OLD SHOES.

How much a man is like old shoes!
For instance, both a soul may lose;
Both have been tanned; both are made tight By cobblers; both get left and right; Both need a mate to be complete,
And both are made to go on feet.
They both need healing; oft are sold;
And both in time turn all to mould.
With shoes the last is first; with men The first shall be the last; and when The shoes wear out, they're mended new;
When men wear out, they're men-dead, too.
They both are trod upon, and both Will tread on others, nothing loth.
Both have their ties, and both incline, When polished, in the world to shine;
And both peg out—and would you choose To be a man or be his shoes?
Choose neither, gentle reader, but rather choose To go to FAHY's and buy your shoes.

To satisfy an immense crowd who are anxious to find suitable gifts for Christmas, the merchant must have taste, judgment and a liberal knowledge of the people's wants. The holiday goods of B., F., H. & Co. have been on exhibition for a week. The vast multitude that throng their large rooms fitted out for the purpose seem to appreciate their labor, and it must be acknowledged that B., F., H. & Co. never tire in trying to please. It looks almost like a grand military review to notice the heads of every department. They are determined that customers will find in their branch of the house suitable gifts—a cloak, a shawl, a sealskin garment, a black silk dress, a colored silk, a brocade, a velvet, or a dress pattern from the large variety of woolen goods; choice goods from the lace and embroidery counters; an endless variety at the gents' department; also at the glove and hosiery counters. Every department is made attractive, every counter is loaded with bargains that must be appreciated long after the holiday season has passed.
