WEST HIGH SCHOOL
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

Dedicated to Azariah B. Sias

IN HIM THE SCHOOL HAS A LOYAL SUPPORTER, AND THE STUDENT A TRUSTED FRIEND. HIS MORAL EARNESTNESS, HIS SKILL AS A TEACHER AND DEPARTMENTAL LEADER, HIS WILLINGNESS TO PUT OUR INTEREST ABOVE HIS OWN PERSONAL CONVENIENCE ARE QUALITIES WHICH ENDEAR HIM TO THE HEART OF EVERY WEST HIGH STUDENT. HIS WHOLESOME INFLUENCE WILL CONTINUE LONG AFTER STUDENT DAYS ARE PAST.

Rochester Alma Mater

Sweet be thy memory, High School of ours,
Fair be thy destiny, fadeless thy flowers,
Hearts that have loved thee have won in life's fight;
Names that we honor thy standard holds bright.

Our Alma Mater dear, to thee we sing,
May all thy future years new honors bring,
May friends thy banners raise, thy foes grow less;
All love and praise to our old R. H. S.

West High Alma Mater

Proudly waves old West High's emblem, black and orange fair,
Floats triumphant in the breezes, no dishonor there.
Student days have fondest memories, comrades here we stand,
As our troth to Alma Mater pledge we hand in hand.

From thy halls, dear Alma Mater, we at length must part,
But thy memory shall not perish from one student's heart;;
Far away on life's broad highway, all shall fortune try,
Still our loving hearts will cherish thoughts of thee, West High.

THE FACULTY

The Greeting of the Faculty Babies

"Oh, we are the Faculty Babies,
So small and so carefree,"
If you think our parents abuse you
Some words we'd say to thee!
We would never attempt to scold you
Nor send you from a class,
Do try to learn to love us—
Each boy and every lass."

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS

Class Poem

Love, Honor, Duty, Alma Mater dear,
Have held us here within thy halls four years.
'Tis four long years, but ah, how short they seem;
For midst our joys and sorrows, yea our fears,
The time thus spent seems but a fading dream.

With eagerness and joy you've watched the light
Of knowledge, as it dawned upon our sight.
And now, dear Mother, gratefully we bring,
For thou hast surely guided us aright,
Our best to thee, a modest offering.

Within our hearts no other holds such sway;
For when despairing we would fain giv'n way
And cast ourselves upon the treach'rous reef,
Your standard bright shone like a beacon ray,
Inspired hope and brought us sweet relief.

As soldiers in the strife we have been strong,
When failures ever round us seemed to throng.
We've onward pushed to this victorious hour,
E'en though thro pitfalls we were led along,
And gained our goal through Perseverance's power.

In these eventful years, that backward lie,
The truth of this great thought we did descry—
Progression's not the beaten path to wend,
But the new untrodden one to try
And, in defeat, to none but success bend.

Now joyfully, yet sadly, we depart
Out in the world, each one to do his part.
And, though our walks in life divergent be,
Thy memory we'll hold within our hearts
And oft in praise our voices raise to thee.

New faces we have met, new friendships found
That we shall cherish as the years roll round.
And, when we chance to think of days gone by,
Recalled shall be the sacred tie that bound
Us to these friends, and this, Our Own West High.

DOROTHY DISNEY.

Class History

'Tis June again—June of the year 1914, and the last year of our high school life is drawing to a close. The four years have been filled to the brim with the activities of a busy, happy life. We look back upon them with pleasure and with something of regret in leaving them behind.

It was only four short years ago that we were Freshmen, as timid, little and insignificant, or as big, fat and mischievous children as the Freshmen who wander about our halls to-day. How our Senior brothers and sisters smiled when the girls became lost in the boys' study-rooms; and how they laughed when we rushed into recitations and tried to save seats for our friends in the last row of study room desks instead of marching into our places on the recitation benches!

However, we soon became accustomed to the life of the school, and began to enter into its activities. In baseball, our newly formed team took the class championship. At our first class meeting, in the second term of our Freshman year, nearly all the class was present to elect its officers, and in their enthusiasm all wanted to talk at once.

In our second year we had an informal dance and "get acquainted" party in the girls' gymnasium. Later in the year we gave our Sophomore Dance in the corridors of the building. This, our first real undertaking, was a great success.

