1914

Julius Loos, managing editor of the Rochester Abendpost, died at the Homeopathic Hospital last night after an illness of several weeks.

Mr. Loos has been connected with the Abendpost for the last 15 years. For many years he was blind, but in spite of this was able to do his literary work, having learned to typewrite by the touch system. His memory was remarkable which helped him much to do his work. Many years of study, and the fact that he had been a teacher in this country before he entered the journalistic field, had given him a wide knowledge of languages, history, economics, astronomy and politics. His editorials in the Abendpost were highly appreciated by its readers.

Mr. Loos came to America from Germany 25 years ago. He came to Rochester in the Fall of 1887 and entered the Theological Seminary. From there he went to Cleveland and joined the editorial staff of Der Sendbote. For several years he also taught at the German Baptist Seminary in Rochester. From 1896 to 1899 he was editor of the Syracuse Deutsche Post, after which he joined the editorial staff of the Rochester Abendpost, with which paper he was connected until his death.

Mr. Loos was a personal friend of Dr. Walter Rauschenbusch and Prof. Ramaker, of the Theological Seminary, of whom they spoke in the highest terms as a man of high ideals, of great scientific knowledge and deep religious sentiment.

The other three men were all badly bruised and cut but none is thought to be in a serious condition.

The men were returning from a ride in the southern part of the city and were driving north on Plymouth Avenue. Mr. Doherty tried to make the turn at a fair rate of speed, according to the police of the Exchange Street Police Station, when the steering gear broke, according to surmises, and the machine overturned into the park. The automobile made a complete turn, pinning Doherty and Kedian, who occupied the front seat, underneath. The other three men were thrown clear of the car, it is said. Passersby saw the accident and immediately notified the Police Station. A call was sent for the ambulance of St. Mary's Hospital and Doherty was taken there where he died this morning probably of internal injuries. Well-Known Resident Passes
Away in His Eighty-Third Year.

Times Herald 5/29/1914

Mr. Bayer was stricken with paralysis last Monday morning and the following day a second stroke occurred. Besides Mrs. Schueler, he leaves four other daughters, Mrs. Philip J. Hartel, Mrs. Albert Feinberg, Mrs. George Wendling, Mrs. John Baird and two sons, Charles and Wendel Bayer, all of this city; twenty-nine grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Wendel Bayer was born August 10, 1831, in Oberseebach, Germany. The town is in Alsace-Lorraine. He came to this country in 1843 with his parents to escape service in the German army.

Many Weeks Crossing Ocean.

After a three months' trip the Bayers arrived in New Orleans and in a few days took passage on a river boat on the Mississippi river for Cincinnati. They spent only a few days in Ohio, and then came to this city where Mr. Bayer went into a shoe shop opened by his father. Later he became a wool turner in the employ of the Richardson Wood Turning Company, which stood where the Democrat and Chronicle building is to-day. At 16 years of age he was put in charge of a number of men.

Central Library of Rochester and Monroe County, 1914
Mr. Bayer became a member of the Empire Hook and Ladder Company, volunteers, which had a barn in Fitzhugh street. In 1850 he was made a foreman of the company. He was married to Francis Pausch, of Rochester, a year later.

Mr. Bayer, in 1866, when Rochester had a paid fire force, was appointed assistant chief engineer, during the administration of George B. Harris and Patrick H. Sullivan, on the Common Council fire committee. In 1868 a big fire broke out, destroying the Eagle Hotel, which was situated where the Powers block is to-day. The chief of the department showed inefficiency and, as the flames of the fire died out, Mr. Bayer was appointed chief by the fire committee. The appointment was later officially confirmed.

For three years he served as chief. From 1867 to 1870 the department had to contend with several notable fires. Three men were killed when Washington Hall burned and Mr. Bayer was nearly caught in its falling walls. The Rochester House, in Exchange street, made such a conflagration that the men fighting it with old-fashioned methods were compelled to jump into the canal from time to time that they might go on. In the same year the Shawmut mills in Mill street burned for thirty hours.

It is said that Mr. Bayer never sent his men where he would not go himself. When the Arnold paint store in Front street burned he lifted a board in the flooring while the fire was in progress to ascertain the condition of the basement. There was an explosion of paint and turpentine that is said to have shaken the city. Five men were burned to death. In 1870 the Central Presbyterian Church, Fitzhugh street, burned down.

Purchases Front Street Hotel.

A change in politics threw Mr. Bayer out of office in 1870 and he purchased the Market Cottage Hotel in Front street. Ten years later he was again appointed chief. Although his term was for a single year he fought some big fires. Among them were the Gills picture frame factory and No. 15 School, which caught fire when the weather was below zero, and the walls of which were saved and are in use to-day. After another political flurry he was once more retired. He ran the Market Cottage Hotel until 1892, and then retired from business. Since that time he had resided with his daughter in Leopold street.

When the fireman's monument in Mt. Hope cemetery was unveiled on September 9, 1880, Mr. Bayer was chief of the fire department.

Edward J. Cotton.

MACEDON, N. Y., June 4.—The funeral of Edward J. Cotton, who died at the home of his sister, Mrs. Louisa Joslin, last Sunday was held at the Friends Church Wednesday afternoon, Rev. Edwin P. Wood, pastor of the Universalist Church in Victor conducted the service. Burial was made in the North Farmington cemetery.

Edward Cotton was born January 8, 1845, the son of Jeremiah and Sally Cheesebro Cotton. He received his education at Macedon Academy. He was a soldier, diplomat, linguist and university instructor, and in addition to his title of baron was also the Marquis di Patteri. Born November 7, 1851, in Modena, Italy, he was the son of Francis Xavier Von Klenner-Dombrowski, aide de camp to the Duke of Coburg. In 1866 Baron VonKlenner followed his father into service for the Austrian crown and in December of that year was made ensign in the Thirty-second Infantry. After taking part in the war that followed the insurrection at Dalmatia he was transferred to the Sixth Lancers, the Emperor's Own Regiment. He remained there until compelled to leave because of injuries.

MISS ELIZABETH S. RICHMOND

Herald 6/8 1914
Last Member of First Normal School Faculty Died at Her Home in Brockport.

BROCKPORT, N. Y., June 5.—The death of Miss Elizabeth S. Richmond, of this village, occurred yesterday morning about 8 o'clock at her residence in Monroe avenue.

Miss Richmond's life was closely associated with the early days of the Brockport Collegiate Institute, and later the Brockport Normal School. When a girl Miss Richmond taught in a rural school in this town, and in this village. She had a fine voice and was early interested in vocal training, then in its infancy. When the Collegiate Institute sought its teaching staff, Dr. Malcolm MacVicar asked Miss Richmond to take the department of vocal music, reading and elocution. She accepted and began her work in this school, March 23, 1867. When the school became a State Normal she was retained as instructor, and continued until 1901, having taught continuously in the same school for 34 years. The death of Miss Richmond removes the last surviving member of that first faculty. No one ever worked harder for the uplift of the whole school than Miss Richmond. She was last year honored guest at the New York alumni dinner, when members of the old "Song Circle" gathered around their old leader, and sang some of the old songs. A letter received shortly before her death from a New York attorney, Edward Lyon, graduate of the seventies asked her to be his guest at the luncheon this year, but her illness prevented her accepting.

After leaving the Brockport School she taught in Fredonia for several years. For many years she trained the Presbyterian choir in this village, and had also led choirs in Albion, Spencerport and Rochester. Her voice retained its fine qualities and it was a pleasure to hear her sing her alto part in a quartette.

Miss Richmond leaves three sisters, Louise, Francis and Alice. The funeral will be held from the house Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, Rev. L. E. Ford, officiating. Interment will be at Beach Ridge.

U. & Adv. 6/24/1914
 Mrs. C. C. Merritt, 60 years old, who was killed yesterday when an automobile in which she was riding was struck by a train at a grade crossing of the Pere Marquette near Greenville, Mich., was the mother of Mrs. Arthur S. Light, of 25 Edgar street, this city. The first Mrs. Light knew of the accident was when someone called her attention to the telegraph item in the Union yesterday giving the details. There was much telegraphing and long-distance telephoning between Mrs. Light and parties in Greenville during the night in efforts to verify the facts as given in the Union dispatch and it was learned that they were correct and that it was Mrs. Light's mother who was killed in the accident. Mr. and Mrs. Light left for Greenville early this morning. Mrs. C. C. JAMES C. DOYLE 65

Manager of Seneca Falls Opera House and Former Baseball Player of Note Dies Suddenly.

By Special Dispatch to The Herald.
Seneca Falls, July 16.—After attending to his usual duties last night, James Cornellius Doyle, manager of the Opera House here, returned to his home at midnight and succumbed very shortly after to heart failure. He was taken ill about 12.15 o'clock and died twenty minutes later. Hurried summons failed to secure a physician prior to his death. While his death was sudden, Mr. Doyle and his family knew his condition was serious, as the result of an illness which continued with slight interruptions through the present year. He was 45 years of age.

