Alma Mater

Proudly waves old West High's emblem,
Black and Orange fair,
Floats triumphant in the breezes,
No dishonor there.

Students days have fondest mem'ries;
Comrades here we stand,
As our troth to Alma Mater
Pledge we hand in hand.

From thy halls, dear Alma Mater,
We at length must part,
But thy mem'ry shall not perish
From one student's heart.

Far away on life's broad highway,
All shall fortune try,
Still our loving hearts shall cherish
Thoughts of thee, West High.

—Horace Barnes.

January 1922 Mid-Year Book

The result of four years of endeavoring to make a
Mid-Year Book a little better than any Mid-Year
Book published before.

Class Poem

Here's to West High, proud and strong!
May it prosper as years go 'long!
High in honor, proud in name,
May it always be the same!
High standards may it always back.
Here's to West High, Orange and Black!

Dear West High, we will always know,
That in whatever you try to do,
Or whatever happens, whatever comes,
You'll always be straight and true!

Here's to the school we're leaving,
That we love, honor and revere,
No matter where life leads us,
We'll always hold it dear.

The friendships we've made within its walls,
That West High Spirit, true and strong,
Deep in our hearts we'll ne'er forget,
Nor our Alma Mater's song.

And the teachers who've helped and counselled us,
Always kind, ever-ready and true,
The lessons they've patiently taught us,
We'll remember our whole lives thru.

For four years now we've worked together,
But it could not be always so,
Then here's to each and all of us,
Where ever we may go.

With courage high, and eager hearts,
For where'er our fortunes lie,
We'll always keep your memories dear,
And love you, Dear old West High!

THE First Stage—Freshmen, young but not guileless. When the members of this most renowned of classes first began making their daily journeys toward Genesee Street people didn't take much notice of them but it wasn't long before they realized just what had come into their midst, a super-class destined for renown. Why, the games were dead without them and the shelf (freshmen were allowed in assembly in those days) made so much noise that sometimes even the seniors deigned a yell or two in its general direction. That was just preparation.

We proceed to the Second Stage, advanced and promising. We braved a Hallowe'en party where everybody stood on his dignity and the boys didn't dance, but stood around in corners trying to look bored. Nevertheless, it was a success, for two months afterwards the class celebrated with a sleighride and dance. Everybody seemed to have learned how to keep time to the music in the intervening time so the affair came bravely to an end.

The Third Stage—Upper classmen and feeling pretty big; but didn't we have a right? What a past! But, Oh! What a future!

That May we had a regular picnic at Corbett's Glen where everybody played baseball and generally returned to his youth. Mr. Ford roasted hot dogs and we kept him busy. In fact, they tasted so good we decided to let him try again. So the next October, we all walked up to Genesee Valley Park with our sausages and charcoal. We arrived about three-thirty, but were all so hungry that when another part of the class arrived at five there was nothing in the shape of food to be seen.

That same month we had another Hallowe'en party, better than the last. Harry Tompkins had a vaudeville performance staged in the assembly besides the dancing in the corridors. You know what a regular party is.—

Hurrah! The Last Stage. Seniors. Dignified? No. Happy? Yes.

We planned a sleighride; but the weather man made a mistake so we danced in the gym, instead. There was another performance in the assembly, too. Everything went all right while the performers were solemn; but then—they drew the curtain.

Next, we did something for the school. On April 29th, the classes of January and June, gave the Junior Dance. Those who didn't come have been told by this time what they missed and the others don't have to be told. Green cherries in the punch and Damon's Orchestra! Enough? We'll say so!

The next month the two classes presented the play "Green Stockings" under the direction of Miss Tripp. To say that it was success is putting it altogether too mildly. It was the best in years and kept the audience laughing for two straight hours.

The Senior Hallowe'en party was the best of the three, as it should have been. It was the last class party and everybody turned up ready to do something.

For the Senior play Mrs. Ellis picked out Desraeli, a very ambitious undertaking for high school pupils; but a play very well-known and interesting. It was remarkably well portrayed and the elaborate, old-fashioned costumes furnished an unusual setting.