Next we were called upon to exert our dramatic ability. We were Juniors now, respected Upper Classmen, and we were determined to keep up the same high standard in dramatics, which the classes before us had raised. Under the direction of Mrs. Ellis we presented a play called, "Two Strings to Her Bow." The parts were well taken by everyone in the cast and the play was thoroughly enjoyable.

During our Junior year, too, we held our Junior Prom in Sibley Hall. Everyone who was there remembers the evening with pleasure, and can testify to its success.

The first three years of High School life passed quickly, and almost before we realized it, we were stepping into our places as Seniors. The short dresses and "pigtailed" of the girls had vanished, and the boys had grown a foot or two.

Since our Junior play had proved such a success, we entered with confidence into plans for the Senior play, George Eliot's Silas Marner, dramatized by Mrs. Ellis. Walter Folmer as Silas proved to everyone his genius as an actor, and the play was declared one of the finest ever presented in the school.

Our Senior Dance was held in Teall's Hall, in co-operation with the January Class. The music was excellent, the hall beautifully decorated, and although the proportion of the class present was rather small, those who were there had a delightful time.

Aside from its social life and its dramatics, the class of June, 1914, has always been well known in athletics, debating, chess, in the musical clubs and in all the activities of the school. With Wallace MacKelvey in basketball, Carl Allen in soccer, Harold Anderson in baseball, and George Taylor in track, as well as other strong and reliable men, our class has put forth its best efforts and has shown itself strong in athletics.

In debating many of the class have been prominent, and to their concentrated effort much of the school's success in this line is due.

Under the competent management of Sheldon Howell the musical clubs have flourished this year, and have given several enjoyable entertainments.

Although the class is large, its average in scholarship is high. We have kept faithfully at our tasks through all the four years, and now we are nearing the end of our Senior year, the time when we shall leave our dear Alma Mater and part, to go in different directions. We shall be remembered in the High School by the memorial we are leaving it, but may we be remembered also for what we are—is the wish of the class of June, 1914.

To 1915

Our high school days are almost over;
Most of us have lived in clover,
None have had to be content with hay.
Leave all troubles far behind you,
And allow us to remind you
Time is slipping very fast away.
Nineteen hundred ten is history;
Nineteen fourteen, yet a mystery;
May the friendships of the past be ever dear!
The best that we can wish you
Is—"A happy and a prosperous career."

Editorials

When one takes leave of the place in which he has been brought up, the old familiar associations cling to his memory while he is absent. Indeed they are ever more vivid than the associations of later life when these too are severed. Perhaps this is true because the atmosphere of the old surroundings has, from earliest childhood, influenced his every deed and thought, has grown to be a very part of his nature.

The Senior Class, in leaving their Alma Mater are, in this respect, like one leaving his childhood home. Each day that we have spent within the walls of West High has contributed its little share towards our nature and character in the general plan of education; not only in the learning of books, but in that broader education of the knowledge of life. Each day has added new warmth to our friendships. From each activity in which we have taken part we have drawn a deeper sense of loyalty to, and personal responsibility for, the honor of the school which that activity represents. Indeed we have grown to be a part of the West High School.

Now as we go forth into new fields that are "white unto the harvest" of larger things, we do not feel that we are severing home ties forever. Instead we feel that we are going out into the world to show people what a West High student can be among men. And although we must leave our immediate associations, dear though they are now, they will be more endeared by absence and time.

Wherever our life work takes us, still the influence of our life here will have engraved itself deeply upon us, and we will ever be proud to feel and say, "I am a graduate of West High School."

Although the event will occur too late to be described in detail in this publication, we wish to make mention of the beautiful gift that will soon grace our assembly hall stage, and of the exercises accompanying its presentation.

On June ninth, as now planned, the Woman's Relief Corps of the G. A. R. will present to the West High School a flag and standard. A patriotic program will also be rendered at this time by the student body and members thereof.

It is the custom to have the most representative boy of the school act as the custodian of the flag, and for this reason the girls, despite their excellent scholarship, have not had the highest honor of their Alma Mater open to them. Very fittingly, therefore, Miss Anber Benedict has been selected as the custodian of the new banner. Each year hereafter it will be transferred to the girl that stands highest in scholarship.

The justice of this arrangement pleases us all, in addition to the gratitude we feel towards the Woman's Relief Corps for their more than gracious gift. They may be assured that when we look upon the flag we shall feel deeply a sense of loyalty to Our Country, to the men who fought to save her, and to the members of the Woman's Relief Corps.