When 20 years of age he made a sensational debut into the baseball limelight as a catcher for the Syracuse Stars. From there he went to higher company and continued playing baseball with signal success for ten years. He then came to this village and managed the local teams during the period of their championship in the Empire State League, with the exception of one season. He then leased the Opera House and converted it into a moving picture theater. Under his management the house won a generous patronage and Mr. Doyle was considered one of the most successful of the moving picture men in this vicinity. He was a member of Seneca Falls Lodge, 992, B. P. O. Elks.

He leaves his wife, his mother, Mrs. Anne Doyle, and one sister, Mrs. A. N. Coon, both of Fayetteville. The Elks Lodge will conduct funeral services at the Doyle home on Beryl Avenue on Saturday. The remains will be taken to Fayetteville for burial.

John Keating Was on First Engine Equipped With Air Brake.

John Keating, who died a week ago at St. Mary's Hospital, had the unique distinction of being fireman on the first engine ever equipped with an air brake, his engine being the one which Pennsylvania officials chose to try out the invention of George Westinghouse. To-day there hangs on the wall of the master mechanic's room at the Erie railroad station a picture of the engine with Keating and his engineer standing beside the cab.

Mr. Keating was born at Corning, but at an early age left there and went to the Pennsylvania oil fields, soon turning to railroading, however, and obtaining a job as fireman on the main line of the Pennsylvania. In the late 70's he became a fireman on the Rochester division of the Erie, running between Rochester and Corning. In 1880 he was promoted to the position of locomotive engineer and many of the engineers on the road to-day received their early training under him.

A finely finished and polished brass engineer's torch, which it is said was presented to Fireman Keating by his engineer when he left the service of the Pennsylvania railroad years ago and which Keating always prized highly but never used, is said to be in the possession of Engineer John Klett of Avon, to whom it was given by Engineer Keating when he retired from a locomotive. As an engineer Keating was noted for his neatness and cleanliness and he always took great pride in having his engine look spic and span.

MADE BIG FIGHT AGAINST RING IN LIVINGSTON

Death Comes to Judge Wm.
Carter in Avon Home.

COUNTY JUDGE SINCE 1902

Started His Career as Teacher, But Soon Took Up Study of Law—Gave Services to Village of Avon as Village Attorney for Many Years

Avon, July 15.—William Carter, county judge and surrogate of Livingston county, died in his home in Genesee street in this village, at 9 o'clock this morning, after an illness of about a year, aged 66 years.

William Carter was born in the village of Byron, N. Y., on July 28, 1848. His early education was received in the district school of that village. In 1867 he was sent to Lima, N. Y., to school, where he attended what is now Genesee Wesleyan Seminary, from which he was graduated two years later. At that time, what is now Syracuse University was at Lima, and he afterwards attended this institution, remaining but a year, as the college was removed to Syracuse at that time. So he took the teacher's examinations, received his certificate, and started out to teach. He held positions in several towns, teaching two years in district schools, and five years in union schools.

While teaching in the village of Lisle, N. Y., there came the opportunity for him to begin the study of law, an ambition which he had had many years. A lawyer there named McDonald allowed him to use his books and study in the office evenings, and when Carter left that place he gave him recommendation which made it easy for him to find another office in which to study.

For three years he taught school in the village of Scottsville, and here Lawyer Ashby of that village, assisted him. He also read some law in the office of Judge Morgan, of Rochester, but Judge Carter has often expressed the opinion that the credit for his preparation for the final bar examinations, and the fact that he passed, were all through the untiring efforts of George Atwell, of Lima, who has remained his friend through life.

He was admitted to the bar in Utica, on January 10, 1879, and came immediately to Avon, where five days later, he opened an office for the practice of law, and he has since been a resident of this village. For the past thirty-five years he has been one of the best known members of the Livingston County Bar. For most of these years, he was closely associated with Edwin A. Nash, Supreme Court justice, both occupying the same offices until the death of Judge Nash about three years ago.

Elected District-Attorney.

In 1893, he was elected district-attorney of Livingston county, and when he had completed his term he had established himself firmly as one of the hardest working lawyers in the county. It was shortly after this time that County Judge Nash was promoted to a seat on the Supreme Court bench, and many of Judge Carter's admirers placed his name before the governor for appointment to fill the unexpired term, but the appointment was given to Edwin P. Coyne, now of New York city. This vacancy was of but a few months' duration, and that fall,

JUDGE WILLIAM CARTER.

Mr. Coyne was nominated on the Republican ticket.

There was a Democratic candidate, and Judge Carter ran on an Independent Republican ticket, which brought out the first opposition to the Republican organization in Livingston. He was defeated, but he made a splendid run, and his friends were satisfied, and awaited the coming of the next election six years later. The six years rolled by rapidly—and all the time Judge Carter was becoming a better lawyer, and his reputation was known far out of the confines of Livingston county.

In 1902 the Republicans nominated Otto Kelsey, of Genesee, and Mr. Carter was nominated by a petition of independent voters. A few days later the Democratic County Convention endorsed him. It was one of the hardest fought battles ever staged politically in Livingston county, and although the rest of the ticket was elected by majorities ranging as high as 2,000, Mr. Carter became county judge by a small majority, and thus far, no one has ever been found in this section of the country who regretted that he had been chosen for that position.

In 1898 he was re-elected on a Republican ticket. His term would have expired this year.

Always Worked for Avon.

Judge Carter has been closely connected with the history of Avon throughout all of the years he has been in town. For five years he was supervisor. For so many years that almost everyone in town has forgotten, the number, he was a member of the Board of Education, and although he severed his connection with that board some time ago, two years ago there was such a demand for his presence there, that he could not refuse and again took up the work. For twenty years he was the village attorney, and for these years, which were busy ones for him, with all of the improvements which Avon was making at that time, he never would accept one cent's pay. When a new improvement was suggested for Avon, Judge Carter was always ready to help out, and his hand could be seen at the bottom of many of these early improvements.

In 1873, William Carter married Miss Emma L. Kadross, of Le Roy. To them were born three children, William, of San Francisco; Miss Eliza, who lives at home, and Mrs. Isaac Gardner, of Sodus.

A Prominent Mason.

Judge Carter was prominent in Masonic circles in this vicinity. He was a past master of Avon Springs Lodge, No. 370, and was a member of Cyrene Commandery, Knights Templar, of Rochester, and of Iamachus Temple, of the Shrine, also of Rochester.

He was a man beloved by all who knew him. Even those who had occasion, through politics or otherwise, to dislike him, admired him for the manly traits which he showed on every occasion. As a lawyer he was one of the best. His corporation lawyers in the big centers liked to have his opinion on their cases, for he was always honest with them. He would never accept a case that he was confident could not be won, and no matter how large a retainer was suggested, his opinion remained the same.

He was a hard fighter, and was never defeated until the case had been decided in the last court. As county judge, he did his duty as he saw it, tempering justice with mercy, and many a young man in this section, who made a little mistake at the start, and are now successes, owe their present situation in life to the view that he took of their case.

Had he lived, it is very probable that he would have been re-elected county judge this fall.

The funeral will be held from the home, Friday afternoon of this week, at 3:15 o'clock. Interment will be made in the Avon cemetery.

MORTUARY RECORD.

Dr. J. H. McCartney.

Dr. James Henry McCartney, for many years a practicing physician in Rochester, died on July 14 at his home in Avon Park, Fla. He was born of Scotch parents in Dansville, and at the time of his death was still owner of the farm left him by his father, which includes the resort known as Stony Brook Glen. In 1881 Dr. McCartney married Mary E. Edsall of Toga County and together they studied medicine in Philadelphia and Buffalo. In 1883 they came to Rochester, where they opened an office in the Marble Building and built up a large practice.

Dr. McCartney was of an inventive turn of mind and the barn on the old farm in Dansville contains many indications of his genius. Soon after his arrival in Rochester he took out patents covering the operation of railroad signals and the movement of switches by air at low pressure, a device which won the approval of many railroad officials and which led to the organization of the Pneumatic Signal Company. A factory was erected in Lincoln Park, where many plants were built and installed on various railroads.

After a few years of prosperity, electricity became the favorite power with railroad men, and as a result the Pneumatic Company, the Taylor Company of Buffalo and a company in Troy were brought together into the General Railway Signal Company.

About eleven years ago, Dr. McCartney bought the hotel property in Avon Park in Florida, to which he made large additions, and it had since been his home, although he did not give up his house in Lake Avenue in this city until three years ago. Mrs. McCartney died on April 11 of last year, and then Dr. McCartney, who had been ailing for some time, began to fail rapidly until the end came on Tuesday of last week. He was 70 years old. He was buried in the cemetery in Avon Park by the side of Mrs. McCartney.

JOHN HAYES

His lifeless body was discovered early this morning by William Warner, a tenant on the Hayes farm, who occupied a part of the house where the owner maintained an apartment by himself. Coroner Eiseline of Shortsville attributed Mr. Hayes' death to either of the above causes.

