THE EAST HIGH SCHOOL

Alma Mater

Sweet be thy memory, High School of ours,
Fair be thy destiny, fadeless thy flowers,
Hearts that have loved thee, have won in life's fight,
Names that we honor, thy standards hold bright.

Our Alma Mater dear, to thee we sing,
May all thy future years new honors bring,
May friends thy banner raise, thy foes grow less,
All love and praise to our old E. H. S.

Dreaming of you, I lie
In the tangled meadow grass;
Under a quiet sky
The fireflies pass and re-pass.

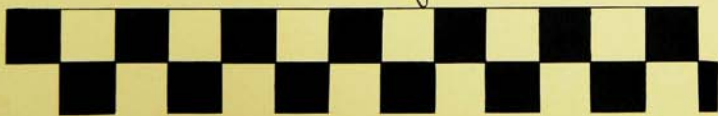

The fireflies pass and re-pass
Under a quiet sky;
In the tangled meadow grass
Dreaming of you - I lie.

Class Poem

Once, 'midst the silent passing on of years, Time paused
To find the earth, vibrant with hope and tensely gay;
For night, brooding in mystic shapes of shadows dim,
Stood trembling on the threshold of a dawning day;
Watched as the first faint spark of reawakening strength
Brought to the ear the murmur of Life's steady way,
Rich in its dreams of hope and chance in bright array.
A new day dawned, was lived, and slowly passed away.

And now we, too, pause on an unmarked threshold here,
Twixt High School days, thronged with tried friends and memories
dear,
And all that lies ahead for us unlived in years
When opportunity and life draw swiftly near.
We feel the strength of power, throbbing in our veins:
The world seems fair and goodly rich to our young eye:
And our ambition craves a share for thee, East High.
A new day dawns and lives; and so we say good-bye.

THE OTHER CLASSES

THE SENIOR TERM CLASS

Senior! humph! with dignity galore,
Egotistic, microscopic, thou art an awful bore,
Neolithic, paleolithic, so low I dare not think,
Indeed, mayhap thou art the famous "missing link",
Our celebrated places then darest—thou to fill!
Rather methinks—the jester's cap would not become thee ill,
Seated in the assembly seats which we to thee do will.

THE JUNIOR CLASSES

Jingling and jangling, two galoshes flap,
Unbolted and inverted about an ankle bone;
Nodding and bobbing Deauville kerchiefs wrap
In their out-landish colors all of old Tut-amen's tone.
Or arm and arm the slickered one and Lenglen bandeau pass,
Replacing "flip" and "flapper" for simple lad and lass,
Supplying all the members for the East High Junior Class.

THE SOPHOMORE FINAL CLASS

Spoofing along with a "bobby" for brain,
Outwitting the "profs" with a look of disdain,
Pooh-poohing the "frosh" in a tone that doth pain,
Haunting the halls with no purpose or aim,
Oh Sophomore, hast thou no shame?
Moving thine eyes in a flapperish way,
Ogling the girls every tick of the day.
Receiving "D. T." as thy privilege and pay,
Enjoying the pains of some teacher's lair,
Sophomores take heed and beware!

History of The East High School Annuals

IT is an astonishing fact that comparatively few East High students now know when, how and why the customary senior annuals were originated.

The great event happened in May, 1904, when the "glorious class of '04 took it into its head to print an annual,—with only six weeks to get it out, where a college board needs six months."

That class called its volume the "Senior Annual," but for many years afterward similar logs were entitled the "Senior Annual of the Clarion," showing that it was a special issue of the Clarion jointly by the Clarion and the senior class.

The sophomore year of the class of 1905 ushered in a notable event that was the completion and occupation of "the new building" on Alexander Street.

That class seemed to have some regrets in leaving the South Fitzhugh Street School, now the Municipal Building.

"The Spectator" (the Clarion) observes in 1905 that "the time is drawing near when the Rochester High School will be divided between East and West High Schools." The Spectator felt that neither school could alone be strong enough to maintain for Rochester the high standard which up to that time had been set by the Rochester High School.

He suggested that it would be unfair to the west side pupils—when West High School should come into existence—that the past credit of the victories of the Rochester High School should be given to East High School; that unless the two schools combined in the support of a single team the long string of victories in athletics would be cut short; and that the two schools could not support a paper for each, since it was hard enough then to get sufficient acceptable literary material for one paper. How little could the Spectator know us—the coming generations!

Football, perhaps the major sport in these days, played a great part in the interest of the annuals. Basketball and baseball follow closely in importance, while hockey and tennis were recognized as more important sports than today. Until very recently there has been no mention of swimming teams, but a great deal is made of the indoor as well as the outdoor track and cross-country teams. The first appearance of the relay team was pictured in the 1909 Annual when the Chess Club, German Club, and Nature Club were especially active.

Debates, now seldom mentioned, were held by the interscholastic girls' and boys' teams, all proving rather successful on the whole.

Another side of school life was displayed in the sororities and fraternities and in the "Publicum Concilium," with the members of the Roman State, (who gave the Alcestis of Euripides in English in 1915); frequently photographed in their dignified robes.

Records show that there has been only one Junior farce, that in 1910; the idea of having a Senior farce first appeared in 1914, and since then has become a tradition, although the Senior play has been in existence since the first annual and probably long before that.