That a great change in our school routine had occurred was evident, when upon returning after examination week, we found that our study rooms were sealed against us during vacant periods, and that we were at last going to be able to really study, instead of reciting with the class in the front of the room.

Owing to the newness of the system, it took a little time to round off the rough edges, yet seeing its value at once, we did not mind sitting two in a seat for a while. When our large hall was completed in Room 55, we certainly had no course open but to praise the wisdom and adoption of the new study hall system.

During the past year we have welcomed among our faculty several new teachers. At the beginning of the fall term, we found Mr. Boutwell in the English department and Mr. Rourke teaching Latin in Room 11. Mr. Leighton also was in charge of the Physics laboratory, and the boys greeted a new helper in the gymnasium, our friend Mr. Watson. We found that Mr. Carpenter had come to us, bringing several suit cases of Intermediate Algebra and Solid Geometry.

The new study hall system brought to West High Miss Ferguson, Mrs. Goodrich, Miss Lincoln and Mr. Wheelan. At the beginning of this term we welcomed Miss Merrell from Clyde, N. Y., into our Latin department. Mrs. Johnson is very ably taking Mr. Miller's place in room 15, and owing to Miss Curtiss' absence on account of the illness of her father, Miss Challice has charge of Room 16. The interest which she has taken in the English work is greatly appreciated by Miss Curtiss' classes.

The south wing of the building was for a time this spring without the presence of one of the girls' best friends. Miss Manchester was obliged to return to her home in Newport, Rhode Island, at Easter time because of illness. She fully expected to be back about the middle of May, but because of her father's serious illness has been unable to return, and has been compelled to give up her work to the able management of Miss Crouch.

This is the last term that Miss Felsing will be with us in our English classes. After school closes, we understand that she intends to embark upon the Matrimonial Sea. Miss Felsing has served both the students and the school, by her helpful class teaching and her personal help, besides doing her share in our social events. We all extend to her our warmest wishes that her voyage may be one of lasting happiness, although we who remain as students will feel deeply her loss.

We shall also be sorry to lose Miss Crippen for a year, because of her interest in all lines of school events. However, we wish her success in her journey and a profitable sojourn in "gay Paris," and know that she will bring to us many new ideas that will help us, even as she has done in the past.

It is hardly necessary to remark about tree day because that occasion occurred so recently, yet we take pleasure in reviewing it for the benefit of those who could not be present for the exercises. After shortened periods, the students marched out of the building by classes, the Seniors first, to a spirited march played by the orchestra, and formed around an enclosure on the north side of the building.

Here a very pretty and lively masque, written by Mrs. Ellis, was presented, using home talent in the acting. The idea of the masque was to acquaint man with nature and teach him to love her. Mother Nature, represented by Isabel Hollinshead, and the Poet, played by Walter Folmer work together to accomplish this end. Mother Nature sends the Child of Man, characterized by Dorothy Disney, to gather her friends. Soon they come crowding, in great numbers, giving Mother Nature an opportunity of making herself known to them. She summons different spirits who dance into the enclosure arrayed in gaudy costumes, first, the Spirit of Flowers (Gertrude Sutherland), then the spirit of Arbutus. The Spirit of the Sunflowers (Doris Belden), also enters, and the Spirit of the Chrysanthemums (Henrietta Burt). Last appear the Spirit of the Birds (Gladys Smithers), and of the Greenwood Tree (Charles McCray). Each spirit talks to the Children of Men, who are at length taught to love and protect Nature. After the Tree's monologue, a quartette sang "Woodman, Spare That Tree."

When the masque was over, the students assembled in front of the school, around the tree which was planted. Miss Marion Henckell received the spade from Miss Eloise Smith, fitting remarks being made on both sides.

Finally, the student body turned and gave a salute to the Flag, after which they sang "America." While they were disbanding, the Orchestra struck up the strains of our Alma Mater, and everybody joined in the song.

Ave Atque Vale

It falls to me, to express for the Alumni and students of West High School, an appreciation of the work and character of one who is about to leave us.

No employment would give me greater pleasure than to testify to the wonderful influence of this friend of ours, if it were not at the time of her leave taking. But, since this is also a farewell, the task brings with it a peculiar feeling of sadness.

To those of us who have graduated, but who still retain our lively interest in West High School, this resignation brings a feeling of personal loss. It is, however, to those who remain and those who are yet to enter our school that my real sympathy goes. For they are to be deprived of the great privilege and the rare opportunity that has been ours.