The Senior dance, like the Junior dance, speaks for itself. It was a Christmas party with decorations to match.

I draw to a close. I could write on or about our exploits in baseball, track, soccer, basketball. The class was represented in all from its infancy; to say nothing of the Occident, whose editor is our President.

In all patriotic and money raising attempts besides the West High Day affairs the class has been more than active. As I said before, this account grows lengthy and might continue ad infinitum if it weren't for the editor who allowed it so much space and no more. The history of the class in West High School ends, but another is just beginning. May it be as glorious and desirable as the one just completed.

ALL CHANGE FOR CORBETT'S GLEN.

WE, the defunct class of January, One Thousand Nine Hundred Twenty-two of the West High School, Genesee Street, Nineteenth Ward, City of Rochester, County of Monroe, State of New York, United States of America, North America, Western Hemisphere, Planet Earth, The Universe and possibly Heaven and—, being squirrel's food and those articles which are most often used in gymwork, and having fallen arches, therefore not held responsible do hereby constitute and cause to be set down this, our Last Will and Testament, donating, dividing and bequeathing as hereby stated:—

- First* To the beloved lunch-room we bequeath all our used up noodles for the purpose of better noodle soup.
- Second* To Mr. Coon we leave our "footprints on the sands of time."
- Third* To Harold Loomis we leave the popular "Sweet Genevieve" (a song) to keep him good natured.
- Fourth* To John Couper we bequeath our speedometer, being such a fast class, for his Red-Bug.
- Fifth* To Roger Underwood we leave Orville Locklin's last volume on track-work—"How to Become a Table Runner."
- Sixth* To the Juniors we leave the still mystified hiding place of the broken shovel to be looked up.
- Seventh* To the Freshmen girls we leave Celeste Andersen's latest achievement of vampiring without knowing how.
- Eighth* To the Math. Department we leave the intricate problem of how "Pa" Carpenter keeps his equilibrium.
- Ninth* To the faculty we bequeath the memory of our smiling faces and happy dispositions, knowing that they are needed to keep up the good work of West High.

Given under our hand and foot and legally sealed by the chewing gum found under lunchroom tables, this tenth day of January, in the One Thousand Nine Hundred and Twenty-second year of our Lord.

PROPHECY

A few years after I left college, by great luck, I had invented Pixley's hair tonic, and have had great success with it ever since. Not long after it was put on the market I found that I must have someone to advertise it for me, and among my old school mates I discovered the very one, Bernice Dixon, who had always had lovely hair. She and I had been very successful and so I had decided to take a rather extended vacation. First I visited New York City and in my explorations discovered Guy Frisbie who owned a Sardine Factory and was prominent in society with his wife, formerly Katherine Menzie of High School Days. Together we attended a fine musical comedy which we found was called the "Terrible Twins." It had been written by Orville Locklin, and featured Louis Walz, as the leading man. When we looked over the program, to our surprise we found Ethel Allen and Clara Thomas were "the twins," Ethel sang and Clara danced. As we read on we were more than astonished to find Fred Metzinger as manager, Blair Garland as the celebrated dancer, Harry Tompkins costume designer, (of all things!) and all from West High Jan. '22 Class.

