Hospital Notes.

Twenty-four operations were done in August.

The number of out-patients was 136, who made 235 visits to the Hospital, and received 173 prescriptions.

Acknowledgments.

The Hospital has been most generously remembered during the summer by many friends, who have sent flowers, fruits, etc. Mr. S. A. Hosmer, of Clifton, N. Y., has sent great quantities of apples, green corn, and other vegetables, which have been greatly enjoyed, and for which we are very thankful.

Class 21 of the Fairport Congregational Church S. S.—Miss Parsons teacher—visited the Hospital Aug. 16, bringing flowers and presents for the children. The Flower Mission always do a most beautiful work. They have brought flowers regularly each week. Flowers brighten up a sick room and are most cheering and acceptable to the patients. We extend hearty thanks to all who have so kindly remembered us during this summer.

Wants.

Fruit of all kinds for canning would be very acceptable.

We are much in need of vases for flowers. We have many beautiful flowers sent us, but have not enough things to put them in. Will not some of our friends spare us a few from their overplus at home?

Twigs, Attention!

The Managers will be very happy to see all the members of the various Twigs and Grafts on Friday afternoon, the 27th of September, from three to five o'clock, at the Hospital.

The new rooms on the ground floor (20 in all) will be ready for occupancy by Thursday of this week. They are very attractive, and as the price is moderate we expect to have them generally filled.

Meeting of the Pathological Society.

The first meeting of the Rochester Pathological Society of the present season, was held at the City Hospital on the evening of Sept. 12th. About fifty members were present. An interesting and valuable paper on a surgical subject was read by Dr. W. B. Jones, after which supper was served. The twelve tables and the supply table were attractive with flowers furnished by the managers and by Mr. Keller of Mt. Hope avenue. In noticing this event the Democrat and Chronicle said :

At the same time the new rooms just opened in the west wing of the building were thrown open for inspection by the members of the society. All expressed themselves as much pleased with the excellent equipment of the additional apartments. On the ground floor and the second story the rooms have been rebuilt. The ground floor is fitted up with twenty new rooms. These are of medium price and will make a much needed addition to the space room in the hospital. They are for occupancy by patients who have their own private physicians, and those using them will be entirely removed from the other occupants of the building. Each of the rooms is commodious, is heated by a radiator and ventilator combined, and they present a very attractive appearance.

On the second floor two large wards have been fitted up, and these will accommodate twenty patients. These wards are well lighted, and are finished off in such a manner that everything about looks cheerful and bright. The beds are large and roomy ones of iron and brass. These are for medical and surgical cases of women, and have been especially fitted up to that end.

On the second story there is a piazza opening from the new rooms, and from this a fine view of the grounds and surrounding property may be obtained. In the center of the rooms on the ground floor is a neat alcove, furnished with a very tasty suite of furniture. In this connection it may be said that all the furniture used in the new part of the west wing is new, and of the best quality.

The occasion was greatly enjoyed by the physicians present and by those of the directors who came in towards the end of the evening. The hospital is glad to have so many private rooms that are at the same time moderate in price and elegant in appearance.

The managers desire to thank Mr. Keller of Mt. Hope avenue for his very generous gift of flowers last Thursday, at the meeting of the Pathological Society. The flowers were most beautiful, and added very much to the attractiveness of the tables and the rooms. Mr. Keller's kindness was most warmly appreciated and we beg that he will accept our very sincere and heartfelt thanks.

DEAR CHILDREN: You have, many of you, been away, to the sea shore, or in the country somewhere, and you have played so much out of doors that you have probably forgotten all about your playthings at home. Now the rainy cold days are coming, and you will begin to get out your playthings and toys, and we feel sure that you will find among them a good many that you can spare just as well as not. Up here in the Hospital are little children who, instead of seashore or lake or green fields to play in, have had to lie most all of the summer in their little beds, and toys that you would not care very much about would be a great treat to them, and would make them, perhaps, forget for a little while their pain and discomfort. Won't you all look over your playthings, and try to spare some of them for the little boys and girls here?

Your friend, Q.