Mr. Hayes was born in the town of Phelps near Unionville and all his life resided in this vicinity. He was about sixty years of age. He married early in life, but his wife died within a year or so after their marriage and since then Mr. Hayes had lived alone. Although handicapped by ill health for more than twenty-five years, Mr. Hayes conducted his business affairs successfully and had amassed considerable wealth.

WAS PIONEER IN YORK STATE RAILROADING

U. & A. 7/26/1914
William Perry, Retired Central Employee, Dies at Age of 94 Years.

William, better known as Commodore Perry, died last evening at his residence, 9 Hyde park, aged 94 years. He is survived by several nieces and nephews.

William Perry at the time of his death enjoyed the distinction of being the oldest former employee of the New York Central railroad, the oldest member of the congregation of Brick Presbyterian Church, the oldest ex-supervisor and the oldest member of the Rochester Whist Club.

Commodore Perry was born in Angelsea, in the north of Wales, May 14, 1812. When he was 7 years old he came with his parents, William C. and Ann Perry, to America.

The family settled in Utica, where the lad received an education.

Came to Rochester in 1839. It was in 1839 that young Perry, a lad of 18, came to the village of Roch-career in the capacity of blacksmith on the Albany and Auburn road, and ran the first train from Cayuga to Auburn on New Year's Day in 1842, leaving the blacksmith shop for the locomotive at that time. He was a locomotive engineer for over forty years, and for a considerable part of this time had the little engine called "The Boston."

The first six years of his life as engineer were spent in guiding his train over a wooden track, and the Commodore, as he was affectionately known by his friends, loved to recite the experiences of one exciting trip when his engine jumped the track three different times, due to the difficulty of keeping the train on the wooden rails. Notwithstanding this fact, the Commodore was never injured and was always regarded as a safe man at the throttle. He was the engineer selected for all important occasions, and was the man who ran the train that carried Lincoln from Rochester to Syracuse on the great Emancipator's famous trip to Washington in 1861.

A Friend of Vanderbilt.

Mr. Perry was a warm personal friend of Commodore Vanderbilt, and drew the pioneer railroad magnate over the road on numerous occasions.

One day that Commodore Perry remembers very well was when Commodore Vanderbilt asked him to be sure to "make a good run, and go as fast as possible." The Rochester Commodore made up his mind that he would show the New York Commodore a thing or two about speed, and he succeeded so splendidly that his efforts brought forth some frantic grabs for the bell cord and the request to go slower.

Early Days of Wells-Fargo Co.

Mr. Perry on many occasions would tell of two young chaps, Wells and Fargo by name, who used to carry packages of valuables in a carpet bag from station to station on the train on which he was engineer. That was the beginning of the Wells-Fargo Express Company.

Another favorite anecdote Mr. Perry would relate was the time he carried Secretary of State William H. Seward from Syracuse to Auburn. Mr. Seward had received word that his son was at the point of death. At the request of the railroad company, Mr. Perry got up steam and made the run of twenty-six miles in record time. Mr. Seward reached his son a half hour before he died. A month later the engineer received a check for $50 from Mr. Seward.

In 1854 Mr. Perry was engineer on the first train east out of Rochester over the new main line of the New York Central. After forty years of railroading, the Commodore retired from active service in 1880. He retained an active interest in railroad affairs, however, and was seen almost daily at the New York Central station. A favorite spot of his was the office of Moss Mosely, superintendent of railway mail service.

Engineer Perry was one of the many engineers of early days who saw the necessity of organization among the men of their craft and became one of the first to assist in forming what was then called the Brotherhood of the Footboard, which afterwards became the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and which in its early days was organized to help locomotive engineers over their roads going to new fields of employment in the west, where railroads were then in construction and to assist others out of employment, to positions as engineers. Engineer Perry lived to see the organization he helped form grow from a handful of engineers to its membership of to-day of over 76,000 members. It is said that one of the first meetings held by a few engineers in order to bring about an organization was held here in Rochester and attended by Perry and others, many of whom are long since dead. In those days, it is said, it meant dismissal to the engineer who became a member and meetings were held in out of the way places and at homes of members to evade the ever-watching official ready to strike the new organization a blow by discharging any engineer known to have joined.

Another coincidence is that to-morrow is the centennial of the invention of the steam locomotive by Geo. Stevenson and Engineer Perry will be buried at that time.

After his retirement from railroading Mr. Perry purchased stock in the Sea Breeze road. When the road was completed he was one of a committee of three to purchase locomotives and cars. Several times the veteran extended his investments and at the time of his death was interested in many industries.

In 1882 Mr. Perry served in the Board of Supervisors, being the representative of the Seventh ward.

Mr. Perry was twice married. In March, 1846, he married Miss Lucy Demelt, who died September 6, 1873. On December 11, 1878, he married Ann Turner, who died October 17, 1886.

DEATH OF EARLY TRICK BICYCLIST

Reuben A. Punnett Passes Away at His Home.

Sunday - D. & C. 7/26/1914
WAS PIONEER RIDER HERE

Organized Company to Manufacture Bicycles - Formed Drill Corps That Toured Country - His Stunts Still Put on by Rochester Girl

Reuben A. Punnett, dean of trick bicyclists, died last evening at the home, No. 488 Main street west. He was born in this city June 5, 1855, and was one of the first to ride a bicycle here. In 1879 he organized a drill corps of the Rochester Riding Club, which traveled extensively through the country, putting on the tricks he devised. Mr. Punnett probably was the first trick cyclist to appear before the public for compensation.

Mr. Punnett attended No. 17 School. When he graduated he entered the employ of his father, who was one of the pioneer building contractors of Rochester. The trade did not appeal to him and he soon went into the merchant tailoring business. His store was located in Main street west, not far from his late home.

When bicycles were turned out in the late '70's Mr. Punnett got one. He took to riding and had mastered many tricks by the time others purchased machines. He won recognition and finally decided to organize a drill corps.

His fame as a trick cyclist spread to Topeka, and in 1884 he was invited to appear at a fair being held there. The drill corps made a hit and continued to appear before the public until 1890, when the members were called back by private interests. Wendell Curtis and Erickson Perkins toured with Mr. Punnett. Charles Smith, who is in the brewery business now, was Mr. Punnett's partner.

REUBEN A. PUNNETT,
Pioneer trick bicyclist, who died last night in this city.

Mr. Punnett taught his tricks to Alex Kaufman in 1886 and not long afterward Mr. Kaufman renewed the tour that Mr. Punnett had given up. The Kaufman troupe of trick bicyclists had sold bookings in the leading vaudeville houses of the country for many years. Mr. Kaufman's daughter appeared in Rochester last spring. She uses the tricks which Mr. Punnett taught her father. Mr. Kaufman was known as "the bred man" in the '80s because he used to run away with Mr. Punnett's prize bicycle for practice.

In 1896 Mr. Punnett organized the Punnett Bicycle Manufacturing Company in the Keene building, Prospect street and Main street west. He sold out a few years later and went into the real estate business, building houses for investment on the West Side. He continued in that field until a few years ago, when he became interested in promoting a typewriter fixture.

Mr. Punnett married Miss Harriett Withers, of Brooklyn, in 1889. He leaves, besides his wife, four sons, Percy W., Elton B., Ellis L. and Kenneth E. Punnett, and four brothers Ephraim, Abner, Byron and Milton Punnett. Mr. Punnett was a member of Valley Lodge, F. and A. M.

NORTH COHOCTON, N. Y., July 28.—The funeral of John Parker Gilbert, who died Saturday afternoon after an operation, occurred at the family home yesterday afternoon. The remains were interred in the family lot in Clearview Cemetery.

The death of Mr. Gilbert removes the last member of a family long identified commercially, professionally and religiously with the history of North Cohocton. Mr. Gilbert was born in Dansville, N. Y., June 3, 1839, and was 75 years old. He attended school at Albany and Syracuse. His father was a Dansville merchant who after the canal was built moved to North Cohocton and for nearly fifty years conducted a general store here. The deceased was a brother of the late Dr. A. L. Gilbert whose church philanthropies dispensed a large fortune. Rev. W. H. Simmons, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Atlanta deferred a vacation trip to pay a tribute to Mr. Gilbert's deep piety and gentleness of spirit. Mr. Gilbert was an enthusiastic singer of Methodist hymns and his voice seemed as strong and as resonant up to a few weeks of his death as it was in his youth. "Rock of Ages" and "Jesus, Lover of My Soul" among his favorites were sung at his funeral by a quartette. The floral offering was exceptionally tasteful. Aug 2, 7/28/1914

S. W. PEABODY

Herald July 29 1914

Death at Age of 84 Years of Temperance Advocate Who Banished Liquor Traffic from Town of Springwater.

Springwater, July 28.—The death of Sheffield Winslow Peabody occurred at the home of his son, George Peabody, in Canadice, Monday forenoon, July 27, 1914. Mr. Peabody had been ill only a few days but his extreme old age made his chances for recovery very light.