After the show was over we rushed behind the scenes and had a regular surprise party, after which we decided to go all together to Greenwich Village for a mid-night supper. We called taxies and started. We had gone but a short distance when the driver turned around, and if it wasn't Leo Kirstein, whom we immediately added to our party, then and there. On arriving he suggested we go to Alice Foster's studio which was always open. Wishing to see Alice again, we hurried there and found Wallace Gifford and Helen Porchet there, both New-School poets. By this time we were quite excited after meeting so many school-mates and started recalling those of whom we knew. I heard that Katherine Miller was teaching French back in West High School, Helen Smith was an English teacher, Fredda Rosser was librarian, and that Dorothy Reed and Dorothy Atkin were in the Gymnasium Department there. We heard that Edna Rumsey had a boarding school and that Lucretia Colby was the teacher of etiquette. Katherine told us that Helen Olander and Helen Wetzel were running a very successful business school in Rochester; and you'll never guess—Celeste Andersen had been elected Mayor at the last Election! Alice said that Ima Hixson had started a chain of candy stores somewhat like the Fanny Farmer of our days and was doing fine. While we had been talking, Guy had been phoning, and in a few minutes in walked a whole crowd of people. In a minute we were more excited than ever, for among them were some more of our High School friends, whom Guy had routed out for our informal reunion. Eva Scism was there and we found that she was a very successful interior decorator, in fact, had planned the decorations for one of New York's largest theaters. She introduced Irene Muntz to us as the dressmaker in New York and Genevieve Stevens as her model. Then Gladys Palmer came up wearing one of Irene's creations and we were fairly stunned, but we learned afterward that Gladys lead the style in New York and we believed it! At the same time we heard that Helen Maxon lead the style in hair dressing, and well she might, we agreed. Clara Argento, who had become an artist, had brought some of her pictures to show us, and one we liked best was a portrait of Ruth Beecher who we heard was a society belle, but was not married though she had many chances. Mabel Riek and Florence Henry said they were doing settlement work in New York. After we had talked each other over, we asked more questions and found that Mabel Russell was a school teacher and Evelyn Goheen the head of the Y. W. C. A. in Rochester, while Elizabeth Schults was an English Professor at Vassar, and Caroline Ritter was in the 1932 Follies.

Suddenly I glanced at the clock and jumped for the door. I called goodbye as I ran, for I had but a short time to catch my train. I had decided to visit at the ranch owned by my old chums in W. H. S., Stuart Howk and Robert Fry, who had both married girls of our class, Louisa Tyler and Mildred Rose respectively. I arrived at the station just as the caller was announcing the trains. I rushed up to him to ask which track my train was on, and as I did so, I recognized Clifford Smith. We had only time to speak a word when I had to hurry on. The train was nearly full when I got on, and out of breath I dropped into the first vacant seat without glancing at my neighbor. As the train started he tapped me on the shoulder and said, "Your name is Pixley, isn't it? Didn't you go to W. H.?" I turned to the speaker and recognized Howard Cook. We immediately started to talk over school days and exchanged all the news we had. He said he was an advertiser for a simplified-spelling book, which, by the way, had been written by two W. H. girls Dorothy Kinne and Ruth Stauffer. He had hardly stopped speaking when he nudged me excitedly, and said, "Look who's coming down the aisle—of all things! I looked up and there I beheld Carl Huber strutting down the aisle selling papers and magazines. We recognized each other, spoke a few minutes together and then he went on, after we had bought some papers, magazines and a book, which he dared me to buy without looking at. As I glanced over the sport notices in the paper my eye caught the name of Wesley Werth and I saw that he was the sport editor. Just then another caught my eye. It was a notice of the names of the Olympic team for that year. Among them I found Walter Cherry, record swimmer; Dorothy Woernley, swimmer; and Willard Gucker, and Jack Dimon, in track. We thought this was a fine showing for our class. The next page I happened to turn to, was "Advice to the Lovelorn" and if I didn't find Edythe Yates' name as the editor. Now I was getting excited again, and when I picked up the magazine, I first looked to see what it was and who was the editor—and I was not disappointed! There was Mildred Noda's name as editor of the Ladies Home Journal. While I had been doing this Howard had picked up the book and now he handed it to me saying, "Look at that carefully," I did, and if it wasn't "How to Look Thin," by Elizabeth Petty. These discoveries kept us busy for a while and before long our station was announced. Howard and I decided to go to a hotel together, and having called a taxi we rode off. At the hotel, as I paid the driver, I happened to glance at him, then I poked Howard, and we both pounced on—Clint Burhans! Then we had an all-around good talk for a few minutes before he went. We stayed at the hotel for a short time and then started out to a near by vaudeville house to spend the time till my train was due. On the way we were attracted by a crowd and pushed in to find out the trouble. It seems that a woman had been listening to a speaker and turning away had not noticed an approaching auto; and had been hurt. We saw a tall young lady busily taking notes, and taking her for a reporter, as she turned out to be, we approached her to find further details. As she turned we recognized Elizabeth Percy. Of course she was willing to tell us the details, and, by chance, they were extremely interesting. The traffic cop, Rudolph Napadono, had made a mistake, and George Fordham, who was driving a collapsible Ford, which Henry Martin had sold him, had run into Ina Smith who had been listening to Carl Dodge enlist recruits for the Bachelors' Club. Ina now, was doing research work for the famous archeologist, Carmen Sillato, and had lately become very near-sighted. Probably that was one cause of the accident. Elizabeth also told us that Bruce Winans, who was a lawyer and getting quite fat, had happened to be on the spot and would take care of the case which would probably come up in Judge Houghtaling's court soon. Ina had been cared for by a trained nurse in the crowd, and she was no one else but Mabel Ross. We questioned, exclaimed, and talked some time, and asked her if she had any more news. She thought a minute and then told us that Greta Richardson and Editha McRae were on a concert tour. Greta at the piano and Editha singing. Marion White, we found, was the city's first lady undertaker and was doing a rushing business, owing to the novelty, most likely. She added that Mary Shedd had had a disappointing love affair a few years ago and since then had enthusiastically taken up prison reform. We discussed them all, and promising to write, left her for the show.