A Woman's Wonderful Escape.

A report from Königsberg on the Pregel has a remarkable narrative of the escape of a fish-wife, who went out in a little boat on the Haff in order to take some provisions to her husband and his companions, who were fishing. A breeze sprang up, and the little boat capsized. The woman swam after it and clung to its keel. Night came on, and a numbness settled upon her limbs so that her grip was uncertain. At noon the next day the wind drifted the boat in towards land, and here she was seen by her husband, who soon got alongside, took her in his powerful arms, and pulled to shore. It was not long before the poor frau recovered strength, and, falling upon her knees, she offered up thanks to heaven for her safe delivery, after two days and a night, from her dreadful position.—[London Daily News.]

The Annual Meeting.

The thirty-second annual meeting of the Board of Managers of the City Hospital was held Monday afternoon, October 28th, in the chapel. The outside attendance was small in consequence of an error in the announcement of the time set for the meeting. After the opening prayer by Rev. Nelson Millard, the following reports were read, great satisfaction being felt over the results of the year's work by those who had borne the heat of battle in the cause of the sick and miserable :

Thirty-Second Annual Report OF THE ROCHESTER CITY HOSPITAL.

OCT. 1ST, 1894, TO OCT. 1ST, 1895.

MANAGERS:—

We greet each other to-day, to receive the report for the year ending October 1, 1895, in the same old Rochester City Hospital, full as it is of both the sad and the happy memories of thirty-two years of struggle for existence. But it is with such new and improved surroundings that we scarcely recognize the place or feel at home.

During the past six months great changes have been wrought in the inward appearance of the institution,—changes that for a long time have been wished for, but until the trustees had the actual money in their possession to carry these out, they were wisely unwilling to contemplate them. Our friends who remember the four large wards, two in either wing of the building, can realize that there was too much space in them for mere ward needs, while the hospital obviously lacked moderate-priced private rooms. The change of one into the other has been the cause of the alteration and improvement managed and arranged for by a committee of the trustees, who gave much time and thought to the details of the work. Mr. J. Foster Warner's plans showed his skill in hospital construction, and they have proved in every way satisfactory. To him we tender publicly our gratitude and thanks for his untiring services, so cheerfully and generously rendered. On the ground floor the large wards have been divided, giving on the men's side of the house five rooms, and on the women's side fifteen, all bright and pleasant and of good proportion, warmed and ventilated in as perfect a manner as new methods can devise. Each department has its own small kitchen, with steam table, also fine bath rooms and toilet arrangements. The rooms are simply but attractively furnished, and this matter was taken care of by friends, so that the hospital's resources were not taxed.

The members of the Parent Stem took charge of one of these rooms, the Hemlock Twig of one, the First and Second Twigs of one each, and Mr. Samuel Wilder of one. The remainder have been furnished by a friend, who has given besides money, endless time and thought to this change. In these rooms physicians can place patients who prefer not to go into a general ward, and yet do not feel like paying the prices asked for the larger rooms in the mansards. Here, also, as in the mansards, any physician can take his patients and have them under his exclusive care. That many of these new rooms have been in constant demand proves the need that exists for such apartments. We trust that for long time to come it will not be advisable again to reconstruct the old building, although it is well to keep pace with the advance of medical science, that the danger to life may be all the time lessened, and that the duration of a patient's stay may be reduced as much as possible. There has been a marked change in this respect during the past few years, the average time now being eighteen days, against the fifty days of past years. While we hope not to disturb the quiet of hospital life with more commotion in the way of improvement, except as it is necessary to preserve the property, we have dreams for work that can be done on our spacious grounds, though not to the building itself.

It is hard ever to refuse a case that is infectious, and it seems cruel to turn one away, but the two very small pavilions, one for diphtheria and the other for scarlet fever, are often so full that an extra applicant cannot be received for lack of adequate accommodation. If the other hospitals are in the same condition at the same time, as they frequently are, there seems to be no spot in the city for the unfortunate sufferer. The pressure for the admission of this class of diseases makes it necessary that something should be done for them on a larger scale than already exists. A building, thoroughly constructed, fire-proof, and of material suitable for the treatment of infectious diseases where the walls, floors and furnishings should be such as science teaches us are the best for the preservation of life, is needed in this rapidly growing city, and we wish that it were in our power to give more help to patients suffering in that way.

