CLASS ADVISERS

The Class of January, 1933, feels deeply indebted to its advisors, Mrs. Linda Brown and Frederick C. Watson, for the careful guidance they have given it throughout its stay in East High School. Without their assistance, we, the class, would have gotten into many difficulties which we have avoided; and, without their support, we would not have been able to do many things which we have done. Therefore, it is with a spirit of sincere gratitude that we now thank our class advisors for the cooperation and encouragement they have given us.

PRESS

The Editors of the January, 1933, edition of the Orient, desirous in their humble way of putting out an acceptable class-book, felt that due to the approaching end of the depression they would be able to carry a little more expense than the last two editions had incurred. We regret to say that the depression did not do its bit, but in spite of this difficulty the staff went ahead with the book as planned. It is now time for the reader to judge whether or not our hopes have been realized.

At this point we wish to acknowledge its indebtedness to Mr. Roy Davey, financial advisor to the Orient, without whose wise assistance we would now be wondering where all the money went. Mr. Davey took an inexperienced business staff, guided them through the devious and treacherous ways of financing a class-book, and brought them out of the maze safely. We shall be everlastingly grateful to him for this.

We also thank the faculty of the school, our class advisors, the staff stenographer, and all who have helped us when we were despondent, for the part they have played in the production of this book. We even appreciate the enthusiastic support which has been given us by our class.

MISS KATHERINE E. BURNS

MISS INEZ D'AMANDA

DRAMA

It was a distinctive but regretful honor that came to our class on the presentation of our first class play, "Climbing Roses." Miss Katherine Burns ended her many years of service as dramatic advisor in East High School. The play proved to be a success dramatically and financially. Being the first large scale venture of the class, it seemed to be that particular little push to get class activities under way. At the beginning of the last semester we found an encouraging display of enthusiasm over our final play. This road was not easily traversed. There loomed before us, seemingly, unconquerable obstacles. Miss Burns resignation and the school's rigid economy schedule had left us without a director. On all sides were evidences of severe financial strain which caused particular consideration on the part of our advisors as to the financial success of such a venture.

We were nearly resigned to the probability of doing without a play, when Miss Inez D'Amanda appeared on the scene and kindly volunteered her time and efforts to mold into shape our parting gesture to our Alma Mater, "She's a Good Fellow." Immediately began the hum of activity. Senior day was given us as the date to produce the play, managers were elected, and the usual difficulty of choosing a cast was overcome. At the present writing, our Senior Play, "She's a Good Fellow," is well on the way to a successful presentation. We thank Miss D'Amanda for her timely help.

KENNETH L. MOOK

DUANE HASKELL

MUSIC

Mr. Mook has now been head of the Music Department for over two years. Although at first confronted with the problem of decreased choral club membership due to the opening of Benjamin Franklin, Mr. Mook has worked hard to increase the size and number of choral clubs. At present, there are three choral clubs, from which number an A Capella Choir of selected voices is chosen. This robed choir is an innovation in East High School, introduced by Mr. Mook with the support of the entire vocal organization. An annual spring concert by the combined choral clubs gives evidence of the type and quality of work being done.

Although Mr. Haskell has been with us but a short time, he has enlarged both band and orchestra, developing in them that quality of performance which we enjoyed before the opening of Benjamin Franklin. Mr. Haskell has also organized a dance orchestra which has proven popular at the Dime Dances.

We congratulate Mr. Mook and Mr. Haskell on the work they have accomplished and wish them equal success in future years.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

JAMES FOWLE

ROBERT MCKAY

Besides taking care of the physical education program in East High School, "Doc" Fowle and "Pete" McKay, as they are familiarly known to the students here, have for several years coached all the athletic teams that the school has had in competition. We feel that tribute is due to them for this two-fold accomplishment.

MISS LILLIAN WANGMAN

MISS EFFIE WETHERELL

Although there are no extra-mural sports for girls in East High School, a very suitable program of activities has been substituted. To Miss Wangman and Miss Wetherell goes the credit for their splendid piece of work.

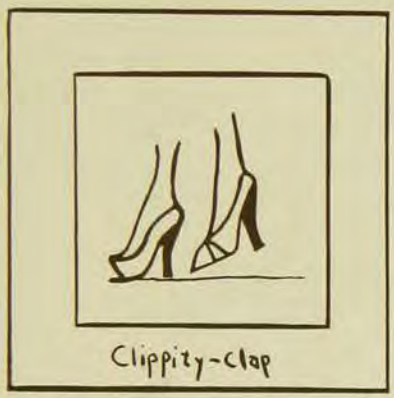
OSCAR

Oscar went a walking
Through the halls of old East High
A looking at the gruesome light
Sent down from out the sky
To frighten him away.
But Oscar wasn't just the lad
To scare at things becuz
Until he'd met a ghost, said he
He'd stay right where he wuz
Thence, let our Oscar stay.
On tip-tip toes then went this lad
From room to room to room
Until at last in one dark place
He heard a frightening boom
"Hey, send the next mug in."
Then Oscar felt a brutal shove
And found himself inside
A merciless monster's morbid den
With dark door open wide
To snare outcasts of sin.
The monster's eyes flashed green with rage
His talon hands a-grope.
As Oscar watched with fear-struck eyes
There fled his last fond hope.

Then the monster's voice with a hearty roar
"Say, Pal, have you heard this one before"?
Ahoy! A bell! Now whatthehell?
Now wherefore all this noise?
Just the clatter-clat clat of the girl's high heels
And the vain attempt of the boys
To get to the lunch room fast.
The menu today? Well, Irish stew.
You find the meat; it's a game
There are onions, and carrots and onions, too
But they eat it just the same.
The reward? Some meat at last.
Then, gathering up the pieces,
To the lunch room Oscar walked
And there he heard with no little surprise
Some people who ate as they talked

A dark place in E.H.S.

Central Library of Rochester and Monroe County · Yearbook Collection



Instead of talking and eating.
The din hurt his ears and the sight hurt his eyes
And he thought, with a pain in his head,
(For Ossie wasn't a man of thought
As we should already have said)
Of the very young lamb's noisy bleating.
Ahoy! A bell! Now whatthehell?
The lunchroom suddenly cleared
And Oscar, looking up from under
Overheard a roar of thunder
As the end of the lunch hour appeared.
Then Ossie climbed the stairs in a daze
And wandered into a room
And there the air was weighted with thought
And loaded down with gloom.
It was a faculty meeting.

Ossie took a seat near the front
For the back ones all seemed to be filled
With profoundly thoughtful master minds
Whose thoughts seemed to stroll as they willed
Ossie listened for awhile
To the ponderous pedagogues piteous pleas
About youth, and school, and carelessness
And the worrisome number of E's
Our hero thought, as they heard them blame
The trouble on the pupils
That he'd heard the students, much as this
Blame the faculty for their ills.
And Oscar laughed
and laughed
and laughed
and laughed
and laughed!

CONFIDENCE

Confidence means a lot in selling. If you can feel assured that what you purchase from a concern is "right" many futile hours of "shopping around" can be saved. You just know that a certain man, a certain organization will not sell you an article that is not truly dependable.

All the gas and electrical equipment we sell is first given an exhaustive laboratory test before we will undertake to sell it to our customers. Our offering it for sale is equivalent to our Confidence in it. This confidence you, too, may enjoy.