He was born in the town of Springwater, March 2, 1830, and spent the most of his life here. His long life was undoubtedly due in a degree to his temperate habits, being a total abstainer from the use of tobacco and intoxicants. The residents ever gave him the credit of helping to banish the legal sale of liquor from the town when, by his vote, he, as Justice of the Peace, broke the tie in the Town Board many years ago.

Besides many distant relatives, friends and acquaintances, Mr. Peabody leaves three daughters, Mrs. Emma Beals of Wayland, Mrs. Jack Brush of Avoca, and Mrs. Arba Peck of Ingleside, and two sons, George Peabody of Canadice, and Starr Peabody of Springwater. ## BULLET IN THROAT

FOR FIFTY YEARS

John C. Slate, Veteran, Dies

in Dansville.

Aug 4 1914
 Dansville, Aug. 4.—John C. Slate, a veteran of the Civil war and for half a century an invalid, died at his home in West avenue yesterday, aged 70 years. He was born in the town of Leicester, Livingston county, where he lived until 10 years old, when his people moved to Dansville. With the exception of the years he spent in the South land during the Civil war, he has ever since resided here.

Mr. Slate was one of the 101 men who left Dansville April 25, 1862. The company went from here to Elmira and was in charge of the following officers: Carl Stephan, captain; George Hyland, Jr., first lieutenant; Ralph Wood, second lieutenant; M. J. Bunnell, first sergeant. When they arrived in Elmira Mr. Hyland was promoted to captain and Ralph Wood advanced to first lieutenant. He was severely wounded in the war at the battle of Gaines Mills, Virginia, on the second day of the "seven days" fighting before Richmond. Mr. Slate and Samuel Allen were the only two survivors of this company in Dansville for several years.

Some years after the war he contracted a bad cough and grew thin and emaciated and was finally forced to take to his bed. He grew weaker daily and his cough grew worse until he finally lay at the point of death and was given up by all. He was supposed to be suffering from tuberculosis, but one day in a spasm of coughing he coughed up a flattened bullet. After the bullet was discharged the lung began to heal and the patient to improve. He finally became able to get out and had a wheel chair built for his peculiar case which was operated by the hands instead of the feet. His left leg and hip becoming diseased as the result of a bayonet wound by this time, he was unable to walk.

He finally grew worse again until an operation was deemed necessary. At this time about fifteen years ago the left leg had withered away and the hip bone was found to be honeycombed. The bone was removed and he again began to improve, and the last ten years or so he has been able to get around without the use of his bicycle but with the use of crutches.

A few years after the war, 1869, he married Miss Matilda Thomas, who died in 1900. He leaves a daughter, Mrs. Georgia Slate Eschrick, who has made her home with her father of late years.

By Special Dispatch to The Herald.

Auburn, Aug. 10.—Stumbling and falling in the path of a fast running eastbound limited car on the tracks of the Rochester, Syracuse & Eastern Electric Railway between stops Nos. 70 and 71 in the town of Mentz, Eugene Wilson, a man of 75 years and a well known resident of the village of Port Byron, was instantly killed at 7 o'clock last evening. According to the story of Motorman Charles Ford, Wilson was walking on the tracks used by the westbound cars and when the car was close to him he apparently stepped over and stumbled in the path of the car. The man was so close that the motorman had no opportunity to stop the big car before it hit him.

The car was stopped at once and the body taken to Port Byron, where it was placed in the freight station and Coroner A. J. Forman of this city was summoned. After an investigation into the facts he decided that death was due to accident and granted permission to remove the body to the undertaking establishment of C. E. Wethey. Mr. Wilson had left his home but a few moments previous to the accident and was taking a short cut up the tracks. He had resided in the village of Port Byron or near it for the greater portion of his life and for the past 35 years had been employed by Richard Warren & Son, coal dealers. He is survived by his wife and seven children.

MRS LUCINA C. HAGAMAN DEAD

Born in 1820, She Lived in Rochester for More Than 94 Years.

FUNERAL TO-MORROW

Daughter of Gideon and Roxanna Cobb Spent Active and Useful Life.

Times Herald 8/10/1914
Mrs. Lucina Cobb Hagaman died on Saturday night at the age of 94 years at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Libbia M. Crossman, of 97 Richard Street. The funeral will be held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from her late home, Rev. Noyes O. Bartholomew, pastor of South Congregational Church, officiating.

In the death of Mrs. Hagaman, eldest daughter of Gideon and Roxanna Cobb, Rochester has lost one of its few remaining residents of pioneer days. Born in the town of

MRS. LUCINA COBB HAGAMAN

Brighton, January 23, 1820, Mrs. Hagaman spent her whole life in and about Rochester.

Her's was an active temperament, and, like Wesley, her field was the world. Her greatest pleasure she found in service to all with whom she became associated; her cross, the laying aside of the mantle of service for the robe of "being served which time in these last two years had brought, though many hours were brightened by those whom she had earlier served."

Until two years ago Mrs. Hagaman was as active as a woman of 70, but a fall which broke her hip hastened her death, for since the accident she was an invalid. Within the last year her eyesight failed and there were times when she could not recognize her own relatives.

Mrs. Hagaman was known for her tireless energy as a child. Mrs. Crossman has in her possession a basket which was given to her mother when she was eight years old by an Indian for turning a grindstone to help him sharpen his axe. Mrs. Crossman said her mother often spoke of having seen "five Indian villages," as she called them, from her home in Highland Avenue, looking toward Main Street.

It was Mrs. Hagaman who with two other women organized the Union Congregational Church of Irondequoit, where she went to live in 1849, 11 years after her marriage. She was married to Howland S. Hagaman, who lived on an adjoining farm to the Cobbs'. In Highland Avenue Mrs. Hagaman made her first home in the old white house which was torn down last winter to make way for a modern house now occupied by the Hodge family. The Hagamans formerly came from Holland and were one of the oldest families in the country, as attested by an old coat-of-arms which has come down through generations. The Hagamans were the first to introduce hedge fences, hence the name Hagaman, which means "Hedgemen."

One of the ways by which Mrs. Hagaman remembered all her descendants was by giving each one a bed quilt which she had pieced together herself. She was known for her "quilting bees," and a story is told of how she invited many of her young girl friends to a "quilting bee" with the intention of asking their mothers on the following evening to finish the work. The piecing done by the girls, however, was so poor that Mrs. Hagaman stayed up a whole night ripping the pieces apart and sewing them again in order to make a presentable showing for the mothers on the following evening.

That she had a faculty of getting work from those who served her in nearly the same proportion as she herself worked, was shown by the remark of a servant girl who once told a friend that she would rather have "Mrs. Hagaman scold her all day than have one of her daughters look at her." She had a keen sense of humor, too, for one of the stories which she delighted in telling most was that of an Indian squaw who came to her with a toothache. The squaw wanted some whisky to relieve the pain. Mrs. Hagaman gave her the whisky to put on her tooth, but during the night the squaw insisted on having more, "because it wouldn't stay in the tooth."

Born in a home noted for its hospitality, she delighted in reminiscences of those earlier days, and ever retained the old-time cheer, saying often to her friends, "Come again; remember the latch string is always out."

Though she lived to see Rochester grow from a village to a city, she never grew old, save in years. Believing "We are just as old as we think," she said, "I'll be always young." Grandma to all the neighborhood, her high school boy friend exclaimed: "Oh, it will be lonesome here when grandma is no longer at her window with a smile and bow for me when I come up the street."

At 89, when her birthday came, her younger friends asked: "What can we do to keep Grandma 11 years more so she can be 100?" Though none got so high that she did not spur them on to something higher, she ever strove by example to keep their courage from flagging. The thought that the Sunday School which she helped to organize many years ago had become Union Congregational Church of Irondequoit, was a source of innocent pride in her later days.

A sister, Mrs. Maria Hall, 84 years of age, is living in Kansas City, Mo., and the widow of her youngest brother, William Cobb, still lives in the old Cobb homestead.

She is also survived by two sons, John G. Hagaman of Livonia, Frederick J., of this city, and a daughter, Mrs. Libbia M. Crossman, with whom she lived. Six grandchildren, seven great grandchildren and a great-great grandchild, Winston Basset, 4 years of age.

JAMES WARREN MILLIMAN

Union
Death of Man in His Sixtieth Years Who

Was Probably Best Known Engineer on Local Branch of Erie.

James Warren Milliman, probably the best known engineer on the Rochester division of the Erie railroad, died at the family residence, 427 Exchange street, last night, following an attack of acute indigestion. Mr. Milliman is survived by his wife, Elizabeth E. Milliman; four brothers, Oscar, Lewis, Almond and Jacob Milliman, and four sisters, Mrs. Herbert Carney, Mrs. J. Weidman, Mrs. C. E. Morse and Mrs. W. E. Moulton.

James Warren Milliman had been in the employ of the Erie railroad on the Rochester division for forty-three consecutive years. He entered the service as a trackman and his diligence won promotion for him till he was made a locomotive engineer, in 1887.