We had hardly settled in our seats when an act entitled, "A Good Man is Hard to Find," was announced, and we nearly fainted when the two actors turned out to be Robert Loeb and Joseph Bentley. How the mighty had fallen! After the show we talked with them a minute, then I sent a telegram to "Stew," bade Howard good-bye and took my train. I rode quite a while when suddenly the train stopped, and all was confusion but soon the conductor came thru and explained that a rail had been dislodged and would be fixed in an hour. As he neared my seat I glanced casually at him, but my next glance was not casual for there, in the blue uniform of a conductor stood Henry Steincamp of my class. We had time to only speak and then he had to go. Then I decided to take a walk to the engine to see the trouble and as I neared it I heard a voice which I knew I had heard before, swearing mightily, (and another voice expostulating and trying to calm the other.) I hurried up and my suspicion was verified, for there stood Wesley Pitt in the greasy over-all and jumper of an engineer swearing on, (and Bill Andersen a minister—of all things—! trying to stop him.) I laughed aloud and they turned and saw me. We had a mutual exclamation party which was soon interrupted by a mail clerk from the train who turned out to be Edmund Kane. With exchanging news and so on, the time was soon up, the train started, and in a short time I got off at my stop.

In the station, a tanned young man met me and asked if I was going to "Hauck" Ranch. When I replied in the affirmative he asked me to come with him. He drove me to the ranch, and all the way I tried to remember where I had seen him before. As soon as I arrived I asked "Stew" and he called him in with two others. No wonder I had remembered his face, for it was Dwight Beckwith, grown husky and big, and the two others were Elbert Carver and George Codd. We sat around the fire then, and exchanged experiences. They told me that Caroline Brazie lived in the next town with her husband who was a college professor there. Elbert told me that Mildred Kramer was a dentist in Rochester, and George volunteered the information that Mildred Clare was the millinery buyer at Sibley's in Rochester, too. They both seemed to know a great deal about those girls.

I stayed at the ranch for several weeks, and then left for farther West. In Los Angeles I ran across Dorothy Broderson, who told me she was in the Movies, and I later found out she had gained entrance by the great popularity given her beautiful skin, on which she claimed she always used Irene White's face lotion. Those were surprises to me, and I told her the news of our old class of January '22 that I had learned on my trip.