Our other dream is the vision of a home for the nurses. Those who recall the reign of the old-time nurse can look with wonder at the invaluable service that is rendered by the gentle, refined woman who now presides over the sick-room, and the success which crowns the year's work in the hospital is largely due to the intelligent training of the present day. Their work in restoring health and alleviating suffering never stops, and no statistics of operations performed or illnesses cured can represent what they do. Our nurses, when off duty, are crowded into the dome of the building, and that they may be the better able to witness physical suffering, and be courageous as well as sympathetic, they need, and should have, when at leisure, the perfect freedom that a detached building would afford. Is there not someone ready to build a memorial of this sort, for it need not be a costly building? Then these women can have their own home, where, by judicious recreation, they may retain the health of body and mind requisite for admission to the school. During the past year thirteen of the forty-one applicants to become pupils in the training school were accepted, making thirty-five nurses in the institution at the present time. Seven young women were graduated last March, the commencement exercises being held in the First Presbyterian Church. A word of acknowledgment will not be out of place here in reference to the kindness and courtesy extended by the trustees of that church, who have given the use of their building for these exercises for many years past.

The Managers congratulate themselves upon having secured as Superintendent of Nurses, Miss Esther Dart, whose experience in the Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston for five years makes her especially qualified to be at the head of a school for nurses. In the year's interval after Miss Gamwell resigned, in July, 1894, it is rather a matter of pride with the Hospital Board to know that the training school was ably conducted by three of its own graduate nurses; first, by Miss McGachen, who left to accept a position in a smaller institution; then by Miss Frink, who for six years served the hospital in various capacities; and, lastly, by Miss Cartwright, of the class of '93. All gave valuable and faithful assistance.

The other members of the hospital's family, with the exception of the resident physicians, whose short terms of service make frequent changes, remain the same. Mr. Nelson, as resident House Superintendent, and Mrs. Stevens as Matron, guard the interests of the institution with fidelity.

While the change in the wards was in progress, it was thought best to renovate nearly all of the private rooms in the mansards, that they might be easier to keep in a sanitary condition, by replacing wooden bedsteads with brass, and substituting hardwood floors for woolen carpets. The work in most cases has been done by the societies or individuals having the rooms in charge. The Dunlap, St. Paul's Church, the Atkinson, the Berith Kodesh, the Strong Room, St. Luke's, the Brick Church, the First Presbyterian Church, the Plymouth Church, the Bullard, and the three rooms known as the "Hospital's Own," have all received their share of renovation.

During the past year the Surgical Pavilion, which was built five years ago by Dr. Whitbeck, as a memorial to his gifted father, and which is said to have few superiors in this country, has undergone a complete restoration, and is now practically new and in perfect condition for the work for which it was designed. The general wards never looked more inviting than at present. The iron beds have all been painted white, mattresses freshly made over, and a general air of scrupulous neatness reigns.

After a year of waiting on the part of the hospital directors, the Poor Committee of the City and County have accepted the terms offered to them, for the care of patients sent to the institution by the Overseer of the Poor and the County Superintendent. The doors of the City Hospital have been, and always are, ready to open for every case of emergency, and it is the wish to do all the charity work possible that is strictly for charity, but the city and county patients are not regarded as such, and instead of asking private individuals each year to give large sums, that the hospital may exist, it has only seemed right that its support should be more justly apportioned. Now we are glad to realize that, as hard as it was to stand for a principle, it was best to do so, and our sister institutions, as well as ourselves, will reap the benefit of the increased rates.

The wish to increase the charitable side of the hospital's work is never ceasing, and it will be increased as rapidly as the financial condition sanctions. During the past year 6,540 days of care and treatment were given to patients strictly as charity, against the 10,812 days that were wholly or partly paid for. These figures are exclusive of city or county charges. In addition to this charitable work, the Free Out-Patient Department in the Magne-Jewell Memorial Building continued its eight departments of usefulness for the benefit of the sick poor of the city, and each week day found its rooms well filled with applicants. Many hundred patients were received there during the year, each patient averaging three visits, with prescriptions compounded for them.