Four years I was with Miss Crennell in her study room. To the boys of Room 12, in the Class of 1909, Miss Crennell was a teacher, a friend, a mother. She was interested in all our endeavors. In our successes, a source of inspiration and help; in our failures a source of comfort and strength. But Miss Crennell cannot be claimed by any one group or any single class.

She has given her time, her thought and her energy to the advancement of the school as a whole. So what I affirm for myself and my classmates, I am in a truer sense saying for all of us.

I cannot think of West High School without thinking of Miss Crennell, and I rejoice that in picturing my West High School this will never be necessary.

Miss Crennell—you will ever live in our hearts, as the true, lovely, Christian woman, whom we all admire as a teacher and love as a friend. We will not say good-bye, rather, let us wish you God speed on the rest of life's journey.

Miss Crennell—you are leaving us now. But you go with the assurance that however far you may be from West High School, you will forever remain within the circle of our interest, our love and our prayers.

Almost at the apex of our High School fame, we pause to mention those qualities in us which must needs demand recognition. First is the quality of each individual member. There are no poor ones among us; each one is a shining light in himself. Each one has an aggressive spirit for things which are right; each one is awake to High School responsibilities. Though everyone cannot be at the head of the class at the same time, each one does his or her level best to do their part.

It is this spirit, together with the most generous cooperation of the faculty which has led to our successful Class activities. We recount briefly the most enjoyable dance which we gave during our Sophomore year, our highly commendable Junior Dance, and finally the pleasant, profitable and most enjoyable evening which we recently spent on May 22nd. As a Class, we feel most especially indebted to Mrs. Ellis for the unceasing work which she devoted to the Junior Play. It is impossible for us to repay her in any material way.

To state it briefly, our Class in a few short months will be the first class in the school. We assume this dignity not with such a sense of pride that our heads are turned. We hope, that we may merit the respect due this high position, and we feel that we shall quickly prove our nobility.

Concluding, we wish, in our last chance, to express our pleasure that we are still to have a half year in West High, and we know that this last year will be the best year of them all.

JOHN G. HOWARD, President.

Class of 1915—June

President—Charles Lakeman
Vice-President—Della Allen
Secretary—Erle Remington
Treasurer—Ruth Vianco

The class of June, 1915, has been more active this term than any time heretofore. With the combined efforts of the class of January, 1915, we held a Junior Prom at Sibley Hall which proved to be a great social success.

The scholarship of the class is particularly fine. Grace Howell, Florence Chittenden, Mary Hershey, Madeline Keith, Margaret Carrier, Mildred Benedict, and Clyde Brockett are a few of our illustrious ones.

In debating we are very well represented by Celesta DeSeck, who did so splendidly in the girls' debate with East High.

Under the direction of Mrs. Ellis our Junior Play was a great success.

CHARLES S. LAKEMAN, President.

CLASSES OF 1915

Class of 1916—January

President—Mary Cowles
Vice-President—Mildred Long
Secretary—Robert Thomas
Treasurer—Orton Lannin

To the class of January, 1916, most ancient and honorable, the following facts are addressed:

If, when gazing upon the beautiful picture supposed to represent the class of 1916, comparatively few faces connected in your memory with said class meet the eye, you must not suppose that, though not present in the body, each and every member was not with us in the spirit. For such is not the case. Unfortunately, however, a camera for taking spirit pictures has yet to be invented.

If, when looking back upon the school year, you recall few class meetings, you must attribute that fact, not to the slowness of the class, but rather to the activity of its members, for we are so well represented in all branches of school activities that small time is left for those lesser affairs connected with our class.

MARY COWLES, President.

Class of 1916—June

President—Casselman Hess
Vice-President—Edna Baker
Secretary—Alma Haessig
Treasurer—Milton Woodams

Although the members of the class of June, 1916, are yet under-classmen, they have already distinguished themselves in educational, physical and social work.

In the classroom, Ruth Bentley, Merle Kolb and Arthur Munson are a few of those upon whom the scholarship of the class depends.

The class is represented in the physical field by a large number of boys and girls. In the recent girls' gymnasium meet, a large proportion of points were gained by its members.

Thus far this semester, the social work of the class has been somewhat neglected, but it is expected that plans will be made for some such event later in the term.

CASSELMAN B. HESS, President.