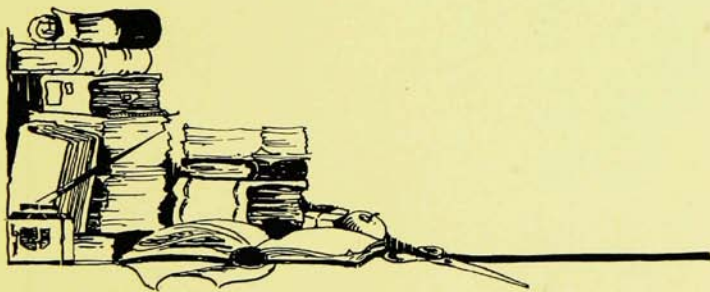

The Girls' and Boys' Glee Clubs from all appearances were considered in former years more important than the orchestra, and only very recently has the East High School Band come to the front.

A more interesting feature of the annuals appeared in 1915, that is, the individual photographs of the Seniors with what the various classes termed "squibs," "skits," "digs," "grinds," or "who's who," meaning of course the quotations describing each unhappy senior.

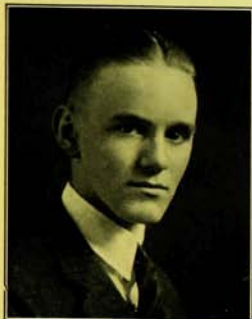

In years to come when other summaries of annuals are given, and this book may be included in them, who knows how June 1923 will be treated?

The Agora

FOR the purpose of arousing interest in the Greek language and in literature, the Agora was organized in some of the high schools along the Hudson, including New York and Albany. Introduced into East High School by Doctor Mason D. Gray, one of the principal activities of the state body was the conducting among the chapters, competitive examinations in each of the three years of Greek. These were usually made out by a committee of college professors, and conducted in the schools in the spring, like Regents examinations.

In May or June of each year, a convention was held in one of the high schools belonging to the Agora, and prizes awarded to the winners of the examinations. The last convention was held at East High School just before the war. Since this time the State body has been inactive.

This term the East High School Agora has held successful social affairs and a contest in play-writing, for which cash prizes were offered to John Frankland, and Robert Lochner. The Agora has again become a live and active organization.

The East High School Savings Bank

THE East High Bank, which is a moveable wire cage large enough for two cashiers, has been in operation one year. Previous to its existence, deposits were collected in the different home rooms every Tuesday morning. This system required at least one collector in each room and also the supervision of each home room teacher. Under the new system, the pupils make their deposits at the wire bank exactly as they do in a regular bank. In one year, the number of depositors has doubled, together with the amount of money.

There is taken in, on the average, six hundred dollars every four weeks, the greatest number of depositors at any one time being two hundred and twenty-two persons.

The size of the deposits ranges from ten cents to fifty dollars. The money received is taken to the bank each week at the close of the day's business and is at once added to the different pupils' accounts.

The success of the bank depends upon the number of pupils who learn the habit of depositing. We realize the difficulty of saving money in high school, but know that it is a splendid opportunity to test the will power, which, under present day conditions is subjected to severe strain.

On the whole, we consider the bank experiment successful.

*THE Rochester Savings Bank extends heartiest congratulations to the Class of June 1923. Many of you will enter the business world at once. Most of you will seek some useful occupation for the summer.
In the long anticipated pleasure of handling your own earnings we would have you give pause for a moment and consider the careers of our eminently successful men. Almost without exception they attribute their later achievements in life to their first small savings laid aside from their first small earnings which made it possible to take advantage of the big op-

Earning Power

is something to be seriously considered by the High School graduate; and earning power depends entirely upon one's ability to sell his services with the assurance that he can deliver "value."

Practical courses for young men and women, such as are given at Mechanics Institute, in Industrial Arts, Home Economics and Applied Arts, are designed to prepare the students for positions of responsibility, with adequate remuneration.

East High students are invited to visit this Institute; study its facilities and equipment; and learn, first-hand, of the opportunities open to its graduates.

Let us help develop your earning power.

That is the goal of your thoughts as summer rounds into form and school days are fast becoming but a memory.

Oh! what good times, you will have, in the camp, at the seashore, in the mountains, at the lake—wherever it may be!

And there'll be tennis and baseball and golf and fishing and swimming—and Oh, Boy—just to think of it!

Before you actually go we hope to supply you with the necessary luggage, clothing, camp equipment, and various sporting goods supplies you will need—don't forget that we have all these things and can take the best of care of you.

Here's hoping we may have a hand in making your vacation this year the very best ever.

F. Haupt in 1950—This story was told to the writer by R. Stocker, President of Sears, Roebuck & Co. It seems that F. Haupt, a customer of the firm and proprietor of a small store in a Missouri cross-roads town, ordered a bill of goods from the company. Upon receipt of the goods he refused payment. Mr. Stocker wrote to Mr. Haupt stating that unless payment was forthcoming a law suit would be started. Other letters were also sent out to persons involved in the case, one to the station-agent, asking about the condition of the goods on arrival, another to the president of the bank asking for a statement of the financial standing of the customer, a third to the mayor of the town requesting him to recommend a good local lawyer to take the case.

Shortly afterward a letter was received from Mr. Haupt which read as follows: Dear Sirs: I received your letter telling me I had better pay up. Being station agent I may make a statement about the goods. As president of the bank I can assure you as to my financial standing. In the capacity of mayor, I hesitate to recommend a lawyer since I am the only member of the bar in this vicinity. If I were not pastor of the local Methodist church, I would tell you to go to H—L.

Frank Ferrigno, the well-known comedian, tragedian, and the rest of it, was billed for a one-night stand in Mallow-on-the-Marsh. So he sent a telegram to the proprietor of the local theatre:

"Will hold a rehearsal tomorrow night. Have stage-manager, stage-carpenter, property man, assistant electrician and all other stage hands without fail."

Within a few hours he got a reply from the proprietor, who wired back: "He will be there."

For Sale: A piano; good condition, property of lady leaving New York in elegant walnut case.
