THE GIFT OF

Nathaniel G. West

O R I E N T

SWEET be thy memory, High School of ours,
Fair be thy destiny, fadeless thy flowers;
Hearts that have loved thee have won in life's fight,
Names that we honor, thy standards hold bright.

Our Alma Mater dear, to thee we sing,
May all thy future years new honors bring;
May friends thy banner raise, thy foes grow less,
All love and praise to our old E. H. S.

CLASS OF JAN. '36

CLASS HISTORY

Nothing is more susceptible to metaphorical description in the undulations and vicissitudes of high school life than the treacherous, mutable waters of a sea—a sea of Education.

The Class of Jan. '36 sailed their first year in an one-masted "scow"—called the East High Annex—under the command of a little, sawed-off apprentice seaman named "Peg-Leg" Swift. "Peg-Leg" shoved many a sailor into the hold and then shouted, "Man Overboard!" (What he really shouted is censored).

From that little, one-masted "scow" which docked on University Avenue we took our second-year passports and transferred to the "Big Raft" on Alexander Street. Oh, woe to the poor sailor when he first visited the "Stately Ship," thinking that knowing two lines of the school song was knowledge, and then finding that he must pilot his own canoe across the turbulent stream!

About the Third Year, after the most serious signs of seasickness had disappeared via the "plank," the average seaman began to distinguish the "crew" from the "crowd"; he learned one whole stanza of the Alma Mater and sang it with plenty of enthusiasm—though he wasn't sure just why. Yes, and in this year of Junior-joy we became aware of an enemy within our midst—a pirate and his band of thieves; it was "Long John" Merrell and his robbing cutthroats—working silently and swiftly—throwing men in irons—throwing them without warning into the sea with lead weights around their necks. So it was that we had to fight the "Mutiny On Our Bounty" and struggle on through typhoon and trouble, some riding high in swift speedboats, some still poling their rafts, and some—not even swimming.

Every sailor who had learned the laws of navigation had, by the fourth year, maneuvered his fragile craft into the Senior Sea. By weathering the hidden reefs and sudden storms he had learned all the "ropes." Nevertheless, whether it was by lifeboat or by the officially charted course, we mustered together a small but worthy crew. We elected a captain and proceeded to put things in shipshape order. The crowning achievements were a three-act play and two incomparable parties. To Miss Elsie G. Neun and Mr. F. Niles Bacon, the class navigators, who poured many a barrel of oil on the troubled waters of Jan. '36, we owe more than we can give.

So out into the currents of life we go to drop anchor wherever we may—and, Oh, yes, we did eventually learn all the words to the Alma Mater, and there is a meaning behind it all.

CLASS OF JUNE '36

CLASS HISTORY

Our life in E. H. S. was broken up—into four parts.

We came, fully misinstructed in grammar school, some 240 strong to invade—or infest?—the little red school hut on University Avenue. The fit was rather tight, but they squashed us in although the walls bulged and the floors sagged, and in the halls it was "push—or be pushed." A. B. Swift's cubby-hole, on the second floor, stuffed with desks, records, and a sympathetic typist had depending from the ceiling a string of water-squirter pistols, making the place resemble an arsenal. It was A. B. S.'s hobby, the G-man in him.

Before we knew it, we had "compared" answers in the Annex for the last time: we were sophomores. We now—some of us—made the acquaintance of J. Merrell, the man of boos, who seemed to wield power with just a twist of the wrist. He struck us in the right spot. Then there was F. C. Watson, who blushed so pleasingly pink; and the girls just adored his curls. P. J. S. also impressed us with his dignity and won us. These mathematicians!

Another notch, and we were juniors, deflated but rarin' to go. Seniors no longer looked so high-hat, and frosh seemed babyish. Oh, with what facility we took the curves in the halls, and dashed downstairs! (Then someone wrote "—And Sudden Death.")

Too soon, our shoulders were burdened with the responsibilities of seniors, literally, "The Elders." (See, it's our Latin!) There were the elections, a bit of adversive electioneering to provide some spark, but our fast punning boy with brains, W. V. K., came through. And there were the Regents, which came, saw and (sometimes) conquered. Thence, with the static crackling of Roy Davey's "radio," as accompaniment, we assembled the "Orient." Spliced in were the senior play tryouts, where hopes materialized and others dissipated. But we all had our fun.

So it is with a certain sadness that we glance in retrospect: School traditions were made and broken. The April Frolics began in our frosh year. Book rental came in. Friends were made, groups formed, clubs frequented, teachers found friendly and not too annoying. All these and many more are now memories, which we shall treasure with all our hearts, which shall never recur to us without a pang of emotion, emotion that "resembles sorrow only as the mist resembles rain."

. . STEPPING STONES . .

When spaced stepping stones mark the way across the stream of Preparation to the land of Business Careers, it is best to take each step rather than to leap—and possibly miss.

Which, being translated, means: High School, then R. B. I., then a position in business. That's better than jumping right for a job and losing out through lack of a drill in business fundamentals and practice.

Make your high school education mean more to you. Top off with one of these helpful R. B. I. Day School Courses:

Every Home Needs an I. E. S.

Better Light, Better Sight Lamp

These famous lamps give MORE and BETTER light than ordinary lamps. They are prescribed for SEEING by the experts of the Illuminating Engineering Society of America, who really know what a good lamp ought to be.

Poor lighting, common to many homes, causes eye strain which uses up nervous energy and produces fatigue, headaches and other nervous disorders. If your eyes bother you, have them examined, but if the trouble is in the lighting, let us help you check it up.