CLASSES OF 1916

Class of 1917—January

President—Elmer Way
Vice-President—Jesse Brohel
Secretary—Arthur Cotton
Treasurer—Rachel Messenger

We have not been doing much this year as a class but we have been doing things individually as any teachers' class book will show.

A meeting of the class was held some time ago when Executive Council members were elected. Mr. Kintzel, Miss Horner and Mr. Way were chosen for this honor. Mr. Kintzel is now serving on the Dramatic Committee, Miss Horner on the Literary and Mr. Way on the School Publications.

The class is also well represented in both boys' and girls' athletics. We have men in soccer, track and tennis, while our girls have been prominent in basketball and in the gymnasium meet.

ELMER WAY, President.

Class of 1917—June

President—Marjory Storey
Vice-President—Elmer Merz
Secretary—Richard Wegman
Treasurer—Horace Thomas

Though this class has been only a year in West High School it is already well known and distinguished in many ways.

Ours is the largest class that has ever entered West High, but not in numbers alone is it prominent. In scholarship Elizabeth Shedd, Ada Mahan, Marshall Knox and Ellsworth Gore have shown great promise, while Gertrude McDaris and Silvia Hamalainen in the girls' gym, and Richard Wegman in the boys' have held up the standard of the class in athletics.

What other class can boast of such twins as ours? Lillian and Loretta McCarty, and Elmer and Milton Merz seem to enjoy puzzling, not only their classmates, but their teachers as well. Those in the school who do not know our Nellie White are very few indeed.

In a recent class meeting Catherine Robinson was elected Guardian of Honor for the Flag exercises June 9th.

June, 1917, has started its High School course unusually well and may compare favorably, in time, with the Senior Class of 1914.

MARJORY STOREY, President.

CLASSES OF 1917

Class of 1918—January

The Class of January, 1918, according to custom, has not yet organized and for that reason there has been no report of its work. It may be well, however, to note some of the future celebrities of this class.

Among its members is Erwin Schoeffel, whose sisters, Winona and Marjorie, are esteemed alumnae. Helen Smith, Marvel Sherman, James Pulsifer, Helen Tobey, Nilda Masters, Ruth Loomis, Dorothy Heinrich, Lucy Gay, Marion Cushman and Ruth Seeber have each a brother or a sister attending school at present. One most active class member is Harriet Clune, the younger sister of our good friend "Bud." In fact, we are inclined to believe that all are somewhat active, if we can judge by the wearied expression on Miss Ray's face at the close of school on Fridays.

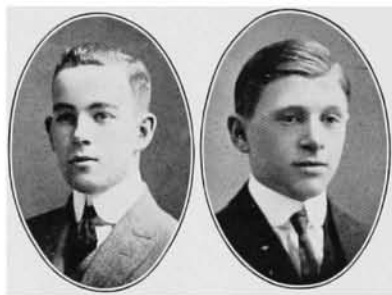

That there are many brilliant students in this freshman class, is evident from the long honor roll in Miss Wetmore's room. We hope that they may increase this roll steadily until January, 1918.

DRAMATICS

MRS. CHAS. S. ELLIS

The Year's Dramatics

After studying the plays of the most famous English dramatist during our four years, we have witnessed two of our own productions this year, the first by members of the Senior Class, and the second by the Juniors. Both of these were given under the careful, profitable supervision of Mrs. Ellis our sole instructor in Dramatic Art.

The Senior Play which appeared on Friday, January 16, 1914, was Mrs. Ellis' own dramatization of George Eliot's wonderfully interesting novel "Silas Marner." The dramatized version comprises three acts and seven scenes, and its thirty-two characters gave an opportunity to many members of the large Senior Classes to compete for parts.

As the majority of us have read and know well this story, it will suffice to spend our time upon the participants and the synopsis of scenes.

The first and shortest act is the trial of Silas at the Chapel in Lantern Yard, in which the minister, William Dane, and Silas are the most important persons. In this scene Silas is betrayed by his friend William and spurned by Sarah, his betrothed, after which he considers himself an outcast, and cursing God—leaves.

Act two portrays the life at Raveloe sixteen years after Marner has settled there and earned a goodly living with his weaving. The dining room of the Red House occupies the first scene in this act and there is an altercation between Squire Cass' two sons, concerning money. Dunstan, the younger, was very amusing and a surprise to all, as his part was so far removed from the character of him who played it. The principal female characters are introduced in the latter part of this same scene when Marner brings them a new piece of linen.