Mr. Milliman was a "fighter" of the finest type when it came to looking after the interests of his fellow employees. For many years he was one of the highest officers in the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and Firemen, and during that time frequently had conferences with high officials of the railroad. It is said that Mr. Milliman had a speaking acquaintance with more high railroad officials than any employee on the Rochester division. He possessed all of the ability of a public speaker and many times his orations won leniency for fellow workmen who were put on the charp for accidents or breaches of discipline.

Mr. Milliman's acquaintanceship was not confined to the railroad. He was known to Odd Fellows, being a member of a local lodge, and was active in church work. He was one of the first members of the First Church of Christ, Howell street, and when the Second Church of Christ, in Columbia avenue, was formed a number of years later, became a charter member with the late William F. Butler, who was a lifelong friend of the deceased, and a number of other west side residents. While a member of the Second Church of Christ he was the treasurer and a member of the church board.

Of late years Mr. Milliman and his wife had been attending the First Church of Christ, again becoming active in its affairs. With all his friends especially the rank and file of the Rochester division of the Erie Railroad, Mr. Milliman was generous to a fault. He was known as "Jim" by his intimate friends.

Mr. Milliman was in his sixtieth year.

Rochester Man Dies at Nearly 102 Years

Herald
Aug 22 1914

With less than four months to travel life's road in order to reach his 102d milestone, Charles Gallipo died suddenly last evening at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Emma Zug, at 12 Angle Street. His death, which was wholly unexpected, is a great shock to his wife, who is now in her 92d year. Mr. Gallipo was the father of fifteen children, twelve of whom are still living. Eight are boys and four are girls.

He was born in St. Catharines, Canada, on December 15, 1812, and was of French ancestry. Three years after coming to Rochester at the age of 24 years, Mr. Gallipo was married to Miss Della Gangue of Scottsville, also of French birth. Mr. Gallipo was one of the few Rochesterians who could remember when the Four Corners was "like a wilderness," as the jovial, kind-hearted old man was wont to put it.

Mr. Gallipo was proud of the fact that he had never been sick a day in his life and was never forced to wear glasses. He was probably best known among the children, with whom he was a great favorite. He took a keen interest in child life and even in his advanced years was a ready playmate for any of the children in his neighborhood.

Those who knew Mr. Gallipo intimately say that up until the time of his death he was able to exercise remarkable strength and energy and did some work nearly every day. He was especially handy with a saw and did many tasks that would seem difficult and hard to much younger men.

Mr. Gallipo was also an experienced farmer, having spent much of his early life in the country. He worked at various times in Oswego, Watertown, Syracuse, Smith Falls and Scottsville. He was a great lover of country life and natural beauty and always took especial pleasure in arranging and tending a small garden at the home of one of his sons.

Besides his wife and children, Mr. Gallipo leaves 77 grandchildren and 22 great-grandchildren. Mr. Gallipo's eldest son is 72 years of age. Mr. Gallipo's grandmother lived to be 112 years old, while his wife's father, Mitchell Gangue, died in this city at the age of 106 years.

The surviving children are as follows: Charles Gallipo, John Gallipo, George Gallipo, Henry Gallipo, Mrs. Hattie Stout, Mrs. Libbie DeMorris and Mrs. Allen W. Zug, all of Rochester; Edward Gallipo and Joseph Gallipo of Cohocton, Albert Gallipo of Whalen, William Gallipo of Adams Basin and Rose Gallipo of Canada.

NELSON LOVEJOY

Death at Age of 91 Years of Son of Pioneer Settler of Town of Rose at Home of His Daughter.

By Special Dispatch to The Herald.
Wolcott, Aug. 21.—The death of Nelson Lovejoy occurred this morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. N. J. Fields, after an illness of several months, of general debility, in his 92d year. He was born June 14, 1823, in what is now the town of Rose, but at that time was the town of Wolcott, the old town having been divided into four towns. Mr. Lovejoy is the last survivor of a family of nine children born to Mr. and Mrs. Silas Lovejoy. The couple came from Massachusetts, accompanied by one child, in 1813, being one of the first families to settle in this part of the country.

NELSON LOVEJOY.

A farm in Massachusetts was traded for 400 acres of timber land in the new country and the little family set out on their long trip in a covered wagon drawn by a team of oxen with one horse hitched ahead. The journey occupied six weeks. Upon their arrival they settled just north of Stewart's Corners. Afterward they built a log house west of here. It was in this house that Nelson Lovejoy was born.

In the early days the settlers used to assemble in a tavern to vote. Mr. Lovejoy, who was at that time a Democrat, voted for the first time in 1844 for James K. Polk. It was at that time that the admission of Texas to the Union was the issue and a fierce strife was waged. Afterward Mr. Lovejoy became a Republican and had since voted that ticket.

Mr. Lovejoy owned a large farm near Wolcott, upon which he passed the greater part of his life. The first year he paid taxes on the farm they were $1.50. He afterwards paid an average of $50 per year on the farm. During the Civil War he raised one year ninety bushels of wheat on three acres of land. Most of this he sold at $2 per bushel, but he sold two bushels out of the crop for $7. Until his last illness Mr. Lovejoy was remarkably strong and active for his years. His wife died several years ago. He was one of the wealthiest men in this section, also one of the largest land holders. He is survived by his daughter, Mrs. Fields, with whom he resided; one son, Eron Lovejoy, who lives in the same neighborhood; also two grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Batavia Veteran Knocked Down by Auto and Killed

Brooklyn Woman, Driver of Machine, Driven Insane and Has Disappeared.

Batavia, Aug. 25.—Patrick Welch, 71 years old, a Civil war veteran, and but recently reappointed patriotic instructor from Upton Post, G. A. R., in Genesee county, was instantly killed in Main street, Batavia, this morning, when struck by an automobile owned by Charles P. Kellogg, of West Main street, Batavia, and driven by Mrs. Frank E. Bullock, of Brooklyn, a half-sister of Mr. Kellogg. In the car with Mrs. Bullock and Mr. Kellogg were Miss Elizabeth E. Gubb, of Daws, Mrs. Frank Dorf, also of New York, and Miss Gladys De Shon, of Batavia.

Mr. Welch was standing about eight feet from the south curb of the street in front of Ryan Brothers' store, engaged in conversation with Jay Reed, another veteran, when the automobile bore down upon them. Both men were knocked to the ground, and both front and rear wheels on the touring car which was going east, passed over Welch's body, crushing in his chest. Death was instantaneous.

The car was traveling at the rate of about six to eight miles an hour, when the accident happened. Mr. Kellogg, who was on the front seat of the car with Mrs. Bullock, made the following statement: "Mrs. Bullock knew how to drive the car. We were running very slowly, and when we ran into the man who stood with his back to us, we did not see him until it was too late." Mrs. Bullock was completely unnerved by the accident, and could not tell how it occurred. Mr. Reed who was talking with Mr. Welch in the street at the time of the accident said: "I started across from the sidewalk, on the north side of the street, and stopped to talk with Mr. Welch not far from the south curb of the street. We were discussing the coming National Encampment of the Grand Army at Detroit which Mr. Welch was planning to attend. He stood with his back to the approaching automobile, while I stood sidewise, so that I could see in both directions up and down the street. Neither of us had any intimation of the approach of the car until it was almost on us."

A large crowd gathered in the street and the old soldier was taken into Ryan Brothers' clothing store. Mr. Kellogg remained at the store, and gave an account of the accident to Police Captain McCulley and Coroner Whitcomb. About a dozen spectators saw the accident.

Coroner Whitcomb, assisted by Dr. Morse and Dr. Ward B. Manchester, performed an autopsy on the remains this afternoon, and found six fractured ribs, a puncture of the pleural membrane on the left side, and that a fragment of rib had punctured the heart, making a tear in the heart wall a half an inch in length which caused his death. The fourth and fifth ribs on the right side were also fractured.

Mrs. Bullock was greatly depressed and it is said was made actually insane by the shock. She has disappeared and it is thought that she took the Lehigh train out of the city. No warrants have been issued. Police Captain McCulley said that Mrs. Bullock rode in Kellogg's automobile with him to St. Joseph's Church this morning directly after the accident, where the captain went to summon the Rev. W. T. Wilber, believing Mr. Welch to be a Catholic. Mrs. Bullock left the automobile at the church saying she would walk back downtown, and has not been seen since.

Mr. Welch was born in Greece on September 2, 1843, and leaves besides his wife, three daughters, Mrs. Fred Johnson, of Lockport, Mrs. Stephen Flagg, of Spencerport, and Miss Elmina Welch of Batavia, and six sisters, Mrs. Sarah Vosburg, Mrs. Frank Pheylan, Mrs. Betsy Huff, Mrs. Harriet McDonald, and Miss Julius Welch, all of Rochester, and Mrs. Mary Bovee, of Clarkson.

Mr. Welch enlisted in the Civil war in August, 1862, as a private in Company F, 108th New York Volunteers, and was honorably discharged on June 29, 1865, having seen active service for two years and ten months. He was recently appointed as patriotic instructor for Genesee county schools. His home was at No. 3 Willow street.

