The Spotlight

A Review of Their Four Years in East High

PUBLISHED BY THE CLASS OF

JANUARY 1919

EAST HIGH SCHOOL, ROCHESTER, N. Y.

ALBERT H. WILCOX

ALMA MATER

Sweet be thy memory, High School of ours,
Fair be thy destiny, fadeless thy flowers,
Hearts that have loved thee have won in life's fight,
Names that we honor, thy standard holds bright.

Our Alma Mater dear, to thee we sing,
May all thy future years new honors bring,
May friends thy banner raise, thy foes
 grow less,
All love and praise to our old E. H. S.

AS a token of our deep gratitude for their support and counsel, we take pleasure in dedicating the Spotlight to

MISS GRACE WILLIAMS

and

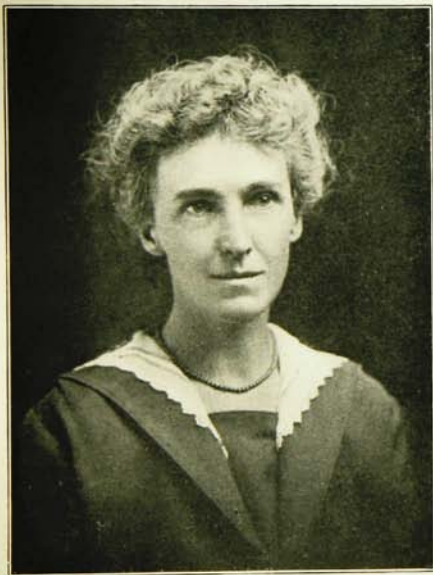

MR. GEORGE H. STUDLEY

Class of January 1919

Recognition should also be made here of the interest which

MRS. CLEMENT LANNI

took in the girls' affairs while acting as their Home Room Teacher

MISS GRACE WILLIAMS

Miss Grace Williams was born in Kansas but has spent the greater part of her life in New York State. She was graduated from the Brockport Normal School and from Vassar College, Class of 1902. Since 1904, Miss Williams has taught in the Biology Department and for the last four years has been head of that department.

Because Miss Williams is a student of biology is probably the reason she understands us so well. Ever since January, 1915, when she was appointed our advisor, the girls have looked upon her not in that light, but as a true friend. We know of no class affair or enterprise that we entered upon that Miss Williams did not join, also, with heart and hand.

MR. GEORGE H. STUDLEY

Mr. George H. Studley was born at Rockland, Mass., and received his early education at the Rockland High School, the Bryant and Stratton Business College at Boston, and the Ithaca, New York, High School.

Mr. Studley first taught at Thomaston, Conn. Following that he became principal of the Union School at Marcellus, New York, and, later of the Union School at Harwick, New York. Mr. Studley then came to Rochester and studied at the University.

It is not necessary to tell those of January, 1919, how we appreciate Mr. Studley, they all have felt his friendship. Mr. Studley gets the fellow's point of view and is always ready with his advice—that is why he has won a place in the hearts of every one of us.

LOUIS J. GALLO
Class Poet

"ALMA MATER"

What mother fondles more her darling brood,
Loving, caressing them in every mood,
Than our own dear Alma Mater?

* * * * *

By-gone years that before us rise,
Bring the sterling of her care,
Then, within our hearts we raise
Altars to her love so rare.

O' what ideals wrapt her brow,
Which she filtered like a sage!
And what harvest of gold thoughts!
These were hers—and heritage.

But we see she weeps! she weeps!
We can guess the blight she hides:
Children in the abyss sleep,
Chained—is she to reach their sides?

How reluctant our adieu
To that Heart of Intellect!
Those of us who care will bring
To her fold the early wrecked.

Some day Mother E. H. S.
In her crown will have no thorns;
Jewels, that stand for gallant sons,
Bright will be as autumn morns!

CLASS HISTORY

N this time of the making of history the class of January '19 finds it appropriate to look back upon its record which the "Spotlight" shows so plainly to be symbolic of East High's spirit, determination and loyalty. Our classmates have had many good times together and tried to support all school activities in a manner worthy of East High.

When we were green, half-baked Frosh, the boys and girls each held a class meeting and proceeded to the business of collecting class dues and deciding upon a class insignia.

A break in the school routine came with a roast for the girls at Summerville in September, 1916. While the girls see-sawed, sang and danced to the astonishment of our chaperons—Tramp! Tramp! Tramp! The boys were hiking to Baker's farm, where as youngsters they caught pollywogs, ate dogs and fished, at their first and last stag affair. The girls, however, held another party at Christmas, 1916.

According to precedent the Junior year saw a combined class and since then our meetings have been quite regular.

Two editors and one business manager of the Clarion were from the class of January '19, to say nothing of the debating teams. Twelve of our number have been awarded patrician pins while the Roman State carried others to the "Publicum Consilium et Senatum."