The scene following this is a representation of the little one-roomed hut in which Marner, who is a miser, lives and works. He leaves in a terrible thunder storm to get some twine and Dunstan Cass enters, takes possession of his hoarded gold, and decamps. Scene three of this act, the New Year's party at the Red House, enlivens the play with bits of humor and an old-time Virginia Reel, after which Silas rushes in with Eppie in his arms. This is the climax and was well acted. The last scene in this act presents a room very different in appearance from the one in the second scene, for Eppie is bringing new ideas into Marner's life. Neighbors have contracted the habit of dropping in, and as an instance of this, Dolly Winthrop, a friendly country wife comes in with a basket of cookies and some bits of gossip.

The very last act occurs after another lapse of sixteen years, in which Silas' gold is discovered and returned, Eppie and Aaron are happily mated, and Marner settles down to enjoy a life of ease.

The final scene is in the garden of the Red House which Godfrey and Nancy now possess. After the successful draining of the pit and the subsequent finding of Dunstan, Godfrey confesses all to Nancy and the play is brought to a happy close.

The Junior Play which was also directed by Mrs. Ellis, appeared on May 22, 1914, and was a rollicking Irish farce of one act, written by Lady Gregory. "Spreading the News" it was called, and was an example of what rumor can do with a simple story, aided by a deaf woman.

The whole action transpires at the outskirts of a Fair, at the side of an Apple Stall—which is kept by the deaf Mrs. Tarpey. Jack Smith, by reason of his carelessness, was the origin of the whole affair, for as he passed out of the fair grounds he left his pitch-fork; his friend Bartley Fallon ran after him thinking that he might need it, and the misunderstanding of Mrs. Tarpey starts the gossip. However, the whole thing comes out all right and it ends in a general laugh.

The Juniors in the presentation of this farce gave promise of an equally entertaining Senior Play

The Year in the Girls' Gymnasium

One of the most successful years in the history of our "Girls' Gym" has been completed. Formerly this factor in the school curriculum has been neglected and has not been considered very important, but stricter measures have been adopted and now the majority of the freshmen are compelled to "take," and the older girls form an advanced class, which is well attended.

The activities this year started with a very successful tennis tournament, in which thirty girls entered the doubles and ten the singles. After a long interesting contest the doubles were won by Effie Donaldson '14, and Phoebe Kernan '15, while Marie Redding '14, carried off the honors in singles for the second successive season.

At the close of the tennis season, a hockey court was marked out on the lawn and the girls practiced until cold weather drove them indoors where the regular exercises were taken up.

About the beginning of December the girls of the freshman class asked to have a Study Room Basketball League and their suggestion was immediately carried out, with the result that the five freshman study rooms practiced faithfully and formed very creditable teams. At the close of the winter term the games were played off, Room 42 winning the banner and Room 48 runner up.

Early in the year it was decided that there would be no regular school team and the time generally taken up by its practicing would be given over to training class teams. More than usual interest was aroused in these games and better teams than usual were formed. June 1916 with Katherine Kernan as captain, won the championship in a closely contested game with January '15, whose captain was Edith Taylor.

Immediately after the excitement of the basketball games was over there were several strenuous practices for the Gymnasium meet which comes in the spring of every year. On April 9th, two days before the opening of the spring vacation, this meet was run off. June '16 and January '15 tied for first place with 25 points each. Anna Hoesteroy, January '16, won the silver cup with a total of 18 points, and Sylvia Hamalainen was a close second with 17 points. Three girls, Katherine Kernan '16, Helen Yerger '16, and Ellen Pease '16, completed the requirements for the monograms, having won class numerals in three different branches of athletic work.

After the Easter vacation Miss Manchester, because of illness, was unable to return, and although she has been greatly missed, Miss Crouch, who is substituting for her, has carried on the work in baseball and in teaching dances for Tree Day, splendidly.

Taking the year altogether it has been a most successful one, advancing the work in girls' gymnastic training, and showing the great interest of the girls in this activity so necessary for their health.

Comparatively few people in the city realize that the high school news which appears in the newspapers from time to time is written by high school boys. The general impression is that the stories are written by reporters who are assigned to the high schools. In a measure they are right, for the boys are assigned to high school news, but it is seldom that they are given an opportunity to display their ability in regular work.