From Los Angeles I went to San Francisco to see a great tennis match between Ralph Steele, Champion of California, and H. Trimby, Champion of the U. S. I had been looking forward to it for some time, and my expectations were justified, for it was great! Ralph won after a hard fight. After the games were over I went to see both the boys, and we gossiped like old maids for hours. They had one very interesting piece of news for me—Nonie Wheeler had turned Bolshevik and gone to Russia! Well I never would have believed it if they hadn't forced me to! Ralph took me home with him and introduced me to his wife, who had formerly been Alice Lee of West High School. I was delightfully surprised, and in our conversation she told me that Kathryn Smith had married a Canadian farmer and lived in Canada.

The next morning I took the train for home again. I had had a delightful vacation, and it was wonderful to meet and hear of my school friends as I had. It brought back the days as I traveled back to Pixley's Hair Tonic, and I lived over my school days again at West High.

The memory of those days previous to 1922 when I traversed the "primrose path" to dear old West High refreshed me as I returned home to continue the sale of Pixley's Hair Tonic. Two bottles for the price of one. And now I say "au revoir" with the firm hope that I shall be privileged to meet again and again the members of the class of January 1922.

THE BAND AND ORCHESTRA

A GREAT deal of credit is due to Mr. Clute for his wonderful work with the members of the West High Band and the West High Orchestra, as well as to the members themselves. We have all noticed their rapid progress and have greatly enjoyed the selections given by them in the Assembly Hall. It is the plan of the band and orchestra to alternate in playing for the students at the regular assembly sessions.

It is also to be remembered further that the band and orchestra will take turns in playing for Americanization meetings throughout the winter, and last, but not least, the band will play to infuse us with even more spirit than we have, at the various games during the year.

WEST HIGH GLEE CLUBS

THE Boys' Glee Club is composed of twenty-five of the best singers in the school. However, there are many more who are excluded because of the exigencies of their schedules.

The Girls' Glee Club consists of sixty members who are all fine singers and who are doing splendid work. It is of interest to learn that the Girls' Glee Club is preparing to present an operetta, entitled "Pipes of Pan" and composed by Paul Bliss, which will probably be given in the Spring.

The combined Boys' and Girls' Glee Clubs are known as the Junior Festival Chorus. These Glee Clubs have been doing excellent work and must be given due credit.

BOYS' QUARTET

A SPECIAL Boys' Quartet has been chosen on merit. The members of this quartet are "Van" Stafford, Lowell McMillan, Louis Walz and Reginald Westbrook. We have all heard how well they can sing, have enjoyed their singing immensely and hope to hear from them more often. These boys are prepared to help out at class parties, entertainments, etc., when needed.

A second quartet is in the making which will probably be composed of Kenneth Loysen, Bill Lutz, Walter Raymond and Edward Vragel. We shall hope to hear from them soon.

June 1923

"TRAMP! Tramp! Tramp! Here we are," so said the class of June '23 as they entered the Portals of West High. The Class of June '23 has the reputation of having the best spirit in West High. This class has performed many noteworthy feats. In their freshman year the soccer team of this class put it over the rest by copping the championship. Not satisfied with one, this class, as sophomores won the interclass track meet by an overwhelming score.

June '23 has had many successful social affairs among them a Hallowe'en party last year and a class party last spring. The faithful advisers for the class are Mr. Rourke and Miss Cook. For the present Mr. Wheelan is ably taking the place of Mr. Rourke, who is unable to be in West High this year.

The class officers are: President, Paul Herrick; Vice-President, Marge Costello; Secretary, Southern Jennings, pro tem; Treasurer, James Mooney; Cheerleader, Southern Jennings. For many years the world has been looking for a synonym for "Spirit". At last they have found it. It is: June '23.

January 1924

THERE is something about the class of January 1924, that seems to draw one into the whirl of gayeties and good times. Perhaps it is the wonderful spirit of friendship among us all. We are now almost upper classmen, and still the spirit prevails among us as warmly and earnestly as ever.

In March we had our first big party with the boys' and girls' classes combined. Dancing and games were carried on in the corridors and an entertainment was given in the assembly hall, in which the main feature was a play given by some of the members of the class. Will we ever forget the "girl", Ralph Gray, as leading "lady?"

In June, just a few weeks before the closing of school, the whole class had a sausage roast at South Park. A ball game held a large place in the amusements of the afternoon. But oh, those eats!