Death at Pittsford at Age of 81 Years of Resident Who Though Blind 50 Years Accomplished Many Things.

Pittsford, Aug. 25.—Gabriel K. Wood, one of Pittsford's best known residents, died to-day at 2.30 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Loder, where he had resided four years. Mr. Wood's parents were Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Wood, who came to Pittsford when he was a lad. He was born nearly 82 years ago, 64 of which were spent in Pittsford, where his parents died and are buried. For fifty years Gabriel Wood was blind and he was always watched with interest by the townspeople and strangers when on his daily walks for health or when on business. He always found his destination and used a cane which enabled him to find his way by the edge of the sidewalk.

He was a person of remarkable intelligence and exceptional memory. The latter he trained in many ways. One was the playing of chess as a professional, which he did by mail and telegraph. He was a student in German and read many books for the blind. He studied telegraphy when a young man, which profession he followed until five years ago, a year after the death of his wife. He was agent and operator at the New York Central Railroad depot here for many years and continued to serve the company even after his blindness developed.

After he left that position, he opened an office for the Western Union Telegraph Company at his home on Main Street, where he lived fifty years. Other accomplishments which he acquired were the making of hammocks by hand, typewriting and as a horseman he was an expert and daring rider, and indulged in athletics. His decline was gradual and several strokes of paralysis hastened his death. Surviving relatives are a cousin, Collins G. Wood of Rose; two nieces, M. Lottie Young of Cleveland, Ohio, and M. Lottie Youngs of Albion, Mich., and three cousins, Mrs. Fannie Carr of Leechburg, Pa., Mrs. Cornelia Griswold and Mrs. Sophronia Gould of Rochester.

KODAK OFFICE GRIEVES

AT FAVORITE'S DEATH

Post — 9/4/1914
Miss Edna Eleanor Sours, Secretary of Education Department, Succumbs to Typhoid Fever.

Grief that is very real and very deep pervades the Eastman Kodak Co.'s offices to-day because Edna Eleanor Sours, for eleven years the most popular woman employee of the vast establishment, is dead. Miss Sours succumbed, after five weeks' illness, to typhoid fever and meningitis at her home, Main street and Plymouth avenue, last night. She was twenty-nine years old and friends recalled to-day that it was just twenty-nine years ago yesterday that her father died.

The young woman, who was a sister of Fred Sours of the firm of Ryan & Sours, entered the employ of the Eastman Kodak company eleven years ago, immediately after her graduation from the Rochester Business Institute. Her devotion to her duty and her kindly disposition soon became known throughout the entire Eastman plant. The friends she made among her employers and her fellow employees came to include almost every one in the offices and there was genuine pleasure on every side, when nine years ago she was promoted to the position of secretary to Charles Turpin, director of the company's educational department. Here her whole-hearted loyalty and her ability soon made her invaluable. Mr. Turpin said to-day that he considered Miss Sours almost indispensable to the organization.

When she was taken ill five weeks ago Miss Sours was not at first leave her desk, even upon the doctor's advice. But the typhoid which had attacked her became virulent and she was compelled to give up.

Daily during her illness the other employees of the company sent her flowers or fruits in token of their sympathy and officials took time from their desks to call and express the wish that she might return soon. But the typhoid attack was complicated by meningitis and for the past week Miss Sours had been delirious much of the time. The end came peacefully at the end of a long period of unconsciousness.

Miss Sours was a graduate of the Cathedral Grammar school in the class of 1901. There also she had many friends among the faculty and graduates who are shocked at the news of her death.

Funeral services will be held at the home Monday morning at 9 o'clock and at the Lady chapel of the Cathedral at 9.30 o'clock. Almost the entire office force of the Eastman educational department will attend in a body.

HENRY E. WORMS KILLS HIMSELF AT HOME ON CHILI AVENUE TO-DAY

Rather Than Face Charge of Being Financial Backer of a Criminal Operation Syndicate He Shoots Himself Through Heart.

Because he was afraid to appear in police court and answer the charge against him, Henry E. Worms, 65 years old, of 39 Chili avenue, alleged wealthy head of a syndicate which made a business of performing criminal operations, committed suicide in his beautifully furnished home by shooting himself through the heart this morning at 9 o'clock.

Although the muffled sound of the revolver was heard by friends in an adjoining room, who went to his assistance as quickly as possible, death occurred almost instantly. Coroner Thomas A. Killip was notified and began an investigation, assisted by Captain William H. Whaley and Acting Detective George Emer.

Left Letter for Friend.

That the deed was premeditated was evident from a letter which was addressed to Clarence Huber in which Worms said that he was going to kill himself, asked that his body be cremated, told what disposition to make of his body, and named the undertaking firm which he wished to take charge of his remains, and told of destroying several bank books.

His case was on the police court docket this morning—a charge of maintaining a public nuisance having been preferred against him—and this charge was marked held by Judge Gillette. The cases of Dr. W. E. Colegrove and Dr. E. M. Gardner, arrested with him on similar charges, were adjourned until September 17th, when they were called this morning.

Spoke of Killing Self.

"It takes a brave man to kill himself," said Worms only yesterday during a conversation with his housekeeper, Miss Emma J. Hodgkins. It was evident to his acquaintances that he was greatly depressed because of his arrest.

This morning preparations had been made for him to appear in police court and it was understood that there was to be no further adjournment of the case. Charles Whitman, of 482 Main street west, called at the house and said he would accompany him to police headquarters.

Was Playing Cards.

Charles K. Henion, of 6 Clifton street, who had been a friend of Worms for many years, called on him this morning and they played a number of games of cards together. It was not observed at this time that he was particularly depressed.

"Well, I must go and get ready," he finally said, and he left Mr. Whitman and Mr. Henion sitting in a front room upstairs, while he went to his room, which is only a short distance away. Miss Hodgkins was sweeping in there at the time.

"I wish to have these gentlemen come in this room for a moment," said Worms. "Would you mind sweeping one of the other rooms first?"

She acceded to his request and he entered his room and closed the door after him. Only a moment afterward she heard the sound of a revolver shot—not very loud because the door was closed at the time.

Heard Revolver Shot.

"Come quickly; something has happened!" she called and the visitors rushed to his room and opened the door. Worms was lying on his back on the floor beside the bed, while a pearl handled Colt's revolver was beside him. He was bleeding profusely from a wound in the heart.

Dr. William W. Percy was quickly summoned, but life was extinct before his arrival, and Coroner Killip and Captain Whaley were then notified. The revolver with which he killed himself was of the French type of pistol and was a model of 1875. The trigger had been pulled twice, but it missed fire the first time.

Besides this revolver three other revolvers were found in the room and a quantity of strychnine tablets. The letter which he wrote to Mr. Huber, who was a friend, was of considerable length. It related exclusively to his personal affairs, but said nothing of the cause which was responsible for his suicide.

Drank Some Whisky.

Worms had evidently been trying to steady his nerves this morning, for in his room the detectives found a tray on which was a bottle of whisky. He had eaten a portion of a peach, but it was said that he partook of only a light breakfast.

Sensational disclosures followed an investigation of the case of Worms, who is claimed to have installed Dr. Colegrove in an office which was maintained for a time at 208 Main street east, and Dr. Gardner in an office which was kept for a time at 174 Main street east.

Captain Whaley took charge of the investigation and secured evidence against the men. The two physicians were first placed under arrest, after which Detective Sergeant O'Brien and Acting Detectives Murphy and Emer went to Worms' house.

Made Disturbance.

He aroused the neighborhood with his cries when he was told that his callers were officers and that he was under arrest. He said he had a serious attack of heart failure and refused to leave his bed, but the detectives remained on watch at the house all of that night.

The following morning he was represented by an attorney and the case was adjourned and his bail was fixed at $1,000. This amount was furnished by him and he appeared in police court when his case was again called. It was observed at that time that he was very despondent.

Did Much Business.

It is claimed that an average of 150 criminal operations each month were performed in Rochester by men in the employ of Worms. The police learned that many of the patients were from other cities and towns, but the police have a list of names of many Rochester people who visited the offices for illegal purposes.

The business was conducted in a manner which would indicate that none had any fear of consequences, for letters were answered readily. This phase of the matter was under consideration by the postal authorities and there was a possibility of a federal charge being placed against Worms if he had lived.

A few days ago Worms asked a friend what he should do when he appeared in police court on this occasion. He was advised to enter a plea of guilty to the charge, and he was considering the advisability of accepting this advice.

Coroner Killip granted a certificate of death by suicide while temporarily insane.

SUICIDE IS A MAN OF NOTE

ROBERT HOPE JONES BUILT HIS ORGANS FOR WORLD.

AND ACHIEVED HIGH SUCCESS

Post, Ex. 9/14/1914
Had Honor, Comfortable Income and Active Business Position—Death Arranged with Inventive Skill.