The District Nurse has responded to 1,075 calls, and is ready day or night to be summoned where distress may need her helping hand. She takes with her to the destitute homes, besides her case of medical and surgical appliances, human kindness and cheer, which makes the black-cloaked visitor a blessing in many ways. The experience to the nurse is invaluable, for there are no resources at hand to draw upon, and she has to contrive as best she may to make her patient and the home more comfortable.

The directory for nurses continues at the hospital, and it has supplied them to the number of 230 during the year, while twelve new names have been added to its list.

A new member has come into the Board of Managers since our last annual meeting, Mrs. R. H. Hofheinz, whom we gladly welcomed.

The hospital has sustained a great loss in the death of Mr. William S. Kimball, for the last year of his life President of the Board of Directors. While his sudden death caused a general feeling of sorrow throughout the community, it came with peculiar force to the Managers of the hospital, for he always gave largely to the institution and assisted it in countless ways by his advice and his example.

We are pleased to acknowledge additions to the Endowment Fund to the amount of $4,793.05, from the estates of the late Schuyler Watson, Eliza B. Strong, Mary B. Pratt, John Snow and Edward Earnstein.

Nearly twenty years ago the Flower Mission was organized at St. Luke's Church, and the weekly visits of the members with their bouquets and plants have never ceased. They have our gratitude as of old.

Eight years ago the Parent Stem had its first meeting, and now it has for off-shoots, eleven twigs, grafts, chips and splinters as a result. In the past year the Morning Twig and the little Splinters have taken form. We are glad to add them to our list and were happy to welcome them, with the members of all the Twigs, at the hospital on the afternoon of September 27th, that they might see their opportunities for usefulness, and that we might express to them how entirely indispensable their valuable services have become to us. We beg them to begin their new year with courage and enthusiasm, for we have become very dependent upon the aid that comes with such regularity and in such acceptable forms as the result of their industry.

The Needlework Guild of Canandaigua, King's Daughters of Geneseo, a society called "Little Pilgrims" in Dansville, and very many friends from far and near have sent articles to the hospital, both for use and for luxury, and all have aided in giving comfort to the inmates. We heartily express our appreciation of these kindnesses, and we are pleased to learn that our circle of friends is so far-reaching.

The 350 bushels of potatoes gathered in December by the pupils of the Rochester Public Schools carried the hospital's family through the winter, and in that way the children have supported for another year their free bed in the pavilion called "The Scholar's Bed."

One of the grades in School No. 4 visited the building early in the school year, and we should be glad to welcome any of the classes from any of the schools, that they may see where one of their number may find a comfortable resting-place and receive tender care in case of illness.

Mr. Bowden, with his brother, of the Theological Seminary, and Miss Jeannette Huntington, made the hospital's Sunday a pleasant break in the week's monotony. We are indebted to the Mandolin Orchestra for a delightful Christmas concert, which was thoroughly enjoyed by all the members of the household, and as well to Mr. Henry W. Stone, with a party of ladies and gentlemen, who gave the patients a very agreeable musical evening.

As in former years, the daily newspapers of the city have kindly lent us the use of their columns on all occasions, and have given us their valuable assistance in many ways whenever we have called upon them.

To Miss Rumsey, who has for many years been the business manager of the Hospital Review, and who has conducted the finances of the little paper with faithful care and deserved success, we are glad to express a cordial appreciation of her kindness.

We are indeed grateful to all of our helpers, and we wish that it were within our power better to express to them fully the feelings of our hearts. Donations mean hard work, and the giving of much time and strength, but for a few years, and we hope they may be very few,—until we can become self-supporting, we must ask our friends to work with us in that way. We must also continue our appeals for financial aid from those who have given to us generously, and we ask for their co-operation with us in raising up new friends and workers for the benefit of Rochester's oldest hospital.