The Press Club is composed of six boys, each one representing one of the local papers. The club has always aimed to hold a banquet during the year in order to assure the members of the various teams that the reporters appreciate their work, although the articles which appear from time to time may not carry that impression. This year the banquet had to be given up, but the feeling between the members of the club and the athletes of the school has been most friendly.

During the past year West High School news has been furnished the papers by Howard Kemp, Leslie E. Lunt, Harold Reilly, Richard Gregory, Page Mountfort, and Charles Lakeman.

The annual election of officers of the club is always an interesting event and this year it was very interesting inasmuch as the offices hinged upon the toss of a coin. The afternoon set for the meeting arrived and Howard Kemp and Leslie Lunt were the only boys to appear. As there is no constitution it was decided by Kemp and Lunt to flip up a coin for the office of president and the loser should be declared the other officers. The coin was tossed up and Kemp was elected president, the other offices going to Lunt. Such is the audacity of the "Scoops."

"When is a point not a point?"

Harold Anderson: "When it's a pole." (Of a great circle.)

"What became of the ancient Romans?"

R. Stace: "They all died."

"Why is it you are always behind in your studies?"

N. Storey: "Because if I were not behind with them, I could not pursue them."

"Where can I find the ten commandments?"

H. Barbour: "Well, you might look in Genesis." (And he a minister's son!)

Esther Brayer (coming to "mon cher" in her translation): "But I can't call him "my dear," can I?"

Helen K: "Lend me a pencil, will you?"

Friend: "I'm sorry, but I've only one."

H. K.: "I only want one."

Teacher in French class: "What kind of condition is 'If we had money, we would travel far'?"

C. Fredericks (with a sigh): "Contrary to fact."

H. Barbour: "This is an especially good issue."

A. Melville, Virgil student: "And her tears splashed on the ground."

Teacher: "Illustrate an unfulfilled wish in the present tense."

D. Belden: "I wish I wasn't here."

S. Thomas: "I looked over the review."

Mr. Holmes: "Are you sure you didn't overlook it?"

R. Turner: "Chaucer wrote the 'Cranberry Tales.'"

Teacher: "Why do they have negative numbers?"

W. Skinner: "So that the thermometer can fall below zero."

K. Masters: "I don't care who wins as long as it's West High."

H. Hatch: "And he stumbled over the tree tops."

Mr. Carpenter: "What is the symbol for hydroxyl?"

I. Hollinshed: "H-O."

Mr. Carpenter: "That's a breakfast food, Isabel."

E. Bond (translating from Vergil): "'Aeneas insignis armis.'" Aeneas was renowned for his feat with arms."

Staff Artist (Z. Webster): "That old barn of yours is decidedly picturesque, may I paint it?"

Chili Hayseed: "Wa'al, a leetle paint wouldn't do it no harm. What do you charge?"

Lapsus Linguae—(Concluded)

R. Lamb: "I fell out of a tree the other day."

Friend: "What tree?"

R. Lamb: "Geometry."

S. Howell (in Annual Meeting): "We need a dummy don't we?"

A. Whitbeck: "Take me."

O. Metz: "The Greeks were not insulated."

S. Thomas (translating): "The king put himself to bed."

Teacher (illustrating functions of a prism): "Haven't you ever seen anything where it isn't?"

H. Kondolf: "No, I've never been in that condition."

C. Allen: "Will you have pie?"

M. Orser: "Is it compulsory?"

C. Allen: "No, its blackberry."

Wallace: "I know it."

Teacher: "Describe Hades."

R. Otis: "I never was there."

POOR FROSH!!

Willie was a Freshman

As green as grass, and greener too.

Not a thing in all creation,

Ever was so green a hue.

One day as he was exercising,

Across a field he chanced to pass,

And a brindle cow devoured him

Thinking he was only grass.

Little Willie is in heaven,

Vacant are two places now,

In the class there is no Willie,

In the field there is no cow.

—Ex.

*I sabile heres ago

*Use English pronunciation.

Mr. Bezant, taking the attendance: "Who is the absent boy that I see in the vacant seat before me?"

Mr. Holmes, doing the same thing: "Are we all here?"

Mr. Heberger, to the Annual Board: All ready now; just a minute; look intelligent, please.

Geometry Teacher: "What is the value of Π ?"

Dreaming Student: Ah—er—about 12 cents, I should say.

Alice Paddock in Virgil Prose: "Is 'in arms' necessarily a military expression."