The Junior Joyride, or sleighride in wagons, was a big success. The night was disagreeable only in regard to the weather and there was dancing and plenty of food to make up for it. So the years went by. Our Junior picnic at Durand Eastman was a humdinger, where some played baseball while others took the Rocky Road to Dublin and climbed the granite rocks which border mighty Ontario's shore. Later, the Bogie Masque, held on the Hallowe'en of 1917, proved to be a splash of light and a dash of color, the only darkness being the spooky trip through the cellar.

The initial party of our Senior year was the Senior social where the spotlight first played on the dramatic ability of our class—and who can forget or forgive that green punch. Shortly after this April party many of our class left school to help in the cultivation of foodstuffs, so our Senior picnic was postponed until September. It took place at Summerville under the title of a Dog Roast, and we ate, danced and were merry until sent home.

But as we come to say good-bye let us keep in mind that "the world is a stage upon which each man must play his part." The history of the class of January '19 is not finished. The "Spotlight" gives only the prologue, and we are determined that our life in the world shall be a credit to our Alma Mater—East High.

MIRIAM DAVIS.

CLASS PROPHECY

EBRUARY the first, nineteen twenty-nine, it was just ten years ago that my class graduated from old East High.

Outside the snow was falling lightly and the whole earth seemed to be one glittering sheet, while within a bright fire was crackling with a most inviting air. What an ideal time to get comfortably settled on our big davenport before the fire place to eat fudge and to look over some old diaries and memory books of my school days.

No sooner had this idea come into my head than I was up in the attic ransacking every dilapidated box and trunk in sight, until I had a whole armful of rather musty looking books. After rushing downstairs I proceeded to read them all from beginning to end, but when I came upon the most attractive of all namely, the "Spot-light," our Senior mid-year book, which January '19 had published, I literally devoured its contents.

At first I thought it would be a good idea to follow up all our class members and activities from the Frosh to the Senior year. But before you could say "Jack Robinson" all my former classmates were performing for me on a model little movie screen which was furnished by the fireplace. As formerly they were all lively, full of pep and moved like genuine movie stars.

Fortunately I was just in time for the International News films and imagine my surprise when I saw James Gallo, former East High socialist, as a great reformer in Russia, making speeches on a corner in Petrograd for the next political campaign in which Manuel Weisbuch was running for the presidency of Russia.

Several views of large reconstructed buildings were shown—a Belgian orphan asylum of which Clara Albrecht, Majorie Barker, Elizabeth Coulton, and Loraine Bradley were the chief directors. Rev. Eversley

Ferris, D.D., rector of a large cathedral in France, made a most impressive picture standing in its massive Gothic doorway, while at gay Paree Millie Bayer was quite the latest hit with her Russian Ballet, composed of Laura Spurr, Egyptian interpreter; Pearl Lisson, Grecian, Mildred Trott, Irish, and Marguerite Schleber, Scotch folk dances.

England had established a permanent Women's Land Army Corps through the co-operative leadership of America's two foremost farmeretts, Florence Dean and Catherine Chidsey.

The orchestra suddenly played martial music and I saw no other than Charles Lambiase, ambassador to Italy, who was returning from a water fete given in his honor. As guards he made use of Lawrence Bishop and Gordon Berns.

Spanish tambourines introduced a very characteristic bull-fight in which Morris Cohen was shooting the bull as usual, while Milton Payne tried to upset this furious beast. Sylvia Weiss was to present the victor with the laurel wreath.

Now for the events on this side of the water.

The greatest lawsuit in the history of the United States (namely, a band of prominent political women led by Mae Lauterback had impeached the Lieutenant-Governor, Charlotte Ring) had been won by Attorney-General Charles Langtry, who very calmly descended from a large court house to step into his Packard limousine. Leonard Geyer made a most picturesque chauffeur for him, and Willard Hicks served as his announcer.

Because of this great agitation in the political world, Wall Street was absolutely wild with excitement, caused mostly by the women, Pauline Piefer, former little East High Quaker maid, was fairly tearing Marjorie Manderville's hair as well as her own, for fear of getting rich too quickly. Ruth Gordon, Alice Schultz and Helen Lewis were all frantically reading the tickers by the lure of the get-rich-quick policy.

At the famous Home for Crippled Soldiers and Sailors conducted by Miriam Davis, Madame Eleanora Patterson was giving a most pleasing concert accompanied by Professor Berthold Levi. They were also being remarkably entertained by a modern Doug Fairbanks and Charles Chaplin, otherwise known as Edward Schroedel and Marland Gale, who did all sorts of tricks with their feet and smiles.

Next a little athletic news for the big football games was in season and Joseph Soffer, coach of Yale, was working hard to get a better team than Harold McCleary of Harvard.