Robert Hope-Jones, a famous English inventor and organ builder, committed suicide yesterday in a rooming house at 10 George street by inhaling illuminating gas. He was 73 years old and was one of the best known men in his work in the world. Mr. Hope-Jones lived at 700 Elmwood avenue, Buffalo, and came to this city several days ago to communicate with his lawyers in connection with certain patents which had been worrying him. He registered at the Hotel Seneca and when he last visited his lawyers on Friday afternoon, nothing strange was noticeable in his manner. On Saturday he rented the room at the George street address, and when he failed to make his appearance yesterday afternoon the landlady became suspicious, opening the door she discovered he was dead. True to his nature he had arranged his death in a scientific manner. Using two pieces of piping he tied them together at one end. Attaching the other end of one to the gas pipe, he placed the double ends in his mouth. He affixed the other free end to a gas jet and lighted it. In this manner the gas which passed through his system went out again and was consumed, allowing no odor to escape and attract the attention of other lodgers in the house. Coroner Henry Kleindienst granted a certificate of suicide while insane. A letter was found saying that he was having legal difficulties and that "something had burst" in his head. His widow was notified and later instructed his lawyers in this city to care for the body. Robert Hope-Jones in his younger days was greatly interested in electricity and by constant study and application rose to the position of chief electrician of the English Telephone companies. Upon the recommendation of the lord chief justice of England he was elected a member of the British Institute of Electrical engineers. Being an organist of no mean ability he was later made a member of the Royal College of Organists.

Having accumulated a comfortable income, Mr. Hope-Jones turned to his one great hobby, the building of organs and soon took his place in the musical world as maker of some of the best organs of the century. The organs in the cathedral at Worcester and St. John's church, Birkenhead, England, were among the first of his successes and later he installed instruments in India, Malta, France, Germany, Australia and New Zealand.

In America among the many instruments made by him are the ones at Ocean Grove auditorium, Philadelphia Baptist Temple, St. Paul's church, Buffalo, Pitt theater, Pittsburg, Statler hotel and the Paris theater, Denver, Col. The concert organ at the Winter garden was one of the latest efforts of the inventor in this city.

In 1903 he came to the United States and after three and a half years built a factory at Elmira. Later he built a large plant at North Tonawanda which was recently purchased by the Rudolph Wurlitzer company. Mr. Hope-Jones was retained in an inventive capacity and was actively connected with the firm at the time of his death. He is said to have accumulated a comfortable fortune and his friends are unable to give any reason for his act.

In connection with his work Mr. Hope-Jones had come in contact with most of the great musicians and had visited almost every country on the globe. In order to listen to certain effects which he wished to obtain on his instruments he attended many of the great music festivals abroad and was considered an authority on many phases of musical activity.

88 WAS FRIEND OF ALL STRANGERS

Sunday Herald
City Has Great Loss in Death of Mrs. Louise H. Watson.

WIDELY KNOWN AND LOVED

Y. W. C. A. Travelers' Aid Secretary
Helped Thousands in Stay at N. Y. C. Station.

Rochester has lost a friend. More than that, she has lost a helpmate, an untiring worker, a guardian of young and old. For the first time in seven years a familiar face was absent from the New York Central Railroad Station yesterday—a face sweetly motherly, yet intensely alert. And so widely known and beloved was that face that thousands of people mourned yesterday when it was learned that Mrs. Louise H. Watson, travelers' aid secretary for the Y. W. C. A., died on Friday night.

Few there are in Rochester or in nearby towns who have not seen Mrs. Watson in the New York Central Station, keeping a vigilant watch on arrivals from incoming trains and outgoing travelers. Her whole success can be traced to her wonderful intuitive faculty to seek out those in distress and to win their confidence by her big, warm heart and ready sympathy. "Mother Watson" was the well deserved title; even her associates and officers in the Y. W. C. A. called her by that name. Not only young girls profited by her help, but old women, men and boys, those who were sick or infirm; in fact, anyone in need was safe from harm when spied by Mother Watson's vigilant eyes. Foreigners especially, found in her a welcome friend. When she was unable to understand them, Mrs. Watson sent for an interpreter and thus guided them to the desired destination.

It is difficult to sketch the scope of Mrs. Watson's work, as she herself was uncommunicative about it. Naturally most of the stories which came to her ears were of a confidential nature and it is said that she was never known to tell any experience which could be traced to the person she had helped. Runaway girls, who had come to the city to meet some man, were among Mrs. Watson's charges, and it was almost an everyday affair for her to seek out some trembling girl, give her wise counsel and telegraph her parents that all was well. If Mrs. Watson had been a person to dilate about her work, doubtless innumerable cases would be known where she actually saved girls from falling into evil hands. As it is, one of the Y. W. C. A. secretaries recalled one instance, yesterday when Mrs. Watson interposed just in time to save an innocent stranger from being directed to a house of ill fame.

Was Widely Known.

One thing which was a great aid to Mrs. Watson in her work, was that she was known in all the organizations of the city, and was in close touch with such workers as the members of United Charities. She also was in constant touch with the National Travelers Aid, and her knowledge of workers in other cities aided her in directing travelers to reliable people. Infinite tact was one necessity in Mother Watson's work and when once she learned the difficulty in the way of the stranger, she either removed it herself, or saw the girl or woman safely to the person best able to help.

MRS. LOUISE WATSON.

There was nothing impersonal about Mrs. Watson. She took an individual interest in everyone she met, and she conducted many a girl to the Y. W. C. A., or even to her own home, when it was impossible to find safe lodgings. The following figures from Mrs. Watson's report of her labor for the year ending June 18, 1914, will give some idea of the extent of her duties: Young women and girls helped, 1,080; elderly and old women, 651; foreigners, women and girls, 317; mothers, 210; blind, 33; sick, 99; men and boys, 70; send from station, 92; children, 107; deaf and dumb, 17; total, 2,676.

Mrs. Watson's death came so suddenly that Y. W. C. A. officers were completely broken up over their loss yesterday. General Secretary Miss Nellie Henry paid her a sincere tribute and said in conclusion:

Tribute from Associate.

"There was nothing official about our Mother Watson. The spirit of Christian love inspired her in her work. She had no stereotyped method—it was just the personality of the woman which endeared her to everyone."

Many of Mrs. Watson's friends were anxious to have a photograph of her, but she firmly refused to "pose," and so it was impossible to obtain a picture of her at the association building yesterday. In respect to her wishes, no picture was given out from her home. The board of directors and the secretarial staff of the Y. W. C. A. will attend in a body at the funeral services this morning at 9.30 o'clock in First Baptist Church. Rev. Dr. John W. A. Stewart of the Rochester Baptist Theological Seminary will officiate. Burial will be made in Garden.

J. HERBERT FOSTER

Death of Rochester Man Who Founded Town in Illinois.

Times 9/21/1914
J. Herbert Foster, who was born and lived for many years in Rochester, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Frank G. Brogan, at Albion, Ia., Friday evening, September 11. Mr. Foster was born in Rochester, May 15, 1840. He spent the first 17 years of his life in this city. He was educated in Public School 6, and was graduated from the High School. He then went to Springfield, Ill., where he spent three years in college, graduating in the class with Robert Lincoln, son of Abraham Lincoln, in 1860.

He then went to Drury township, Illinois, where he built a log cabin in which he lived while planning and directing the work of clearing land on a farm of several hundred acres, preparatory to farming and building stables and a house in which to live.

In October, 1861, Mr. Foster returned to this city, where he married Miss Louise Wimble, a classmate and lifelong acquaintance. She was a sister of Mrs. J. W. McKelvey and Mrs. Anna E. Clements, of this city.

He, with his bride, went to their new home in Drury and for 10 years or more his entire attention was devoted to farming and stock raising. His efforts were not without results, as he succeeded in making it one of the best farms in the state. He moved to Muscatine, Ia., where his children could enjoy the advantages of better schools. In the meantime he conducted a grocery store, returning to the farm after five years.

Here he again set up a business and built up an extensive country trade. He also succeeded in establishing a postoffice and it was named Foster in his honor. He was its first and only postmaster. Throughout his entire life he was known as an energetic citizen, successful in his own private business, but never forgetting the bond of common interest which should unite the people of every community. To Mr. Foster is due the credit for a great many improvements which have been made in Drury township. He was a very prominent politician, having held several offices in the county, serving as postmaster several terms, supervisor, trustee and school director. Mrs. Foster, who preceded her husband in death 10 years ago, was the first woman ever elected treasurer of a school board in Illinois, which position she held to the time of her death, 25 years.

Mr. Foster's funeral was conducted from the family residence at Foster, Monday afternoon, September 14. The Baptist minister of Foster officiated, assisted by the choir of that church. Friends came to pay their last tribute of respect from Muscatine, Ia.; Rock Island, Buffalo Prairie, and Illinois City, Ill., and the surrounding country, many driving 25 and 30 miles in a fearful rain-storm. It is said that every family in the surrounding country was represented.