On Friday night, October 28, 1921 the class held a joint party—a masquerade. It was a great success, and everyone had a wonderful time.

The class officers are: Stanley Gaffield, President; Hamilton Nivers, Vice-President; Lynn Phelan, Secretary; Gerald Walker, Treasurer; William Briston, Cheerleader.

The council members are: Gilbert Hathaway, Elizabeth Helen and Stanley Gaffield.

January 1925

THE boys of the Class of January 1925 held their organization meeting under the direction of their class adviser, Mr. R. Sherman Stowell on the 7th of March, 1921. The following officers were elected at that time: President, David Richardson, Vice-President, Joseph Tong Sing; Secretary, Chester McCormick; Treasurer, Lyle Garnish; Cheerleader, Howard Geil; Athletic Manager, Lyle Garnish.

The following members of the class were appointed by the class adviser and served on the general West High Day Committee: all of the above named officers and in addition thereto, Lucius Powell, James Connor, and Richard Hart.

At the opening of school this fall the withdrawal from school of the secretary, Chester McCormick necessitated the election of a new secretary. Consequently at a special meeting called by the class adviser at which President Richardson presided and Clark Dole acted as secretary pro-tem. James Connor was elected secretary for the remainder of the class year.

School Days

The moments pass like long, long years,
As thru Geom I sit and sigh,
While angles, arcs and centipedes
Grin merrily, and pass me by.

The teacher smiles, she does not know,
My thoughts are far away,
I think how easy 'tis to bluff,
'Till comes examination day.

"An angle crossed by two straight lines,"
It means not much to me,
And my paper's virgin whiteness
Is blemished with a "C."

A Bubble

A bubble floated 'cross the lawn
Dipping gracefully in the breeze;
Faltered as the sun shone thru',
Then vanished in the trees.

But in the instant that it stayed
The rainbow shades were mirrored there;
A shadow passed and left it grey,
Then all again was fair.

I paused to wonder, could it mean
That life is as that fairy sphere;
We live to dance, to weep, to sing,
Then as the bubble, disappear?

Basketball

West High's Basketball Team started off its season with a sweep of glory, defeating Canandaigua 33-8 on Thanksgiving evening.

The Team shows fine passwork and quick play. With Adolph Martin as Captain, and Fred Lawson as Manager, we look forward to a fighting, winning team, which the school may be proud of.

Soccer

The Soccer team, led by Captain Black, has finished the most successful season ever played by any team wearing West High's colors. The men, playing consistent football, did not suffer a single defeat during its entire schedule. The only thing we regret is that hard luck forced us to play two tie games with East High. However, in spite of this West High certainly had a wonderful team. All hail to Black's fighting warriors.

Senior Play "DISRAELI"

JANUARY 13 & 14, 1922

All Star Cast, Directed by Mrs. Ellis

HEARD IN THE LUNCH ROOM

"I ate some oxtail soup, and feel bully!"
"That's nothing, I ate some hash, and feel like everything."

"Really, though, why does a girl always close her eyes when a fellow kisses her?"

"That's easy. She's just told him that he was the first one, and she is ashamed to look him in the face."

CHEMISTRY EXPERIMENT

DIRECTIONS: In a laboratory of boys, add three pretty girls.

OBSERVE: The boys all turn to rubber.

Lives of great men all remind us,
As their pages o'er we turn,
That we're apt to leave behind us
Letters that we ought to burn.

Little chicken
On the lea-
Honk! Honk!
Fricassee!

FATHER: "Did you tell that young man that I'm going to turn off the lights at ten o'clock?"

CELESTE: "Yes, Dad."

FATHER: "Well?"

CELESTE: "He is coming at ten after this."

TEACHER: "Please explain the meaning of EQUINOX."

MARY: "EQUOS means horse, and NOX, night. It means NIGHT-MARE."

"Poor Mrs. Jones! I hear she has completely lost her mind."

"Yes, she has been giving a piece of it to everybody she has come in contact with for the past five years."