For the Board,

S. R. HOYT,
Corresponding Secretary.

Annual Donation.

The regular old-time donation, when everybody comes to dinner and hospital affairs have their annual boom, will be held this year early in December, Thursday, December 5th, and Friday, the 6th. It is hoped to raise so large an amount this year that the small debt now owed by the hospital may be wiped out and never incurred again. Will our friends remember our fancy tables and give something of their handiwork? Of course the diners bring in a goodly sum of money. Won't you invite a friend you wish to honor to dine with you at the donation? Spread the news and come out and "help make a crowd and show your interest."

This year the Hospital has called upon her twelve children, the Parent Stem and all the Twigs, Grafts, Chips and Splinters to help her gather in a goodly harvest of interest and money. The hearty response has amazed the managers, and caused them to feel a great satisfaction in the prospect for the coming Donation. To illustrate the spirit exhibited by the Twigs: One of the managers was called down stairs to meet some young girls—three bright creatures with dancing eyes and rosy cheeks, who announced, "We are the Splinters! and we would like to have a table at the Donation all by ourselves; can we? You know last year we had only four or five members, and this year we have nine, and we'd like a table even if it is only a corner. We have dressed nine dolls, and have made other things, and we are sure we can make lots of money. Now, can't we have a table?" If anyone thinks those Splinters won't have a table, and plenty of things on it, and plenty of people ready to buy and help on their joyous exuberance of interest, why, they simply are not human!

The Tables.

The Booths are to represent the six working days of the week, each of the following Twigs taking charge of one day. Monday is to be represented by the Morning Twig, and it is not difficult to guess that there will be something very cleansing about it. The Columbian Twig suggests all that pertains to Tuesday in all well regulated households.

Wednesday is to be given over to the Candy Trade, the Hemlock Twig serving as clerks.

Of course the Parent Stem "receive" on Thursday. It is the social booth, and all are supposed to pay their respects to the Mother of all the Twigs.

The Second Twig will show you all the allurements dear to the Friday shopper. Bargains will appeal to every shopping soul.

The Saturday booth, under the First Twig, will be inviting with its array of pies, bread, biscuit, cake, pickles, etc.

The Splinters and the Chips will each have a table, and together will have a great surprise in store for everyone.

The Fourth Twig are to have a room devoted exclusively to the sale of all kinds of picture frames.

Ice cream and cake will be served by the First Graft.

The evening entertainment under the charge of the Second Graft, Properly Bent Twig and First Graft, will be one of the most attractive features of the Donation. The best of music will be provided, and the evening opened by a performance, the nature of which is to be kept a secret, but the initiated tell us that it is something not to be missed. A small fee, 25 cents, is to be charged in the evening, enabling the visitor to dance and to witness all the delightful things offered by the Parent Stem and its offshoots.

Attention, Chairmen!

The editor of the REVIEW requests the women who make out the lists of articles given for the various refreshment tables to lessen her work in publishing the lists by observing the following suggestions:

1. Write only on one side of the paper.
2. After the name of each donor write all the articles she furnishes.
3. Send the lists to Miss Lattimore, 271 University avenue, not later than Monday December 9th.
4. Give name and address of chairman.

Hospital Notes.

The operations in the Pavilion during September numbered 33; during October, 28.

During the year ending September 30th there were treated in the Out-Patient Department 752 new patients, and 776 who were classed as old patients. These 1,528 persons made 2,763 visits to the hospital, receiving medicines and treatment (operative or other) as their condition required.

Members of the Junior Society Christian Endeavor of the Second Reformed Church paid a visit to the Hospital on Monday, November 4th. Their particular mission was to visit the Children's Pavilion and see wherein they could most benefit the little ones during the coming holiday season.

The Children.

The Pavilion, the other day, seemed like some bright, happy kindergarten, where each child was very busy about something of absorbing interest, instead of a place where sick little children were forced to stay for a time, away from the faces they were accustomed to see every day.