Although football was an entirely new sport for the fair sex, the Sargent girls were tugging away for the championship, Lois Patchen surely could make those girls tackle even if they did sometimes crash with their math. teacher, Ruth Seitz, and the dean, Rowena King.

West Point graduates were viewed, lined up for inspection by Colonel F. Alton Frasch, who was accompanied by Captain Russell W. Servis and Lieutenant Elmer Frenz.

The next on the program was an animated cartoon by our old class artist, Joseph Jablonski, the Bud Fisher of to-day, who had become famous through the popularity of his two favorite characters, the C. brothers. Carl (C.) Ott and Clinton Curtiss. Carl was shown running his wingless airplane, the latest invention of Edwin Evans and Andrew Guthiel, while Clinton was having a most glorious time motoring Matie Becker in his steam parachute. These two strange birds were directly above a circus parade which they were trying to lead to get the manager, Morris Weinstein, peeved. Being only a cartoon it was rather difficult to recognize many but even though their features were rather vague I saw Norman Densmore and Harold Goldstein at the head of a band of Wild West cowboys, Eva Weil, renowned snake charmer, and Harold Dye, lion tamer.

Hazel Cash directed a real jazz band which made the horses of the bare-back riders, Marjorie Collings and Thelma Couchman, fairly dance with delight. Under a very good disguise Norman Brown was having a glorious time entertaining the crowd by his inquisitiveness as Isadore Gutkovsky was carrying water for the elephants.

Of course no circus parade is complete without a calliope, so to top it all off Ralph Cole was laboriously pulling out and pushing in plugs which finally produced a tune similar to the "Old Gray Mare."

The lights then went on for a few minutes' intermission during which time Mayme Goldstein tried to convince the audience that they should present Clarion cards at the box-office showing that students patronized the theaters.

FEATURE PLAY

The Amazing Rescue

Author—Jennie Epstien

Scenario—Hiram Moss

Produced by Carl Adamek

Featuring Marion Clark

The most beautiful woman of the modern stage.

The villian, Max Katz, made a perfect spy, although in the end "Detectuff" Helen D'Amanda put him behind the bars. The plot could never have advanced without the aid of the vampire, little Miss Carolyn Schifrin, who finally decided the world was all wrong so retired to a convent where Elizabeth Gobel greeted her with chanting vespers. The valient hero, Lancaster Greene, cruising in Southern waters near Bermuda, finds Marion stranded on an island. But much to his surprise she was not lonesome for she had discovered some of her friends there who were having a taste of Hawiian life just for fun. Madeline Keating was the star hula-hula dancer of the crowd with her musicians, Marion Stull and Judith Goldenson, playing Ukes and guitars most "Hawainishly."

When the girls went aboard the yacht they very unexpectedly found Captain Al Sipple; bricklayer, Willis Brockett; carpenter, Harold Beilby; Clarence Bourbeau and Ray Walters, chief seamen, and last but not least, Mr. Studley with Miss Williams as chaperons, so that they surely had a most enjoyable little rescue party. Of course the matrimonial bureau conducted by Eleanor Hart was later consulted, also, Marriage License Clerk Dorothy Stack; the French dressmaker, Evelyn Boyce, and Maxwell Gobel, railroad clerk—so you see they all lived happily ever after.

As the fire was nearly out, the "Spotlight" on my model little screen was becoming dimmer so the performance was ended. I then climbed wearily to bed, well pleased with the achievements of my classmates of January 1919.

'Twas only the Spotlight office,
That made them leave their homes;
That made them get such crazy things
Within their crazy domes.

So cameth the coming of the Spotlight,
Not one of the Board was a shirk.
If you should like the final result,
Remember they did the work.

If you think the result a terrible mess,
Just get on a board some day,
And you'll criticize, but you'll find you talk
In quite a different way.

If you are much disappointed,
You'll surely forget in a while,
So just remember, it's your own book,
So read, be careful, and SMILE.

The high school career of the class of January 1919 is something never to be forgotten in the hearts of its members. It is a war class. Less than six months before we entered East High, Germany led her murderous army over Belgium, and not much over two score days before we graduated the armistice was signed. So we were in it—thick and thin.

Under the able direction of Miss Katherine J. Burns the Senior Farce cast gave us a finished production which had only been rehearsed eleven times. A great deal of credit is due the cast for its splendid co-operation which enabled the play to be given in its entirety. The best feature of the farce was the absence of the affected professionalism which so often characterizes amateur plays.

Berthold Levi, '19

Katherine Deininger, '19

The School Spirit Committee was appointed by the Executive Council. Its purpose is to get as big a percentage of people in the school into activities as possible and to secure an Athletic Field for East High. So far the work has progressed well but it is too early in the game to see results—all we have to do is to read the names of those on the committee and we know that the results will be more than favorable.