The Freshman stood on the burning deck,
But as far as I could learn,
He stood with perfect safety,
For he was too green to burn.
Some Freshmen think they are so wise,
But Seniors think them other-wise.

A teddy bear sat on the ice,
As cold as cold can be;
But soon he was up and walked away—
"Thy tale is told," said he.

MR. STOWELL: "What does the reign of King Charles teach us?"
CO. GO.: "Not to lose our heads in moments of excitement."

The boy who's late, resigns his fate;
There is no need to worry.
He'll meet his doom in 41,
And the next time he will hurry.

CHAMBERMAID: "I found seventy-five cents in your bed this morning, sir."
PROFESSIONAL: "Ah, my sleeping quarters, no doubt."

In the lunch room they also serve who only stand and wait.

"He is going to cook up some kind of story by way of excuse."
"Then he's going to get himself into a stew."

The grave digger's love song: "I'll move the earth for you." (With apologies to Chesterfield)

Those West High boys are mild, but they satisfy.

"I sat in lone despondency,
Upon the moonlit sand,
And watched a gleaming arm of sea,
Curve round a neck of land."

SHE: "Isn't it strange that a man's arm is equal to the circumference of a girl's waist?"
HE: "Let's get a string and see."

Ted Mooney (translating from Virgil):
"Aeneas insignis armis." Aeneas was renowned for his feat with arms.

A goat ate all our jokes
And then began to run;
"I cannot stop," he softly said,
"I am so full of fun."

it should interest you to know that Rochester's largest retail store has a street frontage of 599 feet, more than 14 acres of floor space, a Tea Room with seating capacity for 500 persons, and upwards of 2000 employees.

The size of the store in 1868—when the business was founded—was 25 feet by 160 feet. Honest merchandise, honest methods and courteous service have built it up to its present substantial size. :: ::

Clean House With A Hoover

It is necessary to use THE HOOVER in order to take all the dirt from your rugs in one easy, dustless operation. And the attachments are essential in order to capture the dust that floats in through the windows!

What a contrast to the old cleaning method with its unattractive dust-cap; working clothes that make you ashamed to answer the doorbell; hot, perspiring effort; air filled with unwholesome dust.

May we demonstrate the HOOVER to you—without obligation? Liberal terms should you care to purchase.

THE HOOVER

IT BEATS AS IT SWEEPS AS IT CLEANS

And the Hoover beats, sweeps, erects nap, freshens colors and suction cleans in one operation guaranteed to prolong the life of rugs.

A widower put on his wife's tomb this inscription, "The light of my life has gone out." A few months later he married again, so he added to the inscription on the tomb, "But I have struck another match."

MR. McEWAN (in Math. Class) "Is this a Surd?"

H. LESTER: "It's absurd!"

"As Shakespeare says," remarked Cassidy, who was fond of showing his book larnin' occasionally, "what's in a name?"

"Well," replied Casey, "call me wan that oi don't loike, and oi'll show ye."

"I made you what you are,"

The tailor said unto

The youth, who nodded and replied,

"I owe my all to you."

ON WITH THE DANCE

Chawley (making out his program for the evening) "And say, Bill, I want to dance with your girl the worst way."

HENRY: "Your eyes are like a certain star."

GIRL: "Which one?"

HENRY: "Ben Turpin."

HAROLD LEONARD: "I'm the best dancer in the country."

SHE (sweetly) "Yes—in the country."

JUDD: "Talking about large vegetables, I know a man in California that raised a pumpkin so large that his children used a half each for a cradle."

SLOCUM: "That's nothing. We have in Rochester as many as three policemen sleeping on one beat."

FROSH: "I am studying to get ahead."

ED. "Heavens knows you need one!"

G. R.: "Are you fond of tea?"

H. M.: "Yes, but I like the next letter better."

"Where did you become such a good swimmer?"

"I used to be a traffic cop in Venice."

IT is hard for some schools to believe we can furnish really good articles of class jewelry so reasonably, but we have proved we can to every customer we've had—West High School Included.