The first curious thing our visitor noted was a little colored boy lying in bed, waving to and fro ridiculously long arms, with bandaged hands. No end of pity was lavished upon this dusky child, until inquiry elicited the fact that instead of the imagined surgical treatment, with slowly healing wounds, those tiny hands were being taught to remember not to allay the irritation of the nose! Each finger was neatly bound with a strip of cloth, and the whole as carefully protected as if the trouble was one of the flesh instead of the will. It was a lesson in one kind of brain surgery.

The visitor found only one other boy in the same ward with the bandaged boy, and he was playing very happily with an old parlor croquet mallet. When asked if he was having a good game, he indignantly and scornfully replied: "It isn't a mallet! It's a hammer!" Crushed and humiliated at her failure in tact, the visitor hastened to the other room, where gurgles and giggles filled the air. They originated from small Marie, a dear little girl, with her hair tied with pink bows, and whose occupation consisted in caring for her "baby," said "baby" being a square of very limp cheese cloth. When asked what she did for her baby, she laughed outright and assured the questioner that she "panked" her darling. "Panking," with giggle accompaniment, doesn't seem so bad, after all. Marie in disciplining her child had been so active that her night dress had become unbuttoned, a fact instantly detected and remedied by Ida, who sees more from under her bandage than most people do without a swollen cheek and stiff neck. In ten short minutes she was seen to do three thoughtful services for others without an idea that she was observed. Lizzie and Lulu are also to be counted upon as "helpers." Two wee babies snoozed peacefully in their cribs. One was providentially unconscious that over the fate of his life hung great uncertainty. Only a week old, motherless and almost fatherless, as his father seems to have no use for his baby, he is to be given away. Fortunately there are childless homes where such unappropriated bits of humanity may be stored until the day of reckoning. There is another undesirable piece of property awaiting an exchange of parents. In this case it is the mother who seems not to value the charge given to her unworthy care. The child is now seven months old. His existence has been recognized twice by his mother since his arrival in the Hospital. Once she came in to see him, but withheld all the demonstrations of affection commonly supposed to be annexed to motherhood. Fortunately the child was too young to notice the omission. The second and last time the woman came she called at the office to inquire about a bill, and did not even ask to see her child. She was a well-dressed, quiet, refined looking monstrosity, too.

A Beautiful Memorial.

Miss Margaret Wright, of West avenue, has founded, in memory of her aunt, Miss Hunter, a charity known as the "Hunter Visitor," represented in the person of Mrs. T. F. McCarthy. It is the duty of the visitor to call at each of the hospitals weekly, bringing cut flowers which she makes into bouquets and presents to the sick.

The Hospital Donation.

All the friends of the Hospital are aware that the Managers never attempt anything and fail. This year's effort was no exception to the rule, and the figures printed upon another page will tell the story better than any written words. The phase of the particular feeling of gratification felt this year lies in the fact that the working force of friends interested in the work of the institution is so well organized and so ready to put its shoulder to the wheel, that the machinery of the enterprise seemed to work itself. The plan of putting the various booths and departments in charge of the Twigs worked capitally. Then the Kitchen end is so systematized by Mrs. Landsberg, Mrs. H. L. Smith and Mrs. L. S. Chapin and their assistants that the west end of the room, instead of being the scene of wild disorder possible under such circumstances, was called throughout the Donation, "The Peaceful Valley."

As one entered Fitzhugh Hall on December fifth and sixth, he was struck with the likeness to a bazaar. The Japanese decorations of the Hall, with the countless hanging lanterns and lazily-swinging paper umbrellas, gave an Eastern air to the huge room. The animation of the scenes on the floor and under the galleries was anything but oriental. Here was western push and business. Late in the afternoon of Friday appeared outside the Monday Booth these magic words, "Blue Ticket Sale." The bargain lovers—there were some at the Donation—scanned the tickets. "Reduced," "Marked Down," "Goods to be sold regardless of cost," were the keys that unlocked many hitherto unopened pocket books. One woman went away so happy with her "job lot of soap—fifty cents!" The booths, representing the days of the week were easily identified by reason of the unusually striking and artistic signs painted by Miss Helen Hastings, that challenged attention for their own sake.