Mr. Bezant (in Caesar class): "What is the meaning of 'eorum fuga perterritum'?"

Uncertain Soph: "Terrified by their f-f-f—by their flees."

In Greek III-I: And the man dismounting from his horse rode away.

Heard in Room 13: The ships came up singly, two or three at a time.

Mr. Holmes (in Virgil class): "Mr. Kondolf, what is the meaning of 'silex'?"

Kondolf (startled): "ROCK."

Mr. Holmes: "And the meaning of 'cautes'?"

Kondolf: "Some more rock."

Small boy, translating Caesar: "When Caesar noticed this—er—a—"

Teacher: "Barque."

Teacher (more sharply, after a silence): "Barque."

Small Boy, with an apprehensive glance toward the class: "Bow-wow!"
—Houston "Aegis."

They met by chance,
They'd never met before,
They only met that once,
And she was smitten sore.

They never met again,
Don't want to, I'll avow,
They only met that once,
'Twas a freight train and a cow.

For Sale: A fast horse.—Arthur Melville.

Mr. Sias: Doris, how do you distinguish between a good man and a bad man?

D. Belden: I think that I could tell a good man if I saw one. I don't mean to say that I haven't found a good man.

In Virgil Class: "What can you tell us about Virgil?"

Jack Klein: "He was a dago poet who wrote about 5,000 lines of untranslatable Latin."

"What is the circumference of a circle?"

H. Lewis: "It's the shortest distance around."

Mr. Holmes, philosophizing: "I don't think about the after life any more than I have to, it troubles me too much."

I thought a thought, but another thought,
From my mind the first did chase,
Now my second thought has flown the coop—
But I've filled four lines of space.

A little piece of paper,
When hid behind my hand,
Helps me to know my lesson,
And get marks that are grand. —Ex.

A Welcome Sight?

LUNCH ROOM RULES

1. Reserve as many chairs and tables as possible.
2. Empty out the ketchup bottles.
3. Throw stale buns around—it's good exercise.
4. Try to "get away" with the sugar bowl.
5. Forget to hand over your checks.
6. Always ask for what they haven't.
7. Help yourself to everyone's food.
8. Drop all empty trays on the floor from a considerable height.
9. Sing with your meals, it is very uplifting.
10. Bring a hammer to crack the "snowdrops."
11. Always buy doughnuts. Although they are in the form of life preservers they are life extinguishers.

THE ONE LINE MADE WHOLLY BY ONE

THREE THINGS WORTH WHILE

To the home wired for electricity, three things that help make life worth living are available.

1st: THE GLAD IRON with its concentrated heat which can be controlled perfectly by the user without leaving the ironing board. The heat being practically confined to the face of the iron, the room does not become insufferably hot. The heat being constant, there is no need of those tiresome, temper-trying trips from ironing board to stove.

2d: THE ELECTRIC COFFEE PERCOLATOR wherein coffee—delightful, delectable coffee—may be brewed. The highest priced coffee, when brewed according to old time methods, suffers by comparison with lower-priced coffees brewed in the electric percolator.

3d: THE ELECTRIC TOASTER—The very name suggests the toothsome, golden brown, pithy product, so difficult to produce by other means but so easy to produce with an Electric Toaster.

PRICES:

Glad Irons, 3-lb.,	$3.75 ; 6-lb.,	$3.50 ; 8-lb.,	$4.75
Electril Coffee Percolators			$8.00
Electric Toaster,			$3.75

A Business Education

is an asset that has permanent value. It insures work for the man or woman who is willing to work. It lays a sure foundation for a career; not simply a position but a career, and that means steady advance throughout life.

The Rochester Business Institute

has been training young people for business since 1863 and its work is now being done more thoroughly and more effectively than ever before.

Men's "Seneca" Oxfords

A woman or man is never well dressed unless well shod. Our "Seneca" shoes and Oxfords for men are correct in shape, they are comfortable, and they wear.

Among our "Seneca" oxford styles is a dull black velour calf made up in straight lace or blucher style, has welted sole of course, invisible eyelets, low broad flange heel, and choice of medium round or narrow toe.

This oxford is snug-fitting through the heel so there will be no trouble slipping.

The same in tan Russia calf. $4 and $5 a pair.

Big business and the professions are hungry for well-groomed, courteous men with every nerve under control and trained to command and lead other men. It is its success in this kind of training which has made famous the

which is not only a great preparatory school but also one of the most successful military schools in the world.