It was one of the largest funerals in Drury since his wife's demise 10 years ago, when more than 100 conveyances followed her to her last resting place, the family lot at Foster cemetery.

The Masonic Lodge, with which Mr. Foster was affiliated, was in charge at the grave. The pall bearers were members of his lodge, the honorary bearers being old-time friends, most of whom were boys when Mr. Foster settled in Drury 54 years ago.

The floral tributes were many and beautiful. He will be greatly missed, not only by the members of his family, but by the community at large, as his counsel and advice was sought in all matters of interest and importance.

An obituary was written by an old friend and associate, which was read during the services, paying a well-earned tribute to Mr. Foster's memory.

Naturally possessed of a retentive memory, he was able, when he finished his last term of enlistment, to converse in seven allied Slavic languages. Not long after leaving the army he came to Rochester and made his home here.

Because of his ability as a linguist he was frequently called to act as interpreter court cases, and he was finally made police court interpreter, and was frequently called upon to appear in other courts.

He was in failing health when he retired from service as a police court interpreter last May. Mr. Blum was possessed of a jovial disposition and made many friends among those with whom he was associated.

Besides his wife he leaves five daughters, the Misses Mildred and Rose Blum, Mrs. Annie Palmer, Mrs. Milton Cohen, of Canton, Ohio, and Mrs. Schlusserburg; five sons, Abraham, Ralph, Barney, Joseph and William Blum.

SUFFOCATED IN BURNING HOUSE Myron H. Colby, of Medina, Overcome When Home Catches Fire.

Medina, Sept. 21.—Yesterday morning fire broke out in the premises of Joseph Livingston, in the rear of his residence, 105 North Avenue, this village, consisting of a frame single story house, resulting in the death of Myron H. Colby, one of Medina's best-known citizens, who presumably was suffocated by the smoke and fire before the firemen succeeded in getting him out of the house. Drs. Maynard and Whiting worked over the unfortunate man in vain.

The origin of the fire is supposed to have been in Mr. Colby's library which was the next room south of his sleeping room, as the most damage was done in that section of the house. It is thought by some that mice may have started the fire by gnawing at matches thereby setting fire to many papers which were on the desk and in the shelves. Others think a lighted cigar may have done the mischief.

The theory of foul play has little on which to be founded, but it was considered remarkable that the key to the rear door was found on the outside, with the door locked.

The building is damaged to an estimate of $800, with $500 insurance. Personal belongings to Mr. Colby are estimated to have been lost or damaged to the extent of $300.

Mr. Colby was an Assessor of the Town of Shelby at the time of his death, and was prominent in Grand Army circles, and a member of Hood's Post, G. A. R. He served for 34 months in the Civil War, seeing hard service with General Slocum's army of the Potomac, and with General Sherman, and in Tennessee. He was a member of the local branch of the Odd Fellows. He formerly conducted a coal business here. He was 77 years old, and is survived by one daughter, Mrs. William Boyd, of Medina, and a brother living in Pennsylvania.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon under the auspices of Hood's Post, G. A. R., of Medina.

ARTIST STARVES IN DOWNTOWN BOARDING HOUSE

Body Found, Covered With
Vermin, in Front Street
Hotel.

UNFINISHED LETTER

Coroner and Health Board

Start Investigation of

Times Case 9/24/1914

In a back room of a cheap Front Street boarding house, Henry Sorg, 55 years old, a Russian painter of wide reputation, who disappeared suddenly from the artist world several years ago, died of starvation last night. The life, spent in the pursuit of artistic production and sacrificed for the high ideals that necessitated the foregoing of material comforts, passed away in such filth, squalor and deprivation as have led the Board of Health to conduct an investigation. The condition of the body, which was removed to the Morgue this morning, was the worst that has ever come to the notice of Coroner Henry Kleindienst, according to the Coroner's own statement.

On a table placed at the side of the artist's bed was the following letter, appealing for relief from starvation, addressed to a sister in California: "Dear Sister Lizzy:

"I received your very welcome letter and also the money order and was indeed very glad. I paid out some of the money for meals that I got on trust, so I am almost starving again. Please Lizzy, for God's sake, don't put it off but help me right away. Lizzy, you can't imagine what I am suffering. I haven't even got—"

Here the letter breaks off. It was the last word apparently that the artist ever wrote.

A rigid investigation will be conducted both by Coroner Kleindienst and by Health Officer Goler to find out how a man was permitted to starve to death almost in the heart of the down-town district, and why such filthy conditions that were found in the boarding house at 183 Front Street were permitted to exist.

Sorg has two brothers in Rochester and two sisters in California. These relatives have not yet been located, but a strenuous effort will be made to do so at once. An effort will also be made to find out who paid Sorg's rent while he was in such a weakened condition that he could not leave his room, whether or not he was brought food at any time, and why the case was not reported to the authorities by the proprietor of the rooming house.

Coroner Kleindienst started his investigation this morning, but learned little. He issued a certificate of death from starvation and pediculosis, which means "infested with vermin." The condition of the man's body and of his clothing was such as can not be described. He was literally covered with vermin.

To piece together the career of the artist since his pictures suddenly ceased to appear in the exhibitions will be another object of the investigation; as well as to learn upon what work the man was engaged when overtaken by the weakness of starvation.

REV. H. F. ELLINWOOD

Former Pastor of First Presbyterian Church at Victor Dies at His Home in Hamlet, North Carolina.

By Special Dispatch to The Herald.

Victor, Sept. 28.—The receipt of a telegram this morning telling of the death of Rev. Henry Field Ellinwood of Hamlet, North Carolina, has caused deep grief among his many friends in this community. Mr. Ellinwood was 45 years of age. Victor was his first charge and his ordination took place at First Presbyterian Church in this village, where he was the pastor for four years and a half. From here he went to Medina, N. Y., where he remained ten years. While there his health failed him and he was obliged to give up his pastorate, going to Hamlet, North Carolina, for his health. Although far from well, he had been preaching there for the past year and a half. His death comes as more of a shock because three weeks ago he was in Victor calling on friends and seemed improved in health, but upon his return he developed a case of malaria and being a man of strong will power he went into his pulpit Sunday, September 20, which was more than he could stand, and it brought on a relapse, aggravated by organic heart trouble. His death resulted at noon on Sunday, September 27.

He was married to Helen Hovey of Newburyport, Mass., in 1891, while both were teachers in the South. Rev. Mr. Ellinwood's father passed on several years ago, but he leaves a mother, who resides with her daughter, Mrs. J. Hamilton of Medina, N. Y. Besides this sister there are three brothers, George of Augusta, Me.; Albert of Ravenna, N. Y., and Emory of Warsaw, N. Y. The funeral services will take place at Newburyport, Mass.

SPENT LIFE IN CANANDAIGUA.

Post-Ex Oct 7 1914
Dr. M. E. Carson Long Active Member of County Medical Society.

Canandaigua, Oct. 7.—At the quarterly meeting of the Ontario Medical Society, held at Canandaigua October 11, 1909, was celebrated the fiftieth year of membership in the society of Dr. Mathew Rippey Carson, of Canandaigua, whose death was announced yesterday in The Post Express.

Dr. Carson was born at Stanley, N. Y., May 23, 1836, where his father owned a farm, a saw mill and grist mill. Besides his work on the farm the doctor very soon became familiar with the operation of the mill and often took charge of it alone. He was educated at the local district school and at 15 was admitted to the Canandaigua Academy, where he studied for two years. Soon after this the doctor's father moved to a farm near Geneva, on the Geneva-Stanley road, and the son began the study of medicine in the office of Dr. Beatty, who was at that time Geneva's most prominent physician. At the same time Dr. Carson took a course of lectures on anatomy at the Geneva Medical college, where he also did considerable dissection. He also pursued the study of Latin and Greek at a private school conducted by Dr. Taylor.

In 1855 Dr. Carson entered the Albany Medical college, from which he was graduated after taking three "courses" of three or four months each, in May, 1857, being the youngest member of the class. At this time only two courses were required by the state. His preceptor was Dr. Alden March, who was then the most prominent surgeon in the state.

Immediately following graduation Dr. Carson was placed in charge of the Albany City hospital as house physician and surgeon, which position he held for one year. In 1858 the doctor accepted a partnership with Dr. Cheney, of Canandaigua, who lived in the house now occupied by Dr. Lot D. Sutherland, where he lived with Dr. Cheney for about one year, when he was married to Miss Elizabeth Johnston Ostrom and began housekeeping in the north side of the house which is now 113 Main street north. After seven years Dr. Carson built the house where he died, at 121 Main street north.

At one time some years ago Dr. Carson devoted considerable time to the study and practice of the Weir Mitchell Rest Cure, in the application of which he met with considerable success and treated patients from various parts of the country.

For eighteen years he gave special attention to the treatment of acute and chronic alcoholism and in this also he met with an unusual degree of success.

Dr. Carson gave his entire energy to the ethical practice of his profession and devotion to his family, having avoided in every way anything which would make his name conspicuous either politically or in any business relation.