Monday's sign was, of course, the traditional clothes-line, the articles dangling there-from forming the letters of the word. Blue was the predominant color here in decoration. Bluing, soap, starch, clothes lines, etc., etc., formed the stock in trade. Tuesday was, naturally, ironing day, and there were iron holders, clothes horses, and articles without number suited to the need of the day. Wednesday, the candy day, dispensed sweets under its sign of children reaching over a fence for sticks of candy which spelled out the name of the booth. At the Thursday booth one had an opportunity of sitting down and sipping her Orange Pekoe at leisure. Friday, by the sign, was "Bag Day," and there were bags enough in variety for the most capricious shopper. Saturday offered her harvest of pies, cakes, preserves, etc. Welsh Rarebit also was served to customers.

At the East end of the building was the check room, and near it the room devoted to the exhibition of Mlle. Von Broeck's paintings. Ten cents admission was charged for viewing the fine works so kindly loaned for the benefit of the Hospital.

Mlle. Von Broeck, a pupil of Rosa Bonheur, is a Belgian artist of distinction, and her presence with her sixty canvases added a decided element of refinement and interest to the Donation.

Near the front of the Hall was a table devoted exclusively to the sale of frames under the charge of the Fourth Twig.

A tall, yellow arrangement with a funnel at the top proved to be the can for the Birthday Bags. Small, very small, bags of yellow cloth had been sent out very generally through the city accompanied by the following verses:

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

For this year's Donation, we have a new plan,
For all love the Hospital, woman and man.
And, surely you'll help us; to give's good for all,
So Thursday and Friday come give us a call.

We want to group birthdays, and little bags send
To those of all ages, regarded as friends,
And they're to put in just one cent for each year,
If that seem too little, then dimes will give cheer.

And no one will know, how old you may be,
A box takes the bags, and there's no name to see.
So each bring the bag and thus fill up the box,
With thanks for each birthday, and good-doing
"rocks."

Oh! little indeed is a coin for a year,
Yet love will cheat age, by their giving with cheer.

In one bag was found this significant message:
"I might be older if it were not for the stringency in the money market." As it was, over fourteen thousand years bumped against the bottom of that can.

The Treasurer's table and that for subscriptions to the Review had many happy sensations. The heart of the Treasurer was made glad a number of times at the unexpected size of the checks handed in.

The dining tables! What can be said that is not already known to every one? The roominess of the place, the order in the kitchen, the location of the supply tables, all contributed to the convenience in serving the dinners and suppers. The oysters were hot, the coffee delicious, and everything of the best quality. People like to come to the dinners and have begged to have them resumed when other plans for raising money have been tried.

The Dances.

Red tickets hung conspicuously on the visitors at Fitzhugh Hall on the evening of the Donation, indicated that the wearer had paid twenty-five cents for the privilege of seeing the dances given by the young people under the direction of Miss Clara Wilder, and of participating themselves later in the evening in the general dancing to the music furnished by Schaick's orchestra. Soon after eight the opening chords sounded, and in came, by two's, the so-called "Nurses and Doctors," dressed in the prescribed style adopted by those officers in a Hospital. After a dignified processional, places were taken by the dancers, and so much like professionals did the youthful doctors and nurses look, that one woman was heard to say: "Well, it seems to me that nurses and doctors have something better to do than dancing down here evenings!"

The powder and patches made very becoming additions to the young people who came next on the program. After the march around the hall, the square dance was very gracefully and prettily done, ending as it did with the stately march.

Alice and her menagerie from Wonderland and Through the Looking Glass convulsed the audience. Miss Emma Wilder as Alice was as unconsciously wondering as Lewis Carroll, even, would wish. Her absurd train of followers "mutually surpassed each other" in absurdity. The Virginia Reel may be imagined when the walrus and the carpenter turned "both hands round." The white rabbit, hopping down the line, was interfered with by the walrus who insisted at times upon lying flat on the floor, waving his flippers and giving a true walrus bellow.

Great originality was exhibited in the costumes, each one of which was thoroughly characteristic of the creatures Alice saw and knew in Wonderland.

Mrs. Sidney Avery.

Thanks.

The Managers wish to take this occasion to express their hearty thanks to the Chairmen of the various dining tables for their efficient and tireless efforts in the preparation and serving of the dinners and suppers, and to all the friends who so generously contributed service or supplies for the tables. Mrs. Sidney Avery, Mrs. Landsberg, Mrs. L. S. Chapin, Mrs. Gilman and their assistants are assured of the deep-felt appreciation of the disagreeable work so cheerfully done in the kitchen. It is true of any dinner that the keynote is struck in the cuisine, and our kitchen at the Donation was so quiet and orderly that one was conscious that it took brain rather than brawn to bring that state about.

Thanks are extended to Miss Helen Hastings for the artistic signs which added so much interest to the booths; to Mr. Charles W. Gorton for his services at the ticket office; to Mr. Charles Williams, of the Rochester Railway Company, for allowing placards to be put upon all cars; to Mr. Redmond, of the Rochester Electric Light Company, for allowing a banner to be hung on poles near the bridge; to Mr. Mathews, of the Rochester Printing Company, for 1600 tickets; to Mr. Ernest Willard for the program of the dances; to Chief Cleary, of the Police Force, for his invaluable services; to Mr. Isaac Teall for his kindness in supplying water coolers and loaning silver; to Mr. C. W. Trotter for the use of ranges for the kitchen, besides the labor and material involved in placing them.

Mlle. Von Broeck is entitled to sincere thanks for consenting to make the occasion of a visit to friends in the city, an event of such pleasure to the friends of the Hospital, and by the exhibition of her pictures, adding to the receipts of the Donation.

We are indebted to Mr. J. T. Alling and Mr. R. M. Myers for large quantities of white paper and Bristol board; to Mr. Morris Meyers for liberal reduction in his bill; to Mr. Cottman for his courtesy in cartage of supplies; to Mr. G. L. Herdle for the beautifully printed sign for the Art Exhibition; to Glenny & Co. for packing china, and to the countless hosts of friends, the names alone of whom would fill the REVIEW.

The Hunter Visitor.

Every other Wednesday flowers are brought and distributed in the wards by the Hunter Visitor, who is supported in loving memory of Miss Mary A. Hunter, by her grand-niece, Margaret J. Wright. The visitor, who is at present Mrs. McCarthy, visits among the poor and sick, and relieves their wants as far as is practicable. Many pitiful cases have come under the notice of the Hunter Visitor.

New Twig.

The Hospital Twigs multiply. There is a rumor in the air that a new twig is to be formed. The name is to be announced later. It was suggested some time ago that there was nothing left but saw-dust! However, there are names—saplings, shavings, branches, buds, blossoms, rootlets, etc., etc.

Carpets and Draperies.

To the citizens of Western New York we can confidently announce that never before have we shown a stock of Carpetings and Draperies so large and complete as can be seen in our store this season. Nothing is made in floor coverings that we do not carry in stock, and not a novel thing in Draperies has been manufactured this season that has not found its way to our store. In justice to yourself you cannot afford to miss visiting our store when in want of Carpets or Draperies of any kind.

SIBLEY, LINDSAY & CURR.

Rochester Savings Bank,

Cor. West Main and Fitzhugh street.

Incorporated April 21, 1831.

XII. Deposits made on or before the first three business days of any month shall be entitled to interest at the rate of four per cent. per annum from the first day of the month provided they remain to the end of a quarterly period.

The quarterly periods begin with the first days of March, June, September and December.

Deposits may be withdrawn on the last three days of a quarterly period without loss of interest; but if withdrawn before the last three days, no interest will be allowed on the amount so withdrawn for that quarter.

Individual accounts are limited to $3,000, upon which interest may be allowed to accumulate, but no interest will be allowed upon such accumulation.

Deposits made by a corporation and deposits of money arising from judicial sales or trust funds, but not made pursuant to an order of the Court, are limited to $5,000, upon which interest may be allowed to accumulate as in the case of individual accounts.

Interest will be payable on the 20th days of June and December, and if not drawn, it will be added to the principal as of the first days of those months.
